The council scheduled an other session Friday to hear Cuban Premier Dorticos. But government in full, it was expected after that to consider the case closed despite efforts by Cuba and the Soviet Union to blow it up into a major issue.

MERAUKE (Reuters) — Jungle-wise Dutch patrol officers have scoured crocodile-infested mangrove swamps along the southern New Guinea coast in the hope of finding the life of Michael Rockefeller.

Young Rockefeller, in New Guinea for anthropological studies, was last seen Sunday morning after attempting to swim to shore from his capsized native trading raft.

The Australian broadcasting commission in Melbourne has quoted the governor's press secretary as having reported that local Dutch officials told him privately there was a reasonable chance he was got to shore and reached a native village.

Officials said so far there is good chance of survival because of the swamp area well, according to the broadcast.

In Canberra, the Australian air force announced today it would send two helicopters to aid the search.

(Informed sources said the move came after a direct approach from President Kennedy to Australian Prime Minister Menzies.)

Diefenbaker Plans to Bring Red Colonialism Before UN

TORONTO (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker hopes to bring a discussion of Soviet colonialism before the next United Nations General Assembly.

In a speech to representatives of static groups in the Progressive Wednesday night he said:

"For too long the U.S.S.R. and its satellites have been permitted to take on the offensive against colonialism while concealing their own."

Mr. Diefenbaker said he hopes Canada can enlist international backing to bring the question before the UN. He returned to Ottawa early today.

Mr. Macaulay, vice-chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission and Ontario resources minister, explained in a lengthy memorandum the background to Wednesday's announcement by the speech from the throne that the systems will be financially integrated.

Basing calculations on 1960 rates, Mr. Macaulay said the effects on the wholesale cost of power would be an increase of 77 cents a kilowatt in Southern Ontario, a decrease of $2.01 in northeastern Ontario and a decrease of $5 in northwestern Ontario.

When taken in terms of delivery to municipalities — who distribute to home owners — the memorandum said:

The combined effect of the change in wholesale costs of the two systems is an increase of $1,735,000 which represents .918 per cent cost of municipal retail revenues in Ontario.

"As these revenues exceed costs by 12 per cent in 1960, consolidation will not bring about an increase in retail rates except in those cases which are operating at marginal levels. These will be few in number."

The northeastern system is connected with the southern, box

Douglas Challenged on His Support of Welfare State

WATERLOO (CP) — A young blonde psychologist Wednesday gave T. C. Douglas, New Democratic leader, the first taste of audience criticism in his current Ontario speaking tour, challenging his support of the welfare state.

The encounter occurred at the Waterloo Lutheran University following an address by Mr. Douglas in which he referred in complimentary terms to social welfare and economic planning in the Scandinavian countries, particularly Sweden.

Miss Mary K. Lane of St. Thomas, psychology teacher at the college, challenged Mr. Douglas during a question period to account for the fact that the Scandinavian countries have the highest suicide rate in the world and have experienced a marked rise in juvenile delinquency despite their socialist programs began.

"What's wrong with this great plan?" she asked.

Mr. Douglas, facing Miss Lane before about 225 students jammed into a small music room, replied that the situation she referred to wasn't necessarily related to the social and economic planning of a welfare state. He would want to examine the statistical basis of the suicide and delinquency report. It was possible that the rise in collecting statistics was being drawn.

Miss Lane coupled her challenge on the value of a welfare state with a remark that she disagreed with Mr. Douglas that all the unemployed could be put to work in the sort of planned economy advocated by the New Democratic Party.

"Ten per cent of the unemployed wouldn't take a job if you handed one to them," she said.

"It's all very well to sit in an

C of C Asks Re-examination Canada's Trading Position

OTTAWA (CP) — A re-examination of Canada's trading position in view of the possible British entry to the European Common Market was sought today by the Canadian Chamber of Commerce in a brief to the government.

The chamber avoided taking sides on whether Britain should enter the market, but pointed out only that it is a "possibility," and offered no opinion on the government on the impact of such membership on Canadian trade with the United Kingdom.

However, it said the re-examination of Canada's trading policy would be made not only by the government but by trade and business associations to safeguard Canadian interests as well as with a view to enhancing the new opportunities" that British entry might offer.

Meanwhile, the chamber sought a bigger effort to attract more U.K. investment in Canada.

The chamber foresaw Canadian membership in the Organization of American States — without giving views — and that steps should be taken to improve trade, cultural and diplomatic ties with Latin America.

On the home front, the chamber recommended a thorough study be made of the tax structure with a view of ensuring that necessary revenues are raised in ways that are least detrimental to the economy.

The chamber called for a halt in the rise in social welfare payments. "Until the economy is once again growing at a sound and satisfactory rate."

A fear of "state medicine" and its cost to the public treasuries and the taxpayer also was expressed.

In a thinly-veiled attack on the New Democratic Party, the chamber said it condemns the

TRIBUTES PAID THREE MEMBERS AT OPENING

Praise Heaped On Former Premier

TORONTO (CP) — Eulogies to three former members of the legislature provided a somber note Wednesday amid the spectacle and color of the formal opening of Ontario's legislature.

While some 500 people crowded the galleries and floor of the red-carpeted chamber all three party leaders in the legislature expressed regret at the death of three members in the summer recess between the second and third session of the 26th legislature.

They also heaped praise on former premier Leslie Frost, now the chancellor of Trent University in the city of Victoria. In the view of Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer, Mr. Frost was a "consummate political artist who liked to disguise himself as a country lawyer;" in addition to being a "distinguished gentleman with extraordinary abilities."

The speeches by Premier Robarts, Mr. Wintermeyer and New Democratic Party Leader Donald C. MacDonald followed the reading of the traditional speech from the throne by Lieutenant-Governor Keiller MacKay.

The speech announced formation of a new Ontario police commission with "comprehensive powers relating to the maintenance of law and order in Ontario." And it promised labor legislation amending an education and a continuing program for industrial expansion.

PAYS TRIBUTE

The premier was the first to pay his tribute to the late ministers of the crown, Attorney, Lib eral Harry Nixon and Labor-Liberal Allan Wren. The previous day he had called by telephone for Jan. 18 to all their seats and by-elections vacancies caused by earlier deaths.

Mr. Wintermeyer said it was an "extraordinary thing to see a situation when the riding for Victoria (Mr. Frost) is not in charge of Mr. Frost." The former premier grinned from front corner seat.

Mr. MacDonald said Mr. Frost "is in a class with Sir John A. Macdonald and Mackenzie King" in Canadian politics.

DELAYS DEPORTATION

MONTREAL (CP) — A court with a heart was Monday delayed, perhaps for many months or years, the deportation of a childless couple and their Canadian-born 15 - month - old daughter. They face loss of the baby if they are past three years on a visitor's permit. Justice Edgar Fauteux authorized the writ in behalf of Lesley Smith, a 34 - year - old railway employee.

Present Mayor, Keegan Have Qualified

23 Nominees For Seven Seats On City Council

A three-way fight for the mayoralty in Belleville's December 4th municipal election was indicated following last night's nomination meeting at city hall, which saw three aspirants nominated for the office.

All three nominees, incumbent Mayor A. M. Haig, and ex-Aldermen Benjamin Sack and Arthur Keegan later qualified and will go to the polls on election day.

There were 23 nominees for the seven positions on the city council.

The nominations were held from 7:30 to 8:30, and city clerk Adam Stalker said 23 nominees would have until 9:00 o'clock Thursday evening to qualify.

Mayor A. M. Haig was among the first to qualify, while the other two nominees for the mayoralty also qualified last night.

The seats open on the city public utilities commission are filled by acclamation with the present commissioners, chairman John A. Wesse being the only exception.

All most of the seats on the public and separate school boards were also filled by acclamation with elections possible in two wards for public school and in one ward for separate school.

QUIET AFFAIR

In contrast to two years ago when city hall was jammed, last night's nomination meeting was a quiet affair, but it did have a few good laughs.

Earlier this week four of the 10 county council members whose terms run out next month, had stated they were retiring from county municipal field. But last night saw the return of three of the four nominated and it was also indicated there was at least a fifty-fifty fight for every would stand.

On the other hand there was no indication of a possible return to the municipal wars by former Mayor Thomas Jermyn, apparently thinking of again offering themselves.

The names of six out of seven present aldermen now comprising the city fathers were not appeared on the nomination papers, but two new councillors were also nominated.

In addition there appeared the names of two city councillors nominated for the first time.

In contrast to the race of only few years back this year will be no women seeking seats on city council. Only two women were nominated for school board—one for each.

Agree to Study Possible Talks On Berlin Crisis

WASHINGTON (CP) — West Germany has agreed with the United States that the West should explore with Russia the possibility of opening peaceful negotiations on the Berlin crisis but on terms which would require substantial modification of Soviet Premier Khrushchev's demands.

Ending three days of private talks in which most but not all of their differences were resolved, President Kennedy and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer called for "reasonableness" on the part of Khrushchev in order to permit a solution of the Berlin issue through negotiation.

While Kennedy and Adenauer decided on a specific course in their communique has not what they are willing to negotiate, informants said here any West-ern deal with Russia would have to be on a basis that would such as reduction of border troopings through a halt in propaganda and shrilling over alleged plans and perhaps a reduction of occupation forces in East and West Berlin.

SEE NO WITHDRAWAL

The communique would be no acceptance of any Soviet demand for cessation of the basic occupation rights and withdrawal from the Second World War; no formal recognition of East Germany; no withdrawal from the western German goal of reunifying German peoples and peaceful means.

Kennedy was reported to have hoped to persuade the 85-year-old German leader to acknowledge the reality of the East German regime through informal recognition but Adenauer refused to budge and the president went along with him. Adenauer also was reported expected to have agreed to seek in, through technical relations with the East German state as a requirement of an East-West settlement.

And Adenauer also agreed to the United States demand that the East Berlin wall be torn down. West German Foreign Minister Gerhard Schroeder said Adenauer will continue to work for reunification of the country but not to promise this as a German ultimatum.

Basement Fire Kills Two Firemen, Turns Times Tower Into Chimney

NEW YORK (AP) — An inferno several storeys under-ground killed two firemen Wednesday night and turned the Times Tower into a huge chimney belching smoke and sparks at heat high above the "Crossroads of the World."

A crowd rivalling those of New Year's Eve swarmed into Times Square to watch firemen in the 34-storey triangular building.

Police and firemen worked throughout the world.

After a fight of almost five hours, they got the fire under control at 12:35 a.m. today.

Sixty pieces of fire department apparatus jammed the streets, and traffic was halted for a radius of two blocks. Police estimated more than 150 extra men to patrol the area.

A cleaning woman and a porter were trapped by smoke on the 23rd floor by more than three hours. Through dense smoke and heat firemen finally made their way aloft and led the pair to the street.

Eleven firemen suffered smoke poisoning or injuries.

The fire was deep in the seven-level underground passage vaults beneath the building which used to be the headquarters of the New York Times.

The fire apparently started in the fourth level down, and it rough several storeys before it reached the ground level.

The storage vaults are mostly full of foreign magazine and back-numbered papers from which has a store in the basement.

Hot burst hundreds of windows, showering shattered glass to the street. Only one person on the street was injured an ambulance attendant who suffered cuts.

The cause of the blaze was not immediately determined.

The Times Tower, which was time of smoke—were Charles Lang, 31, and Robert Hurst, 34, both firemen assigned to Hook and Ladder 18. The conversion has not been done yet.

Many businesses, including Editor and Publisher, a trade magazine; have offices in the building.

system of "union dues deduction procedures to collect political funds."

Objecting to the axing of government business activity, the chamber called for a report by Auditor-General Maxwell Henderson on "the full costs of the various operations competing with private business."

The chamber asked that the government stop the sale of accounting, data processing services to banks, curtail the operations of the National Film Board to leave more room for private contracts, and limit the broadcasting of the government printing bureau to parliamentary and confidential papers.

Other points made by the chamber:

Civil service: The wages and salaries of civil servants should be open to parliamentary to collective bargaining. Government employees were asking advantage of the best this now can't be done.

Flag: Parliament should "adopt and authorize" a distinctive national flag. The chamber offered no suggestions for design.

Anthem: The government should adopt "as officially approved version" O Canada as the Canadian national anthem.

CO of Cadets Makes Informal Inspection

The inspection was an informal one, Commander Manson wishing to observe the Cadets at their routine after a regular training night. Knots and splices, sailing and navigation instruction were on the agenda for the evening and the inspecting officer was pleased to enjoy the musical display at the County Museum — already acclaimed as one of the finest small museums in Ontario.

At evening quarters a number of Cadets were presented with Sea Cadet Badges for having brought new entries into the Corps and Able Cadet Wilfred Hood was presented with a Certificate of Proficiency and a trophy for top marksman in the Corps. Commander Manson made the presentations.

This Sunday afternoon "Quinte" will be host to a weekend parade aboard ship on South Front Street. Practical boatwork aboard the Corps' power launch, guard drill and instruction for Cadets, wishing to become members of the guard, and instruction on the boat's pipe for acting quartermasters will be on the agenda.

The Sunday parade will highlight the start of the Hunter Safety Course for the Corps under Garry Cranston and George Woodhouse, certified Lands and Forests Instructors. The course runs for two weeks and those passing the test at the conclusion of the course will be presented with a certificate and a safe hunter's badge.

Later on in the training year Cadets will have a chance to earn their marksman's badge and St. John Ambulance first aid badge as well as receiving instruction in swimming.

Lads wishing to join the Sea Cadets may do so either this Sunday afternoon or next Wednesday evening. The Wednesday evening parade commences at 7.00 p.m.

Eight Months Given Accused On Theft Charge

John Box was given a sentence of eight months consecutive to a term now being served by Magistrate T. W. Wills in county magistrate's court this morning. He faced a charge of theft.

Box was charged in July of this year for stealing $200 from the office safe of a producer, who resides in Marysville.

Ontario Provincial Police said the offence was committed in June of 1960, but they didn't catch up with him until July. They said he was fingerprinted by police in Toronto on a charge of theft and his fingerprints were sent to Belleville.

Magistrate Wills said it was the most "cold hearted," "barefaced" theft he had ever heard of.

Crown Attorney J. Pringle asked that the accused be dismissed on a charge of entering with intent.

Tag Day for Santa Claus Parade Tremendous Success

Jim "Snipe" Matthews reported at the Santa Claus Parade Committee meeting held at No. 2 Fire Hall Wednesday night. Tag Day, which was held last Friday and Saturday morning, was a tremendous success. The total collected is $1,078.65, and to date incidental donations have amounted to $603, making a grand total of $1,681.65. The committee sincerely thanks

Committee chairman, Fire Chief Gerald Vance said he had received two insurance policies from the Lions McDougall Insurance Company. One was a yearly policy and it covered everything involving the Santa Claus Parade for $100,000, any time of year, costing $25.25. The other policy was the same as last year, but that the coverage has been raised to make a total of $100,000 for each person for $17.50 more than the policy cost last year.

Phillips M. TH. advised the committee members that these policies did not cover floats, bands, but only the floats drawn by vehicles.

Chief Vance stressed that he wanted the bands complete for next year and that they would not accept these policies they way they read at the present time. He said they had three different times to have a representative from the insurance company present but no one ever showed up. The matter was left in abeyance until the next meeting.

Committee chairman "Wargy" O'Brien reported that there would be 15 marching bands, one riding band, eight majorette groups, 24 floats, twenty riding horses and four palaminos which will be lead by the parade carrying the colors.

Chief Vance said there was no room for anyone who just wished to enter a riding horse in the parade and anyone who wished to do so, was to contact him at No. 2 Fire Hall.

He said that he had told the judges would be placed along the parade route, preferably in the vicinity of the old Foley Foundry, and that he would arrange to have a truck there from the Public Utilities for them to stand on so they could be up above the spectators in order to get a good view of the parade without having to climb to the top of a building.

A representative from the Hungry Dungy Potato Chip Company told the committee members at Wednesday night's meeting that they would be donating 3,400 bags of potato chips to be distributed to the children on parade day.

The Tractor committee reported that they had 16 tractors available to pull the floats. Volunteer drivers are still wanting personnel and many more are needed.

Chairman Chief Vance advised committee members that Carson Elliott of Bowmanville had been down to see him the other day and begged him to loan them floats etc. as they would like to have a Santa Claus parade this year, which will be the first Bowmanville ever had a parade.

It was agreed by members present that they could borrow the Santa Claus float but that it has to be brought back by moving van and accompanied by two or three committee members.

Teen-Town members were granted permission to borrow costumes for the float of the parade to go to the hospital and handing presents to the children who had to spend Christmas there.

Dept. Planning Various Projects For Next Spring

Although winter has barely struck his head around the corner there are some who think not of the winter immediately ahead as much as they do the spring which follows. The public works department falls into this category.

They have not yet had the opportunity to test their new snow removal equipment into action but they are already planning their various projects for next spring.

The entire staff is also working on the preparation of the department's year-end report as well as on the budget for 1962.

Outside crews have been busy preparing the city's roads for winter with grading and patching work being carried on wherever needed. The sidewalk construction, being carried out under the winter works program, is still going. Construction of the new sidewalk to the south of the Hotel Quinte on East Bridge Street is nearing completion. Sidewalk patching and repair is being effected in doing certain of the city.

Mr. Beaver people, of course, are hard at work on the initial contracts of the city's insulation of dollar sewage disposal project.

the northwestern is isolated from both. The surmoreakers said they now are kept as separate accounts.

"It is proposed now that there should be only one set of books kept, and that therefore Ameliasburg would remain in a lower rate in the future for all three systems, resulting from the economies development of energy resources."

There would also be substantial savings through a simplification of bookkeeping and elimination of duplication, he said.

Holloway A.O.T.S Names 1962 Officers

The regular monthly meeting of the Holloway St. United Church, A.O.T.S. Men's Club, was held in the church basement on November 20. A good attendance was recorded to enjoy the fine supper and program.

Luther Alves presented an inspiring devotional talk based on the 23rd Psalm. He drew a parallel between the shepherd looking after his sheep and God looking after His children, and showed that this occurs in everyday life.

1962 OFFICERS

The nominating committee presented the slate of officers for the coming year. They will be installed in January, and are as follows: president, Sam Orr; vice-president, Hon. Jones; treasurer, Luther Alves; secretary, Roy Hough; projects chairman, Harold Outingdyke; publicity, Doug Thompson; boys and youth work, Blondie Clarke; program, Don McCurdy; membership, Ted Rigby.

The outgoing president, Doug Ptolemy, gave a farewell talk in which he thanked the club for its support. He said he felt the club had passed through its most critical year, the second, and that there was a good nucleus of faithful members from which to expand.

The club's current project is a "Hot Drive." One large box of assorted nuts costs $1, and any member will be glad to be approached by prospective buyers. The proceeds are to help pay the club's pledge relation to the education of a student from Nigeria, who is now attending Queen's University, Kingston.

WILD LIFE FILM

Mr. George Warner, of the Department of Lands and Forests, Fish and Wild Life Division, gave an interesting talk and presented films on "Wild Life in Ontario and Quebec." He said that the Department's concern was with the renewable natural resources of the province. Its aim is to maintain or increase these resources by reforestation, control of hunting and fishing, and educating the public to be conscious and careful of these resources.

The guest speaker was thanked by Fred Nelson, after which the meeting closed with the benediction.

CARDS OF THANKS

I wish to express my sincere appreciation to all the neighbors and friends for the kindness rendered me with cards, flowers, fruit and money while a patient in the General Hospital; to all who called on me at the club and at my home; and a special thanks to Dr. Bell, Dr. Wright and Dr. Robert Allen.

—Pearl B. Lee.

Mrs. M. P. Wellbanks and family wish to express their sincere thanks and appreciation of kind deeds and expressions of sympathy during their recent bereavement and a loving memory.

We would like to express our sincere appreciation to members of the Belleville Fire Department, and Bulbhide fire departments for their assistance at the fire at the Tweed Steel Works fire on Saturday, November 18th. Also to the Tweed fire department, in trying to control the fire at the Tweed Steel Works fire on Saturday, November 18th. Also to all those who assisted in organizing the Firemen's Mutual Aid Association to assist all towns and villages in case of emergency. The assistance of everyone at the time of this disastrous fire was much appreciated and we are happy to say that we expect to be back in business in Tweed within a short time and a complete new building will be under construction and materials can be moved on the job.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Lake Dusable made sharp gains and industrials waned during heavy morning trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange today.

Lake Dufault added another 30 cents to 10% in heavy trading.

Industrials fell behind widespread fractional losses among utilities, banks and financial institutions and steels.

On index, industrials fell .31 to 605.31, while golds gained .09 to 80.19, base metals .42 to 206.63 and western oils .40 to 110.10, their highest point since Jan. 1959.

The senior base metals list was ahead with Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting and Noranda up ¾ and ¼ respectively.

Gold trading was light and sporadic.

Wednesday industrials slumped and speculatives advanced hesitantly during heavy trading.

10,000 Acres Now Owned By Conservation Authority

The Moira River Conservation Authority is now the owner of close, to 10,000 acres of sub-marginal land on which reforestation has been carried out or which was acquired for reforestation purposes.

The area of reforestation property owned by the Authority is 8,947 acres of which 1,534 acres were purchased in 1961 at a cost of $8,092. In all the Authority has spent $58,756 since 1951 in reforestation projects.

Last year nearly a million trees were planted on Authority property, while this year the number planted was 342,500.

Management of the Authority forests is under the direction of the Department of Lands and Forests.

Aside from its nearly 10,000 acres of reforestation property, the Authority owns five, conservation areas. These, are the Colonel Roscoe Vandervet area at Thomasburg; the Price area at Actinolite; the O'Kiefe Mill property near Madoc; the Deloro Lake at Deloro, and the Plainfield area. This year two additional conservation areas on the Black River south of Queensboro was acquired.

The Authority also operates the Eagleson Lake Dam, 20 miles northeast of Madoc, where last year a new water control valve was installed. The dam is used to store water for release during the dry season.

Tells of Work On Siam Railway As Jap Prisoner

TRENTON — At this week's meeting of the Trenton Rotary Club the members were transported to the dense jungles of Siam by Sergt.-Major Eric Alderney, town engineer, who had spent two years in membership with the Trenton club.

Mr. Alderney was one of 100,000 prisoners of war pressed into service by the Japanese captors to build a railroad through the jungle during World War II.

He said that elephants were used to move heavy timber and saw logs which were needed to build river crossings for the railway but that, for the most part, the Japanese depended on their prisoners for the heavy work. Trees were felled without benefit of power saws.

Each prisoner was expected to do a specified daily amount of work each day and the men got a certain amount of satisfaction out of seeing the jap war effort by getting out as much work as they could.

Mr. Alderney said that the temperature ran around 100 degrees all the time and that the construction work was carried on during the monsoon rains. He said that the prisoners were fed a diet of rice mostly supplemented with a little meat and that at times they could get eggs from the natives. They were paid 10 cents a day and one egg cost 10 cents. The men were placed in camps averaging 1,000 to 2,000 or 3,000 prisoners, and had many contracted diseases, such as malaria and tropical ulcers.

The speaker said that there was no real use of trying to escape because there was no place to go, except into the surrounding jungle. However, he said that there were no real atrocities committed in the camps where he had been sent and that the men developed a philosophical attitude towards their internment and even saw humor in some situations.

"At the end of their work shift," said Mr. Alderney, "we were allowed to 'go going home,' and believe it or not, we referred to the camp as just 'camp.'"

Mr. Alderney was a prisoner for three and a half years.

He told the members that he still enjoys eating rice; in spite of the one-sided menu served during his internment.

Mr. Alderney was introduced to the club by Jack Taylor and he was thanked by Lloyd Wesse.

Site for First Block Acquired

TRENTON — By late spring or early summer of 1962, Trenton should have the forerunner of what is planned to be a series of senior citizens' apartment blocks.

A. Gordon Davis, welfare administrator, said yesterday that the site for the first building had been acquired and that the plans for the building had been approved at three levels and now before the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation office, for final approval.

Once this approval is gained, said Mr. Davis he thought that this should be the first of Dec-ember construction work on the 11-unit low-rental apartment building, will commence. The project will be carried out by the Twin Pipes Company, specified in this field. Provincial and federal grants will be available for this program.

According to a recent survey, says Mr. Davis, there are at least 30 units in need of accommodation of this type in Trenton. He said that as soon as the first block became a reality, plans for the construction of another such apartment would be considered.

Commenting on Trenton's welfare picture, Mr. Davis said that there was no acute situation in Trenton at this time. Workers have been absorbed in seasonal employment up to now and the welfare department will end the year in the black.

Inspect Base Of Mount Pelion

TRENTON — On Wednesday a committee of council, consisting of Mayor James MacDonald, Controller Harold Lang, chairman of the public works committee, Councillors Ross Burtt and D. R. Fraser, town engineer Eric Alderney and Controller Wm. Levy accompanied James Pelton on the excavation on Mount Pelion which has given rise to a certain amount of controversy over a number of months.

Various means by which Mr. Dey could restore the base of the mountain to its original state were discussed.

The engineer will enquire into the cost of restoration programs and will report to council. Council will, in turn, tell Mr. Dey of the engineer's findings.

Roy Cornish New President Fish, Game Club

TRENTON — Trenton now has a Fish and Game Club.

At last night's more than 40 sports enthusiasts met in the dining room of the Queensway Hotel to discuss such an organization and the club was formed with Roy Cornish as president, Bill Menzies as vice-president, Elmer Bonter as secretary and Mike Hartman, treasurer.

Committee chairmen elected were: Bonter-by committee; Dennis Atkins; fish planting; Earl Longhi; membership, chairman, George Condelli; entertainment, Bill Menzies; hunter-safety program, Dennis Atkins; conservation projects, Ken Guertin; migratory birds chairman, George Powers; hunter-farmer relations, Elmer Bonter; trapping camp co-ordinator, Bob Turner.

Bill Owens, fist vice-president of the Ontario Hunters and Anglers Association, told the members of the benefits to be derived from joining the federation. He said that no other group in Ontario sponsors conservation work. Within the 18,000-member federation, the province is divided into six zones. Each zone may send four members to a central body executive. The only paid employee within the club is H. B. Sutton at Ridgetown. Trenton could join either Zone Four or Five as the Canal is the zone dividing line. The federation has been in existence 34 years.

Mr. Owens said that the advantage of belonging to the federation was that the larger body could make itself heard with the Department of Lands and Forests, while a club could not do much by itself.

The speaker said that the federation had sponsored the hunter-safety program in the province. He said that he thought that older hunters should be obliged to take the course which is mandatory for young hunters 18 and over) to take the course.

Mr. Owens also urged the members to instigate a hunter-farmer relations program as soon as possible. He said that many farmers were appealing to their township councils; and th t the councils were passing by-laws, making it an offence to discharge firearms within township boundaries. These restrictions, said Mr. Owens, have been brought about by the inwise actions of a few hunters.

Ross Whitfield of the Department of Lands and Forests at Tweed, urged the members to take their responsibility to the club and their community seriously, and to inaugurate their own programs of conservation. He said that Trenton had a very important fishery at its doorstep and a much used hunting ground in the vicinity. Mr. Whitfield said that 20,000 hunters a year hunted in the Tweed district.

Squadron Leader G. A. Woolley, vice-president of the RCAF Flin and Game Association told the new club of the progress the club had made in the past few years, the RCAF club now has 328 members) and Carl Austin, president of the Lower Trent Valley club commented on the progress of his fast-growing club which now has a membership of 210.

Kenneth Craddock, president of the Trenton branch of the Royal Canadian Legion presented a cheque to the new association. This money was originally earmarked for a special conservation committee at the Legion branch, which has been dissolved.

Dennis Atkins, of the Trenton Hunter-safety association said that he would offer the services of his body if they approved of their body being turned over to the new club.

Two films were shown to the club by Al Brady of the Carling Conservation Club.

Car Rams Into Stopped Truck

TRENTON—Wednesday afternoon, around 3 o'clock, a car driven by Gordon Ferguson, RR 2, Trenton, was damaged to the extent of $250 when it collided with a heavy truck owned by the R. W. Bowers Company on Dundas Street east in Trenton.

Police say that the truck, which was driven by Stanley Cassibuolt of Trenton, stopped to make a turn onto Ontario Street. Mr. Gregson failed to realize that the truck had stopped and rammed the back of the vehicle with his car.

There were no personal injuries.

Nuclear Attack Precautions Are Discussed

TRENTON—Tuesday at the meeting of the Quinte Toastmasters' Club, the members and their guests conducted themselves with the question: "What would you do in the event of a nuclear attack?"

Answers were sometimes serious, sometimes humorous; but all were interesting and thought provoking. They ranged from the ridiculous to the sublime.

Several members admitted that they had either built shelters, or were in the process of building them. Others said that they had half-formulated plans to use their basements as shelters.

One member said that he had plans to use two old cisterns on his property as fall-out shelters and another member promptly offered to rent one of them . . . in the event of an attack.

Some members were entirely pessimistic.

"What would there be to come out to?" queried one, "What would there be to eat, for instance? All the crops would be destroyed."

Other members urged that all shelter talk be shelved and every effort be made to maintain the peace.

Still others thought that thinking people should plan for the eventuality of an attack and prepare to supply leadership and aid to others who survived nuclear bombing.

"Move north and join the Eskimos," "Take a rocket ship to Mars," "Run like blazes . . . never mind, while directing," were a few of the suggestions offered.

Beating Around the Bush

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany, now in the United States, is reported to be demanding that the tearing down of the wall between East Berlin and West Berlin be made a condition for settlement of the Berlin crisis, but not a condition for entering East-West negotiations.

The only difference between the two situations that we can think of after considerable cogitation, is that in negotiating it might be agreed to eliminate the razing of the wall as a condition of settlement.

In that event, though, why present it as a condition in the first place?

Unless the possibility of some change in the West's attitude on the wall is admitted, the carefully stressed distinction between demanding its elimination as a condition of settlement and demanding it as a condition for entering negotiations is a distinction without a real difference.

It is this kind of senseless manoeuvring which creates a feeling of frustration amongst many people in the West, and would be sure create a similar sense of frustration amongst people in the Communist lands if they were aware of it.

If the elimination of the wall between East and West Berlin is essential to any settlement of the Berlin question—and it would be possible to make out a good case for such a contention —why not come out bluntly and say so? The whole essence of the West's stand on negotiations has been that they would only be held if there was some possibility of settlement. So, if the razing of the wall is essential to settlement, then agreement to tear it down is the event on account of other points ought to be made a condition of entering negotiations.

World Opinion Counts

The decision to resume talks between the East and West on banning nuclear tests is heartening.

Not that anything should be expected of these resumed talks. It became abundantly apparent, before the talks broke off, with the resumption by Russia of testing, that an accord would be little short of a miracle.

There is no reason to suppose there has been any change in the Russian attitude—suspicion of inspection arrangements as a cloak for espionage and a contention, not altogether unreasonable, that any test ban ought to be part of a wider agreement on disarmament.

However, in spite of the virtual certainty that a resumption of talks would serve no useful purposes, the United Nations General Assembly passed a resolution requesting the Big Three nuclear powers get together around the conference table again. Following this resolution Britain and the U.S. sent notes to Russia saying the latter would meet the wishes of the UN. This was a good propaganda move. Now the Russians have agreed to the reconvening of the conference.

As we said, there is little hope of any practical results. But the Russian acceptance of the UN proposal does provide pleasant proof that world opinion does have some minor influence on the course of Russian foreign policy.

Happy Scot

Dugald Semple, a 78-year-old Scottish vegetarian, in Toronto on a lecture tour, told an interviewer he is happy, healthy and wise because he does what he likes.

This is a formula which has to be applied carefully. There are other men who are unhappy, in poor health and foolish because they have done what they liked. The moral of the story appears to be that one has to like doing the right thing if one is to enjoy the benefits which Mr. Semple claims have accrued to him.

More helpful, perhaps, was his observation that a strict Calvinist father, who would not even let him take a walk on Sunday, had bred in him a great desire for freedom.

Some reservations must be made in applying this personal experience as a general guide, but it is still true that repression generates a love of freedom much more frequently than many people realize.

The fact that this is a common reaction is a hopeful sign for the future of mankind. It is not so easy to breed a nation of slaves as some people would have us think. Despite indoctrination, the impulse for self-expression is not easily killed. We ought to remember Mr. Semple's reaction to a Calvinist Sunday before we give up hope for the survival of the love of freedom in lands under a dictator's iron rule.

History of Microfilm

New York Times

The recent revelation that a Kansas salt mine was being converted into a bomb shelter for records proves that concern over the threat of nuclear warfare is not confined solely to ways for protecting the civilian population for self-defense. Not long ago, an art scholar and professor at Princeton's Institute for Advanced Study urged that each country accelerate the completion of a photographic archive of its works of art because of the danger of nuclear attacks that at least "the shadow of its art treasures" may remain. Along with the world of culture, the business world is equally concerned with the protection of its important documents whose loss or destruction would prove irreparable in the light and days of rebuilding that would follow the dreaded holocaust.

Today's burgeoning microfilming industry, spawned in part by just such uncertainty, owes its existence to a New York bank clerk named George McCarthy. Although he never got beyond a grade school education, McCarthy's imagination was stirred one day in 1923 by an incident at the bank where he worked. A depositor had said that his account had been charged with a check that he had never drawn. Then as now a depositor's canceled checks were returned to him with his monthly statement. But at the time the bank retained no other proof of payment, so that it had to make good the $300. Suspecting that there was not the first such payroll, McCarthy, who knew little about photography, set up a bank check-photographing machine.

Observing a slow-motion picture of a pitcher throwing a baseball, he conceived the idea of first of photographing checks in motion. In the face of derision from the bank's staff, he finally developed a crude, plane-sized machine called the "checkpictograph." Banks remained unimpressed, however, and it was not until McCarthy joined forces with Eastman Kodak that success came to his idea. The checkograph was dropped in favor of a more sophisticated machine and more sensitive film was developed to solve the problem of reproducing pale inks and dark paper. In 1938 the new machine was installed in McCarthy's old bank, the first to use it.

When Hitler began gobbling up country after country before War II, the Bank of England began the huge project of microfilming its records against a security measure. The bank's records on microfilm were then transferred to safe underground storage in Wales. Other British banks quickly followed suit, and by the time war was declared in 1939 their microfilm files and businesses on the Continent were microfilming their records. Veterans of World War II will remember with affection Remington Rand's biggest war job, V-mail. From the time it was started in mid-1942 to the end of the war, almost V-J Day, it is estimated that the plants delivered one and a half billion V-mail letters.

Microfilm has figured in news stories through the years in a number of spectacular ways. Perhaps the most famous was the time Alger Hiss' papers secreted by the late Whittaker Chambers in a pumpkin. Then Thomas E. Dewey was District Attorney of New York County and unveiled microfilm evidence for the conviction of Waxey Gordon and Jimmy Hines. At one time New York political boss, was tripped by a microfilmed letter. Today newspapers and libraries are saving years of labor, as are banks, business concerns and Government agencies. Schools are using small microfilmers, readers and systems for simplifying the retrieval and storage of student records. Some day perhaps all our records, including the vast store now recorded on microfilm in that final evolution of man's records that began with stone, progressed to parchment, then to paper, would be the ideal way to preserve them, though, if the matches that beamed the use of microfilm were to leave the world with the films but without the men who put them in hiding.

Big Liner's Day Is Past

New York Herald Tribune

So there are to be no more Queens in the North Atlantic service after the Queen Mary and Queen Elizabeth go, some day not too far distant, to the scrap heap. The Cunard company may of course reverse its decision to postpone indefinitely the construction of a successor, but no one thinks it will.

This means that the 985,000-ton France, scheduled to make its maiden voyage early next year, will be the last big liner to be built for the North Atlantic run. There is no prospect, either, for a sister to the United States.

The big liners were so much a part of the scene of the last fifty years, and breathed such glamour, that we forget how specialized they were. These robots of the air were catered exclusively to luxurious taste and national pride. Their heyday was between the wars, before jet travel systematically added to the ship's own luxury the luxurious indulgence of time and space. The Queen Mary was new then. The Normandie, the Bremen and the Rex docked in the North River, and further back in years were the Lusitania, the Mauretania, the Leviathan. Their names glitter.

There will always be passenger ships to Europe, but no one is likely to build any more of those terraced domes of pleasure which lulled, rocked and trembled, through the sea. There will be no reason for their speed; people who travel by ship will want to go on slow cruises. But there are still many who will enjoy them, even if it is only to have them come and go, until the very last minute.

Whip Crowd Around Queen

St. Thomas Times-Journal

There was, to us, and to many others, a touching scene of a film showing Queen Elizabeth reviewing Ghanian warriors in their native setting. There was a great throng of natives and the Queen stood near the reviewing stand as possible and along came police officer armed with a long cane whip. Bending over he furiously lashed the legs of the natives as they struggled to get out of his way. We could not hear what he was a white man or a black, but we hope he was a Ghanian.

The sight almost made our blood boil. Such an indignity committed no offence except to try to look at the Queen whom they probably had never seen again.

Some may say that is the only kind of language these illiterate people understand, but we do not for we have seen native people who are under Communist rule and we should be made to understand.

It is to be hoped the Queen did not see the incident, but it may have been duplicated in other parts of the Dominion and maybe in other places she visits.

The Queen drives through the streets of London and other cities and if the crowd becomes a bit pressing to see her majesty, the "bobby" lays his hand on their shoulders and says "Back a little, please." That is all that is needed.

STRENGTH for the DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

THE BIBLE SAYS 'THANKS'

Give thanks unto the Lord; for he is good; for his mercy endureth for ever . . . We thank thee, O God, and praise thy glorious name . . . Thanks at the remembrance of God's holiness . . . I will praise thee thanks in the great congregation . . . It is a good thing to give thanks unto the Lord, and to sing praises to thy name, O Most High . . . At midnight I will arise to give thanks unto the Lord . . . Surely the righteous shall give thanks unto thy name: the upright shall dwell in thy presence . . .

He took the seven loaves and gave thanks . . . He took the cup and gave thanks . . . I thank God upon every remembrance of you . . . In everything give thanks . . . Let us wait on the gates with thanksgiving . . . With Thanksgiving let your requests be made known unto God . . . I will magnify God with thanksgiving.

I thank my God through Jesus Christ that your faith is spoken of throughout the whole world . . . Let the peace of God rule in your hearts and be ye thankful . . .

Blessing and glory, and wisdom, and thanksgiving, and honour, and power and might, be unto God for ever and ever . . . The Spirit and the bride say: Come. And let him that heareth say, Come. And let him that is athirst come: Whosoever will, let him take the water of life freely . . .

Thanks be unto God for His unspeakable gift . . . Thanks be unto God which giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

25 YEARS AGO

November 23rd, 1926.

The story of a hunting party obtained their quota of deer the very first day at the hunting camp and without actually going into the bush to look for the antlered animals. It is told by Dr. F. R.—Ross, local physician. In company with Mr. Norman Greene, Dr. Ross and a Toronto hunter, proceeded to their hunting camp near Burnwash, Ont. Almost before their hunting gear was unpacked, the deer were already browsing near the building and were promptly dispatched.

In face of strenuous opposition of Mayor G. E. Thompson, the Belleville Public Utilities Commission yesterday granted a rebate to water users for the months of November and December. Chairman Murray Duff announced at the meeting of Commissioner George A. Reid to that effect but the Commission was working in direct opposition to the City Council. The Commission was put in office by the voters to serve for the City of Belleville," he stated. "It was not," retorted Chairman Duff, "it was put in office to look after the interest of the city's utilities and not the City Council." Commissioner Reid opened the discussion with the rebate suggestion and Mayor Reid immediately declared, "I am not in favor of giving away a penny of the city's money; you do not give away electricity, so why give away water? It is a good thing for us but if you will give away two months electricity, then I am with you on the water rebate," he said.

That the Frankford Fair dates back to the year 1838 was learned by the large gathering which attended the Centennial supper given by the Sidney and Frankford Agricultural Society at Frankford. The information was given in an address given by Lt.-Col. Ponton, Sidney city, who from his archaeological store was able to present the audience Royal Letters Patent authorizing the sheriff to conduct an agricultural fair or mart at Frankford in 1838, the first year of Her Majesty's Reign. The document is signed by Sir George Arthur, Lieutenant Governor and by Hon. John Attorney General. W. A. Najermen. Probably, this is the oldest authority to hold a parchment proclamation that is in existence in Canada. Among the data which Lt.-Col. Ponton has been able to find, is the authority for holding the first agricultural Fairs or Marts at Tweed and Shannonville in 1856. The shapely cattle above was Allan Macdonell.

The annual banquet last evening at the Y.M.C.A. the Knights of Columbus team defeated the Bereans by 2,000 to 79 pins. T. Barrett had the best three-string score of 468, and Blute of the same team had the best score of 220 for one game. For the losers Glad White was high with 444. The following were the scores: Knights of Columbus — Barrett, Domenico, Blute, Boyle and Munro, 2,000. Bereans — Glad White, Lent, Gilbert, White and Hutchinson.

So far the sum of $196 has been subscribed towards the Soldiers' Memorial Tree which is being arranged by the G.W.V.A.

At the armories last evening a game of baseball was played between teams representing the Belleville Hardware Company and the Y.M.C.A.; the result was a score of 30 to 24 in favor of the former team. The following composed the teams: Belleville Hardware Company — McGuire, Stewart, McKenna, Barnum, Doran, Westover, Hutchinson, Clarke and Barton. Y.M.C.A. team — Finkle, Ritchon, Mallory, Rogers, Alexander, Hunter, Dingman, Fitzcheson and Cronk.

Mr. J. L. Newton, Deputy Reeve of Hungerford township was in town today.

Mr. R. E. Gordon of Plainfield has returned home from Edmonton, Alta., where he visited his brother.

The new wing at the Belleville General Hospital has been completed and the public is invited to inspect the new addition and the hospital as a whole on the afternoon of November 29th.

Strictly Personal

Humility Often Permits Conceit Or Vanity

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Purely Personal Prejudices:

Any lightweight can write a "serious" novel, but it takes the most serious and industrious of authors to write a comic novel that conveys the profound and bitter essence of comedy.

Nothing makes a man feel so superior as expressing his humility; as Shakespeare observed about a different colleague, "He is not good enough to be thus modest."

A successful liar needs a magnificent memory and a lucky mind — but with these characteristics he could go much further honesty than with duplicity.

My idea of a perfect opera would be one with puppets performing on the stage, and the singers warbling from behind the scenery for nothing interferes with the music more than the dreadful posturings of singers.

A weak kind of malcontent is conciously described by Oliver Herford — half-century ago — when he observed, "Some people got their rights, they spend the rest of being deprived of their wrongs."

After 40, every man feels he has the right to shave his head each New Year's Day.

Platform speakers spread the head of anyone whose neck wasn't already on a loose swivel; it is a fallacy to believe that education changes character — when it is strong it shows what is at the bottom to float freely to the top.

As sarch toneoclectes, wet Aristophanes, "Marriage is not a marriage based on friendship without love is mere harlotry." The same thing can be said about love unless without friendship; and this is why we have so many divorces, for when the love subsides, the couple are left strangers.

Speaking of marriages, bachelors tend to die earlier than married men; doubtless because nothing will kill a man sooner than having nobody but himself to find fault with.

A "junior executive" is somebody who has to borrow money to live within his means.

When confronted with two evils, it is the everlasting nature of mankind to convert one of them into a "good" and in this delusion, one can sum up the whole history of human catastrophe.

The difference between an intellectual and a man of common sense is that the former is not afraid to be blunder at the right time while the latter has an unerring propensity for being clever at all the wrong times.

To Your Good Health

It Is Not Dangerous When You 'Swallow Wrong'

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: On a few occasions I have swallowed wrong and I have a terrible time choking and struggle to get my breath.

"This has been when I took a drink of water. The other day I just swallowed wrong, taking neither food nor water, and again I was thrown into one of these choking spells.

"It has never bothered me, but a person who was present said that one could die of this. Is it true? — DR.

If you'd asked this "person who was present" to cite you one case of anybody dying from such a thing, you'd have had him stuck.

The world seems to have a decidedly large supply of self-styled "experts" who try to scare the daylights out of their friends. They usually have about as little genuine information as a moose track in Africa.

First of all, if some solid object, like a fish bone or what have you, happens to be lodged in the windpipe, there is indeed danger. This does not often happen with adults; it is a danger with little children. When it does happen to an adult he usually has the lung power to cough it up. If not, it becomes a real emergency. A sharp whack on the back sometimes helps jar the object loose. The victim may take a small amount of pepper being thrown into a person's face as an emergency measure to bring on sneezing and help eject what-ever is in the windpipe.

But when a swallow of water goes down the wrong way," and you start to choke, it means that a little bit of water has gotten into the windpipe.

The body automatically tries to cough it up, because it doesn't belong there. You do not have the urge to breathe—of course. The trouble is that you have a contradictory state in which, for a short time it seems as though nothing would either come up or go down. It doesn't really last very long — but it sometimes seems to.

Let's suppose that anyone gag, long enough to lose consciousness. At that point he would relax, stop trying to cough up the drop or two of water, and would begin to breathe again, automatically. That true, of course with a solid object; that is dangerous.)

You don't have to drink water. A few specks of saliva can do it. Again, uncomfortable but not a critical emergency.

People who do this often usually have what we call an "overactive gag reflex." It's not unusual. It's just that they go into this spell with less stimulus than most people do.

Preventing these spells, or making them less frequent, depends largely on not allowing such a trait to become habitual. The best way to learn to chew food slowly and well, don't talk or laugh with food in the mouth, try swallowing deliberately — many hygiene" also are "gulpers" who have the habit of swallowing too rapidly — and, happens that occasionally a fragment of food or a drop or two of water start into the windpipe and have to be expelled — starting the gagging.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I like real fat meat, but the trouble is the fat. I have been told this is very bad for you, is it?—J.H."

Not necessarily, I don't think it that way. The "advice" you've had is no more reasonable than telling a man in danger of being trapped by a flood, not to waste a safety because he might get his feet wet. True, he might get an infected toe, under certain circumstances but usually all he would get would be deliverance from death.

Note to R.W.—Yes, by all means throw away a small dose of an antibiotic that is left over. The trouble is that too small a dose lets the germs become accustomed to the drug-resistant germs in the word. So don't try to save the drug to use later.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

RESPECT

You can't get very far with your friend if you do not respect him. Respect always precedes love and admiration.

I have always been fond of a little book by a Spaniard who wrote during the seventeenth century. His name was Gracian. He wrote many wise things. He said you can tell the true worth of metals by their ring, and that you can judge men by the quality of their voices.

Surely there is something very convincing about a sincere ring to a voice. Just the minute you hear some people talk you know you can trust and tie to them.

You invite respect, not so much by what you say as by the sound of what you say.

You can show the friend whom you respect through your voice in your heart life and can know that nothing is going to be violated and that no confidence is going to be set aside.

With respect gone the house falls!

You keep faith with those you respect. You live in their loyalty, and keep to the route with them. You hunt them out when you need them most and you are secured in advance that they will not desert you.

There is a true-blueness to all respect that makes it one of the sacred things in the art of living production.

Nations that respect each other can encounter no serious difficulties.

When a man is respected by all his friends he needs little else. He may not be wealthy nor scholarly nor famous. He is just liked and loved — that's all.

Your respect for another you pay a tribute to the immortal in a man.

On the plane the other day, my seat mate was a printing salesman who told me one of his big problems was getting people to be astonished, he assured me, if I knew how many millions of song sheets are sold each year.

What astonished me, I told him, is how few ever survive a year or song sheets.

"How many?" he demanded.

"Of the popular songs of today will ever survive on song sheets?"

"Oh, there'll be a few," he said. "It takes a song a long time to die. You are laboring under the delusion that the songs of olden times that we have on

After receiving acclamation last year and two years ago, Mayor A. M. Haig will have a three-way fight on his hands this year with two former aldermen contesting the mayoralty.

Benjamin Safe served on council back in the 1920's and also was on council from 1954 until 1959.

The other aspirant for the mayoralty, Arthur Keegan, also has several years' council experience.

Yesterday's nomination meeting may have been relatively quiet but with a three-way fight for the mayoralty and the question of Sunday sports and movies before the people, the December 4th election could see a record turnout.

At 10 o'clock this morning the three mayoralty candidates had qualified, as had Utilities Commission nominee John A. Weese. There were five qualified for council; four for public schools board and seven for the separate school board.

Nominations for the mayoralty, council, public utilities and public and separate school boards.

Those already qualified are marked by an asterisk.

Public Utilities — John A. Weese* (acc).

Council (in the order nominated)—A. Stuart Robb; Charles L. Nyrie; Frank S. Polsevelli; Leslie W. Digby; J. Ben Corker; Walter T. Elliott*; John Joseph Rayeroft*; H. Jack Allin; Archibald Stanley Lowis; James A. Meenes*; Jack H. Ellis; William A. Lowes*; Lorne McDougall; John Deacon; Gerald Joyce; John D. Fletcher; Joseph Roth; Claude D. Tice; John B. Bacigalupo; Ald B. Hyde; Harold J. Armstrong; R. Robertson Collins; Harold Wilkinson.

Public School Board—Ward 1, James Ritchie. Ward 2, William A. VanTassel*. Ward 3, Dr. J. Russell Scott*, Ward 4, James Donald Bacon and Bruce Kerr. Ward 5, Morley Lovelace*. Ward 6, Mrs. Hazel Pugh and William A. Ircandidt*. Ward 7, J. M. McKibbon.

Separate School Board—Ward 1, Rt. Rev. J. P. Sullivan*, Ward 3, Edward J. Buckley*. Ward 4, Jacques Juillet*; Paul J. Kelly and Mrs. Marie Huffman*. Ward 5, Stephen J. Gervin*, and B. Robertson Collins (two to be elected). Ward 6, Leo J. Holland. Ward 7, J. Godfrey Donoghue.

Retail Sales Clinic Will Be Organized

A public relations and retail sales clinic designed to meet the needs of local merchants and sales personnel will be held next Tuesday evening, November 28th, at the Moira Secondary School under the auspices of the Belleville Sales and Advertising Club.

Wally Partridge, chairman of the organizing committee for the clinic, describes the course, which will be comprised of films featuring special speakers as an undertaking which will be of great value to the merchants of Belleville.

The course is being sponsored by the local Sales and Advertising Club because it feels that it has a responsibility to the community both to promote ethical and efficient advertising and to attempt to keep locally earned money in the community, he said.

To date 289 people have already signed up for the course and a total enrolment of close to 400 local sales people and merchants is expected, Mr. Partridge, manager of a local soft drink firm, stated.

Moderated by John P. McCormick, executive vice president of the Federation Canadian Advertisers and Sales Clubs the films will feature such top flight businessmen as J. C. Penney, chairman of the board of J. C. Penney Co., Inc., one of the United States' largest chain stores; Marvin Rabe, president of the Personnel Institute, Inc.; Sylvia F. Porter, financial columnist of the New York Post; Malcolm P. McNair, professor of retailing, Harvard University; George W. Dowdy, president of the National Retail Merchants Association; and Philip Salisbury, editor and publisher of Sales Management magazine, to name but a few of the dozen speakers available.

The films will be on such subjects as "How to Sell Creatively Without 'Pushing'", "How to Help Win New Customers", "How to Keep Your Customers Coming Back . . . To You", "How to Say 'No' Without Giving Offense", and "How to Merit the Rank of Professional".

The program starts at 7.30 p.m. sharp.

What You Owe Your Child

What is civilization but the ability of the corporate mind to see beyond the physical needs of our terrestrial existence, and to survey Nature, Law, and the Universe impersonally, with greater understanding, tasting the joys of art, music and humanity, making our journey through this life more pleasurable and more co-operative?

Every life needs time for contemplation, and in this respect the arts have a two-fold purpose; they lead to kindness (the mood for contemplation, and they can and do provide means for the expression of the results of that mental activity.

Music is one of the oldest and, for many, the chiefest of the arts. But to really understand any one of these modes of expression, a person should learn a good deal about it, and it may be taken as an axiom that the more you have studied about it the more you are able to enjoy it.

Your child certainly should be given, if it is at all possible, a chance to gain a treasure, the ability to enjoy musical activity. Why not, if you have not already done so, start by providing lessons and, what is equally important, the proper atmosphere in your home for the practice and enjoyment of music? Select a good teacher at the outset and do not judge your child's possibilities by his or her reaction to the first chorus of study, which are often discouraging. "If at first you don't succeed, try again." — Follow this ever-wise motto, even if you have to find a new teacher for a second attempt. Possibly a change in the type of instrument may work wonders.

THE ADULT STUDENT

Hundreds of parents have found increased companionship with their children, and great-er incentive for the young folk when they, too, have commenced or resumed music study on a regular basis. Another dividend, of course, is the personal satisfaction, which rises to proportions unmeasured by most which comes from so fascinating a hobby. Ads need prove to be no deterrent for music study, as even "old" fingers can be made nimble, and progress can be quite rapid, since the adult mind can grasp fundamentals ideas more easily, if uninhibited, than can the brilliest of the schoolage child.

Unlike card games, or sports, which can be fun also, music study presents you with something tangible in return for time spent, and opens up whole worlds of beauty and excitement for those who embrace it. How many times when, (after expressing it in words) that they had been given opportunities to study music, yet deny themselves gratification of that wish, due to a false idea that they are too old! "Never say Die!"

Freda Abrams Freed of Charge By Petit Jury

Freda Evelyn Abrams of Belleville was found "not guilty" of being in possession of explosives by the petit jury at the General Session of the Peace and Jury sittings on Wednesday before his Honor Judge J. C. Anderson.

The jury returned their verdict after deliberating for two hours.

A true bill was found against Miss Abrams on a further charge of being in possession of burglary tools but the crown indicated it would not prosecute on this charge.

His Honor Judge J. C. Anderson told Miss Abrams before she left the court room that it might be a good time for her to consider her ways of life and make some adjustments or she would some day find herself in serious trouble.

Bridge Street WA Sponsors Attractive Yule Tea, Bazaar

Bridge Street United Church was a hive of activity yesterday afternoon, when the Women's Association of the church sponsored their annual Yuletide tea and bazaar. The committees for the tea, who were also responsible for the lovely decorating scheme were: Mrs. Wilfred Mrs. Mott; and Mrs. J. Dennis.

ELABORATE TEA ROOM

Everywhere the eye turned the theme of Christmas was evident, especially in the beautifully decorated tea room, with its glistening silver yuletide trees decked with multi-colored globes. Added to these were silver - sprayed evergreen boughs with colorful Christmas decorations in each window, on the fireplace mantel, and adorning the piano. The prettily appointed tea tables with their white linen cut-work and lace edged cloths, each centred with an artistic arrangement of blue-tinted 'mums with stately pomp and flanked by tapering salmon-pink candles in tri-branch silver candelabra, were most attractive fancy gleaming table services and prettily adorned serviettes added to this lovely setting.

The many guest tables were equally attractive with snowy white luncheon cloths centred with crystal goblets containing silver sprayed evergreen twigs holding two glistening globes.

THOSE RECEIVING

Receiving the guests at the entrance to the tea room were: Mrs. H. M. Davis, wife of the minister; Mrs. W. G. Anderson, president of the Woman's Association and Mrs. A. Poulter. The tea room hostesses were: Mrs. S. J. Hibbard; Mrs. H. F. Mott; Mrs. Adam Adsett; Mrs. Franklin; and Mrs. H. S. Robbins. The ladies pouring tea were: Mrs. A. Clare; Mrs. R. Worden; Mrs. G. Shaver; Mrs. D. Williams; Mrs. R. S. Fairman; Mrs. R. Wray; Mrs. W. Dallas; Mrs. B. Leslie; Mrs. H. Ackerman; Mrs. F. S. Deacon; Mrs. H. Hollins and Mrs. A. Poulter. Replenishing the tea tables were: Mrs. A. Miles; Mrs. W. Fox; Mrs. R. G. Walsh; Mrs. H. D. Arnott; Mrs. R. Wotten; Mrs. C. Morden; Mrs. H. Seldon; Mrs. H. Parker; Mrs. C. McDonald; Mrs. R. Dulmage; Mrs. E. Gurnett, and Mrs. J. R. Reynolds. Those who replenished plates in the kitchen were: Mrs. H. B. Fetterley; Mrs. F. Moon; Miss G. Cuthbert; Mrs. W. Tice; Mrs. V. J. White; Mrs. K. Ross; Mrs. H. Moore; Mrs. B. Rose; Mrs. R. Ormond and Mrs. N. O'Neill.

Those who served the many guests with the dainty goodies were: Mesdames J. McArthur, F. Dawson, J. Casey, K. Ross, D. Stanton, C. Salisbury, J. Nichol, H. McCabe, H. Fuke, D. Maddock, C. Bristol, C. Miller, N. Cathern, J. H. Belanger, G. McPhie, W. Dafoe, G. Wishart, S. Gilmour, A. S. Robb, J. Andrews, J. Loynes, C. Lochhead, S. Bishop, Dodds, C. Howie, C. Massey, C. Butch, P. M. Ogilvie, J. B. Boyce, C. Morgan, W. G. McCle, B. Kerr and Miss H. Suiman.

DELICIOUS HOME BAKING

The various sales tables were located in the adjoining Sunday school rooms, each decorated in white, pink and turquoise color schemes. The first booth to greet the eye was the enticing homecooking with a delicious assortment of home cooked goodies including: many pies and tarts; date loaves; bran muffins; cup cakes; cherry loaf, including the recipe; frosted topped cakes, as well as packages of home cooked bacon; cartons of frozen raspberries; jams; jellies; relishes; pickles and preserves. This was in charge of Mrs. C. Miller, Mrs. H. Fuke, Mrs. J. Demeza and Mrs. Stanton.

The candy table in charge of Mrs. Cathery and Mrs. Dodds was laden with a grand assortment of confections in cellophane bags and various sized boxes and included maple creams and iced date fudges; peppermint patties; homemade chocolates and chocolate churches; divinity fudge, as well as jars of tasty "nuts-'n-bolts."

The fancy elephant table had its regular assortment of miscellaneous articles such as: vases, cake knives, novelties in jewellery, pictures, potted plants, wall hangings, fruit bowls and canister sets. Those in charge were: Mrs. Massey and Mrs. Keyes, assisted by Mesdames V. Summerfield, H. Freeman, E. Sutton, J. Mitchell, C. MacDonald, A. Nicol and Mrs. Jewell.

The home sewing booth had a wide array of homemade items sent out which were: baby booties and sweater sets; children's knitted sweaters and mitts; tea-towels; handkerchiefs; socks and toques; luncheon cloths and lace edged pillow slips and bath towels. An especially eye-catching item was a cute little doll's dressing table pale pink net lined with baby blue colored material. This was conveyed by Mrs. W. Wagar, assisted by Mrs. E. S. Denyes; Mrs. S. W. Gilmour and Mrs. K. Bird.

MANY APRONS

There was a splendid assortment of aprons at the next table, which was backgrounded with a line of colorful fancy aprons of every description, and also for sale here, were others of various styles and materials of print, gingham organdy, apron and broadcloth. At this table also, were the fancy aprons and Mrs. H. Mott were in charge were numerous stuffed animals; felt Yule stockings and colorful Christmas lapel pins.

Mrs. B. Leslie convened the table for the Explorers Group and here were for sale numerous Christmas novelties, seals, and decorated jars of bath salts.

The country booth located on the platform and prettily decorated in keeping with the Christmas theme was in charge of the Coronation Club of the church and some of the items for sale here were: jars of pickles, relishes, jams, jellies and homemade preserves; baked apples; Yule logs and wooden coat hangers. This was in charge of Mrs. D. Leslie assisted by other members of the club, Mrs. Wm. Bateman, Mrs. R. Boardman, Mrs. Wm. Hall, Mrs. M. Twiddy, Mrs. B. Nelles, Mrs. J. Bond and Mrs. J. Holway.

The tea room for this delightfully successful event were: Mrs. H. McBurney and Mrs. R. Grant.

PERSONALS

Mrs. W. J. Tuffs, has returned home from Deep River where she visited Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cleland, 26 Thomson Crescent.

* * *

Recent visitors to the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Slingerland, Talbot, with Mrs. Tom Medley, Port Carling, Muskoka; Mrs. Charles Longhurst, Bracebridge, Ontario, and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Buttler, R.C.A.F. Station, Trenton.

* * *

The candy table in charge of Mrs. Cathery and Mrs. Dodds was laden with a grand assortment of confections in cellophane bags and various sized boxes and included maple creams and iced date fudges; peppermint patties; homemade chocolates and chocolate churches; divinity fudge, as well as jars of tasty "nuts-'n-bolts."

The fancy elephant table had its regular assortment of miscellaneous articles such as: vases, cake knives, novelties in jewellery, pictures, potted plants, wall hangings, fruit bowls and canister sets. Those in charge were: Mrs. Massey and Mrs. Keyes, assisted by Mesdames V. Summerfield, H. Freeman, E. Sutton, J. Mitchell, C. MacDonald, A. Nicol and Mrs. Jewell.

The home sewing booth had a wide array of homemade items sent out which were: baby booties and sweater sets; children's knitted sweaters and mitts; tea-towels; handkerchiefs; socks and toques; luncheon cloths and lace edged pillow slips and bath towels. An especially eye-catching item was a cute little doll's dressing table pale pink net lined with baby blue colored material. This was conveyed by Mrs. W. Wagar, assisted by Mrs. E. S. Denyes; Mrs. S. W. Gilmour and Mrs. K. Bird.

MANY APRONS

There was a splendid assortment of aprons at the next table, which was backgrounded with a line of colorful fancy aprons of every description, and also for sale here, were others of various styles and materials of print, ginghams organdy, apron and broadcloth. At this table also, were the fancy aprons and Mrs. H. Mott were in charge were numerous stuffed animals; felt Yule stockings and colorful Christmas lapel pins.

Mrs. B. Leslie convened the table for the Explorers Group and here were for sale numerous Christmas novelties, seals, and decorated jars of bath salts.

The country booth located on the platform and prettily decorated in keeping with the Christmas theme was in charge of the Coronation Club of the

V.O.N. Presents Report for November

The Victorian Order of Nurses held its monthly meeting, November 20th at the Y.M.C.A., with Mr. John Lennox presiding. Miss L. Burnside, the secretary, read the minutes of the previous meeting, followed by the treasurer's report given by Mr. A. Gignac.

Mrs. Harold Purdue was appointed as chairman of the nominating committee, with the power to appoint two other members to act with him. Mrs. Ray Grant consented to convene the annual dinner meeting, with the assistance of Miss Burnside and another member of her choice.

Miss Dorothy Connor, the nurse in charge gave a report on the nursing activities for October, which showed that during the month a total of 87 patients received care. The nurses made 382 home visits. Six half-days were spent in special activities consisting of two half-days each at Canadian - Corbyville School, Douglas Mental Hospital, and the Child Health Conference at the Kiwanis Centre.

The next meeting to be on December 18th.

Christening Rites Held At St. Paul's

A Christening was held recently at St. Paul's Anglican Church, Roslin, when Susan Elizabeth and Melanie Gwen, the two infant daughters of Mr. and Mrs. John Palmer and Mr. and Mrs. Clare Geen, were christened. The Rev. G. M. Black officiated.

The Godparents for Susan Palmer were, Clare Geen, Doris Geen and Ethel Slingerland Bird. The Godparents of Melanie Gwen were, John Palmer, Retta Parr and Ruthie - Anne Geen.

After the Christening Service, a christening party was held at the home of Mrs. John Palmer.

The Queen Elizabeth. Home and School Association met in the school auditorium on November 21 with Dr. T. Burnett presiding.

Mr. L. McQuaid's grade 7 class won the attendance plaque for the month.

Approval was given to plans for the purchase of a record player for the school. Part of the proceeds from a card party this month will be used for this purpose.

Dr. Burnett introduced the speaker, Mr. Derek Riordan, a Major in the Loyal Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, who works at the Entomological Laboratory. "My talk to-night will be divided into two sections," stated Mr. Riordan — (1) radioactive fallout (2) the role of the militia."

Everything is composed of atoms, the simplest one being the hydrogen atom composed of nucleus and electrons. The nucleus may consist of a proton, the same in number as electrons. In addition there may be neutrons. An electron is about 1/1,800th the size of a proton. Isotopes are forms of an element that have the same number of protons and electrons but a different number of neutrons. They will act the same way chemically. Some isotopes are radioactive or unstable, while others are stable. In an attempt to rearrange their unstable number of protons and neutrons, they eject tiny particles or energy - this is radioactivity. There are several different kinds of radioactivity, namely gamma, alpha and beta.

GAMMA RADIOACTIVITY

Gamma radiation is closely related to light, while alpha and beta are actually particles, all of which can be present in fallout. Gamma penetrates and is similar to x-rays. The danger from alpha and beta is different for they are harmful only when in or set them. If you swallow beta isotopes, they may become incorporated into vital organs of the body.

Fallout is a unit the amount of radioactivity that can produce a certain amount of damage in human tissue. A curie is a unit of radioactivity. The unit for radioactivity damages tissue is by ionization. Cells in the body are dying constantly, but they are replaced. Radioactivity speeds this up and the normal body process is not able to replace the cells. A small amount of radioactivity is not fatal — it cannot be seen nor sensed. There is a geiger counter is used to detect it. The best protection against radioactivity, is distance, time and shielding.

The prime responsibility of the militia is rescuing people in case of nuclear explosion. If a bomb fell in Toronto, a tremendous number of people would be injured, who would require first aid. In attack, the militia's support will would go in order and would measure the radioactivity. They would establish a "rubble line" also map a "green line" point at which radiation is 1½ roentgens. Then they would proceed and find the "red line" where the radioactivity is 100 roentgens. Most of the casualties will be between the green and red lines. Troops must not go beyond the red line, except to knowingly save lives.

The casualties would be given first aid. A lot of information would be required, i.e. the number of people trapped in the area, the nature of the extent of damage, any fires, any gas leaks, any hydro lines down, and numerous buildings.

In closing, Mr. Riordan stated that the army takes over complete control. Considerable training is required for the militia. First, a basic course. Then first aid is essential up to the St. John Ambulance standard."

Both Dr. Burnett and Mr. McQuaid expressed appreciation to Mr. Riordan for his most informative talk.

'Lines on Life'

By Dr. Stuart E. Rosenberg

A pessimistic friend once quoted that if more roads of life could display the triple-A sign, there would be less need for his professional services and those of his colleagues.

He went on to explain. As much as food, man needs the "approval", "acceptance" and the "appreciation" of his fellows. If he has these three in good measure, he will usually be competent to deal with life complexities, find himself adequate to meet the challenges which life thrusts upon him. Without them however, he often cannot function properly, for he is starved spiritually.

Approval. This longing must be a vital staple in any man's spiritual diet. He requires it in large, daily, doses. We need to know, regularly, that our families and friends approve of us, desire us to continue doing what we've undertaken, and generally affirm us as decent, respectable human beings. If, instead of receiving their approval, we are met with resentment, reproval, argument and condemnation, even the most talented among us cannot function adequately and must begin to doubt ourselves. If not enough people nag us, we are gnawed with anxiety; our inners are eaten away, little by little, and we are reduced to human rations.

We need to feel that we are approved by our friends and fellows, that we are not disliked by them, nor in their disfavour. But while approval is much, it is not enough. Approval is passive - but acceptance is active. We may be approved by others against their free will, only because circumstances require it; they may have no alternative. Toleration is a far cry from tolerance, and even tolerance may be joyless and condescending acquiescence. But to be accepted by others suggests that they may have been moved from within themselves to move toward us, to receive us as they would themselves.

We may approve of ideas or people in some vague, intellectual or platonic way. But when confronted with the reality of a living situation, we often cannot accept what we approve. Northerners may approve of racial integration, applauding the Negroes from afar. But are they capable of accepting them as their own next-door neighbours? Good-willers may talk a great deal about the need for inter-faith understanding; they approve the Ideal But what about their own offices and clubs? Do they accept, in their own circles, in places which they dominate and influence, the ideas they approve for others? Husbands and wives may know of all the psychological pitfalls of disharmony, but do they actively accept each other or merely tolerate a situation by keeping a smouldering fire under control? Acceptance obviously must be added to approval. Lip service is not enough.

Finally, a third quality must be added to our habits and expectations, if we are to achieve a triple-A standard of life: appreciation! If we are approved and accepted and then personally experience a recognition of our full worth and merit, we are well on our way toward happy adjustment to life.

Unfortunately, not everyone is fully capable of expressing appreciation concretely and definitely. Even a feeling of appreciation and personal encouragement. Many are niggardly in dispensing love in the small coins of daily dealings; they can only speak the grand but ephemeral phrases of universality. But there is no universal love that is not first shaped in the person-to-person relationships of everyday habit. Always, however, appreciation is reciprocal; it can not be one-sided if it is to last very long.

The Boss needs to be appreciated or he will never learn to appreciate his secretary. And secretaries who are approved, accepted but never appreciated can hardly be expected to understand their bosses, no less using what's (to them) the language of love! As Sir William Gilbert wrote, "Appreciate me in the form of my friends."

Mrs. A. A. — Our quarrels don't mean a thing. We're devoted couple.

Miss N. — My mother and I occupy the upper floor in a two-family house. It's owned by my uncle and aunt who live downstairs.

Imagine my embarrassment when friends come to call and hear them scolding each other, shouting and calling names. I'm so ashamed. Sometimes when it sounds we hear are like those of wild animals yapping at each other! Please, I'd appreciate a nice picture of marriage for me to my friends.

* * *

Mrs. G.A. — It's no fair of Edna and her mother to expect us to put on an act, to stop being ourselves just to help her impress her visitors. I assure you, there's never any arguments, and we're not going to run downstairs first before we speak our minds to each other. Jim and I have a frank and honest way with each other, and it's kept us happily married for 30 years.

I'm sorry that our way of talking bothers Edna. It doesn't bother us. We understand each other. When I tell her she's an oaf with three feet and he says he's acted stupidly, we know it's light-hearted. The dialogue is like a game. It's fun. Underneath the yelling, there's plenty of love and we know it.

The Council: How red the face of the outsider who tries to intervene in private quarrels, only to find that the principals are to like them.

All along the line, small, but sincere, cues in not boisterous words of encouragement help bring out the best in all of us.

We want to be needed. We need to be wanted.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

FAIRBURN LOWES

MAKE CARE.

Question: I have a friend who lives in another city and twice a week's vacation twice a year, then writes she's coming to stay with me. I suspect she'll be content to spend most of her time with relationships of everyday habit. Always, however, appreciation is reciprocal; it can not be one-sided if it is to last very long.

The Boss needs to be appreciated or he will never learn to appreciate his secretary. And secretaries who are approved, accepted but never appreciated can hardly be expected to understand their bosses, no less

Eggleton MB Names New 1961-2 Officers

MADOC JUNCTION — The Eggleton Mission Band meeting for November was held at the home of Mrs. Fraser, afternoon with 16 children and three adults in attendance.

Dianne Fraser presided and opened the meeting by reading Psalm 100, "Serve the Lord With Our Help in Ages Past".

Sheila Clarke read the scripture lesson, the 23rd Psalm.

An interesting reading, "Faithful", was given by Lori Dunford. Terry Kovech gathered the offering, which was dedicated with a prayer read by Wayne McMullen.

Sheila Clarke reported that the Autumn thank-offering in October had been $3.71.

Next meeting to be held at the school on November 30th with Mrs. Clancy and Mrs. Fluchett to bring lunch.

Brian Kovech read a poem.

Mrs. Clancy presented the story, "The Search for Albrecht Duran," the boy with the great desire to become an artist, and also a letter entitled, "Praying Hands".

OFFICERS ELECTED

The election of officers for 1962 took place as follows: superintendent — Mrs. Shipley; vice-president — Lois Dunford; secretary — Diane Frost; treasurer — Mrs. Shipley; program conveners — Sheila Clarke, Lori Dunford and Wayne McMullen; lunch conveners — Carol White and Diane Fraser; pianist — Wayne McMullen and Mrs. Rekke.

"The World of Missions" papers.

Mrs. Clancy spoke a few words of well deserved praise to the officers and pupils, who had so faithfully and efficiently conducted the work of the Mission Band for this past year. She also voiced appreciation to Mrs. Rekke for her co-operation.

The next meeting dismissed, delicious home-made fudge, candy and served by Wayne McMullen.

A "Use-Up-The-Apple" Campaign

By Mary Moore

"I'm on a use-up-the-apple campaign," wrote one of our readers. So am I. Are you? If so here's help.

STARTER STEAMED APPLE PUDDING:

1 cup grated raw apple, unpeeled, 1 cup grated raw carrot, 1 cup grated raw potato, 1¼ cups all-purpose flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1 teaspoon allspice 1 teaspoon nutmeg, ¾ cup sugar, 1 cup packed suet or ½ cup butter or margarine, 1½ cups washed raisins cut with scissors (or use currants in place of some raisins if desired), ½ cup chopped nuts.

Combine raw ingredients. Sift together flour, salt and spices. Add suet and sugar to this, mixing well. Add the raw foods and fruits and nuts, blending thoroughly. Fill greased moulds or baking powder tins two-thirds full. Cover closely and steam 3 hours.

APPLE BALL COMPOTE:

This is a fancy dish to accompany pork or ham or sausage. These may balls make a plasterful of baked sausages into a company dish when used with fruit. Use for dessert apple bits to make plain applesauce.

About 1½ lbs. large cooking apples, 1 cup sugar, ½ cup water, ½ teaspoon vinegar, 1 or 1½" sticks cinnamon, 1 teaspoon red food coloring.

Mix sugar with the water, vinegar, cinnamon and red food coloring. Bring to a boil and simmer 5 minutes. Peel the apples and make balls with a ball cutter. Poach the apple balls slowly in syrup until tender. Take from syrup and drain.

Leftover syrup may be used for simmering a small number of whole plums or peeled pears for dessert.

APPLE BRAN MUFFINS:

¾ cup milk, 1 cup whole bran, ¾ cup chopped and cored apple, unpeeled, 2 tablespoons shortening, 1-3 cup sugar, 1 egg, 1 cup flour, 1 tablespoon baking powder ½ teaspoon cinnamon, ½ teaspoon salt.

Pour the milk over the bran and apples and let stand 3 minutes. Cream the shortening and sugar together. Add the well-beaten egg, the bran and apple mixture. Sift the flour with baking powder, cinnamon and salt. Add to the first mixture and beat to lightly mix. Fill greased muffin pans 2-3 full. Sprinkle centre with cinnamon sugar. Bake at 375 deg. F. for 25 minutes.

A good apple pie for dessert once per week for a while will be welcome too.

NATURAL ABILITY

BONN, West Germany (Reuters)—Experiments with robins at Frankfurt University have failed to reveal what makes their "blind-flying" equipment work. Robins, like some other birds, fly in a fixed direction at night even when clouds cover the stars. The researchers found they keep on course even when confined in a building.

Women's Institute

ELDORADO W.I.

ELDORADO—The Eldorado and Ramsdenboro Women's Institute held the November meeting at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Bateman, with a fair crowd in attendance. Mrs. Clayton Blackburn opened the meeting.

Business was dealt with. It was decided that the Institute send $20 to "Save the Children Welfare Association" to have a quilting at the home of Mrs. Arthur Stevens on Tuesday next.

Mrs. Kenneth Bateman had charge of the program in the absence of Mrs. Beryl Carman. Several readings were given.

The topic was based on "Retarded Children."

Mrs. Clayton Blackburn had the motto, entitled "All Nationalities the Gift of Brotherhood." This was followed by a reading by Mrs. Cecil Blackburn.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistants and a social half hour enjoyed by all.

Successful Living

Wants Foster Children

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS:—I would like to take two foster children but do not know whom to get in touch with. I hear they are hard to get; at least the ones I could take, as they must be under school age.—MRS. M. M.

DEAR MRS. M. M.:—Foster children? Do you mean the ones who need temporary care, as contrasted with adoption?

The child caring agencies are always looking for such homes, although it is true there are more requests for youngsters under school age than for older ones. Once your home is approved for foster care (which can challenge the skill and understanding of any mother) it depends on just what emergencies turn up.

If there is trouble in a home where the children are under five, you will be in the running to take care of the little ones—especially if you will take two. This means sisters or brothers can be kept together, which is very precious.

* * *

DEAR DORIS:—There's a girl that I like very much and I know that she likes me because my best friend told me that she said she liked me very much.

We go to school together but when I ask her for a date, she refuses and then just smiles at me. She is 15 years old and I am 16. Please tell me what I can do to get her to go out with me.—A WORRIED GUY.

DEAR WORRIED:—Last week a girl 15 wrote me asking me what to do because a boy asked her out. She liked him, but her mother will not let her have any dates yet.

Could this be the trouble with your girl? Take your nerve in your hands and ask her what's wrong. She may be relieved once she has spilled over to you—more so since she likes you.

(You did not enclose an envelope for a private reply.)

* * *

I have always thought the bride took her father's right arm down the aisle and the usher gave his right arm to the bride's family—then stepped back as he seated them. Am I right or wrong?—E. A. D.

DEAR E. A. D.:—The minister decides which arm the bride takes. If she takes her father's right arm, he avoids the pitfall of tripping over her train as he moves to his seat on the left side of the church, having given her away. But some clergymen prefer the left arm.

DIEFENBAKER

pendent territories in Africa and Asia."

Mr. Diefenbaker was speaking to 7,000 representatives of 29 ethnic groups in the Toronto area. He told them that many of them had escaped from Communist tyranny to find freedom, and that such tyranny must never be allowed to reach Canada.

The prime minister earlier received a memorandum from an Iron-Curtain refugee group urging him to press for UN implementation of resolutions seeking ouster of Soviet troops from Hungary and free elections for that country.

Part of the function at the Canadian National Exhibition's Queen Elizabeth Building was a concert which included folk dances and songs by the ethnic groups in native costume.

Mrs. Diefenbaker, Labor Minister Starr, Mayor Nathan Phillips of Toronto and senators and members of Parliament and the provincial legislature also attended.

A five-year-old girl, whose parents came here from Yugoslavia five years ago, played a song she had composed in the prime minister's honor.

Mrs Diefenbaker gave Hilda a blue flower she was wearing on her dress. The girl's father, a tool and die maker, said Hilda learned to play the piano when she was 3½ and has attended the Royal Conservatory of Music.

DOUGLAS

every lower and say that but this is not the case," retorted Mr. Douglas.

The member of added - bodied men who wouldn't take a job was very small. A planned economy could give full employment. That didn't mean it would guarantee every person the kind of job he wanted.

BEARS LAUGHTER

Mr. Douglas was interrupted a couple of times by hoots of laughter during his reply and during another brief skirmish on the issue of whether a strike interferes with the right to work.

After one such interruption, he said sharply:

"Let's not have a lot of noise. A lot of noise sometimes shows a lack of ideas."

Omar Sabins, another student, raised the issue of the right to work by saying freedom to work often was denied people in union - management battles that go on during a strike.

CAN BARGAIN

Mr. Douglas said the worker had the right to bargain collectively and to withhold his labor.

If he couldn't get a collective agreement with the employer he could strike, picket the premises, but was prohibited under the Criminal Code from interfering with anyone attempting to gain access to the plant. Nobody in Canada could stop another from going to work if he wanted to.

Miss Lane, getting into the argument said there was interference with the right to work where strikers at one union effectively tied up an operation such as a construction job on which workers in other trades were unable to do their part of the job because some of the work remained incomplete.

British High Commissioner Shows Britain's Anticipated Role in Common Market

TORONTO (CP) — The Rt. Hon., Viscount Amory of Tiverton, British high commissioner to Canada, Wednesday outlined Britain's anticipated role in the European Common Market to which it has applied for membership.

In his speech to the Canadian Manufacturers' Association Viscount Amory listed five features of this decade:

"Assuming we avoid a hot war, which if we all keep steady nerves I think we can hope to do, the certainty of increasing economic rivalry between the monolithic Communist groups and the free nations of the world; . . .

"An enormous further increase in population of the poorer countries of Asia and Africa and South America and a pressing demand for capital for these, a demand far greater than the industrialized countries are likely to be able to supply;

"A continuing tendency for those under - developed countries to build up their own secondary industries as fast as they can;

"An ever - quickening pace of technical advance — in science and engineering and technological management — calling for more capital, but less manual labor per unit of production;

"No confident hopes of governments in general spending less of the taxpayers' money then they do at present."

LIST REACTIONS

He listed three reactions which Britons must be prepared to make should the need arise:

"We must brace ourselves to accept really big changes in the patterns of our organization, our products and our methods of trade;

"We must think and act boldly and long-term planning ahead (is needed) to meet the conditions of the future and not the present. We must also avoid policies of restriction which are self-defeating;

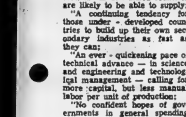
"We must seek out more ambitious ways of promoting and expanding inter national economic co-operation between nations.

"Whether we welcome it or not, governments are going to play a more and more active part in economic and trade matters. And no one nation, however powerful, is going to be big enough and strong enough to be self-sufficient and self-sustained, Interdependence is a fact.

EXPLAINS APPLICATION

Explaining Britain's application to the European Common Market, Viscount Amory said Commonwealth preferences to Britain are slowly being eroded and year by year his country's traditional customers all over the world are manufacturing for themselves behind tariff walls the goods they used to buy from Britain.

Viscount Amory suggested the main cause of this trend is changing the pattern of manufacturing production, dropping those products which her customers now make for themselves and concentrating on the newer and more complicated manufactures like electronic equipment and the latest synthetic products of the chemical industry.



He urged tenure of good Canada-Britain relations, rejecting a statement made by a number of ministers:

"As far as Britain's entry to the European market is concerned, we are only committed to negotiation. We do not know if the negotiations will be successful or not.

"If we should ever have to choose between Europe or the Common wealth, we should choose the Commonwealth."

REDS WON'T CHARGE REDS

WARSAW (Reuters) — Polish Communist party chief Vladyslaw Gomulka said Wednesday there were no plans to bring Russia's anti - party clique before a criminal court despite attacks against its members during the 22nd Soviet Communist party congress last month. Gomulka told a plenary session of the Polish party's central committee that the reason for the attacks was to restore "Leninist norms" to the party.

Washington Talks on Berlin Illustrate Old Technique

By CARMAN CUMMING
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The gingerly probing and pushing among Western capitals over a Berlin approach has brought a new refinement to time-honored diplomatic technique of speaking without saying anything.

The West Germans are also said to be insisting that any agreement provide that the wall between East and West Berlin be torn down.

In sum then, they appear to want a return to the pre-wall status quo with West Berlin under Allied control, maintaining its link with Bonn and having open access to East Berlin.

Prussian Khrushchev would be as likely to buy that sort of deal as a barrel of contaminated mineral water, Adenauer knows this full well.

In his last UN speech, Kennedy insisted the U.S. is committed to "no rigid formulas" on the Berlin and German issues.

The West Germans, on the other hand, are firmly committed to such formulas — at least in public.

As he returns to Bonn, the question remain of what reality was meant by such terms as "technical contacts" with East Germany or "political viability" of West Berlin.

The formulas may have to bend a little if any solid negotiation with Moscow is to be achieved.

However, this might mean only that Bonn would like to see a resurgence of the lucrative trade that had built up with East Germany before the current troubles.

Sent for Trial On Capital Murder Charge

ST. THOMAS (CP) — Kenneth Raymond Saunderhaven, 25, of St. Thomas was committed Wednesday for trial on a charge of capital murder arising out of the fatal stabbing Oct. 19 of Mrs. May Wilson, a 64-year-old widow.

Magistrate Fred R. Barnum committed Saunderhaven in spite of a plea by L. T. Pennell of Brantford, defence counsel, that there was insufficient evidence on which a jury, when adequately instructed, could convict the accused.

Norman Erickson, analyst with the attorney - general's medico - legal department in Toronto, testified that blood stains found on a shirt worn by Saunderhaven when he was arrested were the same blood group as that of Mrs. Wilson. He also said there were traces of human blood on a 14-inch-long butcher knife picked up 207 feet away from the scene of the crime a few hours afterwards.

Mrs. Wilson was stabbed in the back about 7:45 p.m. as she walked home from her job in the kitchen of the St. Thomas YWCA. She was just a few yards from her home where she lived alone when she was attacked.

The next Supreme Court sessions for St. Thomas are scheduled for late January or early February.

NDP Members Want Fisher To Get Out

HULL, Que. (CP)—Some Quebec members of the New Democratic Party want Douglas Fisher, CCF member of the Commons for Port Arthur, to get out of the NDP because of remarks he made about the French-Canadian culture last week.

Harry Pope, former president of the Quebec Social Democratic Party CCF) said Wednesday the Hull section of the NDP probably will deal with a resolution at his next meeting that Mr. Fisher be asked to resign from the NDP.

The NDP was formed by the CCF and the Canadian Labor Congress.

Mr. Pope said Mr. Fisher seems to wish to undercut the party, particularly in Quebec.

Mr. Pope said he believes in freedom of speech but "when one has a certain influence and a certain prestige in a political party, one doesn't have the right to insult any group."

Mr. Fisher, speaking at a conference on Confederation at Laval University, challenged French-Canadians to prove that their culture has any value for the rest of Canada. He said Canada has no need for Quebec.

"Mr. Fisher seems to think the NDP has no need of Quebec," Mr. Pope said. "I in turn I say that the NDP, at least the Hull section, has no need of Mr. Fisher."

He said he regretted having to make such statements because he had known Mr. Fisher closely for two years and "personally, we are good friends."

But he believed that if Mr. Fisher would have a little more consideration for the sentiments of his friends, he could contribute more to the good government of Canadian affairs.

Issues From Sunday Movies To Fluoridation of Water Will Be Put Before Voters

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Issues ranging from Sunday movies to fluoridation of water will be put before voters in elections to be held in many Ontario municipalities next month.

Citizens of five cities and a number of small communities will decide on both Sunday movies and Sunday sports. A four-against verdict is sought on these questions at Barrie, Chatham, Owen Sound, Sarnia and Sudbury. Other communities asked to settle both issues include the towns of Thorold in the Niagara Peninsula and Kenora in northwestern Ontario.

Fluoridation votes will be held in Brockville, Port William, Guelph, Sault Ste. Marie and Wallaceburg, in addition to those communities deciding simultaneously on this question and on Sunday sports.

Administrators will hold office for a two-year term at a number of places, including Simcoe, Sudbury, Woodstock, Paris and Thorold.

Election day falls on Monday, Dec. 11, at Barrie, North Bay and Port Arthur among larger centres. The town of Timmins votes Wednesday, Dec. 6 while Owen Sound has set Saturday, Dec. 9. Other cities and large towns have filed Monday, Dec. 4 for voting.

Guelph, Orillia, Leamington and Alax are among communities which already have reeity hall to replace the build-turned mayors by acclamation.

Gross Tops Senior Point Race

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Strathroy Rockets, Windsor Bandags and Galt Terriers are gradually pulling away from the other six teams in the Senior Ontario Hockey Association and the statistics show why. Their players occupy 20 of the first 25 places in the individual scoring race.

Windsor's Irwin Grosz scored four goals and two assists during the last week to maintain the scoring lead with 27 points. He is being pressed by Don Emms, the veteran Strathroy centre, who scored four goals and four assists and now has 26 points. Emms has scored 13 goals—13 in 11 games.

Jim Strachen of Strathroy kept the goaltending leadership but Harold (Boat) Hurley of Galt is moving up fast. Strachan, beaten 18 times in eight games, has a 2.25 average. Hurley, who scored his third shutout of the season Tuesday night against Stratford, has allowed 21 goals in 12 games for a 2.58 mark.

Barrie Hayton of Windsor took over the penalty leadership from Strathroy's Ray Moffatt. He has 32 minutes. Moffatt and Galt's Alex (Shiner) Keeling have 32 minutes each.

The Tracks

With substitute rider Jim Perrell scoring his second win of the day, Page Service won by 3¾ lengths and returned $8.60 straight.

Jockey Hugo Dittfach, who was to have ridden Page Service, suffered a bruised hand when struck by a whip during the running of the third race and had to cancel his remaining mounts.

Page Service scored his fourth win in 18 starts. He has placed fourth four times and third three times this season.

With 8,586 harness fans in attendance for the semi - final day of racing, Falls View, the hotly choice in the first, scored a 1¾-length victory and set up a $129.80 daily double. King's Method completed the double when won the second race and paid $21.80 to win.

Wagering totalled $511,396.

Geo. Ashby To Play For Whitby

WHITBY (CP) — George Ashby, 17, centre of a controversy over Ontario Hockey Association Junior A draft rules Wednesday was given clearance to go on playing hockey.

OHA secretary-manager Bill Hanley told Ivan Davie, manager of Whitby Mohawks of the new Metro Junior A Series, that he could use Ashby.

Davie said St. Catharines Teepees of the OHA Junior A had given Ashby an outright release and the OHA would tell the Ontario Minor Hockey Association to remove his playing card with Whitby juveniles. Ashby, however, is expected to sign right up to Junior A action.

The Teepees chose Ashby, who played with Whitby's Junior B quarter-finalists last year, in the annual spring draft Under the draft he had been required to report to St. Catharines or else be forced to play in a lower grade of hockey for a team not affiliated with any other Junior A club.

Minor Hockey Results

The Red Wings squeezed past the Canadiens by a 4-3 count in a bantam hockey league game played early last evening.

P. Ford potted two Wing goals while J. Poulton and B. Hunter got the others. J. Spence earned two assists and T. McNeil one. J. Clarke scored twice for the Habs. R. Hannah had a goal, G. Johnson and P. Rooke an assist each.

Meanwhile the juveniles held another hour-long workout and were divided into two teams, the Blue Beetles and the Black Buzzards.

The Blue Beetles, coached by John Semark, will play an exhibition game against the Public Works Friday night at 8.45.

Following are the lineups for the two juvenile teams:

Maniago Gets Three Penalties

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Kingston Frontenacs regained sole possession of second place in the Eastern Professional Hockey League Wednesday night, routing Hull-Ottawa Canadiens 7-3.

The Canadiens, tied with Kingston going into the game, took a 1-0 first-period lead, only to see the Frontenacs even the count in the second and run rampant over Hull goalie Gerry Maniago in the third.

The third period produced more goals, two brawls and generally high tempers yielded 32 minutes in penalties during the last 20 minutes. One of the brawls involved Maniago, who took offence when Kingston's Lorne Ferguson boarded him behind the net.

Floyd Hart, Manager Ousted

Tubs Thump 'For Big Bout'

TORONTO (CP) — Heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson dropped the roadwork from his training program for Wednesday to nurse a puffy right eye.

His handiness said he took a right-hand blow in the eye while sparring three days ago and then caught a cold in it during roadwork Tuesday.

However, Patterson, training for his Dec. 4 title bout here with Tom McNeeley, sparred three rounds with training partners Wednesday and was reassured roadwork today.

In Lynnfield, Mass., meanwhile, Cus D'Amato, Patterson's manager, was forcibly ejected from McNeeley's training camp Wednesday. Ten minutes later, McNeeley fell through the ring ropes while sparring. Neither was hurt and the first incident may have been a publicity stunt.

D'Amato entered a converted garage on the grounds of the plush Colonial Country Club, where McNeeley is training, with three reporters. A few feet behind, McNeeley's trainers, Jackie Martin and Johnny Dunn, lopaded him off.

"Get out of here," yelled Martin, who half an hour before had threatened to "toss him out bodily" if D'Amato showed up as rumored.

"Go on, out. We don't want you in here," bellowed Dunn.

"What's going on? What is this?" demanded D'Amato.

"Come on, come on. It'll sell a few tickets," whispered the squat, little Martin. McNeeley's chief trainer, to D'Amato, guiding him to the door.

Grey Cup Show Said Success

TORONTO (CP)—Members of the Toronto Junior Board of Trade said Wednesday night the 1961 Grey Cup parade is a guaranteed success, despite the fact Alberta's two big - league football cities won't be entering floats.

The sponsors said 20 floats and 16 bands are already signed for the parade preceding the Dec. 2 East-West football final, and that in any case Calgary and Edmonton weren't expected to be represented.

However, Grey Cup Festival chairman Richard Brown spoke out against the claim the parade would be too commercial, Calgary's reason for staying out.

"I don't know why they said the parade and also us when all we're trying to do is do a job for the city of Toronto and the Grey Cup Festival generally," he said.

RETURNED LONGER PACT

TORONTO (CP)—Red Kelly, rejuvenated workhorse of the Toronto Maple Leafs, said Wednesday he could have signed a two-year contract this fall but preferred playing on a year-to-year basis.

He said he will wait until the end of the National Hockey League season before deciding whether he'll retire.

"As long as I'm doing the job I'll stay," he said, "I'm making good money and I've worked at hockey all my life. But I have other interests, too."

Terriers To Play Down East

AMHERST, N.S. (CP) — The Allan Cup champion Galt Terriers will play a series of exhibition hockey games in the Maritimes during a Canadian Amateur Hockey Association tour of the world hockey championships at Colorado Springs, Colo.

[illegible] an official of Amateur Hockey Association of Canada-Maritimes Hockey Association president Jack Hornburgh said Maritime Amateur Association president Pius Callaghan.

The Terriers will make Maritime appearances Feb. 2, 3 and 4 in Halifax and Amherst were listed as definite sites for exhibition games.

Brown, Starr Going Strong

NEW YORK (AP) — Green Bay's Bart Starr, the passer, and Cleveland's Jimmy Brown, the rusher, seem to get better as the National Football League season progresses.

Starr completed 10 of 15 passes for 175 yards and three touchdowns Sunday in the Western Conference - leading Packers' 35-17 victory over Los Angeles Rams. He now has 120 completions for 1,678 yards and 14 touchdowns and continues for the second straight week to lead passers, figures released Wednesday by NFL headquarters show. Sonny Jurgensen of Philadelphia Eagles, tied with Cleveland for second in the Eastern Conference, is second in passing followed by Cleveland's Milt Plum.

Brown tied his own NFL single-game rushing mark in the Browns' 45-24 conquest of the Eagles with 237 yards and touchdowns with 1,000 yards on 325 carries. Jim Taylor of Green Bay, is second with 857 yards on 197 thrusts.

Jim Phillips of Los Angeles and Del Shofner of New York Giants, the eastern pace-setters, are tied for pass-receiving honors, each with 51 receptions. Phillips has gained 815 yards and Shofner 811.

The Packers' Paul Hornung continues to lead league scoring with 130 points even though army induction kept him from playing in the Rams' game. Baltimore's Lenny Moore remains second with 94 points.

Blues Blast Wings, Take Over Lead

Harvey Paces 4-0 Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Just about everybody expected New York Rangers to improve under Doug Harvey's leadership.

But few, if any, figured Harvey could mould the Blueshirts into a contender for the 1961-62 National Hockey League title.

Yet with the season past the one - quarter mark, the Rangers are alone at the top of the standings and show no signs of slipping. In fact, their aggressive and alerty type of play appears to be improving.

They claimed first place Wednesday night with a brilliant 4-0 win over Detroit Red Wings in the league's only action. The victory stretched a New York unbeaten streak to six games.

Harvey, making a spectacular adjustment as a playing-coach, was the key man on offence while goalie Lorne (Gump) Worsley was at his best in registering his 21st NHL shutout and first of the season.

SET UP GOALS

Harvey helped set up the first three goals. He passed to Dean Schinkel for the first tally, stole the puck to set up Camille Henry for the second and assisted on the third by Dean Prentice.

Schinkel got the game's fourth goal.

Worsley was outstanding, turning aside 29 shots. He robbed Gordie Howe on three occasions and pulled off great stops against Vic Stasiuk and Bill Gadsby.

The win was Rangers ninth in 19 starts. They also have five ties and five defeats, giving them 23 points. Montreal Canadiens dropped to second place with 22 points while Toronto Maple Leafs are third with 21. Canadiens and Leafs both were idle Wednesday night.

Rangers, who failed to reach the Stanley Cup playoffs the last three seasons, were last after 19 games in 1960-61. They only had five wins and one done to go with 13 defeats.

Schinkel got his first goal at 10:22 of the first period and New York protected the slim lead for more than 40 minutes before Henry made it 2-0 at 10:49 of the third.

ALERT PAST DEFENCE

Harvey moved the puck out from behind his own net and fed Schinkel a perfect pass near the red line. The 23 - year - old right winger slipped through the Detroit defence and beat goalie Terry Sawchuk with a rising 15-footer.

For the second goal, Harvey swiped the puck from Deputy Allan Johnson, slipped it to Ted Hampson who relayed to Henry. Henry blasted a 30 - footer just over Sawchuk's shoulder.

Prentice made it 3-0 at 14:12 and Schinkel rapped home a second goal at 17:17.

Rangers play in Boston tonight. The other four games also will be in action as Detroit goes to Montreal and Toronto is at Chicago.

Pile Up 8-2 Score

Pepsi's Defeat Napanee

By GEO. H. CARVER
Sports Editor

Playing Coach Jean Paul Lamirande mixed a potent Pepsi formula last night and sent the Napanee Comets home with an 8-2 defeat dragging their tails. A solid defence backed by fine goal-keeping by "Turk" Barclay, plus some spirited goal-getting youngsters up front told the story.

It was the Belleville Pepsi's first time out and as of now they share the Eastern Intermediate Hockey League roost with Quinte with one win and no setbacks.

A small crowd for an opener saw a fast brand of hockey with the Pepsi's taking an early lead and never looking back-ward. They led 3-1 at the end of the first chukker; 6-2 the end of the second and rammed home two unanswered tallies in the final frame.

Floyd Crawford, his release in his pocket, teamed with Lamoy, Lionel Boily and Fiori Goetz to form a tough blue-line brigade. The "Turk" who suffered a head gash turned in an outstanding effort when the Comets got to him.

Up front, Tom O'Mears, and "Shaker" Baker two youngsters who played effective hockey both scoring twice and each getting an assist. Davy Jones was one of the best offensive players on the ice coming up with a goal, the prettiest of the night, and four assists.

Keith MacDonald and Gogan with one each and one, and Ronnie Hull with a single, rounded out the Pepsi scoring effort. Garry Goyer had two assists with Irwin, Rwhotham and Crawford getting singles.

Pat Gilmour and Tar Brady scored the Napanee goals both unassisted. Bob Senior in the Comets nets despite eight pucks that shot by him was outstanding at times especially in the second period when the Pepsi's raided him for two minutes with no success.

Both teams traded some heavy bodychecking with Referees LaChambre and Ted Hurst doling out nine minor penalties, five to the Pepsis.

Baker scored the first goal of the season midway through the first period on O'Meara's pass, the latter fired home the second three minutes later and Mac-Donald rammed home the third before Pat Gilmour's backhander beat Barclay.

Davy Jones slithered through the Comets on a breakaway to deke Senior and score early in the second frame. Hull and Jones went off but the Pepsi's defence held. Late in the period Ron Hull sifted in on Senior and made no mistake.

A puck that bounced high in the air and ended up in the net and a stiff argument by Barclay gave the Comets their second marker but O'Meara got that back a minute later with a good backhander.

Jones blew a chance in the third when in alone on Senior, Fiori Goegan's screened shot from well out scored the Pepsi's seventh goal and Baker wrapped it up with a minute to go with help from Jones and MacDonald.

The Pepsi's outshot the Comets 25-20 on the night's play.

Far From Dead, Say Tiger Cats

Foot In Grave, But Not Interred

HAMILTON (CP) — While other teams in the Eastern Football Conference were moving out of their top talent backwards and forwards, Hamilton Tiger - Cats enjoyed the comparative luxury of a rigid platoon system.

Not any more.

It isn't that the Ticats are lacking the bodies, but when you're 12 points down at the half-way mark of a two-game total-points final, desperation measures are called for. One of fence and defence, nothing the swiftest, toughest and smartest will do.

So it's a virtual clinch several Black and Gold players will see two-way efforts here Saturday when the Ticats seek to overcome the 25-7 margin Toronto Argonauts built up in the opener last Sunday.

A capacity crowd of around 28,000 is expected for the fray, along with uncounted thousands before television sets. The game, starting at 2 p.m. EST, will be carried on the CBC's national network.

Reviewing last Sunday's game, the standout features appear to be the lack of a really effective rush on Toronto quarterback Tobin Rote despite the absence of backfield blockers owing to the spread formation; and an inability on the part of the Ticats to protect Bernie Faloney.

A logical step for Hamilton coach Jim Trimble would be to beef up his offensive line with the addition of tackle John Barrow, voted lineman of the year in the east this year, and add the proven blocking ability of defensive halfback Don Ritchie and Ralph Goldston. Goldston also could be used as a pass receiver, along with defensive mates Garney Henley and Ron Howell.

Whatever renovations may be in store, neither players nor fans here take too seriously the outlook of Toronto commentators who almost to a man have consigned the Ticats to an early grave.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Bill Spinelli, chairman of the Quinte Curling Club's "Youth Movement" is quite enthusiastic over the prospects of a "junior" league this winter.

The youth movement to the uninformed, is not the classes of 60-70- and 80 taking personal lessons in the "twist" or other physical calisthenics designed to "Ponce-do Leon" the oldsters, but the formation of a league of secondary schools students.

Chairman Spinelli said he has had a splendid response to the club's appeal for student "students" of the ancient game. Some 28 new faces showed up last Saturday for registration. These will augment the 35 who joined the club last year, giving the Spinelli committee 53 "all ranks" to give the new league a running start.

The young fellows had a pre-league practice the other night besides hearing a talk on the fundamentals of the game. "There was plenty of enthusiasm," Mr. Spinelli said, "and everything augurs well for a successful student league."

The students will play on Mondays, Tuesday and Thursdays from four o'clock until six after league organization is completed. Play is expected to begin next Monday.

The league calls for eight rinks or thirty-two players, but arrangements will be made so that every boy will get his chance with the brooms and stones. "There will be some spares each week," the chairman said, "this cannot be helped."

* * *

"SO WE'VE GOT IT TOUGH!"

There's a certain group of safety-minded hunters in this city who have taken time out to instruct in phases of the hunter safety program—and who have done a grand, much appreciated, job. Through their efforts and the enthusiasm of their "students" many became eligible for hunting licenses this year, and so far as this department knows, not one of these young fellows became involved in an accident.

I did hear, however, of a couple of young fellows who were not too enthusiastic over taking the hunter safety course. Eventually they came around to it after being told licences were not available unless they were "graduates."

"Shucks," one is purported to have said, "why bother with all that. My dad has been hunting for years and he can tell me all about guns and what to do with them."

For this youngster's information, the majority of those injured in the six accidents which occurred in the Toronto district in the deer hunting season just ended, were "dads". At least all were adults.

And for other young fellows who may be of the same mind there is a sign in the office of the Lands and Forests Department devoted to hunter safety which says, "So you think we're tough! How would you like to live in Bavaria?"

In this part of Germany the minimum age to qualify for a hunting licence is 18, and the young hunter must successfully complete a six-months' course on hunting laws, customs, study and identification of game and non-game species and some fundamentals of game management.

On completing this, the new hunter is examined by a board of qualified German hunters (hunters). If he passes his examination, the young hunter is entitled to purchase his license (60 marks—$15.00), but cannot go afield until he has purchased hunting insurance ($35,000 personal liability, $3,500 property liability.)

Now, finally, is the hunter on his own? No. First he must secure permission to hunt on the land, hire a guide, and look to the guide for an O.K. to shoot the game seen.

Romp to 43-14 Win

Bombers Rout Stamps, Vision Cup

By N WILLIAMS

WINNIPEG (CP) — The 1961 Winnipeg Blue Bombers — described by coach Bud Grant as his best team—advanced to the Grey Cup final Wednesday night with a resounding 43-14 victory over Calgary Stampeders.

The scoring outburst, Bombers' biggest of the season, gave them the best-of-three Western Football Conference final two straight games. They won the first game at Calgary last Saturday, 14-1.

They now meet the Eastern Conference champions in the Grey Cup final at Toronto Dec. 2. Toronto Argonauts and the million Tiger-Cats meet in the deciding game of the total-points eastern final Saturday, with Toronto owning a 25-7 lead.

A crowd of 18,800 weisbeheld Wednesday night as Bombers ran roughshod over the Stampeders, whose lineup was riddled with injuries. Winnipeg held quarter leads of 8-0, 25-7 and 36-0 and stretched the margin to 43-0 before Calgary scored.

One startling aspect of the game was the fact that Winnipeg rolled up an impressive 305 yards passing, while the Stampeders, classed as basically a passing club, completed only one of 13 passes for 19 yards.

The third-place Stampeders, who entered the final by upsetting the second-place Edmonton Eskimos 27-26 in the two-game, total-points semi - final, abandoned their shotgun spread formation—one of the big factors in their semi-final victory by Eagle Day and rookie Jerry Keeling quarterbacking duties. Calgary stuck to the T-formation all the way.

LEADS SCORERS

Speedy halfback Leo Lewis, a veteran of seven seasons with the Bombers, led the Winnipeg assault with two sensational touchdowns—one on a 44-yard pass play with quarterback Ken Ploen, the other on a 42-yard gallop off tackle.

Hal Ledyard, who replaced Ploen at quarterback Calgary in most of the second half, connected for two touchdown passes—hitting Ernie Pitts on an 81-yard pass-and - run play and tossing an 11-yarder to Farrell Funston in the end zone.

Tackle Frank Rigney, a stand-out for Winnipeg all the way, scored the other touchdown on a fumble by Calgary's Bill Miller as he tried to run a punt out of the end zone in the second quarter.

Canadian fullback Gerry James, a nine-year veteran at the age of 26, matched Lewis' 12 - point performance with a near - perfect night of placekicking. He booked two field goals—of 33 and 27 yards—and converted all five touchdowns. He added a single on his only miss—a wide field goal attempt from the 36-yard line.

Shakes off Rote Pass

'Dief' Evades Argo Trap

TORONTO (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker won't hint about which team he hopes to win the Grey Cup.

Mr. Diefenbaker, who is to kick off at the Dec. 2 eastwest football final here, told Toronto Argonauts Wednesday night that he hopes the better team wins.

The prime minister met the Argos by chance while they were having a supper meal-training at the Canadian National Exhibition grounds. He was on his way to a rally of Toronto ethnic groups in the centre building.

Mr. Diefenbaker kidded with the players but declined an offer by quarterback Tobin Rote to stand aside and let Mr. Diefenbaker take his place if Toronto reaches the finals.

Rote said he understands the prime minister has a good arm.

Mr. Diefenbaker, in a more serious vein, said he considers the Grey Cup does more to bring Canadians together than any other single event. He thought many problems might sometimes be settled better in the spirit of the athletes' field than at the conference table.

Downes Gets Warm-up Bout

LONDON (AP) — Terry Downes, part holder of the world middleweight boxing title, was given permission Wednesday to have a warmup fight before defending his crown against Paul Pender in Boston.

The 25-year-old Londoner got the go-ahead from the British Boxing Board of control. He has been out of action with a thumb injury since he took the title from Pender in London last March.

Last week the Massachusetts athletic relief that Downes must not fight until he has fulfilled his return-clause contract with Pender. Downes is scheduled to meet Pender, of Brookline, Mass., in Boston Jan. 30.

Jockey Told 'Stay Away Next Year'

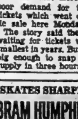
TORONTO (CP)—Jockey Alfonso Coy, reinstated Tuesday after a two-month suspension, will ride at Old Woodbine today but will not be allowed to ride in Ontario next year.

Coy was suspended indefinitely Sept. 22 by the Ontario Racing Commission for wagering with bookmakers. The commission announced Tuesday that he had been restored to good standing.

But the 37-year-old native of Mount Pleasant, Pa., said Wednesday: "The commission has told me not to come back next year as they would not give me a licence."

The indefinite suspension imposed on Coy had barred him from all North American tracks. He claimed the suspension cost him $20,000.

Coy had only two days left in which to be reinstated this season under the ruling that a suspended jockey must ride at least one race after being reinstated where he was suspended.



No Grey Cup Tickets Left 'n Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—Hold the hood, football fans, there aren't any Grey Cup tickets for sale in Ottawa.

An Ottawa football club spokesman said Wednesday the club office has been swamped by ticket requests from out - of - town points since a news report early this week that there was a poor demand for the 700 tickets which went on public sale here Monday.

The story said the lineup waiting for tickets was the smallest in years. But it was big enough to snap up the supply in three hours.

Drug Therapy to Be Pilot Project Next Spring in New Medical Department in UBC

By BOB TRIMBEE

VANCOUVER (CP) — Drug therapy, one of the most complex plan fields facing the practising doctor, will be the subject of a pilot project next spring at the new department of continuing medicine at the University of British Columbia.

"This field changes so rapidly," says Dr. Donald H. Williams, head of the department, "that doctors have trouble keeping abreast of the developments."

Members of the UBC medical faculty will be sent by the department throughout the province next February, to conduct extensive post-graduate courses in this field.

"Studies will detail the use of drugs, outline the latest developments in drug therapy, describe the new agents and areas in which they are effective, list those which should be left alone and correlate basic scientific knowledge leading to good practice," he said in an interview.

"The study will be continued in our first full academic year program, which starts next fall."

ENTIRE FIELD

The department is unique in that its influence will sweep the entire medical field and its allied professional and paramedical teams. It will provide more than refresher courses which now are the limit of work in this sphere at most Canadian and United States universities.

To carry out the plan three divisions have been established.

The largest will be the metropolitan area of Vancouver and Victoria where night classes will be held twice a month.

Regional districts include such areas as the Okanagan and will receive a one - week course once a month while remote areas such as Dawson Creek will be served by special one-day community hospital programs. The district's major or most central hospital.

The plan is being sponsored by the department and the Canadian Medical Association, B.C. division, and the local associations. It's hoped it will be self-supporting with fees paid by doctors meeting the full operating costs.

Hospitals will play a prominent part as the centre for the courses.

The UBC extension department will also be a major role, particularly in work aimed at bringing doctors and other groups in the health team closer together.

Despite the relative infancy, the department of continuing medical education has already come under international attention.

Dr. V. Svasti Daengsvang, rector of the University of Medicine at Bangkok, came here under Dr. Swasdi Sauldhai, dean of graduate medical education at Bangkok, came here under a Colombo plan grant to study UBC's work in this field.

Their tour will include visits to other Canadian universities. They selected Canada for the study because the medical education system of both countries is similar and developed under the influences of both the American and British systems.

The surprising aspect of their visit is that they seek information to inaugurate a continuing medical education program, while UBC officials hope to integrate the basic medical training of the entire health team as now is done in Thailand, says Dr. Williams.

ENJOY PRESTIGE

A marked difference, says Dr. Sauldhai, is that medicine in Thailand is the "gilmer" profession while in Canada many bright students are lost to sciences which require less training and financing. The interest in Thailand was generated by the parents of the present King, both of whom were doctors.

The question of making medicine more attractive to university students is one which our department will study," said Dr. Williams. "UBC, like many other Canadian medical schools, is having trouble recruiting medical students. The length and expense of the course produces many problems for students, especially married students.

"That is why many of our medical graduates are drifting away by wealthy U.S. hospitals during their intern and residency training. Surveys show that at least 100 each year leave Canada and few return. This represents the graduating class of two Canadian medical schools.

"And the problem will become more severe. It is a crucial test facing Canadian universities in recruiting medical students and keeping them in Canada after they leave the university."

AT THE BELLE — Piper Laurie, Jackie Gleason and Paul Newman, co-starred with George C. Scott, in "The Hustler", 20th Century-Fox's fast-paced screen production. From the pages of Walter Tevris' offbeat novel, comes a super-charged movie, cut from the fabric of life.

AT THE PARK — Junior officer Tony Curtis' wooing of Army nurse Dina Merrill aboard a submarine gets a setback via the periscope from the sub's skipper, Cary Grant in "Operation Petticoat", in Color. Granart Company comedy for Universal-International, in which the stars are Grant, Curtis, Joan O'Brien, Miss Merrill, Gene Evans and Arthur O'Connell, opening tonight at the Park Theatre. On the same program in Color "Seven Ways From Sundown", starring Audie Murphy and Barry Sullivan.

Ontario Liberal Leader Seeks Strike Legislation

TORONTO (CP) — Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer Monday notice Wednesday that he plans to seek legislation requiring the public to be informed of issues at stake in Ontario strikes.

In a press release, Mr. Wintermeyer said he will ask for an amendment to the Labor Relations Act "to provide maximum protection for the public interest facts involved in a strike, in order that the public may intelligently exercise its judgment which respect to approval or disapproval of a strike."

He said he will also seek creation of a water commission, similar to Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission, to handle water at cost.

"Water is a vital factor in economic planning in industrial location and development, and because of its importance the responsibility of assuring adequate supplies of water also comes the responsibility of the provincial government," the statement said.

Mr. Wintermeyer also wants to amend the Mothers' Allowance Act, which has only been used by a handful of unmarried women. He would extend its provisions to men, setting a rate of $7.an hour for Canadian areas, with adjustments for variations in other areas and excluding the agricultural industry.

Another proposed act would create a housing commission to provide money for home owner repairs and renvations and for the purchase of new or old residential property.

He also seeks legislation to prevent the deliberate abuse of terms and conditions of all loans made in Ontario.

The statement explained: "There is limited constitutional authority in the provincial field to control interest rates. However it is constitutional for the provincial authority to require disclosure of the terms and conditions of any contract secured in Ontario. This legislation is intended to bring public attention to any extravagant interest charges on any loans made in Ontario."

An act will be sought to require farm machinery distributors to keep a "reasonable inventory" of parts on hand. Mr. Wintermeyer said the request is in answer to "criticisms by farmers over the present inability to obtain parts speedily, small parts in particular, after breakdowns."

Council Orders Chicken Diet For Family

ERIE, Pa. (AP)—The Lombardi family of Erie must eat one chicken a week for the next 26 weeks.

The diet was ordered by city council after a hearing on complaints from neighbors that Mrs. Mary Lombardi was raising 40 chickens in her back yard.

Housing inspector James McLaughlin said that Mrs. Lombardi was permitted to raise 12 chickens. The rest must go, he said.

Albert Lombardi, appearing for his mother, told city council it would be difficult to get rid of that many chickens in one week.

"They are all old chickens and nobody wants to buy old chickens," he said. "We can't even eat that many in one week."

Then streets director Victor Glembocki found a solution.

"Every chicken gone is an inspector's meat, right?" he asked. "Therefore, if they eat one chicken a week, they could get rid of the chickens a month."

Glembocki suggested that a monthly check be made to see that four more chickens were gone.

Peterborough Jail Crowded Council Told

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Peterborough County council was told Wednesday that dangerous conditions exist in the county's overcrowded century-old jail.

Councillors were reminded that five men charged with the recent armed holdup of a Havelock bank were moved to Toronto County jail in Whitby for greater security.

Mr. Weyer said prisoners in the downtown Peterborough jail were regularly placed in corridors at night while six men slept in some of the 26 cells.

Council decided to ask Keith Brown, Conservative member of the legislature for Peterborough to raise the question with the department of reform institutions.

Suzy Parker Back in Town To Make Fourth Comeback

By BOB THOMAS

At least that's the way she sees it. But then, Suzy Parker sees everything in an offbeat, oddball kind of way, and it is say that she is wrong and the rest of the world is right!

"I make pictures so seldom that they always say it's a comeback when I start a new one," she said over a champagne cocktail at Romanoff's.

"I can't help it if I'm not home. I wouldn't let me work. Do you realize that all I did for a year and two months was sit back in New York, doing my needlepoint and collecting a cheque every week? The money was getting to be rather ridiculous —$1,795 a week for doing needlework!

LIFE A 'DREAM'

"I got to be like a dream world. I didn't know whether I could do anything any more or not. So I thought I'd better find out.

So she bootlegged a copy of The Interns script and found the role of a fashion model who falls pregnant. "It would be ridiculous for any other actress to play the part," she informed her agents.

But her loanout price was too high. So she convinced 20th Century Fox to save its weekly stipend to her. As a free-lancer, she peddled herself to Columbia at a price it could afford.

"I wanted this part and I got it," she said. "It makes me boiling mad when people say I don't want to work. Of course I want to work.

"I was lousy in my first picture, Kiss Them for Me. Everybody was bad in it, even Jayne Mansfield, if you can imagine that.

"Anyway, my next picture was 10 North Frederick. I worked doubly hard on that role. I don't care what you say about 'the picture;' I was good in it."

Studios Developing 'New' Series Out of Aged Features

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Television, which has a penchant for showing old movies and remaking old films into one-hour dramas, also finds the Hollywood studios useful in developing "new" series out of aged features.

At the moment, the TV series have inherited the titles and are directly related to old motion picture properties.

Veteran show is National Velvet, once a starring vehicle for a little girl named Elizabeth Taylor. Plus Stop, which was first a play and then a movie, bears little resemblance to previous productions—in fact, the plot for the play and movie provided the basis for just a single episode in the series.

Father of the Bride, a new series which is encountering rating trouble, once was a 30-20 comedy feature, and so was Margie, the series about a teen-ager in the roaring 1920s.

Obviously, no one life or no one family can crowd into a few years enough good story material for a series —they exhausted the real-life potentials of Elliot Ness after the first few episodes of The Untouchables.

What, then, is the point of taking old movies and remaking them into a series and switching things around until only the name is same?

"That's easy," explained a TV producer who choses to be anonymous, "It is to save money and trouble. After all, if a studio owns a property and a franchise like Blondie, it can do dare, it can go ahead and do anything it likes with them and doesn't have to bother with negotiations, or buying rights or clearances."

General Tendencies: You are certainly able to put your ideas and your plans across today, for you have a pretty good understanding of the well-rounded course that is essential in order to do so. This applies to whatever merchandise you may have as well as any visionary or imaginative interests. The evening is fine for emotional concerns — all types.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Anything that concerns home and family should be of vital concern to you today, even though it may be necessary to go out into the business world. Spend the evening at home and have an enjoyable time there. Relax.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Every opportunity is yours now to contact the individuals who have the items you require or can give the service you need. Also get in touch with those you want to reconcile with you or vice versa. There can be real understanding.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Important you concentrate upon getting an increased revenue, enough for all of your needs and more. Contact the right business people who can assist you to better your position in life. Then roll up your sleeves and get to work.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — The day you have awaited for some time is here when you can go directly to those who can be helpful in your career. State specifically what you have in mind and get their full support. Evening fine for sociability, happiness.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — If you quietly go after your cherished aims, you can bring them within your orbit almost. Important you concentrate upon with any favorite hobbies in the evening, enjoy cultural pursuits or simply see a good movie. Have fun.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 21) — Key people will now understand exactly what your objectives are, if you use that fine ability to express yourself constructively. They will co-operate to the full. Attend some interesting social function in p.m. Be gay.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — This is the ideal day to approach higher-ups for a raise, promotion or get that big contract, if you are in business. Go out to dinner in p.m. and then have a ball.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — A fine day for new vital beginnings, studying into some new outlet, making the contacts that bring refreshing ideas for the future. Relax your level of consciousness and be more successful by thinking instead of dreaming so much.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Your psychic powers are greater than ever today, so be sure to listen to that inner voice that you know can help by how to proceed in any important matters, whom to particularly see or phone and how to have fun. Relax.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Vital now to get in touch with allies in any sphere of your endeavor so that you have further co-operation and support of a material nature. Step out together this evening and come to a better understanding while pleasurably engaged.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Real accomplishment is possible now, whether at home or in the outside world, that not a moment should be spent in idleness. Confer with co-workers, then full speed ahead. Take needed health treatments in p.m. Fix wardrobe.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Get an early start on weekend fun by calling friends a bon matin and planning the activities ahead, especially for this evening. Then clear up any important work quickly. Give proof in p.m. that you are truly devoted to your friends.

If your child is born today—he, or she, will be one of those intriguing youngsters who has many talents and can make quite a name for himself, or herself, in the world, and quite early in life, at that. Important you put your progeny on the beam consciously, though, to produce best results and ward off complexes. Fine chart for musical work in foreign lands. Give language courses.

Communications Between Chiefs Must Improve

BROCKVILLE (CP) — Communications among police departments must be improved if they are to combat the increase of crime in Ontario, a meeting of eastern Ontario police officers was told Wednesday.

The session was one of a series being held at the request of Attorney-General Kelso Roberts. It was attended by chief constables and provincial police officers from Gananoque to the Quebec border.

Chief Wilmot Young of Brockville, chairman of Zone A-2 of the Chief Constables' Association, said the circular system by which police departments now communicate is 50 years out of date.

A report on the meeting will be submitted to a meeting of zone chairmen in Toronto Dec. 6 and 7.

TELLS OF PILGRIMS

CARLINVILLE, Ill. (AP)— Five - year - old Deborah Perry was asked Wednesday what she had learned about the pilgrims in her kindergarten class. "They landed on Plymouth Rock so they could wash-up God in the way they wanted," she replied.

Verwoerd Says Govt. Never Anti-Semitic

JOHANNESBURG (AP) — Prime Minister Verwoerd has assured South Africa's largest Jewish community that the government has never been anti-semitic and that he wants no anti-semitism in the ruling Nationalist party.

But Verwoerd said he considers Israel's joining in censuring South Africa at the UN a hypocritical act ungrateful act. He charged also that the whole UN is filled with a bunch of hypocrites who are unfairly condemning his government's racial segregation policies and threatening sanctions against it.

Verwoerd made these angry declarations in what he termed an impromptu speech at a provincial conference of Nationalist party leaders, here Wednesday night.

The speech was prompted by a published report that blew up in the opposition and Jewish press since last weekend following the disclosure of a letter Verwoerd had his private secretary send to a Cape Town Jewish lawyer.

IMPLIED THREATS?

Jews and some others saw in this letter implied threats that Verwoerd intended to take reprisals against South African Jews for what he considered a hostile policy at the UN. Verwoerd denied he had any such intention and claimed that was "how to stir up trouble" as perverted by his political opponents.

But he pulled no punches in criticizing Israel and his colleagues at the UN.

The private secretary's letter said Verwoerd agreed with the view that Israel's UN stand against South Africa was a "betrayal of the Jews in South Africa."

$70,000 Loaf Set for Two Montreal Men

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Ball bail totalling $70,000 was set Wednesday for two Montreal brothers charged with armed robbery in the $70,000 robbery of a bank at Havelock, 25 miles east of here Aug. 31.

Judge Gordon Gerrard granted the bail application made by John Stirling of Ottawa on behalf of Yvon Lalonde, 31, and his brother Jean - Claude, 32. No application was made on behalf of the other two Montreal men under arrest in the case — Roger Marlel, 41, and Roger Poirier, 34.

Bail for Jean-Claude Lalonde was set at $15,000 plus $15,000 for Yvon Lalonde and $20,000 with $20,000 surety.

Verwoerd Says Govt. Never Anti-Semitic

JOHANNESBURG (AP) — Prime Minister Verwoerd has assured South Africa's largest Jewish community that the government has never been anti-semitic and that he wants no anti-semitism in the ruling Nationalist party.

But Verwoerd said he considers Israel's joining in censuring South Africa at the UN a hypocritical act ungrateful act. He charged also that the whole UN is filled with a bunch of hypocrites who are unfairly condemning his government's racial segregation policies and threatening sanctions against it.

Verwoerd made these angry declarations in what he termed an impromptu speech at a provincial conference of Nationalist party leaders, here Wednesday night.

The speech was prompted by a published report that blew up in the opposition and Jewish press since last weekend following the disclosure of a letter Verwoerd had his private secretary send to a Cape Town Jewish lawyer.

IMPLIED THREATS?

Jews and some others saw in this letter implied threats that Verwoerd intended to take reprisals against South African Jews for what he considered a hostile policy at the UN. Verwoerd denied he had any such intention and claimed that was "how to stir up trouble" as perverted by his political opponents.

But he pulled no punches in criticizing Israel and his colleagues at the UN.

The private secretary's letter said Verwoerd agreed with the view that Israel's UN stand against South Africa was a "betrayal of the Jews in South Africa."

Indeed, that Jewish support for the integrationist Progressive party in the last elections had "driven the Nationalists to the extreme" . . . We believed in the time of hatred and bitterness to begin to wonder whether that support should not be withdrawn," according to our own convictions, the ideal of coexistence appeals to fundamentally wrong. You see there, how the action by Israel has led us set in train a new line of thought."

Brief Will Call For New Look At Rail Subsidy

By ROBERT MICE

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government will be asked to take a fresh look at its multi-million-dollar subsidy policy of using rail transportation as an instrument of aid to special regions, it is learned.

The recommendation is expected to be made in the second volume of the report of the MacPherson royal commission on transportation which will be in government hands soon.

It will call for a new look at federal subsidies currently running at a rate of $41,000,000 a year—paid to the railroads but actually intended as assistance chiefly for Maritime and Prairie shippers.

The implications of such a change could be far-reaching for the two areas in both political and transportation terms.

The six - man commission, headed by Regina lawyer M. A. MacPherson, spelled out its basic rationale for transportation in its first volume, made public last April.

SOME CAUSE

The initial volume, shelved by the government until the other volumes were available, was liberally sprinkled with clues as to what will probably be recommended in the second volume, which deals with local, regional and industrial problems.

The first volume, with its proposal for a system of shrinking subsidies starting at $100,000,000 a year, had conclusions also on general theme — that competition now is a fact of life in transportation.

To a large extent federal transport policies are founded on the outdated concept that railways are still a monopoly form of transport. This concept, shattered by the commission in its first volume, lies behind federal assistance via the railways to regions most drastically affected by the unequal effects of competition in transport.

Student Teachers Receive Instructions at Conference With Women Teachers' Body

TORONTO — The annual student-teacher conference of the Federation of Women Teachers' Associations of Ontario was held November 18, at the Park Plaza Hotel in Toronto. Thirty-five student teachers, representing the nine Teachers' Colleges in the province and the Ontario College of Education, were introduced into their future profession by 26 executive and committee members of the women teachers' Federation. The delegates were welcomed by Miss Cora Bailey, Peterborough. F.W.T.A.O. president. Miss Bailey pointed out to the students, who will take their first teaching posts next fall, that they should be concerned "with the total development of the child. not just what he learns from his textbooks. This development should be based on the child's acquisition of many forms of knowledge and skills, and efficient habits of thinking, study and work".

"It is essential", she continued, "that opportunities be provided for all Ontario's school children whatever their capabilities, so that they may grow in the acceptance of responsibility that they may develop acceptable attitudes toward work both at school and at home. This is most important when they emerge from the cocoon of academic education to join the labor business or professional work force of the nation. This will be a very real part of your job when you begin teaching".

MUST IMPROVE

Miss Bailey reminded the students that it is just as important for teachers to continue their education and improve their way of life as much as possible.

"Our Federation theme this year is 'Professional Growth and Development'. This is the challenge to all members of Federation —to grow professionally in an environment of desirable attitudes, so that we can help our youngsters to get the most value out of the world in which they live — and in the process, we are bound to get more value out of life ourselves".

The morning session was taken up by a skit "Our Federation", which outlined the structure and organization of the Federation. Teachers group Heads of the various provincial committees portrayed themselves. The moderator was Mrs. Florence G. Irvine, Ancaster, a member of the Advisory Board, and a past-president.

The conference theme, "Teachers of Tomorrow — In the Classroom, in the Federation, in the Community", was covered in a panel discussion during the afternoon session. Panelists were: Mr. C. A. Mustard, Toronto, Superintendent of Teacher Education Ontario Department of Education; Miss L. Dorothy Martin, Toronto, Executive Secretary, F.W.T.A.O.; Mr. K. H. D. Hall, Toronto, Superintendent of Public Schools, East York Board of Education; Miss Pearl Mowery, Port Arthur, member, Teachers' College Liaison Committee; and Miss Ruby C. Kinhead, Toronto, Principal, Plains Road Public School, East York.

All the panelists agreed on the importance of being fair to the children in order to win their respect, co-operation and affection. Calmness and patience are two other important attributes for teachers.

Mr. Hall suggested that it would be a good idea to report sometimes to parents what a child has done well, not just what he has done poorly. Teachers should proof-read their report cards, he said.

WILL GET CHOICE

Mr. Mustard pointed out that the time is coming when we can be more selective in choosing teachers. "School boards will demand continuing professional development throughout life as the supply of teachers increases."

Guest speaker after the conference dinner was Mrs. Pat Barber, Public Relations Counsellor, Tisdall, Clark and Lesly Ltd., Toronto.

Mrs. Barber's theme, "Improving Ourselves as Others See Us," stressed the importance of practising good public relations with everyone of the teachers' many "publics": pupils, parents, school boards, trustees, friends and everyone in the community with whom they come in contact.

She cautioned the students to "think before you speak. Your future profession is primarily one of communications, and unless your message is well thought out in advance, you will not achieve the response, or action you expect." She urged them to develop the seven basic skills used in communications — thinking, doing, observing, talking, listening, writing and reading.

The students, who are now provisional members of Federation, will become full fledged members when they start teaching next year. They were invited to become active in the many facets of Federation work, and not to be afraid to accept new responsibilities.

Mrs. Ruth Campbell, Ottawa, Provincial Convenors, Teachers' College Liaison Committee, was chairman for the conference.

SUES EXPRESS COMPANY

MEMPHIS, Tenn. AP) — A woman has filed a $150,000 suit against Railway Express Company Incorporated, claiming her son's electronic rocket launcher was damaged en route to a national science fair. Mrs. Claudia Porter said the damage prevented her son James, 20, from competing for scholarships at the 1960 fair in Indianapolis. She said James had put $10,000 worth of "material, time and talent" into the launcher.

District Student-Teachers Attend Meeting

Ten Seek Seven Aldermanic Seats

3-Way Battle For Mayoralty Is Confirmed

Only Three of Last Year's Council Running

A three-way fight for the mayoralty and an election for council was assured local electors last night as the time limit for qualification of nominations was ended last night at city hall.

Running for the mayoralty will be Mayor A. McLean Hall and ex-Alderman Arthur Keegan and ex-Alderman Benjamin Safe, with Mayor Hall seeking opposition at the polls for the first time in three years.

There will be ten aspirants for the seven seats open in council with the list including three of this year's council, two former aldermen seeking a return to the municipal wars, one candidate still seeking his first election to council and four new faces.

In addition to the election for mayor and council there will also be a contest in two city wards for public and separate school trustees.

TWO REFERENDUMS

Also this year the electors are asked to vote on the question of Sunday sports and Sunday movies.

Qualifying as candidates for the seven open seats on the 14-man council, in alphabetical order are: J. Ben Corke, Leslie H. Digby, Walter T. Elliott, Jack Ellis, Gerald B. Hyde, William Lowen, James Meens, Benjamin Safe, Stuart Robb and Harold Wilkinson.

FOR TRUSTEE

In Ward 6, William A. Ironside and Mrs. Hazel M. Pugh will fight for the seat open on the public school board, while Ward 5 will be a three-way fight in Ward 4 for the separate schools board. The candidates are Miss Isabel Huffman, Paul Kelly and Joseph Quinlan.

All other ward seats on both boards were filled by acclamation.

Also acclaimed as result of yesterday's nomination was John A. Weese, who was re-elected to the Hydro-Electric Public Utilities Commission without opposition.

The election date is December 4th.

APPROVES FOOD BANK

ROSSE (Reviers)—The United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization members here Thursday approved a project to establish a world food bank for needy nations. The plan now will go before the current UN General Assembly in New York.

Rumored U.S. Obtains Full Text Of Secret Common Market Speech

LNDON (CP)—Prime Minister Macmillan will be confronted with a series of probing questions in the House Tuesday on reports of a leak to the United States of a "secret" speech made in Paris to the six Common Market countries.

Tuesday, indications are the British leaders may use the Tuesday question period to make a major statement on Britain's wealth consultations during a series of negotiations to join the European Economic Community.

It became that the U.S. had obtained the text of Britain's Oct. 10 statement on foreign affairs Minister Donald Fleming had received Canada's attempt to get the full details of the mother country's opening position in the bargaining with her European neighbors.

Whitehall sources took great pains to point out that the Americans did not obtain the statement from British sources ahead off an anticipated parliamentary storm Tuesday.

To say that a member of the Labor opposition, today pro, to the video text to give a official recognition to the Paris German government" is the height of folly."

He urged recognition of East Germany and negotiations with them on the basis that the United Nations be put in control of Berlin and the autobahn corridor to it as a guarantee of Western access to the city.

Mr. Douglas, making an Ontario tour which ended Thursday night, was asked by a student whether he implied the Bomarc missile was an offensive — rather than a defensive — weapon, in outlining the NDP policy against nuclear weapons for Canada.

"As the moment, it's neither," he replied.

ARMY-BACKED CURFEW QUELLS VIOLENT RIOTS

Trujillo-Owned Properties Looted

SANTO DOMINGO — Tanks moved into the streets of this newly renamed Dominican Republic capital and jet planes flew overhead Thursday night to break up mobs looting Trujillo-owned properties.

President Joaquin Balaguer proclaimed a dusk-to-dawn curfew after the first violent rioting since assassination removed dictator Rafael L. Trujillo's iron control.

The troops cleared the streets of the looters and patrolled through the night amid fears of continuing new outbursts of vengeance against the Trujillos, all of whom have now fled the country.

The city — changed Thursday from Trujillo to its ancient name of Ciudad Trujillo by Congress—remained tense.

Residents crashed through out the night. But there were few persons on the streets and it appeared the bombs were cleared off by troops as a warning to looters.

MOBS STRIKE

Balaguer proclaimed the curfew after mobs Thursday night ranged through the streets to strike at anything that smacked of the Trujillos and their associates.

Reuters news agency said several persons were killed in the riots.

Tanks and Vampire jet planes were called out to put down the rioters. Looters removed all weapons and bullets from gun stores. The presidency blamed the violence on the communists.

The ransacking of properties owned by the Trujillos, who ran this Caribbean country as a private preserve for 31 years, came at the last members of the family fled into exile.

CROWD IS QUIET

Among the last to leave was the late dictator's 86-year - old mother, Doña Julia Molina Trujillo. A hostile crowd at the airport in Ciudad Trujillo jeered the aged woman as she was helped aboard a plane in a wheelchair for a flight to Miami.

President Balaguer made a radio speech Thursday night announcing plans for holding free elections in his government's efforts to reform the constitution.

Balaguer said the government's reform proposals, which include the creation of a vice-presidency, were being studied by the leaders of the opposition National Civic Union.

Dies in Hospital

TORONTO (CP) — Mrs. Barbara Acker, 32, of suburban North York, died in hospital Thursday night after the car in which she was riding collided with another at an intersection.

She was the 107th traffic fatality in Metropolitan Toronto this year, compared to 108 at the same time last year.

Find Kingston 'Pen' Guard Dying of 11 Knife Wounds In Washroom Early Today

KINGSTON (CP)—A Kingston penitentiary guard was locked to death early today in a washroom at the maximum security institution.

William Clement Wentworth, 45, who found as 2 a.m. by Paul Deschamps, a senior guard in charge of the prison at the time. Wentworth was bleeding from 11 wounds.

Warden David Mackean said Dr. William Brodeur, a police doctor, pronounced Wentworth dead half an hour after he was found.

Two bloodstained knives were found in a garbage pail in the 42-prisoner dormitory where the slaying occurred. Prison officials said the guard on the night shift had been attempting to defend himself.

All 42 prisoners have been locked in the washroom where Wentworth was found.

The guard was married, the father of two children, and had worked at the prison for nine years.

A three-pronged investigation —by prison officials, city police and the RCMP—is under way.

Officials of the 900-prisoner institution said the last time a guard was killed on duty was about 10 years ago.

Wentworth lives at nearby Cataraqui. He was last seen alive during a 12:30 a.m. check. He found dead at the cell he was made at 2 a.m., he was found near death.

Prison officials said the 40 men in the area were kept together because they were thought to be "compatible."

Wentworth was reported to have been prominent in Boy Scout and church work at Cataraqui United Church.

His funeral will be held from there at 2 p.m. Monday.

Commonwealth Will Not Get Lasting Trade Preferences

LONDON (CP) — The Commonwealth apparently can hold little hope for long - term guarantees of markets in wealthy Europe on preferential terms should Britain join the Common Market.

This view was being expressed here today as officials gathered in Brussels this week for the detailed hard bargaining on Britain's application to join the community formed by France, Germany, Italy and the Benelux countries.

In effect, the six country Community is confronting Britain with a choice between its economic ties with the Continent or the Commonwealth.

This tough line-up regarded as an opening play by some Commonwealth sources was generally delivered from a feeling among some Common Market countries that Britain should make concessions to the family of nations which spans the European Community's equilibrium.

There also is a feeling within the Community that if these concessions would constitute unjustifiable discrimination against other third parties such as the United States, Japan and Latin American countries.

Instead of long-term guarantees, responsible sources in the Community will stress its belief in liberal trading policies generally and other temporary measures.

Douglas Says Canada Stand On Berlin Height of Folly

TORONTO (CP) — T. C. Douglas, NDP leader, said Thursday the Canadian government's position on Berlin is the height of folly.

He said Prime Minister Diefenbaker outlined the government's position as this: "An attack on Berlin is an attack on Canada."

Since when?" asked Mr. Douglas in an address to about 300 University of Toronto students. Canada hadn't been consulted about the division of Germany by the great powers. Canada had no responsibility in Berlin.

To say that Canada would go to war because the United States decided to give a official recognition to the East German government" is the height of folly."

He urged recognition of East Germany and negotiations with them on the basis that the United Nations be put in control of Berlin and the autobahn corridor to it as a guarantee of Western access to the city.

Mr. Douglas, meeting an Ontario tour which ended Thursday night, was asked by a student whether he implied the Bomarc missile was an offensive — rather than a defensive — weapon, in outlining the NDP policy against nuclear weapons for Canada.

"As the moment, it's neither," he replied.

SHIFT WORKERS' MEETING ENDS IN DISORDER

Gillis Leaves With Supporters

SUDBURY (CP) — Donald Gillis, president of Local 598, International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Canada), cancelled membership meeting planned for Thursday night after a shift workers' meeting ended in disorder.

The meeting had been intended to give the members a report on negotiations with International Nickel Company of Canada Ltd. and a report by Local 598's 17,000 members are employed.

After reporting, amid interruptions, that negotiations had reached a deadlock, Gillis then adjourned the meeting and left the union hall with 350 supporters.

Several hundred supporters of the latest in a long line of splits which has been at odds with Mr. Gillis since he resigned the local's presidency, remained in the hall to adopt a resolution backing the policies of Mr. Gillis and the local executive.

The resolution accused Mr. Gillis of working in the interests of the United Steelworkers of America (CLC), which is attempting to organize the independent union as loco bargaining agent.

BLAMES COLLABORATION

The motion blamed collaboration between the local 598 executive and the steel union for loco's refusal to bargain with the union prevent to date.

In a written statement Mr. Gillis said he quit the Ontario Labor Relations Board to conduct a campaign for a local certification following the USW's application to the board. He said the USW's refusal to bargain with Mine-Mill Local 802 of the CLC-sponsored Rockwood General Workers Union.

Mr. Steward said he was the result of an Oct. 24 pre-bearing vote released at an Ontario Labor Relations Board hearing in Toronto Thursday.

Mr. Gillis had 1,250 members in Sudbury area grocery and department stores, dairies and bakeries. Mr. Gillis said Mr. Brough said the CLC hopes to win certification rights for the more members of the local by the year's end.

Gambling Highlights

TORONTO (CP) — Highlights of the special report on gambling in Canada presented to the provincial legislature Thursday by Attorney-General Kelso Roberts:

Off-track outlets for parimutuel betting on horse races in Ontario should be established, but under government control, the money wagered on and off the track to form a common pool.

A government commission should be established to which all gambling taxes would be deducted from the pari-mutuel pools by the operators. Racing associations would receive parimutuel betting on race cards and a share not to exceed per cent of the pool.

Bell Telephone Company should have authority to suspend service to subscribers suspected of using their services for illegal gambling.

Legislation should allow attachment of a device to suspect telephone lines to record numbers dialed, thus helping anti-gambling police.

Heavier sentences should be imposed on persons convicted of illegal gambling.

A permanent national commission should be established to investigate and report on gambling prepared for the Ontario government's recommended legal betting off the race tracks as well as other reforms of gambling laws.

It also favors tough measures to curb illegal gambling, including withdrawal of telephone service from known bookmakers.

The report, prepared by Professor Desmond Morton of Osgoode Hall Law School and economic statistician Rolf Eng Larsen, made 34 findings.

It contains a warning that illegal gambling poses a "real and potentially dangerous" to Canadian society.

"The committee is satisfied that there is a grave danger if the present illegal gambling operation is permitted to continue that either domestic or foreign criminal elements will prosper to such an extent as to undermine the very nature of our society," the report said.

ASKS SET UP BOARD

Off - track betting outlets should be established under government control and a provincial control board should be set up, on the lines of the present Liquor Control Board of Ontario, the commission says.

The report was tabled in the legislature Thursday by Attorney-General Kelso Roberts, who ordered it kept July. He said government ample opportunity to debate the 111-page document.

Author of the report also was sent to Federal Justice Minister Davis Fulton. After the committee was appointed, we notified there would be an extensive review with and with authorities in the not-too-distant future," Mr. Roberts said.

"We're not trying to force their hand on this," he added in reference to the federal government. "I'm sure they're aware of the problems as we are."

OPPOSITION CRITICAL

Liberal Opposition Leader John Wintermeyer said the report "demonstrates the tie-in between New York and Ontario" in organized crime. He asked Mr. Roberts to tell the house if insurance what he thought of the report and its recommendations.

Mr. Roberts said he would ask Security Leader, said the odds on the report were to "pull the rug out from under the attorney-general in everything he has said in the past year."

The report, he said, "demolishes the attorney-general's contention that there is no organized crime in Ontario."

Premier Robarts Makes Promises To Members

TORONTO (CP) — Premier Roberts promised today to look into the workings of legislative standing committees with a view to improving their effectiveness.

His assurances arose out of a prolonged debate in the first working period of the new, enlarged legislature, as opposition leaders and members demanded that committee functions — particularly that of the public accounts committee — be carefully examined.

The legislature decided to approve a select committee to name the members of the various committees after Mr. Robarts' assurances that they would be given an opportunity to discuss the work of committees generally.

The debate also prompted the one who has benefited from this practice in the past, to continue to set a 1 p.m. target for adjournment on Fridays. He suggested that after Mr. Speaker's 11:30 p.m. would begin at 10:30 a.m. on Wednesdays.

Report Favors Tough Measures To Curb Crime

Present Gambling Laws Hard to Enforce

TORONTO (CP)—A report on gambling prepared for the Ontario government recommends legal betting off the race tracks as well as other reforms of gambling laws.

It also favors tough measures to curb illegal gambling, including withdrawal of telephone service from known bookmakers.

The report, prepared by Professor Desmond Morton of Osgoode Hall Law School and economic statistician Rolf Eng Larsen, made 34 findings.

It contains a warning that illegal gambling poses a "real and potentially dangerous" to Canadian society.

"The committee is satisfied that there is a grave danger if the present illegal gambling operation is permitted to continue that either domestic or foreign criminal elements will prosper to such an extent as to undermine the very nature of our society," the report said.

Service Areas Along '401' Said Coming

TORONTO (CP) — Highways Minister Goodfellow announced Thursday that the government is planning to establish vehicle service areas "at six or seven strategic points" on Highway 401 between London and Maryvale.

He told the legislature construction will proceed as soon as negotiations with private facilities provided in the meantime.

The lack of such service areas was prompted frequent criticism from motorists stranded on the long stretches of Highway 401 between Belleville or other facilities.

Liberal M. Singer (Lawrence) whether the service facilities will be run by the government or by private operators. Mr. Goodfellow said the question is under consideration.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: Low pressure that caused considerable precipitation over all the forecast regions Friday and Friday night is moving steadily eastward into Quebec. A little cooler air has spread over Ontario and skies are mainly cloudy over the forecast regions. Gradual clearing is expected by tonight over southern and central regions but mainly cloudy skies with a few snowflurries are forecast for Toronto Ontario for today and Saturday.

CBC to Carry Big Four Final Only in West

TORONTO (CP) — CTV, the private television network, will carry Saturday's Eastern Football Conference final playoff game over its stations in Toronto, Ottawa and Montreal.

The CBC announced Thursday it will carry the game live in western Canada following an agreement between itself and CTV, which initiated the negotiations.

Kickoff time is 2 p.m. EST. Argonauts carry an 8-point lead into Saturday's game. They won the first game of the two-game, total-point series 26-9 in Toronto last Sunday. The winner of this series meets Winnipeg Blue Bombers in Toronto Dec. 2 for the Grey Cup.

Stalin Is Still Considered Hero By Chinese Reds

PEKING (Reuters)—Chinese Communist party officials and intellectuals — despite the de-Stalinization campaign elsewhere—have been instructed to study the words of Stalin and post his picture prominently in local meeting halls, reliable sources said here today.

Peking shops have brought out big portraits of the late Soviet leader and are displaying them alongside those of Marx, Lenin and Chinese party leader Mao Tse-tung, Red Flag, state Lieu Shao-chi and other Chinese leaders.

Since the Stalin image was smeashed at the recent Communist party congress in Moscow his body has been removed from the mausoleum where it lay in state with that of Lenin, the "hero city" of Stalingrad has been renamed Volgograd and other towns in Russia and East Germany bearing his name have also been renamed.

Chinese officials were the only guests at a reception given here Thursday night by Albanian Ambassador Reise Malile to mark the anniversary of the establishment of relations between the two countries.

Diplomats of other Communist countries were not invited following a policy started earlier this month when the Chinese invited only Albanians to attend celebrations of the founding of the Albanian Communist party.

Y's Men's Club Visits Cobourg On Anniversary

The Belleville Y's Men's Club were guests of the Cobourg club Thursday evening in Cobourg. Also present were the members of the Oshawa club. This was Cobourg's anniversary after being chartered seven years ago by the Belleville club. Chairman Paul Allen of Cobourg welcomed the Y's Men from the combined club joined in an eyeopening birthday greeting for the club.

The guest of the evening was Y's Man G. W. McKenzie, vice-president of Eastern America from Acton, Ont., introduced by Belleville Y's Men Hugh Watson. He spoke of the dynamic force of the Y.M.C.A. and its contribution to the community and the world. He was thanked by Hawley Hoselton.

Y's Man Bernard Munden of Oshawa was sergeant-at-arms for the evening. Many of the Belleville and Cobourg Y's Men recognized the work of Hawley, treasurer, and Ontario Region, and John Matheson, secretary, the spirit of which was displayed in the Oshawa members.

Members were reminded of Y-Me-Ca Month, January 7 to 27th and the Y's Men's Banquet, Junction, Monday, December 11th.

Library Auditorium to Be Used for Candidates' Night

Aspirants for municipal office in Monday's December 4th election will be speaking separately to an unseen audience at the pre-election candidate's meeting in the auditorium of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce.

The election meeting is scheduled for Thursday evening, Nov. 30th, at the Corby Public Library auditorium with seating capacity about 85 persons.

But Chamber of Commerce officials feel the Corby auditorium will have sufficient capacity to handle the crowd expected to turn up to hear the candidates. In recent years only a small crowd has been in attendance at election meetings held at the Belleville Collegiate auditorium.

Next Thursday night's proceedings will be broadcast live and the unseen radio audience is expected to be vastly greater than the number which turns up in person.

WILL HAVE SPEAKERS

At the meeting mayoralty candidates will be given five minutes to state their case, and while the mayor will be given another three minutes for rebuttal.

Aldermanic candidates will be given three minutes each.

If time permits the chamber of Commerce also hopes to allow speakers to put forward a case on the Sunday movies and Sunday sports questions, which will then go before the electorate.

The speakers to appear on the program have still to be lined up.

Nurses Hold Annual Stardust Ball

Club Commodore was the setting for the Nurses annual "Stardust Ball" held last Friday. The theme for the decorations was "Welcome Home" by gaily colored lanterns and bright vivid flowers set the scene for a wonderful evening of dancing. Spot dance prizes were donated by local merchants.

During intermission, those present were fortunate to enjoy a buffet lunch which was followed after the dance. Miss Mrs. I. McGee, Mrs. D. Hoey and Miss D. Plumpton of the Belleville Hospital School of Nursing, Mrs. D. Taylor made the arrangements for the door prize, a wool blanket which was won by Mr. Bob Wilson.

One main the annual dance proved to be a great success due to the efforts of the dance chairman, Miss M. Potter and members of the dance committee. The members of the Alumnae would like to thank all those who attended thus making the "Stardust Ball" a success.

Macaulay Says Higher Rates Will Not Result

TORONTO (CP)—Energy Resources Minister Macaulay yesterday denied Thursday that higher rates will result from the proposed consolidation of northern and southern hydro-electric power systems in Ontario.

"It has been said that this (consolidation) will involve you summers in higher rates," Mr. Macaulay said. "This is not so."

He made the statement in moving first reading of a private bill which would effect the financial consolidation of Hydro systems in southern, northwestern and northeastern Ontario.

When asked by Ross Whicher (L, Port Arthur) why the rates weren't taken previously, Mr. Macaulay replied that it "never needed to be done until now."

The majority of benefits from the consolidation would come from future hydro-electric development, such as a 1,300,000-horsepower project being built on the Abitagami River and Lakes Sherman and Frederick, and new power plans now being constructed.

CNR Pensioners Hold Enjoyable Get-Together

Those grizzled but young-at-heart veterans of the smoke-belching "Iron Horses" got together Wednesday night for a heart-warming reminiscence session they enjoy so much.

The Belleville division of the Canadian National Railways Pensioners Association hosted some 45 "brothers" from Toronto, Stratford Hamilton, Oshawa and Cobourg during the social members were also in attendance at Club Casara on Wednesday.

They enjoyed a delicious luncheon repast served by the ladies of the CNRA auxiliary, and heard an interesting and entertaining address by Mr. Jack Mennear, manager of CNR passenger traffic sales here.

Brief addresses were given by R. C. Johnson, D.C. Edward, Eld Murray Martin of Hamilton, and Archie Grant and Stewart Williams of Toronto.

Through the courtesy of Carlings Breweries, enjoyable films on muskie and trout fishing in Northern Ontario and caribou in native habitats were shown by the company representative Mr. Johnson, D.C. Edward.

In the business session, the popular Joe Hunter was re-elected president of the Belleville branch. Also re-elected were Secretary J. O'Connor; treasurer, A. E. Berry, and vice-president Newton Thompson.

Refreshments of coffee and cake were served by the CNRA ladies at four o'clock.

Fox Killed Had Rabies Says Report

Earlier suspicions that the fox which bowled over attacked two dogs at Point Anne had rabies has been confirmed by a report from the Health of Animals branch in Toronto which showed the animal definitely had the disease. The report was received by Point Anne Police Constable J. L. Logue.

One of the dogs attacked was killed by the fox, while the second dog attacked, owned by Hedi Beauregard, Point Anne, will be destroyed. Mr. Beauregard said he did not want to take any chances.

IN MEMORIAM

INGRAM. — In loving memory of our dear mother who passed away three years ago, November 24th, 1958.

We lost a brother with a heart of gold,
Who was more to us than words can unfold;
We have lost, but God has gained,
One of the best brothers the world ever knew.
Always loved and remembered by his family.

McGUIRE. — In loving memory of Sam McGuire who passed away one year ago, November 24th, 1960.

Tonight I wander as daylight fades,
To the land of long ago;
And memory points old scenes,
In the gold of the twilight glow.
We seem to see in the soft dim light,
A face we loved the best;
We hear a step when the daylight is dead,
And all is hushed and at rest.
—His wife Carrie, son Harry and grandchildren.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Industrials wavered and speculatives advanced hesitantly during heavy morning trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange today.

Utilities spearheaded the industrial decline with most other groups mixed. Widespread fractional losses were predominant and industrial volume in general was moderate.

Refining did backed the falling trend with small gains.

Speculative action featured a new high of 11¼ to Lake Dufault, ahead ¾ with volume of 20,872 shares. Black Bay Uranium, Canadian Dyno and Willsey-Coghlan all gained as much as four cents in heavy trade.

On index, industrials fell .75 to 603.44 and golds .32 to 89.02. Base metals rose .34 to 209.89, western oils .50 to 111.16, their highest point since Jan. 1958, and the 11 a.m. volume was 1,686,000 shares compared with 1,100,000 the same time Thursday.

The senior base metals list was ahead with International Nickel and Noranda both up ⅛.

Gold trade was light.

Western oil trade was steady. Industrials drooped and speculatives were mixed during heavy trading Thursday.

The industrial decline, said by some analysts to be a continuation of profit - taking by short - term investors and tax-loss selling, was the result of drops among steels, foods, utilities and papers, with wide-spread fractional falls predominant.

Speculative action cooled somewhat. Lake Dufault gained ⅛ to 10 ⅛ in moderate trading.

A 94 gain was posted by Crown Trust to 61, while new highs were reached by Consumers Gas(old) A, up 82, and Bathurst B, up ¼.

On index, industrials fell .13 to 604.19 and golds rose .34 to 89.34, base metals .09 to 210.24 and western oils .26 to 110.66. Volume was 3,640,000 shares, compared with 5,573,000 yesterday.

Senior base metals were strong with Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting up ¾ and Noranda at a new high of 54⅞, ahead ⅛. Geco, Gunnar, International Nickel and Falconbridge all dropped to ⅛.

Most of the members of the panel were Monsignor J. P. Sullivan, Archdiocese of B. Creegan, Rabbi M. Deutsch and Mr. L. A. Kelly.

Mrs. J. Haig introduced the speakers and succeeded in presenting some interesting facts on each of the panel members.

Monsignor Sullivan presented the Roman Catholic view. He began by tracing the history of Canadian education from the early days when the school was the concomitant for religious philosophy. In modern terms, the public school has become non-denominational, and Christianity is slipping to the realms of the unknown. Neither the home, school or church can do a good job in teaching religion. "We need all three," said Monsignor. The public schools should supply time for the clergy to teach but I do not hope that our way of life will prevail."

Rabbi Deutsch agreed with Monsignor Sullivan that there is no "denominational" religion. To elucidate his arguments the Rabbi quoted from a newspaper article that in most Ontario community exemptions from religious instruction of 5% are seen from 81 to 437. (In our schools a parent has the right to withdraw his child from any religious classes to which he objects.) Rabbi Deutsch claimed that these children are stigmatized as dissenters and are castigated by their ungodly. "We are thus planting the seeds of dissension," said the Rabbi.

BILL OF RIGHTS

Another view was advanced by Archdeacon Appleton. He claimed that we all want our children to be acquainted with the Scriptures in order to have a society of God-fearing people. "The new Bill of Rights acknowledges the moral and spiritual foundation of our nation and that our children must know the source from which the rights think that revived. It is not wise to neglect religion on the school curriculum and many people think that religion and education are divorced," said Reverend-Archdeacon Appleton. He himself stated that education must be a complement, not a competitor, to that in the home and the church."

Belleville Public School Inspector L. A. Kells added to the discussion by explaining the regulations of the Department of Education. These regulations state that each school day must begin with a religious exercise although a student may withdraw from ceremonies objected to by the parent. Every teacher has a handbook for religious instruction and it is his duty to inculcate a sense for religion. The school is to prepare children for a democratic society based on Christian ideals, and thus it must attempt to bring home the fundamental principles of Christian thought.

OPEN DISCUSSION

Many attitudes and arguments were brought forward in the open discussion which followed. The following are extreme tops to 36; good 29-31; medium 24-27; common 20-23; and cull 14-17.

Hogs: Grade A 21.10-28.75; heavy sows 18.85-19.15; light sows 19.25-20.25; grade A 22 premium; stags 17.50 on a dressed weight basis.

Sheep and lambs: Good handyweight 20 per hundredweight. Heavy and medium 17-18 with common down to 14; good light sheep 8-10; common and fat sheep 3-7; feeder lambs 14-16 per hundredweight.

PRODUCE MARKET

The egg market was about steady on large and weak on medium grades. Offerings were adequate for a fair demand for large and poor for medium and small.

Religious Education Discussed At Women's University Club

The Nurses Education Hall was the place for the November meeting of the University Women's Club. A good crowd took a lively part in the program.

In the business meeting, a report was presented on the results of a questionnaire distributed last spring to all parents of public school children on the subject of introducing oral French into the public school level. A gratifying number of questionnaires was returned and of these, 83 per cent were in favor of the idea. Only 30 per cent of the parents were against the investment of a portion of their tax dollar for the purpose.

PANEL DISCUSSION

The form of the program was a panel discussion on the topic, "Religious Education in the Schools." The members of the panel were Monsignor J. P. Sullivan, Archdeacon of B. Creegan, Rabbi M. Deutsch and Mr. L. A. Kelly.

Mrs. J. Haig introduced the speakers and succeeded in presenting some interesting facts on each of the panel members.

Monsignor Sullivan presented the Roman Catholic view. He began by tracing the history of Canadian education from the early days when the school was the concomitant for religious philosophy. In modern terms, the public school has become non-denominational, and Christianity is slipping to the realms of the unknown. Neither the home, school or church can do a good job in teaching religion. "We need all three," said Monsignor. The public schools should supply time for the clergy to teach but I do not hope that our way of life will prevail."

Rabbi Deutsch agreed with Monsignor Sullivan that there is no "denominational" religion. To elucidate his arguments the Rabbi quoted from a newspaper article that in most Ontario community exemptions from religious classes of 5% are seen from 81 to 437. (In our schools a parent has the right to withdraw his child from any religious classes to which he objects.) Rabbi Deutsch claimed that these children are stigmatized as dissenters and are castigated by their ungodly. "We are thus planting the seeds of dissension," said the Rabbi.

BILL OF RIGHTS

Another view was advanced by Archdeacon Appleton. He claimed that we all want our children to be acquainted with the Scriptures in order to have a society of God-fearing people. "The new Bill of Rights acknowledges the moral and spiritual foundation of our nation and that our children must know the source from which the rights think that revived. It is not wise to neglect religion on the school curriculum and many people think that religion and education are divorced," said Reverend-Archdeacon Appleton. He himself stated that education must be a complement, not a competitor, to that in the home and the church."

Fine Report Given Meeting Of Navy League

The Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Corps "Prince" has undergone a number of modifications to improve the shipboard routine of the Corps, to create a more seamanlike atmosphere and to maintain a high attendance record and level of morale, members of the local branch of the Navy League of Canada were told at their monthly meeting yesterday, evening aboard the Corps' "ship" by the commanding officer, Lt. J. D. Phippen, RCSC.

The officer strength is now up to complement pending the approval of the Area Office and the Commanding Officer Naval Divisions of the most recent applications, he reported.

With regular attendance by the Sea Cadets to all parades the provision of imaginative and sound training by the officers, with the co-operation and support of a Parents' Auxiliary, the local Corps should become the best in Ontario by the end of either the current training year or the next, it was suggested.

Lt. Phippen reported that a number of pieces of very valuable training equipment had been received by the Corps thanks to the generosity of Mr. Sid Spiegel of Cravens Ltd., and from the lake boats which his firm was scrapping. Two pieces of equipment have already been installed and a number of other pieces have yet to be picked up.

He was unanimously approved that Mr. Spiegel be given an honorary member of the Navy League as an expression of thanks for his interest in the Sea Cadets.

A committee was appointed to act on the provision of a shuffle board for the ship's mast, which is expected to arrive next week, so that it can be installed promptly after position Lloyd, William Judge and Mrs. Hall comprising effect are to act on this matter.

The committee completing the branch president, Mr. Fyfe; the treasurer, Ross Silver, and the Cadet Corps officer chairman, J. G. Donovan, was appointed to draw up a budget for next year's operation of the branch.

Lt. Phippen, the Cadet officer in charge of the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club's Junior Sailing Program for 1962, proposed that the club's fleet of Flying Fifteens be made available for the training of Sea Cadets as well as the Junior Sailors since the two could not sail at different times of the day. He suggested that the Cadet officer might be able to handle the Flying Fifteen or the Junior Sailors for the coming year.

The possibility of the local Sea Cadets competing for the pair of the boats as a winter project was suggested by the commanding officers. The possibility of obtaining the services of the Navy Reserve (Navy) officer to coach the Junior Sailing is to be investigated.

The president, Mr. Wils, stated that the executive had requested that he be reelected of the Junior Navy League Cadet committee chairman due to the pressure of his business and professional duties a new committee chairman is expected to be appointed in the new future.

By EULA BONTER—Phone 3-3928

TRENTON — In spite of the teeming rain, a capacity crowd of public-spirited citizens covered in the town hall at Trenton last night to take part in the annual nomination night activity.

Three names were proposed for the mayoralty, D. James MacDonald, Vagn Lange and Gerald A. Ferris.

Fourteen names were proposed for the four seats on the Board of Education: Mrs. Gabrielle Griffiths, Delbert Topping, Donald J. Sutherland, Paul Tripp, George S. Greer, Louis Knack and Stanley Ketcheson.

GIVEN ACCLAMATION

Clifford A. Baker was elected by acclamation as commissioner for the Trenton Public Utilities Commission.

Nominees have until 9 p.m. tonight to qualify.

Vagn Lange, nominated as councillor announced recently that he would seek no public office this year and Paul Tripp, nominated as school trustee, generally supports the present board of education early this year.

James Day, Douglas Whitley and Mr. Lange were the only three councillors who have indicated previously that they would allow their names to stand for nomination.

Councillor Bond was the first person nominated to qualify this morning, and by 11.30 a.m. Duncan J. McDonald, Dan Senik, James Duncan, Ronald Birkett and James Brown had qualified for councillors.

James Duncan Again President Of Cancer Group

Elected to office for the 1961-62 term were: James J. Duncan, president; Mrs. George Green, vice-president; Mrs. Margaret Barry, secretary; Mrs. W. A. L. McDonald, women's services chairman; Mrs. Win Platt, education and publicity chairman; Dr. W. A. L. McDonald, medical adviser; Harry Foster, treasurer, and Elmer Bonter, campaign manager.

Councillor Worrall said that the town had a great regard for the work undertaken and the achievements of the local unit.

Mr. Duncan, who served as 1960-61 president, thanked the executive and the members for their co-operation during the past year.

Mr. Duncan introduced Elmer Bonter, who will organize the unit's annual appeal in the drive for funds. Goal for the 1962 campaign is $6,000.

FILMS SHOWN

Mrs. Platt reported that films dealing with cancer, had been shown to several local organizations during the year, and also in Brighton and Frankford. Mrs. Platt said that the members of women's cancer units in the area had sponsored a booth at the International Plowing Match and that more than 600 person had visited the booth and picked up literature dealing with cancer topics. Cancer literature is also supplied in the Trenton hospital waiting room and in the Trenton corner room on Dundas St. West (over Tuffins).

The women's services and transportation report for last year was read by Mrs. Craddock and pads were supplied to 15 patients in the area. Unit members had arranged for the transportation of four patients to clinics in Kingston and Toronto. Members of the unit and ladies' aids were also willing to offer their services to the electors would please stand. Two Sides to This

The annual conference of the Canadian Tax Foundation, at Montreal, heard criticisms of our income tax system.

Dr. A. K. Eaton, former assistant deputy minister of finance, spoke out against the graduated system of income tax, under which the rate of tax rises with increases in the amount of taxable income.

"Why can't a person deduct his municipal taxes and the interest on his mortgage from his taxable income?", he asked.

He is not the first to make this suggestion But before anybody starts assembling all the reasons why these exemptions should be permitted, it would be wise if we first recognized an "exemption" which the homer enjoys. Say, for the sake of argument, that he has an $8,000 equity in his home. This investment is certainly bringing him something of value, in the form of living accommodation. If he had the $8,000 invested at 5 per cent, he would get $400 annually and would pay income tax on this amount. But he pays no income tax because he receives no monetary income. If, in addition to this "exemption" he was permitted to claim exemption for real estate taxes and mortgage interest, would he not be receiving privileged treatment compared with the man who rents a home, pays his share of property tax through his rent, yet receives no exemption for this, receives no exemption for mortgage payments and on top of this pays taxes on the interest he receives from money which would otherwise be his equity in a home?

Those Quebec Sirens

In two Quebec towns, Joliet and Sorel, the first snowfall of the season automatically set off the air raid warning sirens.

We don't know how many Sorel and Joliet residents fled to their fallout shelters, but those that did at least put them to a good purpose.

We have an unpleasant conviction that this unscheduled test of the efficiency of the sirens and air raid shelters may have been much more realistic than the recent Tocsin B exercise, that sirens and shelters were put to their best possible purpose.

For one thing, we all know the snowy fallout will continue for some time. Perhaps a nuclear war would not last through an entire winter, but the period of fallout in such an event would be more likely to be as long as winter than as short as the Tocsin B exercise.

Secondly, if people stay in their fallout shelters long enough, the snowy fallout may reach them anyway, in the shape of water seeping through the shelter walls. Similarly we have yet to read any realistic explanation of how contaminated dust is to be kept out of home-made shelters over the long periods of time during which they would have to be occupied.

In olden days, when people were superstitious, the behavior of the air raid sirens at Joliet and Sorel would have been sufficient to kill the whole idea of the home-made fallout shelter.

This might result in reducing the amount of winter work, but there is no proof that it would in any other way be a deplorable development.

Silly Season

There is only one sensible thing to do about temptation—yield to it. We, therefore, arise to remark that the Ontario Whole Milk Producers League, which should be attending to its cows, has itself yielded to the temptation provided by the hunting season and is busily shooting the bull.

The League is indignant over the action of powdered milk producers who are packaging their product in cans and offering it to the public as "fallout packs" to be stored in shelters against a possible nuclear war.

E. C. Rouse, secretary-manager of the Ontario Whole Milk Producers League, grasping the bull firmly by the tail, swings out with the statement that it is silly for people to think that the milk is contaminated by radioactivity resulting from nuclear tests they would escape Harm by drinking the powdered product. "After all," he says, "the poor cow gets the first bump."

It seems even sillier, to us, to suggest that there is no difference between powdered milk from a cow before a nuclear attack and whole milk from a cow after a nuclear attack.

What Count In U.S. Eyes

St. Louis Post-Dispatch

In the last few years Canadian relations with the United States have been a bit touchy. Prime Minister Diefenbaker even went to Washington recently to express his concern about the extent to which his country's economy was dominated by influences originating south of "the world's unfortified border."

Now, however, Canadian displeasure is being expressed toward London rather than Washington. That is because Canada, as the leading member of the Commonwealth, is deeply disturbed by Britain's application for membership in the European Common Market, a move which may have a disastrous economic setback for Canada.

Relatively, the Canadians are the world's leaders in foreign trade. Their most important business is with the United States and Britain. They buy much more from us than they sell, and they sell much more to the British than they buy. Since the Canadians regard Britain's entry into the Common Market as a repudiation of Commonwealth preference—at least in its present form—they dread a serious economic dislocation. Already some of them are advocating economic integration with the United States, a North American Common Market.

That is a considerable change from the cry for more economic independence. But it is an old story. When Britain abolished the Corn Laws (a form of preference) and turned to free trade in the 1840's, many Canadian businessmen urged annexation to the United States. When we abandoned reciprocity after the Civil War, Canada became more British than the British. When we adopted the Smoot-Hawley tariff, the Ottawa Conference produced Commonwealth preference. Adult patients will avoid another such extreme swing.

There is hope that the British-European negotiations will soften the blow which the Canadians dread. The United States also can ease the transition. We can, for example, lift the tariff on Canadian oil. Our prime purpose is the strengthening of the West. So we support the Common Market. And so we should be willing to cushion the effect on Canada now that Britain is joining up.

Try to Lure Negro Money

St. Thomas Times-Journal

There has been a faster growth of the colored population in the United States than the whites during the last decade. The Negro rate of increase being 25 per cent, compared with the whites' 18 per cent. The Negro population is now close to 20,000,000. Since the beginning of the World War there has been a flow of colored people from the South, where they were not welcome, to the North where a vast demand for labor existed, both in factories and in many cases at equal pay. The result is that the states are trying to lure the Negro spenders.

He has proved himself in their pockets, the colorods are out to buy what the white has and the white wonan buy. It is estimated that last year's spending by Negroes amounted to $19,000,0000,000. A few years ago this amount was only three radio stations that catered to the colored people; now the number is in the scores.

Stores used to make separate appeals to Negroes in their advertising. Now the advertising is integrated. There are colored girls as direct models. The Negro dollar and the white dollar have racial equality.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

TATTOO MARKS

How often criminals have been apprehended because in a moment of thoughtless — probably an intoxicated moment — they allowed a tattoo mark to be made on body or limb. Then when the police call went out for their arrest, the tattoo mark was memorized and described. There was no getting away from it. The pierced heart, the figure of a voluptuous woman, the initials were there to identify and bring them into the hands of the law.

We all have marks on us — not put on with a needle but indelibly stamped on mind, memory, or soul by something we have said, thought, or done. The world knows nothing — at least very little — about these marks. But we know they are there. We look at them and avert our faces. But that does no good. They are there, and they are there to stay.

This has a good side and a bad. We have good memories also, the knowledge of worthy accomplishments, the marks which years of some faithful friendship has put upon us and our nature. Nothing can make any difference with these remembrances we live in a universe where nothing ever happens just to disappear again and have no effect on us and the world. Everything matters in God's world. We and God can make it happen to the good. We and Satan can make it happen to misery and disaster — especially our own.

Pay Cheque Delayed Day

Christian Science Monitor

One fair-sized company, evidently minded to take drastic steps to broaden the base and better, recently decided to drive home a lesson for its supervisory personnel. The firm held the men a day late, enclosing a little note in their pay cheque to late because I forgot".

The idea was to dramatize how an oversight, however small to the forgetter may loom much larger to the person forgotten. In the business world, as in the social, the cost of forgetting to remember and others is hard to reckon. But once in a while being on the receiving end helps to appreciate the "minor" slips.

Such shock treatment could backfire, of course. It is one thing to forget. It is quite another to plan a deliberate forgetfulness. That it will cause widespread and perhaps serious misunderstanding. A company has to be as wise as a serpent and as gentle as a dove, place and method of teaching a corrective lesson. Not all of the employees may appreciate praise in this particular pay cheque gambit.

At the core of the matter is a question of degree. A husband is not likely to forget a birthday but not an anniversary. But he does often forget to darn a garment put not to prepare a meal. A fellow may forget to praise a child's good deed but not to keep a solemn promise.

Perhaps neglecting to put ice in the water cooler would have served better than delaying a payday for hundreds of workers, many of whom had no choice but to inconvenience other creditors. Undoubtedly the stunt has taught many more lessons than the originator contemplated.

Eloquent Silence

Ottawa Journal

Bertrand Russell, after a talk with the Soviet Charge d'Affaires in London, reported:

"He said it was a wonderful month, very clear and cold. Then he said they had been forced into the tests by the aggressiveness of the western powers."

"The Russians were so innocent. Never had there been such innocence in the history of mankind.

Sometimes silence is more eloquent than words.

American Men Off Track Women-Wise

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

"American men are very nice," said the ambassador's wife. "In some ways nicer than European men. They are easier to make me feel like a woman."

She was expressing what I have heard many times before from foreign women, but I wanted to draw out the point, so I asked innocently, "What do you mean?"

"Well," she explained, "I have met only two kinds of men here — those who regard me as an utterly ageless way, and those who regard me only in a sexual way. They are either brothers or wolves — and both attitudes are obnoxious to a woman."

"Does this differ much from the European attitude?" I inquired.

"Does it not!" she sighed. "In Europe, at least, the men are aware that women are very different from them—that we need to be treated in attentions, certain flattery, even a certain amount of deference. But here we build up our egos and feel our best."

"You don't get that here?" I provided.

"Not at all," she shrugged. "As I say, the men are either totally unconscious of me as a woman and want to talk business or politics or else they look upon me as a sister, which is nothing else."

And she said always thought that European men treated their women with much less consideration. "I don't mean that they don't write 'still' dissolve enough time to make you people feel ill. Generally, this is not a dangerous form of poisoning, but if it is sufficient to make many people feel ill, it's serious enough to avoid.

Lemons, oranges and other fruits are acid, in varying degree. The acid eats into the metal, whereas plain water doesn't.

One of my advisers came up with this example from a book by Dr. William D. McNally: "The cooking of food in galvanized tins may react causes illness of 200 people a few minutes after eating poison. The chief symptoms were dizziness, sickness, colic, tightness of the throat, and diarrhoea at once.

So, don't use galvanized kettles for food. But also don't worry about tin cans. The isn't true. It is used to coat the iron of tin cans, because it doesn't react with foodstuffs.

"Fellowship Member" wins the discussion. He's right. But there's nothing to get panicky about. Stay away from galvanized tubs or kettles for cooking or food drinks.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Would you think it wise for a person with a faulty liver to drink one cup of coffee a day? Or would that cause such swearing?

"And do you think this same cocoa could cause the loss of the fingers to swell? — Mrs. Reader."

No to both questions.

Note to Mrs. E.H.T.: Your letter is reminiscent of others that I have received. There are many, many skin disorders, and I can't decide on any one special way of abusing one's nerves than to insist blindly that some particular food is responsible for the coloring of the skin "must be given up." After all, skin colors can be treated so successfully that there isn't the faintest reason for being fear about saying that it's cancer. Forget it, for that's what the dermatologist says.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

RAINY DAYS

Sometimes trouble comes so fast and in such liberal doses that it compels us to reorganize our entire mental machinery. And sometimes our entire life

Like when nations fall, and stockpile, nuclear war weapons and when the heads of governments are often called upon to face a regular battalion of emergencies. But it's a comfort on rainy day, but strings of rainy days.

But we have all noticed that even after the continuous rainy days there is usually a more pronounced freshness than ever when the clouds roll away and the sun again appears. Beauty and joy have been born anew.

I remember one particular summer that was unprecedentedly hot and dry. People prayed for rain. The flower gardens were pale and sad. The grass was a parched brown. The ground is hard and baked. But the following summer my garden was in its glory, and I was told that much of its green coat. There was a look of happiness in all nature that I had rarely seen.

Rainy days shouldn't be unwelcome. They are not a bit too much to the sunny ones.

We are apt to want the good and happy things of life to continue without break. But the wise Watcher of human beings understands better. He sends and gives variety. He knows His world and His family.

The rainy days come to talk to us. They are not always the happy ones. And sometimes a whole string of them comes to wake us up!

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

It is often at the next-biggest hotel in a city that you get the best service. Not at the first or fourth biggest. There must be some mechanical or mathematical ratio between size and service.

At a recent five to seven going away party given at a hotel in the next biggest in town, the waiters stood around in the room and soon was set up only a few minutes before the first guests arrived. Soon after the buffet tables were the drinks for those who like drinks before the fun. In other, coffee. In between were the pates and trays of sandwiches, canapes and little cakes. I do not recall having encountered commercial sandwiches of such tastiness in years. They were like the sandwiches you get at home. The bread was fresh, the ham moist and flavorful, the cheese superb; the ones with various spreads had the grandma touch. The same was true of the little cakes. Even the S. P. spoke to one of the waiters before he left, and they did not go wandering in the crowd, pedaling.)

"Well sir," he said, "I guess it's on account of our head chef. Not a single thing goes on out of our kitchen that he doesn't see first. He's an awfully proud man."

The waiter was a proud sort of man too.

Make Them Watch TV!

Toronto Star

Nightly, in tens of millions of North American homes the hypnotic spell of the TV screens mesmerizes families into a trance-like state broken only by heavy doses of Bringing Up Buddy, The Untouchables and Gunsmoke.

There are exceptions, however, homes where the family remain coldly blank.

But the unhappy exceptions are the Hollywood mansions of the actors, writers, producers and directors who make a marvelous living from the monotonous, repetitive entertainers of commercial television.

A Hollywood writer reports that they hardly ever watch TV except for the few cultural and educational programs and never even glances at their own shows.

Many spend an evening reading the works of Toynbee, Bergson, Gide or Camus or listening to Hindemith or Beethoven on their stereo sets.

Barely have they finished praising for optical eggheads who turn every evening into a party into a parade of eerie zombies, inane fathers and snarling gunmen.

The obvious punishment is to send them to their own mansions and hassled swimming pools and sentence them to a steady diet of entertainment in a film exhibition hooth.

There, on a diet of supermarket TV dinners and water, they should be forced to view continuous showings of their own TV handiwork.

Who knows, after mere threat of such an ordeal might spur a mass repentance in the Hollywood TV industry.

K.J. Macdonald New Manager Scotiabank Here

The Bank of Nova Scotia announces the appointment of Mr. K. J. Macdonald as manager of its branch here in Belleville, succeeding Mr. H. L. Tripp, who returns to his old stamping-ground at Arnprior.

Ken Macdonald joined the bank in his native town of Brigden, near Sarnia, in 1935. As it happened, all of his preceding Scotiabank positions have been in Northern Ontario. His wife, Hazel, hails from Peterborough, so both the Macdonalds are looking forward to life in the milder climate and beautiful surroundings of the Quinte area.

During the World War II Mr. Macdonald served for four and a half years with the Signal Corps, Armoured Corp., Infantry, rising from the rank of private to commissioned officer. Returning to the bank, he worked at Parry Sound, Bracebridge and Sudbury, where he was appointed accountant, next came the position of manager at Penetang and Haileybury, from where he comes to Belleville.

In his various locations he has been active in the work of the Chamber of Commerce, the Canadian Legion, Rotary Club and similar community organizations. There are five young Macdonalds: Sally, who is 13, and her four younger brothers, Bob, Don, John and David.

Former Mayor Of Prescott Resigns Seat

PRESCOTT (CP) — Harry J. Ransom, a former mayor of Prescott, resigned from town council Thursday in protest against the sale o municipally-owned property at a flood storm chain for $55,000.

The property is on the site of the former town hall and fire hall. Conditions of sale call for removal of the buildings, relocation of the town war memorial and clearing and paving of the area not purchased by the firm, Dominion Stores Limited.

An offer of $16,000 for the site made by a Prescott real estate firm previously was turned down by council.

Mr. Ransom said sale and removal of the buildings was a mistake. Citing their historical associations, he said he thought the buildings are still structurally sound.

2 Empty Cans Hold Key to Fate of Rocky

MERAUKE, Dutch New Guinea (Eastern)—Two empty gasoline cans today held the key to the fate of Michael Rockefeller, missing 23-year-old son of New York Governor Nelson Rockefeller.

Air searchers concentrated on spotting the cans which young Rockefeller used for buoyancy in an attempt to reach shore in stiff currents Sunday from an overturned catamaran.

Experts have calculated that if the rockefeller cans were found, they would have to assume "that Michael did not reach shore and is dead."

Dutch search co-ordinator Eliezer Jeffen said today that if Rockefeller did reach shore there is a good chance he is with undrilled but kind natives in the southern shores of the Xingden River.

Jasgin added that if the son of the governor was the unmolestable, "it may take up to 10days to get news of him."

He said this information may Rockefeller "very hopeful."

But experienced searchers were less optimistic. He said that, even if the young American did reach shore, he would be very lucky to survive long. "To live in this shocking country."

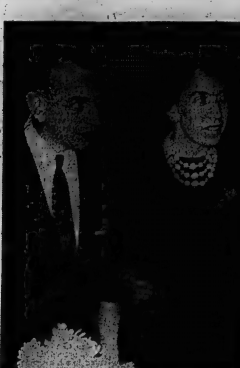
Hint Stowaway May Have Been Planted by Reds

BERLIN (AP)—Sadness and mystery today surrounded the bonding over of a young East German stowaway to Russian troops who had held up a huge load of American soldiers, airmen and children all night.

The mystery was heightened by the lack of an official explanation for the 14-hour delay in nesting the issue with the Russians.

There was some speculation that the stowaway was a Communist plant.

A spokesman for the U.S. embassy in Berlin said: "It would be pretty hard to prove if the man was a plant, but there is always this possibility and it cannot be discounted."



Wes Gallagher, newspapers, meanwhile, portrayed as a heartrending conflict U.S. authorities the case of the U.S. Army train stopped Wednesday in Communist East Germany.

They said the United States used to decide whether to risk the safety of 80 Americans aboard the train, including 11 children, to return one German stowaway.

Most editorials concluded that U.S. officials made the only decision possible when they found the 19-year old German. The train was allowed to proceed Thursday afternoon.

Thanksgiving Dinner Worth $83 to Man

NEW YORK (AP)—Gerard Murray, 21, had a Thanksgiving dinner worth $83 Thursday. In fact, it was $83.

Murray, appearing in a Brooklyn court on a charge of assaulting a policeman, told the judge: "I was drunk and didn't know he was a cop."

"Was he drunk?" asked the magistrate.

"Well," said Patrolman John Malachy, "he was drunk enough to eat $83."

"What!" exclaimed the judge.

Explained the officer:

"While I was searching him at the station house, he said 'You're not going to get my money,' then began to stuff a lot of bills in his mouth. I reached with my club to stop, since he might need the money for bail. But he finished eating, then waived to the sink and washed the $83 down."

Murray was ordered held on a charge of felonious assault.

Arson Suspected

TORONTO (CP) — An $8,000 fire in a suburban Etobicoke restaurant is being investigated by the arson squad.

Police said witnesses heard an explosion Thursday night and saw a man run away from the restaurant and drive off in a car. A pair of gasoline-soaked rags and a can that had contained gasoline were found shortly after.

TWO MEN SAFE

KIRKLAND LAKE (CP) — Two Teck Township men missing overnight in bush about 14 miles west of here were reported safe Thursday. Jack O'Connor, 30, and C. S. Prime, 30, were trapped by a heavy snowfall but found their way out of the bush in the morning.

Warden's Banquet Speaker Stresses Opportunities Awaiting People in Canada

Hastings County Warden Harleigh Hamilton and Mrs. Hamilton last night were hosts to county councillors, municipal officials and friends from all parts of the county as the annual warden's banquet was held at Club Canara in Belleville.

Over 300 persons attended the banquet which saw Dr. George Fisher, nutritionist with Ontario Oats Company in Peterborough as the guest speaker. Dr. Fisher spoke of the tremendous opportunities awaiting in Canada but stressed the first responsibility of people was in their own community.

Hastings County Judge J. C. Anderson acted as chairman for the lengthy program which included the warden's welcome, toasts to the visitors and a long round of responses.

Entertainment both by local talent and professional entertainers from Toronto and a presentation to Warden and Mrs. Hamilton rounded out the evening at close to 11.30.

19 WARDENS FROM SIDNEY

Judge Anderson in his chairman's remarks noted that since Hastings County was organized just more than a century ago, Sidney township had produced 19 wardens, not the least distinguished of whom was the present warden, Harleigh Hamilton. He said that Mr. Hamilton last January had attempted something unique in county council circles — an acclamation for the wardenship.

Warden Hamilton paid tribute to members of county council and said that any undertaking can be a pleasure if you have co-operation.

He referred to the financial demands of the many different county departments or organizations which the county helps to support. He said the hospital, the Children's Aid Society, the County Home or roads department were all deserving of the fullest support.

"But 'ours' are at the receiving point and we must give support according to the funds available," he said.

Response to the warden's address was given by Carl Whitehorne, reeve of Dekon; Bason Reeve William J. Davis and county clerk, Erle S. Denyes.

TOAST TO GUESTS

The toast to the guests was proposed by Hungerford township Reeve, Harold Warty, with response by A. McLean Haig, mayor of Belleville, Harmon Montgomery, warden of Prince Edward county; Harvey J. McFarland, mayor of Picton; Trenton mayor D. J. MacDonald and Art Duncan "mayor" of all the people of Batawa.

Thurlow township Reeve, Harry Pecund, expressed appreciation to the ladies of Alnwa Ovatin — the warden's home community — who catered to the banquet. Mrs. S. Marshall responded.

Dr. Fisher, former director of veterinarian services for the province of Prince Edward Island, painted a vivid picture of the opportunities awaiting in all parts of Canada, stating that Ontario offers the most fabulous opportunities of all Northern America. Ontario was as a land of golden opportunities awaiting only the right men to take up the challenge.

"Hastings county also offers opportunities which were still untapped," he said. Agriculture had a big future but long term planning was needed. The wide field of tourism with its second largest despite its vast possibilities.

MORE ACCOMMODATION

"The big need for the development of tourism in this county was more and better accommodation, he said.

Individual responsibility toward a bigger and better Canada commenced in the community starting with a strong family, Dr. Fisher said. Parents had a responsibility to the young people to provide an active community life and the young people the opportunity of participating.

"You are a priceless heritage in Hastings", he said, "and one which is as exemplary to other parts of the country".

"Let's give and let's heve", he concluded.

BLAST POWER POLES

TRAIL, B.C. (CP) — Bombay violence erupted Thursday in the Kootenays where RCMP have arrested more than 40 Sons of Freedom sect Doukhobors violence suspects. RCMP said two cases of dynamite were used to blast seven power poles leading from the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company's hydro generating station on the Pend d'Oreille River, six miles south of here. Police said 20 sticks of unexploded dynamite also were recovered from the base of an eighth pole.

REPORT FAVORS

rose and criticized Mr. Roberts for releasing the report to the press five hours before it was tabled, and Elmer Sopha (L-Sudbury), said the Liberals had been refused a copy of it at the same time reporters were receiving it and discussing it with Mr. Roberts and Professor Morton.

Mr. Sopha asked that members of the legislature be given "at least equal treatment with members of the Fourth Estate," and suggested Prof. Morton be permitted to explain the report to members as well.

The report found present gambling laws "extremely difficult and probably impossible" to enforce. It cited lack of public support for the law as "probably the greatest problem in enforcement."

Other recommendations include:

1. Stricter enforcement of the present gaming houses and legalization of lotteries for charity that now exceed the lawful prize value.

2. Stricter control of operators of carnival games of chance.

3 Heavier penalties for persons convicted of unlawful gambling.

4. Authorization for the Bell Telephone Company of Canada to refuse services to subscribers, if notified by the attorney-general that he "reasonably believes" a wire thereby is being used for an unlawful purpose.

5. A federal commission on crime with no administrative or prosecution powers which would operate through inquiry and public report, "leaving it to the several charged with the responsibility for legislation and law enforcement to withstand or succumb to scrutiny".

6. Making it an offence to buy or receive prizes and winners of such lotteries as the irish Sweepstakes, which are beyond the control of Canadian law.

7. Authorization for the department of transport to radio communicate suspicious facts on the regime to law-enforcement authorities.

BINGO PROFESSIONAL

Among its findings the committee reported that the operation of bingo games "appears to have been largely into the hands of professionals."

The investigators received information that the majority of the Ontario bingo games are run by professionals and that they can make an estimated $6,000 on one large game. Amount profits on bingo in the province are estimated at more than $7,000,000.

"Such an operation obviously offers great attraction to the criminal underworld and control of some sort is equally obviously necessary to prevent the continuance of the source of income," the report says.

The committee establishment of a licence system that would fix prize limits and require organizers to submit audited accounts in a proposed gambling control board.

The committee decided that "the evil in illegal gambling in North America appears to be the concentration of vast sums of money in the hands of criminals.

In a study of gambling laws in Britain, Ireland, Norway, Sweden and New York state as well as Ontario, the committee concluded that the European system has been to legalize gambling under strict controls "in an attempt to produce a law enforcement which would command public support."

The committee sided with the European system and recommends an extension of the legal outlets for gambling in an attempt to avoid unfair distinctions between various forms of gambling, this com mending more public support for enforcement of gambling laws.

Canada Music Week

Music Education in Schools

by Bernard Turnstile, Mus. Bac.
(Music Director of Ontario Secondary Schools)

Today music education in the various school systems of Canada and the United States manifests itself in many ways. We hear of schools with excellent choirs, short or symphonic bands, and symphonic orchestras. These can also be heard by attending the numerous music festivals, competitions, or school concerts held each year. The technical and musical skill of many of these groups is of very high standard.

As much as bands, orchestras and choirs are a very important part of music education, they are not in themselves completely representative of the whole school music program. We might now examine the theoretical, ramifications of establishing a music course for schools.

A complete music program in the primary or secondary school is governed on the one hand by the philosophy that "Learning is doing". Therefore, music is learned best in a performing medium such as choir, band or orchestra rather than by listening to records or lectures. Whatever medium is chosen, the aim of the program is to teach the students to perform with intelligent appreciation of music.

The pupils play or sing musical selections which are as varied as possible. After they have actively participated in the music, the students analyze and describe the various works answering to them such questions as: they progress through the study of ornamentation, the use of symbols which represent, through a staff sign, a particular order, or method of playing, certain groups of notes. Even a group of five or six notes can be reduced to one note, with the use of an ornament as a guide. There are many different types of ornaments, all of which have some very interesting historical reason for existence.

To many, the study of ornaments is similar to the memorizing of a dry and prosaic series of discussions involving six or seven symbols vaguely described as found in the Eighteen Century in the writings of such composers as Bach and Handel. They may also seemed little more than part of a mechanistical puzzle involving the insertion of little squiggles and bars. Such impressions results when a study of this kind is treated as an outmoded educational toy.

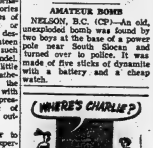
Musical theory in order to be relevant to musical experience cannot be studied as a pure theory, but must be accompanied by a knowledge of the historical background. It seems that brought about the theory in the first place. The student will learn a great deal more by playing music of the various periods, studying original scores and comparing these with modern editions, rather than using a group of isolated musical examples.

A LIVING SCIENCE

Music theory is a dynamic art and a living science. It is the direct result of live music in live circumstances that is why it is changing everyday and that is why it is so interesting to those who study its changes. Thus, by showing that Counterpoint, Form, Harmony and History are a part of living music, practical school music can perform a real service to such seriously academic studies. Only when these practical and theoretical studies occur simultaneously, and with current music, can it be said that a person is receiving a real music education.

The aforementioned aspects of music education are very important but there are other developments and experiments occurring in school music that are worthy of note. Some schools are presently experimenting with the method of teaching the piano in the classroom to groups of twenty, to twenty-five students at one time.

Thus far these experiments have proven most successful. In these schools, private students often progress to the point that they are actually composing, arranging and even extracting music for their own individual accompaniments. In other special schools, experiments are being conducted, which, by the use of electronic equipment, to give deaf children a better chance of performing and listening to music.



DEAF CHILDREN TAUGHT

Mr. Alec Gordon of this city has shown, in the work he has done at the Ontario School for the Deaf, the possibilities of teaching music to deaf children. Many of the Toronto public school have adopted the Carl Orff Method of presenting music to children between the ages of four and eleven. This method is designed to develop the child's natural sense of rhythm depending on the written note. The children use miniature instruments, which are capable of playing both rhythmical and melodic parts. The children play by ear only, learning such things as rounds, canons, and later, more complicated forms as they progress through the grades. The method was introduced into Canada by Miss Doreen Hall of Toronto, who spent many years studying with Dr. Orff in Germany.

Today music education is a many-sided project, and music in the schools takes numerous different forms. The teachers hope that they are doing their part in working toward the realization of "Making Canada musical".

SURPRISE PARTY

A surprise party was held Tuesday by the members of St. George's Guild, for Mrs. F. Colyer, who is taking a trip to England shortly. A few rounds of euchre were enjoyed, after which dainty refreshments were served. A gift was presented by the president on behalf of the members, while Mrs. Colyer, a "bon voyage" and a safe return to her home.

Dr. Hammond Tendered Farewell Party

MARMORA A farewell party was tendered Dr. Hammond, entomologist, when 19 senior officials of the Department of Agriculture, Entomology Research Institute, Ottawa, gathered at his residence near Colborne to pay tribute for his service of over 40 years in the Civil Service of Canada.

While this period was devoted to general merit in acknowledging the major portion of this was devoted to a study of the white grub so prevalent in this area at one time.

The party, headed by Dr. A. P. Arnason, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, made a tour of inspection of Dr. Hammond's property on the Deer River. Plans call for the erection of a large residence in which will be a general biological library for both insect and plant specimens.

In a general meeting on the lawn, Dr. Arnason, on behalf of the Ottawa party presented a number of suitable gifts, the first being a scroll from the Minister of Agriculture, Ottawa, which referred to the years of service to the Civil Service. Another contribution was a framed photograph of the white grub and a pair of binoculars for field work.

Dr. and Mrs. Hammond after the Ottawa party left for home.

Fifty Women Film At Embassy

OTTAWA (CP)—Fifty of Ottawa's socially - prominent women's gal entertained by an ancient Aslan love story for one an hour at the Russian Embassy here.

Mrs. Amasap Arouutian, wife of the Russian ambassador, invited the ladies to sip tea and witness the screening of the Soviet film "Ashik Kerib." Ceil and Maidouni, which she described as an Oriental Romeo and Juliet. Tea and little cakes were served afterwards.

The film, with the Russian and colorful interpretation of the legend, featured Soviet set in music of the Armenian composer Ashotovitch.

Guests included wives of cabinet ministers and diplomats, wives of senior governments officials, and members of the Rideau Rockcliffe Curling Club.

Mrs. Arouutian, a vivacious and attractive hostess, wore a grey full suit over-dress, and greets in an embassy reception room dominated by a portrait of Premier Khrushchev.

St. Joseph's PTA Holds 'Open House'

St. Joseph's PTA held its "Open House" from 7 to 9 p.m. All classrooms were open and pupils' work was on display for parents' inspection. There was an excellent turnout and parents took advantage of the opportunity to discuss the child's progress with the teacher.

Books of tickets were distributed for the Christmas turkey draw to be held in December. The proceeds of this draw are to be used for general PTA needs, particularly for Cubs and Scouts, for when the PTA is the sponsoring body. Tickets were supplied by a local business firm.

The December meeting will be limited to the turkey draw.

St. Michael's Parish Sponsors Colorful Christmas Bazaar, Tea

That the Yuletide season is fast approaching was evidenced Wednesday afternoon at the tea and bazaar held in St. Michael's parish hall, under the auspices of St. Michael's Parish Guild.

As the stage backed by heavy drapes, were hall with streamers of red and white chrysanthemums and red tuberoses; a life-size jolly Santa Claus, and a Christmas tree, green tree bedecked with tinsel, red roses and colorful gifts underneath, crimson and silver. Every window ledge bore its quota of greenery, white and red, massive mums, mingled with sprays of Scotch pine, Canadian huckleberry sprays, tipped with very Christmas globes and colorful candles.

A successful tastefully popular, catered with plenty and jolly hearts, formed a most attractive setting for the Yuletide tea. Mrs. Lowery Green, for the dainty refreshment table with its pink-shaded candles, her five-point candelabra holding tall red candles. Mrs. Thomas Brown's table with its white peaked cap, and frosted with pink and white, centred with a miniature Christmas tree, with ornaments with tiny globes in Christmas colors and at either end, the popular silvery tea services, making a most pleasing symphony in glistening silver.

SPACIOUS TEA ROOM

The handsome spacious tea room, were arranged the little quartet guest tables, each one colorful in shades of red and white centred by a silvery service with dainty cloth and satin bows and enhanced by a tiny colored picture of St. Nicholas.

The tea room hostesses were: Mrs. Joseph Gallagher, C.W.L. president; Mrs. Lowery Green and Mrs. Clarence Reid, convenors and the Hill of the Auxiliary will be December 4, while the group committee will meet December 11 at the home of Mrs. Gallagher.

Mrs. Ralph Bateman announced that December 4 had been set as the date for the Queen Scout Ceremony. Parents are urged to be present at this most impressive occasion. Members were asked to contribute two dozen cookies. The next meeting of the Auxiliary will be December 4, while the group committee will meet December 11 at the home of Mrs. Gallagher.

The program and lunch were in charge of Mrs. Carmen Bellamy (Group Captain) and Mrs. C. Miles.

2nd Scout Aux. Plans Queen Ceremony

Despite the inclement weather, 19 faithful mothers turned out for the regular monthly meeting of 2nd Belleville Boy Scout Auxiliary. President Mabel Rainbird opened the meeting and gave a hearty welcome to all, especially the new members who were introduced at that meeting.

Mrs. Rainbird announced that December 4 had been set as the date for the Queen Scout Ceremony. Parents are urged to be present at this most impressive occasion. Members were asked to contribute two dozen cookies. The next meeting of the Auxiliary will be December 4, while the group committee will meet December 11 at the home of Mrs. Gallagher.

After the meeting adjourned the Christmas auction followed with Isobel Rainbird and June Fisher as auctioneers, which proved to be most profitable.

The program and lunch were in charge of Mrs. Carmen Bellamy (Group Captain) and Mrs. C. Miles.

Nursing Education Lecture On 'Anatomical Changes' Given at Education Hall, BGH

The fourth of five lectures in the fall series of "Nursing Education" was held at the Belleville General Hospital, Education Hall, Wednesday evening. A comprehensive address on, "Cardiac Nursing Care," was clearly presented by Dr. James S. Loyear, Internist at B.G.H.

Miss Marguerite Hicks, supervisor of the Belleville Community Nursing Registry, welcomed all present. The guest speaker was introduced by Miss Catharine Gould.

The large audience listened with interest as Dr. Loyear elaborated on the anatomical changes, nursing care and medication of cardiac patients having heart surgery, coronary or congenital.

HEART SURGERY

He stated that heart surgery is becoming more extensive, as anaesthesia is improved, life established has a guarantee, as anesthesia makes it possible to operate on a person who is a greater risk. By lowering the body temperature for enough, metabolism and circulation slows down and the patient needs less oxygen. The body can therefore endure a longer vital operation. An artificial heart and lung can also be introduced to support circulation during the operation.

He also stated that as diagnosis becomes more accurate by cardiac catheterization and X-ray, more heart conditions have been detected. By introducing a catheter through vein into the heart, samples of blood can be taken from various areas, defects of openings can be detected, and special angiographic and radiopaque substances inserted.

Some of the operations through the open chest include repairing of heart defects, removing aneurisms, tying off emboli, cutting away scar tissue, implanting vessels into the heart and adding pieces of fat to heart area for added support. Most interesting is a recent attempt to operate on coronary blood vessels, called "scrubbing out coronary vessels." This has great possibilities for the future.

CARDIAC SURGERY

Dr. Loyear said that nursing care for patients with cardiac surgery, is similar to that of general surgery, with added emphasis on teaching them to do deep breathing, encouraging and reassuring them. In most cases, they are to get up as soon as the anaesthetic is disconnected.

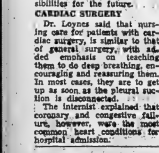
The internist explained that coronary and congestive failure, however, was the most common heart conditions for hospital admission.

Because the coronary arteries do not function after the pain is gone, Dr. Loyear stated that the patient should be told to rest. He also said if something goes wrong it sputters and then stops, causing distress.

If this coronary artery is partially occluded, the food supply to the heart muscle is cut down, waste products builds up, causing increased pain called Angina Pectoris. The aim of the effort is immediately relieved pain.

CORONARY THROMBOSIS

Coronary thrombosis occurs if this artery becomes occluded, and clots off blood supply to the area of the heart causing an infarct to occur. In six weeks the area is walled off and healed however, this infarct goes through a softening stage, heart muscle is dead and cannot be induced to support circulation during the operation.



He also stated that as diagnosis becomes more accurate by cardiac catheterization and X-ray, more heart conditions have been detected. By introducing a catheter through vein into the heart, samples of blood can be taken from various areas, defects of openings can be detected, and special angiographic and radiopaque substances inserted.

Hillcrest H-S Plans 'Open House'

The Hillcrest Home and School Association held its monthly meeting on Monday evening in the school auditorium.

The president, Mrs. D. Prudden, called the meeting to order, with Mrs. O. Williams at the piano.

It was decided to have "Open House" in place of the regular meeting in December. Refreshments will be served and Mrs. Williams will be in charge of the program.

It is hoped that the parents will take advantage of this opportunity to meet the teachers and discuss their child's progress.

Mrs. Williams' room won the banner for the most parents present.

Groups were formed and the ways of disciplining a child from the age of two to 12 were discussed, proved to be enlightening to all.

Another short film in the form of a sing-song was presented.

Refreshments were served by the mothers of Miss Farnsworth's room.

Delightful Fun Fair Held by Sir Winston Churchill H-S

The Winston Churchill School held its annual "Fun Fair" recently, under the sponsorship of the Home and School Association, and proved a most successful tremendous success.

The hall was decorated for the day by occasion with banners and bloons; along with posters by the various committees designating what was within, and also a guide to those who was new to the school. This was the work of the school artists, Mr. G. Cornish.

There were booths for both young and old, including fish ponds, white elephant table, home baking, candy, tea room, movie, penny, potato chips, ice cream and soft drinks.

PRETTY TEA ROOM

The tea room was very pretty as was the tea table, with its lovely daffodil centrepiece. Dainty cocktail were served with piping hot coffee or tea, and was convened by Mr. Bodley, assisted by Mrs. Bateman, Mr. Manley, Mrs. Fraser, Mrs. Hall and Mrs. Wilson. Mrs. Madden, Miss Gwen Glover and Penny Clarke, grade 6.

The home cooking table was a busy place while the dainty cookies, home-made candy, tempting cookies, home-made rolled bread, cakes, pie, Mrs. Coolsbaw assisted by Mrs. Churchiss, Mrs. Haller, Mr. Loan, Mrs. Cornish and Mrs. McDermoo, were in charge.

In the candy room there were Mrs. Bateman with the tempting treat. There was candy apples, popcorn balls, peanut brittle, butterscotch fudge, maple creams and popcorn balls, assisted by Mrs. Clancy, assisted by Mrs. Schlachter, Mrs. Hall and Mrs. Wells.

BARGAINS FOR ALL

Everyone crowded around the white elephant table with its bargains for all from comic books to sparkling jewellery. This busy spot was presided over by Mrs. Sarbirin, assisted by Mrs. Dyson, Mrs. Beautiful Jean", (by request) with Mrs. Fowler at the piano.

Mr. Dyson chose as his theme for his sermon "Memory's Gateway" and was introduced under the leadership of Mr. Bruce Wood were in attendance also members of Meadowview, as well as members of Huntingdon Women's Club.

At the conclusion of the worship service the color parties of the leaders and Miss Allen, side of the plaque where Mr. Fred Hagerty "well done" after the 1939-45 war and also a past president of the Victory Class unveiled the plaque. The presentation was made by Mr. Gou, Mrs. Stevenson, president of the Victory Class.

Mr. Allen Vandervoorter, also a past president of the Victory Class read the names on the plaque, after which Mr. Vandervoorter, Mr. Dyson accepted the roll.

Two minutes silence was observed.

Visitors were present from Trenton, Belleville and other local points.

Victory Class Gives Plaque

MOIRA — On November 19 Moira United Church was filled to capacity for a dedication service. This service was held to dedicate a plaque presented by Moira Victory Class to honor those of the two world wars whose names appear on the list and country.

The plaque were placed on the altar by the family of the late Charles Welsh who was killed in action in the First World War.

During the service the choir sang an anthem, "Be Still My Soul" also a duet by Mr. and Mrs. Dyson, "The Beautiful Jesus", (by request) with Mrs. Fowler at the piano.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

WHAT'S YOUR E.Q.?

Small dinner parties are a popular way of entertaining during the holidays. Despite their informality, there are a number of details that do have to be ironed out if parties are to come off faultlessly. Do you have the proper technique? See how many of the following questions you can answer correctly:

1. How should invitations be extended?

2. Who does the inviting, the host or hostess?

3. If the hostess extends the invitations, how should they be worded?

4. Must a hostess delay dinner indefinitely if one or two guests are very late?

5. How does a hostess assign seats when guests enter the dining room?

6. Must the table cloth be white, or may colored cloths be used at an informal dinner?

7. At a dinner for eight, where does the hostess sit?

8. How should dinner plates be arranged?

9. Should the host help his wife remove plates between courses?

10. Who signals it's time to leave the table when dinner is over?

ANSWERS:

1. In person, by telephone or by personal note or calling card.

2. The hostess.

3. It's necessary for the host to make some of the phone calls, he always issues the invitation in the name of his wife.

4. She may wait an extra ten minutes or so for tardy guests, but if there's danger the dinner will be ruined, she may go ahead.

5. If there are no place cards, she usually tells the women where to sit first. If this is cumbersome, and the men have to stand idly by for any length of time, then she may correctly direct men and women to their seats alternately around the table.

6. Colored cloths or place mats may be used, or the table may be left the bare wood in order to show off its fine graining and finish.

7. The hostess may sit at one side of the table and the host at her place at the foot of the table, so men and women are alternated. The host always keeps his place at the head.

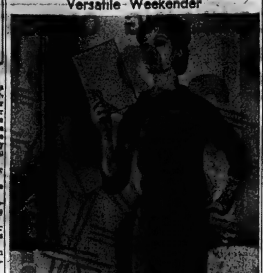
8. They may be stacked in front of the host or hostess, depending on who does the serving. Or they may be put at each place and serving dishes passed around—everyone around the table so each guest may serve himself.

9. No, he shouldn't leave his guests alone. A woman guest may help, but only if the hostess accepts her offer.

10. The hostess, simply by laying her napkin to the left of her plate and rising.

Question — I have two questions I would like you to answer:

First, how often should a get-well card be sent to a person who is sick for months at a time and is frequently in the hospital with the same illness?



Second, when a woman is divorced and gets permission to use her maiden name, how should she sign her name? — Mrs. S. S., Pottstown, Pa.

Answer — In answer to your first question, get-well cards and notes may be sent as often as you like. There's no limit on number. When a person is undergoing a long siege of illness a frequent cheering word helps him feel he's not forgotten when confined to home or hospital.

As for the second question, you have to decide whether you want to be known as Miss or Mrs. If the former, then you just assume the name name you had before you were married. It would be preceded by Miss, but never Mrs. If, for personal reasons, you want the title of Mrs., then you would couple your mother's maiden name with your own maiden name. This means that if your mother's maiden name was Smith and yours was Jones, you would then be know as Mrs. Smith Jones.

Readers' Friday Column

As conducted by Mary Moore

Question: We love your column and have treasures clipped from it. Could you help me specifically? Would you help a party maid prepare incorporating crushed pineapple and frozen strawberries and any other fruit or nuts or marshmallows that would be necessary. It could be frozen or jellied. This is to serve a fair number, say 20 to 24 . . Reta C.

Answer: The following recipe approximates your request. It serves 12. Could you double it for your crowd?

FRIDAY

Dinner Menu

PARTY FRUIT SALAD MOULD

2 envelopes (2 tablespoons) unflavored gelatine, 1-2 cup sugar, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1 1-2 cups canned pineapple syrup (or juice, 1-2 cup orange juice, 1-2 cup lemon juice), 1 cup frozen strawberries (thawed and drained), 2 cups well-drained diced canned pineapple, 1 cup drained orange sections cut in small pieces. Mix gelatine, sugar and salt thoroughly in a small saucepan. Add pineapple syrup or juice. Place over low heat, stirring constantly until gelatine dissolves. Remove from heat and stir in orange juice. Chill to unbeaten-egg-white consistency. Fold in canned pineapple, orange sections and strawberries. Turn into a 6-cup mould or individual moulds and chill until firm. When unmolded, garnish with pineapple rings and glace cherries.

Question: Last winter at a restaurant in California I sampled pie such as I have never tasted before and apparently it is something I have been unable to discuss from my mind. It was a specialty of the house and there was no way of obtaining the recipe. It was egg nog pie, very rich and delicious, and the egg nog flavor was very predominant, not just a taste of nutmeg . What do you have . . . E. P.

EGG NOG CHIFFON PIE

1 envelope (1 tablespoon) gelatine, 1-4 cup cold water, 2 egg yolks, 1 3-4 cups milk, 1-4 cup sugar, 1-4 cup sherry wine or 2 tablespoons rum, 1-4 1-2 teaspoon nutmeg, 1-3 cup whipping cream, 2 egg whites, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 4 tablespoons sugar, 1 baked 9" pie shell, cooled.

Combine gelatine and cold water in mixing bowl; soak well. Blend egg yolks and 1-4 up of milk in small saucepan. Add remaining 1 cup milk and 1-4 cup sugar. Cook and stir over medium heat until mixture thickens slightly and coats a dry metal spoon. Remove from heat. Pour over gelatine and stir until gelatine is dissolved. Add sherry or rum and nutmeg and blend. Chill until mixture begins to thicken. Then whip the cream and fold into eggnog mixture. Beat egg whites and salt until foamy throughout. Add 4 tablespoons sugar, 2 tablespoons at a time, beating after each addition until stiff blended. Continue to beat until mixture stands in peaks. Fold into eggnog mixture. Pour into cooled pie shell. Chill.

AND AMBULANCE SERVICE
55 HERKIMER AVENUE
BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO

Dear friends,

We know a man who caught a very severe cold recently while attending grave-side services. He stood for a time with hat removed. It was a chilly day.

When weather permits, this custom of removing the hat is a very commendable one—a mark of respect. But it should not be done at the expense of one's health. May we be allowed to suggest that the custom be discontinued on cold days.

Respectfully,

John R. Bush

Young Couple Honored by Many Friends

NORTHPORT — On Friday evening a large number of friends and neighbours assembled at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Collins in honor of their son, Jerome, and his bride.

Community singing was enjoyed with Miss Margaret Bates at the piano, Mr. Wesley Farrell was master of ceremonies.

Several readings were given, and solo by Mrs. Donald Holbert, also by Mrs. David Murphy with her guitar.

Mr. Douglas Farrel read an address to the young couple and they were presented with a lovely upholstered rocking chair. Jerome and Shirley made suitable replies, and invited the guests to come and see them at their home in Kingston.

Lunch was served and a social half-hour was enjoyed.

Young Fashion Designer Will Be on Own

PARIS (Reuter)—Yves St. Laurent, the young fashion designer who made his name with the Dior house of fame, is to work at his drawing board preparing for his first collection in his own fashion house.

St. Laurent branched out on his own after Marcel Boussac, the owner of the house of Dior, made no move to reinstate him in his job as fashion designer after his release from military service last year.

St. Laurent now has a 600,000 new franc ($140,000) lawsuit pending against Dior for severance pay and "moral injuries." It would be in order to go ahead with plans to open his own fashion house.

The backer financing St. Laurent's own establishment is still undecided although it is generally believed to be one of the leading Paris textile firms. The exact location of the new premises also is undecided.

LIKES CURRENT TREND

St. Laurent has already established temporary headquarters in a two-room office where he sees the new fabric collections now being shown for next spring. He likes the current fashion trend moving in closer toward the body but does not believe the full-skirt comes and will return to a glove - fitted look.

Although he first swung to fame on his "trapeze" silhouettes in January, 1958, he acknowledges that the era of dresses made with stiff boned construction is over. He likes the "soft look" in every phase of fashion and hints that the waists are going to settle at the natural decorative place.

St. Laurent has recently been engaged in creating ballet costumes for the new production of Les Forains produced and directed by his friends, the Roland Petits.

Congregational Meeting

FRANKFORD UNITED CHURCH

Over 300 people sat down to the Roast-Lowery Hall on Tuesday evening at the Frankford United Church annual congregation pot-luck dinner. Mrs. Sara Stickle played an organ prelude as the people assembled. The Rev. Leslie Fredendale and Zion churches served dinner in the hall without any confusion in spite of the unusually large crowd.

The tables were beautifully decorated and loaded with scrumptious dishes of every conceivable variety.

The Rev. R. E. Judd was master of ceremonies. Mr. Bruce Bervon, on behalf of the Board of Stewards, presented the 1962 budget for congregational approval, spotlighting the third year of a 3-year effort in the last two years the church has been completely redecorated inside, including new carpeting, painted outside, with new sewer throughout and trim as well as repairing the cement walks and grading the parking lot and putting a new road on the grounds. The parsonage has been changed completely, inside and outside, and is now a smart and modern well-situated residence in every respect. The congregation has proven to that the stewards are thinking and planning for the future.

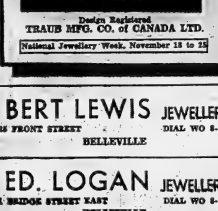
The Sunday School is literally bursting at the seams. The congregation approved the following budget for 1962: Frankford's share minister's salary car allowances and expenses — $4,000; Belleview meeting on parsonage renovation — $1,400; fuel, light, water and bldg. insurance — $1,000; cleaner and supplies — $800; music — $600; interest on loans — $300; printing, postage, advertising — $250; parsonage furnishings — $200; Sunday School supplies and camps — $300; "United Church Observer" in every home — $300; property improvement — $1,500; contributions to missions — $2,000; total — $12,950.

St. Mark's E.G. Plans Coming Bazaar

DESERONTO — The November meeting of St. Mark's Evening Guild was held in the school hall, recently.

Eleven members answered the roll call.

A letter was read from the C.N.I.B. thanking the Guild for its work for the blind.



In the business discussion, the Fall Tea and Christmas bazaar were settled.

Following the business the tasty lunch was served by the hostesses, Miss Beatrice Raven and Mrs. John Punchard.

The next meeting will be in the form of a pot-luck supper and will be held in the parish hall early in December.

CWL Holds Annual Tea And Bazaar

DESERONTO—On November 19, the Catholic Women's League held their annual tea and bazaar, in the Lion's Hall.

The lovely tea table with its snow-white linen damask cloth was centred with a beautiful bouquet of bronze and gold chrysanthemums set in a crystal bowl. Tall gold tapers in silver candle holders and gleaming silver tea services completed the setting. Mrs. Stan Marck poured tea.

The individual guest tables were also prettily appointed with white luncheon cloths and centre-pieces of autumn flowers.

The tea room conveners were: Mrs. Ernie Dorey and Mrs. Anson Lord. Assisting were: Mrs. Ed Harding, Mrs. M. Cassidy; Mrs. Ted Murphy; Mrs. E. Bowling; Mrs. Gill; Mrs. Don Reid; Mrs. Dion; Mrs. Barbier; Mrs. M. Witowski and Mrs. Peter Moore.

The home baking table was laden with many tasty wares, these included: tarts; buns; bread; pumpkin, lemon, cherry and apple pies; fudge; relish and many other items. This table was convened by Mrs. Ed Marck, assisted by Mrs. Doran and Mrs. O'Ray.

As always, the apron booth was quite a drawing card with its many practical and frilly aprons in both half and full length, all sizes and types in wide variety of colors, and materials. This table was convened by Mrs. Jim Geulin.

The fish pond was again a big success which was convened by Mrs. Leo Palmer, assisted by Mrs. Jack Punchard.

The miscellaneous table held many pretty towels, luncheon cloths, mitts, fancy potted plants, Christmas decorations, pot-holders and many other articles all of which were daintily and attractive.

The convener was Mrs. Frank Tyrrell, and assisted by Mrs. Irene Carpenter.

Mrs. J. Edwards was in charge of the tickets on the shadow parade and the winner was Mrs. Sam Knapp.

Mrs. J. Therrien was in charge of the draw tickets, and the lucky winners were: oil — Mrs. Ed Wilcox; steam iron— Mrs. Ed Rosch; turkey — Mr. Hugh Barns; leather bag —Mrs. Ted Murphy and Cora Jewellery — Mr. Terry Whalen.

The reception and the welcome of this tea and bazaar was most gratifying.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Mrs. G.W. — It's natural for a mother to move in to live with her daughter.

Viola P. — It would be too disrupting to our family life for my husband and children.

Mrs. G.W. — I'm 71 and live alone in a big house on Long Island where my husband and I were so happy until his death four years ago. I realize that time's marching on and I must plan to sell this place and prepare for life as a senior citizen. What's more natural than to move in with my daughter? She has a room in her home in New Jersey. I could help her with the children and all, and she could be near me when I needed her.

But Viola has other ideas. She wants to find an apartment for me in her town, or else a young family to move in with me on the Island. That is ridiculous. I took my mother in; Viola should take hers.

• • •

Viola P. — I don't want to sound cruel or unfeeling, but I want to safeguard the beauty of our life as a family. No matter how well-behaved and restrained Mother would be, she'd still be regarded as the mother-in-law by husband and children — somehow there would be one, I'm afraid.

After all, she may be chatting with Bob when I want his attention. The children, quite rightly, will give up their Indian war whoops for Mother's benefit. I've seen how restricted Mo can get for it — even the mother — under the strangest circumstances.

Yes, she took Grandma in, but she ordered her upstairs and the kids mouch older than mine.

• • •

The Council: Viola's bluntness sounds more humane than Mrs. W's bland insistence that history most repeat, that generations must follow suit. Viola convinces me that there must be no a better way to be near — and dear.

Sad indeed is the lot of the mother who, rightly or not, feels herself the cause of acrimony between husband and wife. When everyone in her daughter's house hold is unhappy, she may ashorn part of the grief and even the blame for it in some way. It would be better all round, in order to be sure of rendering such duty, the making of career dressing and the combs tions for the Chapter's Christmas family.

Mrs. Mary O'Flynn gave a most interesting talk on her recent trip to Europe, particularly on her visit behind the Iron Curtain.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Gwen James, Mrs. June Sine and Mrs. Verna Nettleton.

We must remind Mrs. W. that Viola is just as concerned as she to find a satisfactory answer for this next chapter in her life. There' little peace of mind for a devoted daughter thinking of her mother alone in a silent house several hundred miles away. An immediate easement might be affected by following Viola's suggestion of inviting a young family to fill most of the rooms, or by charting the quarters with another widow.

The best recourse, outlast on all in the long run, would be moving Mrs. W. nearby, but not into the P. household. A small apartment of her own is one way. Better yet would be a berth in a group boarding house or retirement (not nursing!) home. Here she'd have plenty of human attention and companionship, and still be safe from the tales of family warmth through easy visits to and from Viola and Co.

Why live through your daughter, Mrs. W.? You're far from through yourself.

Gamma Mu Chapter Enjoys 'Pledge Party'

"Recently, Gamma Mu Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi held a 'Pledge Party' in the form of a pot-luck supper at the home of Mrs. Jean Lewis. A warm welcome was extended to Mrs. Nancy Rae who was a visitor.

Following a delicious supper, a mock fashion show was staged by Mrs. Margo Hall, which proved most amusing and highly produced.

On November 21st a meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Verna Nettleton. The president, Mrs. Doreen Greer, welcomed another visitor, Mrs. Carol Reed.

A short business meeting was conducted and plans were discussed concerning the Christmas party, the making of career dressing and the combs tions for the Chapter's Christmas family.

Mrs. Mary O'Flynn gave a most interesting talk on her recent trip to Europe, particularly on her visit behind the Iron Curtain.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Gwen James, Mrs. June Sine and Mrs. Verna Nettleton.

GENUINE ABSTRACT

WHANGAREI, N.Z. (Reuters) — A four - year - old boy whose grandmother entered his painting as a joke has been awarded first prize in an abstract art contest. The judge, who didn't know the identity of the artist, was struck by "the apparent unconscious freedom of the work," executed with a pot scraper and some old paint.

Whites HARDWARE

Strategic Seaming

By VERA WINSTON

The skirt is narrow and an asymmetric seam furthers the tapered look. There is strategic seaming through the waist and the hipline.

Not an easy dress except for the very fashion-and figure-conscious woman, it is made in dark brown, wine red or in purple, and is a fine example of line through seaming.

Women's Activities

HALLOWAY W.A.

HALLOWAY—The women's meeting of Halloway Church was held on Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. P. Dixon with an attendance of 15. Mrs. Charles Huffman led in the worship period using the theme "Jesus Christ, the Light of the World in the Church's Service."

The Scripture was found in Peter 5, followed with prayer given by Mrs. Huffman. The meditation stressed the need of doing His will.

The business was conducted by the president, Mrs. Freddie Wellman. Several white gifts were handed in and the roll call revealed nine visits made to shutins and 15 cards sent. Subscriptions to the Observer were to be given to Mrs. R. Robson.

June 18th, 1962, was decided upon as the best date for members to cater at Hoard's Sales Barns. It was moved that $4 be paid the supply secretary for express charges in sending bale.

It was decided to hold a games night in the church basement on November 24th, each one to donate a small prize. Lunch will be served and a silver collection taken.

A letter of thanks was read from Mrs. K. Denyes.

Those to act on the provisionary committee are: Mesdames S. Stanley, R. Bowers, E. Emerson, A. Donaldson, F. Wellman.

The fall executive meeting of the Hastings-Prince Edward Women's Association is to be held in the Tabernacle United Church, Bellefonte, on Nov 21.

Mrs. E. Emerson presented a program on education. A film was shown, depicting the work done by a staff on the mission boat "Columbia," off the Vancouver coast. Readings from the Missionary monthly were given by Mrs. K. McMullen, Mrs. A. Kennedy, Mrs. B. McMullen, and Mrs. E. Emerson.

Mrs. Dixon and her assistants served dainty refreshments.

Child Behavior Panel Topic At H-S Meet

MARMORA — The November meeting of Marmora Public Home and School Association was held in the Earl Prentice Public School with a large attendance.

President, Mrs. J. R. Baker, chaired the meeting which opened in the usual manner.

The highlight of the evening was a panel discussion by experts from the Children's Aid Society in Belleville, Mr. Bruce Kerr as moderator led the discussion. The subject was "Growth and Behavior of the Child from Babyhood to Teenage," which brought out many normal reactions of the child and how to cope with the situation.

A question period followed which completed an interesting and educational session.

Mrs. Vaughan Glover graciously thanked Mr. Kerr and the panel for their interest.

Grade 8 mothers were hostesses.

Mrs. Cook's room won the attendance banner.

The Christmas meeting will be held on December 30th in the high school auditorium.

Laurel Rebekah Lodge 211 Observes 41st Anniversary

STIRLING — On the occasion of the 41st birthday anniversary of Laurel Rebekah Lodge, No. 211, Stirling, a large number of members were in attendance from Oakdale Lodge, Thomasburg, and the Quintena Lodge, Belleville, to join with Laurel lodge.

The lodge hall was decorated with baskets of variegated mums. Noble Grand Sister Hilda Rose was in charge of the lodge proceedings and welcomed the guests. Sister Marion Heath secretd Sister Mary Hulin, District Deputy, to the president's dais and on her way Sister Edna Fox pinned on her corsage. Sister Nora Wannamaker, immediate past Noble Grand, escorted the assembly president, Sister Helen Bowman and Sister Edith Ulman presented her corsage. At this time Sister Nora was given a corsage by Sister Olive Whitehead. This was a pleasant surprise to Nora, a gift from her husband, Leonard Wannamaker, of the IOOF. Sister Hazel Mumby, a past DDP, escorted the Grand Warden, Earl Fox, to the dais. He is also a valued Rebekah member of Laurel lodge.

GUARD OF HONOR

The guard of honor included: Sisters Beverly St. Pierre, Joyce Richardson, Helen Bailey, Bessie Patterson, Neva Vandervoort and Lillian Johnson. Each were identical floor-length gowns of dawn pink taffeta and made a most colorful picture.

In the lodge business a message was read that the mortgage on the IOOF hall was paid in full. The financial secretary, Sister Gladys Sprague announced that there were 159 sisters and ten brothers, members of the Laurel lodge. Sister Adeline Bush, treasurer, gave a full financial statement and there is a substantial amount in the treasury to carry on lodge business.

GUEST SPEAKER

The Assembly President based her address on the motto which she had chosen for her year "Forward Through Friendship." She stressed extending friendship every day, everywhere one goes and to all whom one meets. A true Rebekah is a true friend at all times. The aim is to plan ahead for the work in hand and then publicize it. Positive planning is most essential if the work of the order is to be furthered. She pictured the education and foundation fund and told of the large number of young people who were given a chance to attend a seminar of the United Nations last year. Sister Bowman also made a plea for assistance at the Barrie I.O.O.F. Home for Senior Citizens. The replacement of a dishwasher and refrigerator are needed to modernize the Barrie kitchen. She expressed thanks for hospitality, congratulated the Lodge on its work and was delighted with the fact that in the large audience everyone was paying attention to her message.

Two sisters from Madoc and Tweed lodges made the presentation to Sister Bowman of a gift on behalf of their Lodges and Laurel. The gift was a lovely bouquet of friendship dollar bills fashioned for leaves, with numerous net flowers centred with silver dimes.

Brother Earl Fox brought greetings from the Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Ontario. He stressed that true Oddfellowship shows in each individual's everyday life. He also spoke briefly on the values of charting a course of action for the order with positive thinking and then seek to carry through those plans.

GREETINGS

Sister Mary Hulin gave a brief address and expressed greetings on behalf of the District to the Assembly President and the Grand Warden. She also wished a successful year to each of them.

FINE PROGRAM

At the close of Lodge, P.N.G. Sister Nora Wannamaker conducted a brief program. She read a selection based on "Time and He Two," which was most interesting. Sister Ruth Johnston of Madoc contributed a piano solo.

Sister Florence MacMullen gave an elocution selection entitled, "The Stranger in the City". Sister Grace Walters of Tweed contributed a vocal selection with Sister Mabel Francis as accompanist. Another vocal duet was given by Sister Nina Neal accompanied by Sister Marjorie Stapley.

The group then repaired to the banquet hall where a delicious lunch was served under the convenorship of Sister Bernadine Patterson and Edna Fox. The tables were a silver of beauty with low bowls of flowers and the scheme of colour in the head table was the three-tier fruit cake iced in white and centred with 41 candles in the lodge colors of pink and green. The 41st Sister Nora Wannamaker had the honor of making the cake and she presided for the ceremonial. She first introduced the guests at the head table and read the names of the past noble grands who joined Laurel Lodge during her year as Noble Grand. She then paid tribute to those past Noble Grands who have passed on to their reward.

CAKE CEREMONY

In the cake ceremony the candles were lighted by Sister Mary Hulin and extinguished by brother Earl Fox, while Sister Bowman placed the knife in the cake.

Each guest had a pretty sage.

Point Anne WA Holds Tea, Bazaar

The annual Christmas tea and bazaar of the Point Anne United Church W.A. was held on Wednesday afternoon in the church hall. Sunny skies and mild weather brought out a capacity crowd to sample the various booths and their many attractive items.

The guests were greeted at the door by the president, Mrs. Morris Bradshaw and Mrs. D. Bradshaw acting as treasurer.

The popular home baking table with its tempting array of delectable items was convened by Mrs. W. G. Horwood, assisted by Mrs. Fred Mac-Donald and the gay apron booth was in charge of Mrs. J. W. MacLaurin, assisted by Mrs. D. Dorrister.

The miscellaneous booth, with its collection of baby sets, socks, mitiens, dois clothes, toys was convened by Mrs. R. L. Horwood assisted by Mrs. Keith Anderson.

The fish pond that joy of the children was a busy place and in charge of Mrs. E. Duny and the parcel post, under the convenorship of Mrs. E. R. Anderson was rapidly sold out.

The attractive tea room, with its green and white colour scheme was under the convenorship of Mrs. Morris Bradshaw, assisted by Miss Christine Day, Mrs. Keith Lloyd and Mrs. G. Randall. The small tables were centred with small Yule logs of white birch and pale green candles and the large tea table with its white damask cloth was centred with a large Yule log, tall green tapers and silver frosted pine boughs. Pouring tea for the afternoon were Mrs. N. Brown and Mrs. F. Clarke, both of Belleville and both former members of Point Anne W.A.

Mrs. Graham Horwood was in charge of the nursery and was assisted by Miss Marilyn Horwood and Miss Barbara Jacob.

A flower favor filled with candies as a souvenir of the birthday party. The serving of orange punch and the birthday cake brought to a close a memorable evening.

Noble Grand Sister Hilda Rose voiced thanks to those who had made the evening a success and the assembly president closed the proceedings with an appropriate message.

Presbyterial WA Holds Last Meeting at Tabernacle Church

The final executive meeting of Belleville Presbytery Woman's Association was held in Tabernacle United Church on Tuesday, Mrs. F. Davidson presided and conducted brief opening exercises, welcoming the officers and representatives.

Mrs. C. W. Smith gave the financial report and Mrs. T. Spear spoke on parsonages, urging the committees to procure the pamphlet dealing with this department.

Mrs. A. N. Fryer stated her findings regarding Christian Leadership department and the president, Mrs. Frank Davidson, gave an account of her work as organization chairman.

At the afternoon session it was announced the Presbyterial inaugural meeting will be held in Bridge Street Church early in January. Further announcement will be made in the press regarding date and time. A dilation period took place arising from questions asked about the new organization.

The president closed the meeting with the suggestion that "we take to best from our present women's organizations into the United Church Women, but leave all pettiness and gossip sacres behind." She expressed the wish that the future of the new organization would be bright and happy, and thanked all for their faithful cooperation during her term of office.

Don Cooper Captivates BCI Audience by Superb Yukon Film

From lumber camp to platform lecturer is a long leap. But not for Don Cooper, who carried his audience last evening at the Collegiate from Montana, his home state, along the "Gold Dust Trail" to the "Yukon" on wings of rollicking humor.

Mr. Cooper, who was introduced by Kiwanian, Roy Dudgeon, explained that it was through reading the diary of his wanderlust-laden grandfather during the early era, which produced himself and his brother, Dennis, to retrace their grandfather's footsteps leading over the Chilkoot Pass and down five hundred miles of the turbulent and roaring Yukon River. He mentioned that he had solicited advice from well known lecturers on platform deportment adding that he found he had to learn a new vocabulary, and to forget a lot of his former one.

Though not born in a log cabin, he recalls that the people did move into one as soon as they could afford to, and he often discussed with his senator father how his 'grandpappy' had climbed the Chilkoot Pass. Mr. Cooper has produced three films and two for T.V. as well as doing 100 performances. During the summers he worked in the woods and in the winter gave lectures and travelogues.

The "Gold Rush", he said, was like a stampede of cattle without definite direction, leading over rocky cliffs; in valleys, raging rivers, all intent on the pot of gold at the foot of the rainbow, and through Miles Canyon, the dreaded spot on the trail of '98.

Pictures were shown of desolated mining camps which at one time were roaring hives of industry, such as Dawson City; Whitehorse, so named because of the horse-drawn conveyance — Dawson City and Dawson Creek; the primitive fish camps where fish were cleaned and hung to dry for winter use; the wheel nets of the Indians used to trap the fish; and a breathtaking flight between two brown bears and a most delightful picture of a humpback mountain goat, disdainfully viewing the camera.

WILD LIFE SCENES

Other wild life scenes included the bashful gopher, the scrambling a certain sergeant major of the bear family, bellow being rounded up. In this connection, the lecturer mentioned that in olden times there roamed the vast northwest huge herds of buffalo, numbering approximately 60 million head. But this was before the white men came and almost wiped the beast out, leaving actually but 20 buffalo. The government stepped in, and now the herds are increasing again. This depletion of the herds was the cause of the Indian wars. The white man shot the buffalo for the skins only, leaving the carcasses to rot on the plains. Moose were also shown though rightly in form, yet possessing a most graceful walk, grisly bears, little bear squirrels; learning to walk on twigs, a loose pill perched on the tip of a mighty pine, 1,100 miles from any water; and the merriest, a real vaudevillian whose voice warned of something strange round about and the herds of caribou, headed by a black wolf.

LOVELY WILD FLOWERS

Many lovely flowers were also shown, blue violets, and pink and yellow blooms growing near the Arctic circle which spring up quickly because of the shortness of the summer. Lovely midnight sun pictures showed the speaker fishing in a flat-bottom boat, streams with many fish, and salmon weighing as much as 35 pounds and trout so large it was hard to fit them into the frying pan. A fisherman's kingdom!

Among the cities viewed was Edmonton, lovely with its many floral gardens; Fairbanks, Alaska, where the girls wore colorful dresses and dressed in furs. Other lovely scenes included Lake LaBarge; Indian graveyards where the souls of the deceased wailed during the period from dusk till they arrived in the "happy hunting ground"; a visit to Dawson and the young men of the R.C.M.P. were laid to rest, as the young age of 20-30, the oldest being 41, "which showed the high cost of law and order in the old days".

LONE PROSPECTOR

There remains but one lone prospector of the original pioneers who stampeded to the Yukon, he is still drilling to find the source of the gold which had filtered down to the streams below.

Mention was also made of the light added when the Aurora Borealis of Dawson City, across the Yukon River to Yukon City, Dawson's twin city, twice burned down to the ground by one of these "bodies".

A most delightful film, superbly presented

GHANA HYDRO PROJECT — Ghana has embarked on a $170,000,000 hydro project with the help of a Canadian expert. First step will be construction of the Volta dam which will create a 3,500-square-mile reservoir lake and force relocation of some 65,000 natives. Map locates the dam and reservoir area. Ultimately, generating stations will be built at Kpong and Bui. (CP Newsmap.)

Hydro Construction Manager Going to Ghana to Oversee, Build Volta River Authority

By CARL MOLLINS

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto engineer Frank J. Dobson has a new assignment in Ghana that might not be the biggest job he has tackled in units of horsepower but could be of human terms.

The electric energy expert, a construction manager with Ontario-Hydro-Electric Power Commission, is going to Ghana to run the Volta River Authority and the $170,000,000 project.

As chief executive of the authority, he will oversee not only construction of a dam, powerhouse and workers' village, but also the relocation of some 65,000 Ghanaians whose homes will be flooded when the dam is built. A 2,500 - square - mile lake will form behind the dam.

The power technicalities should be routine to a man who has supervised the building of 10 power plants on the Ottawa River, at Niagara Falls and in Toronto. But the human problems of relocation could produce some difficulties, Mr. Dobson says.

On two trips to Ghana in the last three months—his first overseas—the 44-year-old engineer was warned of danger along the Volta might result in location on religious grounds.

URGENT AFRICA-LOVE

"Apparently these people believe that disruption of their homes is somehow a religious belief and upset them after — that," Dobson declared.

But Ghana's President Kwame Nkrumah, who asked the Canadian government to supply a boss for the power program, was convinced after meeting the engineer in Accra that Mr. Dobson is the right man for the job.

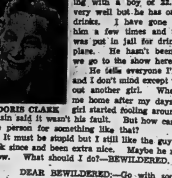
Nkrumah, chairman of the Volta River Authority and the project's chief enthusiast since Ghana gained independence from Britain in 1957, approached Prime Minister Diefenbaker in his search for a chief executive.

Mr. Diefenbaker put the request to Leslie Frost, then Ontario's premier. Mr. Frost activated Ontario Hydro chairman W. Ross Strike, whose organization in 1960 turned out 7.5 billion kilowatt-hours of electricity from 66 hydro plants and two coal-powered plants.

Mr. Strike turned to Mr. Dobson, a dynamic young veteran of almost 20 years experience in harnessing Ontario's inland waterways for Hydro.

Mr. Dobson spent almost seven years directing work at the second Sir Adam Beck plant where Niagara River water powers 16 generators. Early in 1958 he was appointed construction manager of the $250,000,000 thermal-electric Lakeview power plant on Toronto's outskirts.

$5-BILLION OUTPUT



The Niagara project has an ultimate output capacity of 1,370,000 kilowatts and the Lakeview plant will produce 1,800,000 kilowatts, pected. Mr. Dobson recalled that, motoring up to Aksosombo dam with the Ontario Hydro-electric Power Commission, he

Boy Friend Drinks Too Much

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS:—I am 17 and am going with a boy of 22. He treats me very well but he has one problem. He drinks. I have gone to the city with him a few times and the last time he was put in jail for drinking in a public place. He hasn't been like that when we go to the show here at home.

He tells everyone I'm his girl friend and I don't mind except that he has taken out another girl. When the kids took me home after my days off he and this girl started fooling around necking. My cousin said it wasn't his fault. But how can you just blame one person for something like that?

It must be stupid but I still like the guy. He has come back since and been extra nice. Maybe he regrets it; I don't know. What should I do?—BEWILDERED.

* * *

DEAR BEWILDERED:—Go with someone your own age. Then tell this one it's time he grew up. He is taking advantage of his power to do just as he pleases, not only when he is alone but when he is with you. You have every excuse to act insulted. There is no percentage in staying stupid.

* * *

DEAR DORIS:—I am divorced and have a seven-year-old daughter. I am intending to get married as soon.

We want this child's name changed over to her future father's last name. Can this be done? My ex-husband is supporting her at present.—MARION.

* * *

DEAR MARION — Not without the consent of her father—who would have to agree to adoption by the step-father and a change of name. Since he is supporting her, he is obviously interested in his daughter, and may well object to anyone else taking over a father's rights.

* * *

DEAR DORIS:—Is a registered nurse equal in educational status to a university graduate? It would seem to me a greater part of the work of a nurse is practical.

For the sake of an argument, please inform.—WONDERING.

* * *

DEAR WONDERING:—Depends on how she got her training.

Courses for nurses are usually three years. They include a good deal of theory as well as practice. Some hospitals require senior matriculation, some junior, as a prerequisite. Graduation means receiving a diploma, not a degree.

But universities now offer five-year courses leading to a degree in nursing. Such courses are just as stiff and just as educational as any arts or science course—maybe more than some.

* * *

DEAR DORIS:—I live in a small town in which most of the people belong to a religious sect which considers smoking strictly taboo. My parents are not members of this sect and they both smoke.

I can live with that, but my clothes and hair always reek of the odor. They refuse to quit or change brands. How can I keep both my hair and clothes smelling nice?—FRESHY.

* * *

DEAR FRESHY:—Soap. And a deodorizer—for you and for the rooms where all the smoke is.

Hair does hold odors, so a weekly shampoo is the thing. It's the stale tobacco smoke smell which offends. This means washing what you wear often from the skin out. It means daily bathing for you.

The stores carry an assortment of fresheners—in pine, or floral, or spice, scents—and these are very nice for taking away heavy food or smoke smells.

* * *

DEAR DORIS:—In the present world there is so much talk of bombs, fallout and war that it is difficult to train children to think in terms of peace and goodwill.

Our radio and television programs are full of violence of one kind or another; the toys offered in the stores emphasize war, and peaceful pursuits take second place.

* * *

DEAR PETE.—You might well ask.

Since broadcasting and writing media keep checking on what the public listens to and reads—there must be those who want the excitement of violence.

The Canadians with convictions about peace must hold the torch all the higher. There are good programs; there are constructive educational toys for our youngsters. Christian goodwill is the beckbone of our national philosophy. Let's stiffen our spine!

* * *

(Do you have a problem to solve? Write to Doris, enclosing a five-cent, stamped envelope, in care of this newspaper).

CouncilMembers To Be Paid $5 a Meeting

DESERONTO — Only five members of the council were present for the regular meeting on Monday night.

The township clerk of Tyendinaga advised the council that the township approached the work of the Deseronto fire department during the past year with the co-operation of the clerk, J. C. Reynolds. Council received a copy of the letter be forwarded to the fire chief.

The Ontario Municipal Board advised that a member of the Municipal Planning Board would meet with council on Wednesday to discuss the zoning by-law.

The public library asked that the council estimate the cost of placing permanent supports under the floor of the library. This was referred to the property committee.

Councillor Alford reported to council on the tower for the siren and advised that he could get a definite reply from the firm who had accepted the contract.

Two by-laws were passed. One regulated the time of the first and last meetings of council and the other was for the subscription of the prospectus by-law for Sunday motion pictures, concerts, sports, etc.

TO PAY MEMBERS

Council passed a motion granting an honorarium of $5 per meeting attended for all council members.

S. Dunnitz spoke briefly regarding the tax on the trailer he occupies on the service station lot. Mr. Dunnitz operates the service station and stated that the tax of $10 per month on the trailer was too high when he also paid taxes on the station. He felt that he could not afford to pay so much taxes and when council advised they could do nothing he signified that he would only be here for the balance of the winter.

Chief R. M. Hill of Tyendinaga Band, was notified last week that the Dominion government had issued a proclamation under date of October 28 declaring subsection 2 of section 98A of the Indian Act to be in force on the Tyendinaga Reserve.

The proclamation was lasued as a result of the recent vote held on the reserve in accordance with the Indian Referendum Regulations. In the vote the majority of the electors of the band were in favor of the subsection.

This proclamation legalizes the consumption and possession of intoxicants on the Tyendinaga Indian Reserve. The local branch store of the LCBO has been officially notified from headquarters in Toronto and the RCMP have been notified through the proper channels.

This act on the part of the government legalizes a condition which has long been a source of dissatisfaction to the Indian residents. While they have had intoxicants at their homes they knew it was not legal and according to the authorities there is little chance of the majority of the Indians abusing the new privilege.

By JAMES NELSON

OTTAWA (CP) — "Come in, let us drink around the table, Russian style," said the Soviet ambassador to Canada.

Thus opened an intriguing round of small talk as Dr. Arnoldus Arouthiun entertained a reporter at lunch in the Embassy.

There had been published reports that the ambassador was being recalled to Russia and it was suggested this was the first question that would be asked of him.

"You can report me as saying I deny it," said Dr. Arouthiun as he sat down at the luncheon table. "The first I heard about it was when I read it in your newspapers."

The ambassador, who took up his Ottawa post in January, 1960, was just going on holiday leave. The normal term of appointment is about five years.

That mate appeared with the genial former head of the economic division in Russia's foreign ministry passed the caviar, heavy brown bread and butter.

VODKA, OF COURSE

"Caviar we are having Armenian food," he said. "I like Armenian food, but we have a new cook. He cooks Russian food."

"Now, your health!" The ambassador raised his tiny liqueur glass. "Drink with me," he followed suit.

At the ambassador's elbow was a bottle of red wine and a full bottle of vodka, which the reporter eyed apprehensively.

Through the caviar course the conversation was on things Armenian. "I enjoy Armenian food, but we have a new cook. He cooks Russian food."

"Um . . . you mean grape leaves?"

"Yes. The grape. We get them from Toronto. I like them with yogurt, but there is some sugar and some cinnamon. Try them."

Then it was back to Canadian politics.

"How do you see the New Democratic Party? How do you see the picture with Mr. T. Douglas? What kind of socialism do you think he will bring? How does Mr. Jodoin (President Claude Jodoin of the Canadian Labor Congress) proceed?"

Then came brandy bows and handshakes all round, and a pressing invitation to carry away some Russian cigarettes —one with the brand name missing.

"Thank you for the conversation," said the ambassador. "It was very enlightening."

Canadian European Brigade May Use Atomic Warheads

By DAVE MAINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Infantry Brigade in Europe will be prepared, under nuclear war conditions, to employ American nuclear warheads whether or not there is a Canada - United States agreement on their use and control, authoritative sources said Wednesday.

The 6,500-man brigade will be in this state of preparedness by Christmas - time when it is joined by the 1st Honest John missile battery. The 300 - man unit will sail for Europe Dec. 8.

The Honest John solid-fuel rocket is intended primarily as a carrier for a nuclear warhead. Army officers said it is too cumbersome to be used in any other role.

Sources close to the cabinet said that in event of nuclear war in Europe the United States would not hesitate to supply nuclear warheads to the Canadian brigade for use in the Honest John. Neither would the brigade hesitate to use them if the military situation called for it.

The U.S. has nuclear warheads in storage dumps throughout most of western Europe and the sources of supply are close to the Canadian brigade. Thus there would be no problem in the brigade's ability to acquire them in emergency.

But authorities said the situation would be far different in the case of nuclear warheads for the two Bomarc anti - aircraft missile bases in Canada.

Under new conditions, it would be possible, they said, only to transport warheads from the U.S. to Canada over the North Bay and La Macaza, Que.

Thus an agreement between Canada and the U.S. would be required for storage of the warheads in Canada—if this country decides to accept them.

The cabinet decision on this does not appear imminent.

One major reason for this, informed sources said, is that the North Bay bomarc won't be operationally ready until next summer and the La Macaza missiles not until late next year or possibly 1963.

Income Tax Explained

Written and designed for the taxpayer who is not in a position to employ the services of a professional accountant or visit an income Tax office.

By C. A. MILLER
Former Supervising Assessor
Income Tax Department

Now we will deal with receipts which are acceptable to the Income Tax Department as a deduction for charitable donations. Each year the tax assessors have to disallow large numbers of receipts which do not qualify under the Income Tax Act as charity, but to the taxpayer it was a charitable outlay on his part.

A case of this nature would be a gift to a needy family.

To be allowable the charitable donation must be made for religious or educational purposes, the advancement of science, or some other cause that will benefit the community as a whole. Donations that benefit only one person or a select group of persons do not qualify as a deduction for income Tax purposes.

As a general rule, donations to be allowable must be made to organizations in Canada. However, if the taxpayer is reporting income from the U.S. he would be allowed donations made to acceptable organizations in the U.S., providing such donations do not exceed 10 percent of the U.S.A. income reported. An acceptable U.S.A. organization for charitable purposes is one that if it was a resident of Canada, such donations would be allowed.

In any case where charitable donations are claimed and fully supported by receipts, such deductions are limited to 10 percent of the net income. Should the taxpayer's contributions to charity exceed 10 percent of his net income, the excess should be carried forward to be followed year. All receipts for the year should be attached to the return with a note requesting the excess be carried forward to the next year and totalled the excess for the next year. Any receipts missing would be disallowed in the next year. The carrying forward must be done by the Income Tax Department.

Question: I have charitable donation receipts, dated last year, that I did not need to make up the 10 percent limit. Can I use them this year?

Answer: No. You should have put it on your return for last year and then the Income Tax Department would have made the carry-over on your return.

* * *

Question: I send donations to a religious organization in the United States. Can I claim these receipts as a deduction?

Answer: Not unless your report income from the United States, and if you do, you may claim up to 10 percent of your United States income. If you do not have any United States income, you have no claim.

Marmora

MARMORA — Mrs. George Empey, president of Marmora Women's Institute, represented the local unit at the Provincial Area convention held in Belleville.

Deer hunters were plentiful in the district for the past two weeks from various points in Ontario. Few camps got their quota. A few bears were also shot.

Mrs. G. Preasick is home again following hospitalization.

Several women from here attended the bazaar and afternoon tea held in Madoc United Church.

CANADIAN AUTO PIONEER — George Foote Foss, 85, who built Canada's first automobile in 1896 in a Sherbrooke, Que., bicycle shop, reads his membership certificate in the Antique Automobile Club of America. He is one of two honorary members in Canada. The first and last Foss vehicle was a 12-mile-an-hour one-cylinder model that travelled 50 miles on a gallon of gas. (CP Photo).

85-Year-Old George F. Foss Built Canada's First Car, Had Chance to Go With Ford

By GERRY MCNEIL

MONTREAL (CP) — George Foote Foss passed up a partnership with Henry Ford in 1900, impressed neither with the automobile nor the car.

"That was probably the second big opportunity I missed," says Foote reflected cheerfully during an interview. "I don't regret it. You don't like to be $5 by coping with the worries of a big business."

Mr. Foss built Canada's first automobile in 1896, the year Henry Ford was putting his car together.

The initial run of the first and last Foss automobile was made along the hilly streets of Sherbrooke, Mr. Foss's industrial hometown in eastern Quebec. The 12-mile-an-hour, gasoline - powered buggy terrified horses, stirred the police and impressed no one.

OFFER REJECTED

The police threatened Mr. Foss with what probably would have been history's first fine for fast driving.

And the banker made a farsighted offer:

"You know, Foss, I saw you racing about town today in your horseless carriage and I think the thing would sell. If you want to manufacture them, I'll back you up."

Henry Ford, scratching for capital in Detroit at the time, was also to be a parent of your United States income. If you do not have any United States income, you have no claim.

Henry Ford, scratching for capital in Detroit at the time, was also to be a parent of your refusal.

"I was 20 then and I didn't think I had the experience to go into manufacturing," says Mr. Foss, former banker's offer."

The Foss auto, well engineered and constructed, almost certainly would have sold. It was advanced for its time.

Unlike other early models, the engine was mounted on the chassis and caused little vibration. The gear box and shift were attached to the steering column for ease of operation.

"Looking back at the cars of the time, I think mine was the best of the lot," he says.

TALK WITH FORD

Mr. Foss first heard of Ford in 1900 at an exhibition in Buffalo, N.Y. Out of curiosity, he visited Detroit.

"We had quite a long talk and he impressed me as a very hard man to get along with," recalls Mr. Foss. "Everything was for Henry Ford."

"I looked at his car and it was nothing but wheels, a frame and an air-cooled engine. He needed capital and I had $2,000 in the bank, but my car was so far ahead of his that I thought I'd be better off going into manufacturing myself."

The conservative young Canadian never got around to it.

He sold his horseless carriage for $75 after four years of trouble-free driving and took over the Canadian agency for the Waterous, an auto built in Massachusetts.

When that company failed in 1903, Mr. Foss came to Montreal and took a job with the Packard first auto dealer as a salesman.

Later, he went into the machinery business and made a small fortune during the First World War selling to American manufacturers. The business collapsed in the 1920s when the market for machinery dried up and Mr. Foss found himself overstocked.

WON'T DRIVE NOW

In 1932, a lengthy illness weakened him. He quit the car and hasn't driven since.

"I wouldn't get a license now and I don't think I'd want one with today's traffic. I'd rather stay in bed."

When well into his 70s, Mr. Foss bought the dynamship Sir and Queen for $10,000 and operated it for two years as an excursion boat on Lake St. Louis, a wide section of the St. Lawrence River near Montreal.

"We learned the captain was nearly blind after we crashed into the dock one morning. Fortunately, we had a good mate."

Mr. Foss and his wife now live quietly in a modern bungalow in Chateauguay, a pleasant residential community southwest of Montreal.

He is one of two Canadians with honorary memberships in the select Antique Automobile Club of America. The other is Col. R. S. McLaughlin, 90, of Enniskilling, Ont., chairman of the board of General Motors of Canada Ltd.

COLONEL'S FIRST CAR

Mr. Foss says he taught Col. McLaughlin to drive after selling him a Stanley Steamer, the colonel's first car and a Foss favorite.

Club publications with their pictures of old cars have left him with a fervent desire to see the Foss original again. And he may yet.

Though healthy and alert, Mr. Foss prevents age from making a first-hand investigation.

"You can't tell. It might be my car. I'd certainly like to get my hands on it again."

WINDSOR (CP) — A detailed study of the assets and liabilities of Ontario's educational system begins its second stage here today.

Thirty - three discussion groups, being attended by 1,000 delegates to the first Ontario Conference on Education, will reconvene to discuss such subjects as religious instruction and the student dropout problem.

In addition there will be three area meetings—covering organization and administration, curriculum, philosophy and evaluation, adult education and current problems.

Delegates spent much of their time in Thursday's group sessions sorting out the questions they will try to answer. One group, discussing the relationship of the home and the school, came up with three recommendations.

It suggested adoption of community codes that would govern the amount of time parents devote to extracurricular activities and proposed that more emphasis be placed on mass participation by students in grade and high school sports. Co-operation between the school and outside groups that organize sports for youngsters was also urged.

J. D. Galvin of Elliot Lake criticized the development of stars in high school sports. He said that "a few experts are being watched by the majority of the students". Rev. Leo O'Neill of Learnington said house leagues would promote participation by every child, regardless of athletic ability.

The debate on religious instruction in the school got under way, but no recommendations were made.

H. R. Frick of Belleville, recorder for the group, said after hearing the pros and cons that he was convinced the problem was insoluble. So many valid but conflicting arguments were presented that he did not think a program satisfactory to all religious groups could ever be devised.

The present method of teaching French to high school students was criticized by Raymond Gagne, a French teacher at Trenton High School. He told his study group that the Grade 13 French examination in particular was "pure nonsense." It ignored the primary purpose of language which was to communicate meaning.

Gordon Wilkinson, an English teacher at a London press conference speaking calmly and without notes, told Fleming put the Canadian case in the most persuasive aspects, stressing that Canada was the fourth largest trading country in the world—the last two considered in its population —and is therefore bound to be sensitive to anything that threatens the Canada-wide trade.

One issue still separates the two governments. Canada is continuing to press British for the full text of Britain's opening speech to the Common Market council in Paris Oct. 10. Fleming said he renewed the request for the document at the meeting Monday with Prime Minister Macmillan, but didn't get any commitment.

At a press conference in Ottawa the next day, however, Fleming attempted to put down any suggestion that Canada considered a "rebuff" the British refusal to turn over the full text of the document.

Fleming suggested then that the importance of Canada's request for the Common Market statement had been exaggerated by the number of questions asked it at the London press conference.

"I don't expect anything more will be said in an attempt to make clear that Canada has made no "demand" as such for the document.

In fact, however, more is still being said on the subject—in London, if not in Ottawa.

In Britain's House of Commons Thursday Conservative backbencher Anthony Fell asked Duncan Sandys, Commonwealth relations secretary, whether he "would state categorically that he will resign rather than be a party to any decisions . . . that would adversely affect Commonwealth trade."

Sandys did not answer. He said Britain had declined to publish memoranda on the matter on the grounds that it would set a dangerous precedent.

Nigerian Hits Discrimination in Church Council

NEW DELHI (CP) — A Nigerian delegate Thursday described racial discrimination as "the largest millstone which hangs around the neck of some church folks and some church authorities" in a speech at the World Council of Churches assembly.

The speech was prepared by Sir Francis Akanu Ibiam and read to the meeting by his wife. Sir Francis made a speaking tour of Canada five years ago.

A medical missionary who returned to his native Nigeria after studying in Scotland, Sir Francis is governor of Eastern Nigeria and chairman of the All Africa Church Conference.

The speech was a frank appraisal of the church and its institutions by a man who can come to a white man because he sits next to me, a black man, whether I'm in a restaurant, cinema, school or church. Those who implement and encourage discrimination against the African only betray their failure to grasp the scriptural truth that we are all children of God."

He said lay Africans should be given technical knowledge to enable them to take over as leaders, administrators, engineers and supervisors in place of white men.

Thirty - five countries are attending the assembly.

Minister Tells Of Efforts on Indian Trade

OTTAWA (CP) — Works Minister Walker said Thursday that Canadian goods will get "favored treatment" by India despite a clamp the credit - short country has put on imports.

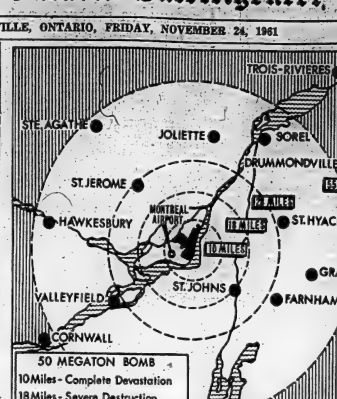
Mr. Walker was sent by Prime Minister Diefenbaker to India on "his way home from Japan and Commonwealth meetings in Malaya to discuss the maintenance of Canada's trade with India.

Mr. Walker said the people of Southeast Asia think the Diefenbaker is the white champion of the colored races. He said some countries were even thinking of erecting a monument to him to commemorate his fight against racial discrimination.

Annual Canadian sales to India, Mr. Walker said, have been up to $12,000,000 from a peak of $60,000,000.

India, he said, with most of its avenues of credit exhausted, will "use American credit to the exclusion of cash trade."

United States credit this year will total $1,200,000,000, Canadian Colombo plan contributions to the country total only $25,000,000, all of this coming in the dual Colombo plan bill of $50,000,000.



Canadian imports from India total $29,000,000.

Mr. Walker said the proposed entry to Britain into the European Common Market is a reality as far as India is concerned. He saw signs of India accepting Russian technical aid, but there was no question but that India was with the West.

There was evidence of a "tremendous affections for Canada because we are a small nation with no axe to grind."

GET PASSPORTS

DURBAN, South Africa (AP) Albert Luthuli, winner of the Nobel Peace Prize, said Thursday he and his wife will leave Dec. 5 for Oslo, Norway, to receive the award. The Negro chieftain said he finally received passports for himself and his wife.

AREA OF DESTRUCTION — The army has set up a network of 140 posts in Quebec to report nuclear detonations and fallout so that plans for evacuation and rescue might be carried out in case of a nuclear attack. Map indicates varying degrees and range of devastation that could be expected should a 50-megaton bomb fall on the centre of downtown Montreal, Canada's biggest city. (CP Newsmap).

PLANS FOR SURVIVAL — Major Pierre Garneau, Quebec army command's adviser on problems of nuclear war, says the areas that would be destroyed and damaged if a nuclear bomb were dropped on Montreal. Major Garneau's main job is to find out what the army can do to save lives and ease suffering in the event of a nuclear attack. (CP Photo).

Quebec Command's Adviser On Nuclear War Problems Gets Little Advice From Past

MONREAL (CP)—From all the fertile minds of military history, Hannibal to Alexander the Great and Hannibal to Rommel and Montgomery — there is little guidance for Maj. Pierre Garneau in his soldier's task.

Maj. Garneau is the Canadian Army Quebec Command's adviser on nuclear war problems, and his job is to figure what the army can do to save lives and ease suffering in event of a nuclear attack in the area.

"There's no precedent," he said. "For everything else, the army can go back through the centuries. But this is creation all along the line. And if we ever get involved in this operation—in the real thing—it would be gigantic."

The army has set up a network of 140 posts throughout Quebec to report nuclear detonations and fallout, and is making plans for an organization that would conduct search and rescue operations in an area devastated by a nuclear blast.

Evacuation in the face of an attack is still the responsibility of civil defence, but the army now has the job of planning survival in the areas attacked.

"We can eliminate panic by knowledge and preparedness," says Maj. Garneau. "That will give us self-confidence and self-discipline."

The fallout reporting posts would have the job of reporting radioactivity from nuclear blasts to the Quebec command's filter centres at Camp Valcartier, 30 miles northwest of Quebec City, and St. Jerome, 30 miles north of Montreal.

Some of these posts are being manned by police, others by employees of public utilities and private firms.

Within a 50-mile radius of Montreal more specialized posts are being established to measure the intensity of the heat of a nuclear blast, and to determine its location and fallout yield.

From information channelled into the filter centres advice would be broadcast to the public on possible escape routes and precautions to be taken against radioactivity.

After the blast, would come the attempt to re-enter the attacked area and to carry out rescue work. In the case of Montreal this would be directed from the target - area headquarters at St. Jerome.

The army estimates it would need 90,200 men to re-enter a devastated Montreal.

"Obviously," says Maj. Garneau, "we would be relying heavily on help from civilian workers. In fact we're geared to take help from them, and we feel people would want to help."

Mummified Body Of Woman Found In Closet

BUFFALO (AP)—The mummified body of a woman who died 15 years ago has been found in her daughter's apartment, police said Thursday.

Morgue officials said the body of Mrs. Mary Nowinski was well - preserved. They said it had been wrapped in cloths that may have been soaked with some kind of oil.

Police said neighbors told them the daughter, Miss Blanche Nowinski, 36, had said her mother was in a home for the aged.

They said Miss Nowinski told investigators that she had taken care of her mother for more than 10 years before the mother's death on Feb. 14, 1946, at age of 86.

She said that due to family disagreements, her mother asked her to say that she was not buried in the family cemetery plot.

Accordingly, police said, Miss Nowinski did not report it when her mother died of natural causes.

The body was discovered Wednesday night by the landlord, who investigated after seeing Miss Nowinski leave the house. It was on a bed, concealed by clothing, a rug, newspapers and a mattress.

Miss Nowinski agreed to enter a hospital for examination. No charge was filed against her.

FILE CHARGES

BONN (Reuters) — Charges against Hans Globke, secretary of state in the West German chancellery, alleging complicity in wartime murder, were filed here Thursday by two representatives of the Czechoslovak Union of Anti-Fascist Fighters. He was denied accusation by East European Communists and has been frequently implicated in Nazi persecution of Jews.

British-Canadian Exchanges Show Basis of Cordiality

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Official exchanges between the British and Canadian governments are back on a basis of mutual confidence and cordiality.

In fact, ministers are practically biting and cooing. This is in contrast with the estrangement prevailing in recent months, particularly between Ottawa and the House in London and the Commonwealth relations office.

The new mood is thought to be in line with the somewhat different tack being taken by the Canadian government in relation to Britain's application for membership in the European Common Market.

Until recently, Canadian ministers and officials have pursued what critics regard as a negative line, saying how hard Canadian trade will be hit if Britain goes in without proper safeguards to what other course she could follow.

As a result, Canada has had a bad press in the United Kingdom. Only The Daily Express strongly opposed to the Common Market, has professed to see much merit in the Canadian stand.

The change in the Canadian tone was apparent Monday when Finance Minister Fleming faced British and Canadian reporters at a London press conference.

Speaking calmly and without notes, Fleming put the Canadian case in the most persuasive aspects, stressing that Canada was the fourth largest trading country in the world—the last two considered in its population —and is therefore bound to be sensitive to anything that threatens the Canada-wide trade.

One issue still separates the two governments. Canada is continuing to press British for the full text of Britain's opening speech to the Common Market council in Paris Oct. 10. Fleming said he renewed the request for the document at the meeting Monday with Prime Minister Macmillan, but didn't get any commitment.

At a press conference in Ottawa the next day, however, Fleming attempted to put down any suggestion that Canada considered a "rebuff" the British refusal to turn over the full text of the document.

Fleming suggested then that the importance of Canada's request for the Common Market statement had been exaggerated by the number of questions asked it at the London press conference.

Poor Memory Is Crippling But Study Gimmicks Help

BY JACK HUTTON

How good is your memory? Try memorizing the following 30 nonsense syllables for the next minute and we'll find out.

Not too easy is it? If you've got an average memory—or even a better than average memory—you remembered very few of them.

Now try memorizing this sentence for one minutes. Close the newspaper when you've finished and see if you do any better.

John Charles, who talked with his teacher today, said he plans to attend a medical school to learn surgery.

What does this prove? You found it much easier to memorize material which had some meaning. This is the first and possibly most important rule to use in memorizing.

Thousands of teen-agers across Canada—both in school and out—find themselves mentally crippled by a poor memory. What all of them overlook is the fact that a few simple tricks can do wonders.

STORMCLOUDS

Since Christmas exams are hanging like stormclouds over some of your heads, it might not be a bad idea at the moment to work your learning with a few of these aids.

1.—Avoid study periods which are too long. For instance, try routine memorizing — language vocabulary and so on—for no longer than 15 to 30-minutes. Then switch to something else.

1.—Try writing down what you want to remember. If nothing else, this frees your mind to think about other things. Extremely simple, but very popular, too.

3.—Have you tried a pack of 100 three-by-five-inch cards? To study French, for instance, fill in 25 cards with a French word on one side and the English translation on the other.

Place them in a pile with French words showing. Try to remember the English translations and place those you can't remember in a separate pile. Eventually the "I-don't-know" pile gets smaller.

4.—A great number of psychologists suggest a READ-RECITE-REVIEW methods in which they say no more than 40 per cent of what you should be spent reading. The leave it to you to work out your balance.

Finally, accept the fact right now that you are going to forget a good deal of what you study—unless you review it soon after. And if you have the time it is wise to study past the point where you can just barely recall something.

Nothing I've mentioned here, of course, is new. Students have been using these gimmicks ever since the early Greeks. But they have also produced results—and could for you.

TEEN ALLOWANCES

Several weeks ago I asked what you figure is a sensible allowance for the average teen-ager. I must confess the answers are still surprising me.

I'll publish the full answers in a future column, but many of you apparently feel that the teen-age cost-of-living has soared right up through the roof.

As one Winnipeg friend said: "By the time I've just gone in a movie on Saturday I've used a week's allowance is gone. Believe me, this creates problems."

How many others feel the same way? There is still time for you to drop a letter into the mail if you want to record your vote.

DRIVING CLASSES

More and more high schools across Canada are deciding that their students can't get some form of driving instruction, our correspondents tell us.

West Hill High School in Montreal is the latest to offer another course. Teachers figured one course would be enough but have had to start a second for all the disappointed would-be drivers.

The big question now is whether schools can legitimately teach driving without cutting something else out of the schoolday.

Some say you can't. Some say you can. All of our research indicates that more schools will be in the "can" category before very long.

RECOMMENDED READING — I can't recommend too highly a new book entitled "Teen-Age Treasury of Good Humor," edited by Seon Manley. It included such writers as Mark Twain, Charles Dickens and James Thurber. A perfect Christmas gift.

How can you improve that important [illegible]? Jack Hutton today suggests a few tricks to "spark" your memory.

Govt., Special Committee On Jobless Insurance Are Racing Against Big Problem

OTTAWA (CP)—The government and the special committee of inquiry on unemployment insurance are racing against a month—million-dollar problem.

With Canada once again heading into the winter period of lower employment, the fund seems bound to dry up before voted for under a different present summer—unless it receives a quick transfusion of federal money.

The special committee, headed by Toronto insurance executive Russell C. Hill, is looking for a long - range remedy for the shrinking fund and the whole question of unemployment compensation.

It is not expected to report to Prime Minister Diefenbaker until sometime next year—perhaps by next April or May.

The government may find itself seeking the insurance body head into bankruptcy if action is not taken in the meantime.

EXAMINE ABUSES

The fund, which held $626,700,000 at its 1956 peak, dropped to $115,000,000 at a mid-1961 September, after several relatively good job months, the fund had to take $140,000,000.

It is against this background that the two insurance agencies and two economists on the special committee are at work. Their job is to take a deep look into the Unemployment Insurance Act — to come up with ideas to put the fund on a sound basis. They are also examining charges of the fund being abused considering its relationship to other social security measures.

At public hearings in mid-November, there was unanimous support for the basic concept of insuring a worker against the hazard of unemployment.

From that point on, there was disagreement on some of the fundamental, some on technical matters.

BASIC IDEA CLOUDED

Big business, as represented by the Canadian Manufacturers Association or the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, stressed the idea that the fund is supposed to be insurance against unexpected unemployment.

What started in 1941 as an insurance scheme has been eroded over the years by extension of benefits and coverage—they said. The blame for this was placed at the door of government—past and present.

Business sought a self-supporting scheme, on an actuarial basis. It said the federal treasury should put in a certain amount is needed to restore the fund to a solvent state, then pay one-third of the cost—not one sixth as it does now.

Seasonal unemployment was seen by many business briefs as an unfavourable certainty that should be divorced from the insurance plan and covered by some other tax-financed scheme of social assistance.

Several substantial cuts took the insurance idea one step further. The Canadian Retail Federation and the Canadian Life Insurance Officers Association suggested an insurance plan related specifically to the incidence of unemployment in individual industries.

This concept, in operation in many parts of the United States, calls for premiums geared to the risk of unemployment—with high premiums in industries where unemployment is generally high; low premiums in the relatively stable industries.

The life insurance officers also suggested that the government should not contribute to the fund, except if it went heavily in the red. They said the insurance principle—a worker's premium to cover his benefits when they really are not genuinely seeking work.

Most of the briefs bore down on insurance payments to seasonal workers, in which period women and to old-age pensioners, cited as examples of "abuses" of the fund. The argument was that these categories of workers frequently collect benefits when they really are not genuinely seeking work.

Most of the submissions at the public hearings were from business groups. Organized labor will make its presentation at the December when the Canadian Labor Congress appears before the committee.

In contrast to the business briefs were the submissions of the Communist Party of Canada and several independent labor political leaders. The Communists dismissed the idea of a straight unemployment insurance scheme as unworkable.

They argued that high unemployment is caused by poor planning and that an all-embracing social security plan should be established. Unemployment benefits, paid for by the state financed by the "corporate interests."

The Communists also suggested that money spent on assignments could be diverted to other productive projects, so providing more benefits, wider coverage of workers, longer periods of help and so on.

Some of the briefs merely pointed out that unemployment had to be remedied. Others gave some recommendations on how this might be done. The Toronto Merchants Association of Canada proposed the creation of department of economics and productivity under a cabinet minister. Its job would be to coordinate the work of the labor, finance, trade and commerce departments, as well as the manpower advisory council, so that the basic ills of the economy can be treated.

Several briefs also urged that the National Employment Service be bolstered with more work of finding jobs for workers.

Eastern Ontario

Timber, In Retrospect

BY FORREST RANGER H. TAYLOR

The square timber men were followed in the lumbering business by log exilers, who were given orders to lay low every green too. My grandfather, Joseph Stringer and my father, Alexander Taylor, as well as I, wondered for a few years what were given. The reason I learned about a year ago from old Municipal books in North Hastings. It was an Act passed in the Province of Ontario, called lumbermen to clear cut everything in the line of trees, whether it was utilized or not, so as to assist the settlers in clearing their land for agriculture. The sad part of that remote control order lay in the fact that those giving such orders did not realize that only a small percentage of the land where the timber was found in the country was suitable for agriculture. In my personal experiences I have logged thousands of acres of Spruce and Pine Sawlogs from skidways where logs were left rotting after cutting, which showed the efforts of a misguided settler to farm land too stoney for ploughing. Many such clearings were abandoned eventually. My father told me of having to fell compassion orders to cut logs in forgeniance in the bush from which the teamsters were not able to skid them because of lack of power. These logs left where they fell, along with the accumulations of score blocks and chips from the square limber operations made an awful clean and fire hazard.

Some of the last square timber my grandfather, Joe Stringer, made was for the Hilland and Dixon Company in the south end of Raglan Township in Renfrew County His Camboose Camp was near the small lake which bears his name. From the big hills he hewed square timber and slid it down to the valley, where it was sloped down Lilly Creek with oxen to the Little Mississippi River on its way to Quebec and the English Market. Then the log cutting gangs finished the slaughter of the Pine so that in May, 1911, the stage was set for a conflagration.

Sunday School Lesson

Fighting for Righteousness

By ROY L. SMITH

So much emphasis is being laid upon the doctrine of peace of mind that modern Christians are apt to be impatient with cults that Christianity is some kind of spectacular opiate.

Let there be no mistake about the matter. A mind that has been freed from worry, fear and frustration is a blessing to be sought after. But the first aim of Christianity is not to relieve its adherents of anxiety, but to enlist them in the war against evil in every form.

EVIL IN CHANGING FORMS

Evil appears in every generation in a form designed to undermine that generation.

There was a time when human slavery represented the great moral outrage perpetrated by a democratic government. The very fact of slavery contradicted one of the first principles of life and government expressed in the Declaration of independence which declares that all men are born free and equal in their rights, that life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. But with slavery outlawed by the War-Between-the-States, the nation was ready to move on to other wrongs, and correct them.

Once that the question of slavery had been settled, the Christian conscience found themselves confronted with the problems of expanding industrialism in which all manner of evils adhered. The economic rights of factory workers had to be established and safeguarded. The "divine destiny" of the nation had to be appraised and the people brought under subjection.

Today we face the problem of foreign aid, nuclear testing and the fall-out, soil and water conservation, juvenile delinquency and hooligranism in industry.

Each generation has its own particular Christian is challenged to get into the fight.

There is no too much disposition on the part of modern church members to assume that the church represents comfortable rest pillets for Christians and that the church universal represents field headquarters for those who are fighting for righteousness.

It is all too apt to be the case, however, that the church has more members in the hospitals sick or incapacitated salesthan along the battle line.

If the Church of Jesus Christ is to be considered a redemptive agency, it must think of its task as being something more than a mere matter of snatching a few brands from the burning. It must attempt to put out the fire, even though it must risk its own life in doing so.

ADVICE TO YOUNG PREACHER

The young man Timothy, to whom this week's Scripture is addressed, was one of the younger of the Christian clergy of the third generation. His mother and grandmother before him had been Christians, and a rich heritage of the faith had been bequeathed to him.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for Nov. 26: "Continuing Growth," Romans 12: 1-21; Timothy 6:11-19; 2 Timothy 1:3-14.

By the time he came to an age where he was to be made responsible for administering the affairs of a church, a considerable amount of paganism had crept into Christian movement. Licentiousness, drunkenness and outright immorality had come over into the new faith along with the converts to society who had been a rude and trusted leader who had evidently learned the methods and was no longer able to render effective leadership, wrote him to warn him concerning the deteriorating influences against which he must steel himself.

He undertook to remind the young man that the past had an unfortunate stake in the integrity of the present—that the sacrifices and heroism of the generations gone laid an extremely heavy load of responsibility upon the generation (particularly the leaders) that had inherited the faith.

The 20 centuries of Christian heroism and sacrifices at our back, we do not dare live as we please today.

Green Scheduled to Place Proposals on Disarmament Before UN as Hopes Rise

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — Amid rising hopes of disarmament progress, External Affairs Minister Howard Green was scheduled to place Canada's views before the United Nations today.

Speaking this afternoon in the 103 - member political committee, Green was expected to plump again for an early resumption of negotiations between East and West.

There are reports of imminent private talks between the United States and the Soviet Union on the makeup of a negotiating body. These were expected to start among officials who would report to U.S. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson and Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin.

Green, speaking with correspondents Thursday night, said some progress already can be claimed during the 16th UN General Assembly. The U.S. and Russia have agreed on a set of broad principles of disarmament and there are prospects of a resumption of Geneva talks in Geneva.

NEEDS COMMITTEE

The main obstacle on the road disarmament question has been the composition of a committee to take up the work interrupted in June, 1960, when the Communist bloc walked out of 10-nation negotiations in Geneva.

Russia has demanded that five neutral countries be added, to form a group of five key eastern countries, five Communists and five neutralists. The U.S. firmly rejects anything smacking of Moscow's troika which seeks to split the world into three political groups.

Canada has been pondering proposals that might assist the great powers in reaching agreement and Green indicated Thursday night one possibility could be to invite representatives from Latin America, Africa and Asia — one country from each geographical area.

MAY BE BETTER

Earlier, the Canadian delegation had been thinking of how to get representation from those continents but the new version appears to be "closer to the thinking of the U.S. and Russia," Green said.

"We want the negotiating committee tied in with the United Nations and an arrangement for continuous negotiations. We also want parallel work to be done on peace-keeping machinery, possibly under the UN disarmament commission."

Green's speech in the committee was expected at about the same time as a scheduled meeting of the 11-member Security Council, sending once more to reach agreement on a strength-ened mandate for the UN Congo force.

The Soviet Union, which has violently backed a U.S. proposal that the UN be authorized to help re-train and reorganize the Congolese Army, returned bitterly Thursday night to its attack on the "colonialists" it says are responsible for Katanga province's secession.

BLAMES AGENTS

A Soviet press statement charged there is evidence that "colonialists' agents" provoked the recent massacre of 13 Italian airmen in Kindu, Kivu province, merely to discredit the Congolese Army and distract attention from Katanga intrigues.

This was violently at variance with a report to the 18-country UN advisory committee, stating that the airmen were dragged from a dining hall and slaughtered by mutinous Congolese soldiers on a drunken rampage.

One Canadian source in close touch with Congo happenings said that "try as it will" the UN Congo force—its 15,500 men spread thinly over the vast country—cannot possibly guarantee against crimes in isolated places. The Italians were murdered after bringing motor supplies to the UN force.

W.M.S. BAKE SALE

Mount Pleasant-Rawdon Woman's Missionary Society held a successful bake sale in Stirling on Saturday afternoon and the proceeds were over $35. The president and several officers and friends were on duty to sell the luscious pies, tarts, cakes, also cream, butter and eggs. This money will be used to further the allocation. To date $209 has been given systematically. The allocation for Auxiliary, Mission Band and Baby Band is $470.40 and it is hoped that it can be reached and also exceeded with a small margin for G.B.A. in the last year of this worthwhile organization There are five life members and 14 annual paid members for 1961. Mrs. Coulter, treasurer of Belleville Presbyterial, has urged every auxiliary to sponsor something this year in order to reach the allocation as the funds are greatly needed to complete the work and pay all the salaries of the missionaries up to Ebenezer. The group were appreciative for assistance from non-members in this venture.

AJAX (CP) — Fire destroyed $1,000,000 worth of merchandise and a warehouse early today in this town 25 miles east of Toronto.

The fire was the second at Ajax Warehousing Limited in two years and consumed $200,000 worth of paint, about 12 cases of ice, some polyethylene chinery.

Charles Walker, a partner in Ajax Warehousing, said he did not know what could have caused the fire since all power and heating is shut off at the main switch when employees leave in the evening.

Ajax police said two constables checked the building shortly before the fire and were just walking away when they heard an explosion. The roof had fallen in and the warehouse was "a wall of fire" by the time they returned to the scene. hours.

Newspapers give you enough time to tell your story properly, and your prospect enough time to read it.

Most people like, and want, newspaper advertisements. Newspapers give them the information they need, and more important, the time to digest it. Through dealer tie-ins they learn where to buy. And a newspaper gives the reader an opportunity to compare.

If you have a competitor, it means your prospective customers must make a decision. "Will I buy this one, or that one?" The sale will usually go to the company with the most convincing presentation. That's one reason for the tremendous success of daily newspapers.

Bruce Kidd Wins American Cross-Country

LOUISVILLE, Ky. AP)— Bruce Kidd of Toronto showed a liking for a hilly course and sloshed through the mud in 32 minutes, 2.6 seconds Thursday to win the National Amateur Athletic Union 10,000 - metre cross-country championship.

Kidd, 18, accustomed to racing on flat courses, won by nearly 30 yards over John Guzynecki of the Baltimore Olympic Club, whose time was 32.58.

John Macy of the University of Houston Track and Field Club, team titlist the third straight year, was third in 32.32.

Kidd, of the East York Track Club, competed with Gajewcki and Macy as the lead seesawed several times over the hilly course.

Houston took its third straight team title; Southern Illinois was second.

OPEN SEASON

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Tropical Park opened Florida's horse racing season Thursday in bright, warm weather with a plump daily double payoff of $636.90. The payoff was made up of Little Hila in the first race and Terencio in the second.

Daily double tickets, up from $2 to $3 for the first time in 22 years of betting in Florida, brought $74,018 through the parimutuel machines compared with $60,094 last Thanksgiving Day.

At Aqueduct in New York, Oil Royalty, an outsider in the betting, closed with a rush in the stretch and won the 14th running of the $28,500 Firenze Handicap. Overlooked in the betting by the crowd of 30,665, Oil Royalty returned $32.80, $12 and $6.80. Second-place Primaushka paid $8.00 and $7.10 and Seven Thirty was $7.90 to show.

Trappers Tie Birds

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Thanks to a three-goal effort by veteran George (Goose) Gosselin, North Bay Trappers savaged a 4-4 tie with the last-place Sault Ste. Marie Thunderbirds in a battle of Trappers' night's only Eastern Professional Hockey League game.

The game, played at the Sault, was a see-saw throughout. Thunderbirds got two first period goals from Doug Robinson but Gosselin scored late in the first and early in the second to tie it.

John Sleaver scored midway through second to put the Trappers ahead 3-2 and Gosselin's third goal at 2:40 of the third made it 4-2. Bob Wilson and Eddie Kachur shared the puck past Trappers goalie Claude Du-four to even the count.

Gosselin narrowly missed giving the fifth-place Trappers a win late in the third when he hit the post with a shot that would have given North Bay Trappers a 5-4 win.

Reds Edge Bisons 4-3

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Buffalo Bisons were turned back by Providence Reds 4-3 in the only American Hockey League game Thursday night.

George Rendell's marker, with 10 seconds left pulled it out for the Reds.

He 15 — footer climaxed a comeback for the Reds, who trailed 1-0 and 3-1 before getting started. Jim Bartlett and Dan Polidori struck for third-period 3-3 lead before Wayne Hicks tied it for Buffalo with his second goal of the night.

Brian Cullen of Buffalo and Pierre Brillant of Providence were the other goal scorers.

BILLS RATE UP

OTTAWA (CP)—Average interest rate of this week's issue of 91-day government treasury bills advanced to 2.42 per cent from 2.37 last week, the Bank of Canada reported Thursday. The rate, generally considered an indicator of conditions in the short-term money market, now has risen for two weeks following a six-week downtrend.

Grey Cup Or Musicians?

TORONTO (CP)—There will be 35 floats and 15 bands wending down Yonge Street on Grey Cup Day Dec. 2—but there will be some notable gaps.

Calgary and Edmonton will not be represented. And Saskatchewan likely won't have an entry.

Calgary officials said the parade would be too commercial and Edmonton said it had better use for its money than spending it on a float.

The Saskatchewan Roughriders football team backed out, the city of Regina wasn't invited and the Saskatchewan government hasn't made up its mind.

R. A. Kramer, president of the Roughriders, said in Regina: "We have decided to forget all about it because we think the thing is being commercialized. We don't agree at all with the entry fee of $300 to get a float into the parade and because it is completely ridiculous to pay a whole bunch of Toronto band musicians whether they appear in the parade or not."

Herb Capozzi of British Columbia Lions said: "we're disappointed that apparently a fee is to be charged but we consider the Grey Cup parade an important event and won't boycott it."

Vancouver, British Columbia and Winnipeg will also have floats in the parade.

Montreal Alouettes, traditionally, will have their high-kicking majorettes march in the parade but there will be no floats from either the team or the city.

Bill Simpson, vice-chairman of public relations for the parade, said the $300 float fee is meant to discourage entering a float and has been in force since the first parade 15 years ago.

Money from float entry fees, dances and other official functions goes toward the cost of festival week and the festival committee would be happy to break even, he said.

Kelly Scores 3, Harvey Gets Winner

Habs Win Over Wings

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Old defencemen never die, and what's more, they even refuse to fade away.

Kelly, playing his 15th season in the National Hockey League, should have been out of the NHL two seasons ago according to Detroit Red Wings, who thought he was on his last legs when they traded him to the Maple Leafs.

The Leafs promptly converted Kelly from defence to centre and those last legs carried him to a 20 - goal season last year.

His three goals Thursday brought his NHL total to 182, only two short of the 200 mark that most NHL forwards would be proud to retire with. It is an amazing total in a man whose business until recently has been defence, and makes people wonder what sort of records Kelly would have set if he played centre all along.

SCORES WINNER

In Boston, another old defenceman showed the youngsters how things should be done. New York Rangers playing coach Doug Harvey set up one goal, prevented numerous others from being scored on his own team, and then fired in the winning goal with 18 seconds left in the game. The 4-3 win kept New York in first place, one home point ahead of Montreal Canadiens who had a little trouble beating Detroit Red Wings 5-3 in Montreal.

Kelly's first two goals against Chicago came only seven seconds apart in the second period and changed the complexion of the game. Toronto had gone ahead 1-0 in the first on a goal by Bronco Horvath.

Kelly's first goal came on a fluke. He tried to pass out from behind the net but the goalie, goaler Glenn Hall, ll rolled down and back into the net.

His next was more legitimate. He stole the puck near the Chicago blue - line and rushed in alone on Hall. Stan Mahovlich scored the winner a minute and 17 seconds later.

Little Stan Mikita got Chicago's second goal late in the second period to tighten the game, but Kelly scored on a power play half way through the third period and Bob Pulford added the fifth goal at 16:23.

Chicago, defending Stanley Cup champions, now stay in fifth place.

STRETCH RECORD

Harvey's battling Blueshirts stretched their unbeaten record to seven straight games with the win over Boston.

The first - place Rangers were in last place at this same time last year and ended up well out of the playoffs.

The 37 - year - old Harvey was New York's leader all the way. He set up Andy Bathgate's first - period power - play goal and then boomed a 40 - footer off Boston defenceman Leo Boivin's skate for the winner.

Ranger fears were down 3-1 going into third period. Doug Mohns, Murray Oliver, and Jerry Toppazzini had scored for Boston when Camille Henry started the New York rally.

Henry scored on a breakaway and Jerry Adair and Bobby Rousseau tied the game less than two minutes later.

Montreal also had to come from behind to get a win and tie second place Toronto.

BENCHES TALBOT

Coach Toe Blake benched defenceman Jean - Guy Talbot for sloppiness shortly after Gordie Howe and rookie Marc Boileau put Detroit ahead. Jean Beliveau's game little more than two minutes later gave Howe's on 6 power play. Bruce MacGregor stretched the Red Wings lead to 3-1 at 11:30 in the first period.

Montreal's Ralph Backstrom got the only goal of the second period, and Bills Hicke and Goyette tied it up at 14:36 of the third, scoring right from the faceoff on Reliable Claude Provost.

Provost grabbed the puck in the last minute of the game, when Detroit pulled out goalie Terry Sawchuk in favor of an extra forward, and skated all the way to the crease to push the puck into an empty net. It was his 16th goal of the season.

Saturday, Montreal plays host to Boston and New York travels to Toronto. Sunday Montreal is at New York, Toronto at Boston, and Detroit at Chicago.

TRADING TIPS?—These three might have something in common when it comes to stopping tough opponents. Toronto Argonaut footballers Dave Mann (left) and Tobin Rote (right) chat with world heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson in his Toronto training quarters. They're all looking to the first weekend in December. The footballers would like to take away the Grey Cup December 3 and Patterson defends his title December 4. (CP Wirephoto).

Sport Slices...

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

There is a new star on Broadway, hockey-wise, and the Gotham canyons are beginning to echo with chants of praise for a big husky Canadian who has led their Rangers out of the wilderness to the seats of the mighty.

For a reported $35,000 a year, Doug Harvey, former pride of the Montreal Canadiens, a star in his own right, and one of Canada's best hockey players, has whipped the White Way Minutemen from a lanlior's department platoon into a potent, effective force that has taken over the National Hockey League lead.

But the dubious task, to quote Tommy Manville's friendly soliloquy on the eve of his umpteenth marital venture, "It's going great at this time, but how long can he last?"

Harvey has tossed that trite old cliche, "Don't do as I do, do as I say" back into the author's teeth. His credo is "Do as I do, and pay attention to what I say."

For the husky playing coach of the Rangers has been putting in 30 minutes ice time, coaching the squad, scoring and helping to score goals, retaining his sanity and causing other National League mentors to wonder what in the Harvey modus operandi.

The former Canadien is still a great hockey player and as such is making a fine coach. He may be a mite slower than the baleen days with the Habs but he is just as determined, in fact more so, since he has more responsibilities. He considers it a night's work to take a regular shift, kill penalties and engineer the razzle dazzler power play.

Perhaps part of the Harvey "secret" is that he has wrought a personality change in his players. They appear to be a lot happier with him than former mentors. They know that he knows what it is all about. And he is not shying away from work. He is the greatest morale builder to hit the Great White Way sports scene since Babe Ruth told Boston to go take a flying into a crock of baked beans.

As of this writing the Broadway Blues are sitting pretty atop the National League heap, two points ahead of Harvey's old buddies from Montreal. Wednesday night the Blues hung a big 4-0 goose egg on the Detroit Red Wings with the exception of three of the markers. Last night he scored the winner and assisted on another in defeating Boston 4-3.

The adjustment hasn't been easy for Harvey. It is hard to break old habits, forget old associations, friendships, etc., resulting from long closely-knit play, and-fun habits. For instance, the first time he played against the Canadiens he almost mistakenly passed the puck to a Montreal player. "For a second I must have thought I was still playing for them," he admitted later.

However his counterparts of other teams in the league, grudgingly perhaps, admit that Harvey's adjustment of the Rangers is such a short period of time has been little less than spectacular.

Although the season is less than one-quarter finished, he is being boomed as the potential coach of the year and most valuable player. Seven times in his 14 years with Canadiens, Harvey was named the league's outstanding defenceman, but never the MVP.

And the Rangers have been apt pupils for Professor Harvey. Their response has been almost as spectacular as the "do-or" defeat at hand of the Habs. Their record, including last night's game, is ten wins, five defeats and five draws. It has been a long weary season since the Rangers looked up and saw no other team glaring down. They finished fifth, sixth and fifth in the last three years.

And Professor Harvey says: "I spend a lot of my time thinking about our next game or how to help one of the players who is not going so good. One big thing is to give them a feeling of pride. I'm not used to losing."

Tigers Upset Bulldogs

WATERLOO (CP) — Waterloo Tigers withstood a blistering third-period attack to register a 6-4 upset over the second-place Windsor Bulldogs in a fast Senior Ontario Hockey Association game Thursday night.

The loss was only the second of the season for Windsor and the victory was Waterloo's third against five losses.

The Tigers carried a 5-3 lead into the third period but the Bulldogs bounced back to cut the margin to a single goal before centre Nick Rinaldo potted what turned out to be the winner. Defencemen Bill Mitchell later scored another goal for the Bulldogs but Waterloo goalie Chuck Jewell pulled off several saves to save the game.

Windsor outshot the Tigers 42-33.

Other Waterloo goals went to Larry Litzgus, Jim Dahmer, Harry Katzenik, Marv Rothledge and John Lowes. Centre Lou Scodo paced the Bulldogs with two goals and Joe Klukay, Jerry Servias and Mitchell got the others.

Wings Whip Guelph 8-2, Petes Lose

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A 34-second scoring spurt that netted Hamilton Red Wings three goals in the first period gave the Wings all they needed to stretch their unbeaten string to 13 straight in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A Series.

But they added five more to beat last-place Guelph Royals 8-2 Thursday night and open a 12-point bulge between first and second spots.

The fast-paced Peterborough - Toronto game was tossed down in the third period by a fight between Spain beat Morocco 1-0 in their Spain beat Morocco 1-0 in their Bob Wilson of Peterborough and Pete Ford. They continued the fracas in the penalty box and were handed misconducts as well as major penalties.

Toronto's other goals Thursday night were Dennis Hull, with two, Bill Ives and George Stanfield.

Tigers Big Question

Will Patterson Be In Line-Up?

HAMILTON (CP) — Will Hal Patterson, who in a different uniform killed many a Tiger-Cat team in former years, be in the lineup Saturday in Hamilton's last-ditch effort for a Grey Cup berth?

When the Ticats emerged on the short end of a 25-7 decision last Sunday in the first game of the two - game, total-points Eastern Football Conference final with Toronto Argonauts, Hamilton coach Jim Trimble said Patterson definitely would start in the second game.

As of Thursday night, however, ad Trimble would say was that his lineup won't be announced until shortly before the 2 p.m. EST kickoff.

Patterson, acquired this season in a trade with Montreal Alouettes, was a big factor in Hamilton's early spurt which catapulted the Ticats in first place in the Eastern Conference. But he has been on the sidelines in the last half-dozen games with a shoulder separation.

OTHER WISE O.K.

Otherwise the Ticats, physically at least, are in good shape as they'll ever be for a team starting a game with the score already 18-0 against them.

A capacity crowd of around 26,000 is expected for the game which will be viewed by television fans of the CBC's western network and the CTV hookup of private stations in Toronto, Ottawa and Montreal.

The Civic Stadium turf will be in good condition, thanks to a tarpaulin borrowed from the University of Toronto. The tarp, which protected Varsity Stadium in recent years when the East - West final was played there, was down during Thursday's torrential rains.

Toronto coach Lou Agase has been secretive about his lineup. Whether he will use middle guard Marty Martinello or line-backer Jim Andreotti, both suffering from twisted knees, will be decided until Saturday morn-ing. Dick Fouts definitely will der but is a possibility if the Argos get to the Grey Cup.

Attendance, Betting

Tracks Break Records

TORONTO (CP) — Attendance and betting at Ontario's three major racetracks this season hit all-time highs, total attendance passing the 2,000,000 mark and wagering topping $100,000,000.

The Jockey Club Limited, owners of the three tracks, announced Thursday that total attendance in the season just ended reached 2,074,181, compared with 1,936,676 in 1960. Betting totalled $101,977,424, compared with $88,857,082.

Paradoxically, while wagering hit a new high betting on thoroughbreds declined slightly, to $39,540,959. The over-all increase was the result of a $3,686,078 jump in wagers during the annual harness meet at Toronto's Old Woodbine Track, to a record $12,327,675.

The season was Ontario's first for night harness racing, and crowds at the 52-day OM Woodbine meet jumped to 343,784 from 229,601.

Operations at Fort Erie track showed a slight decline, particularly in the spring when bad weather kept crowds down. Sixty-seven days of racing drew 336,325 spectators who wagered $36,401,680, compared with 325,057 spectators and $38,741,800 in bets last season.

Horse Dies Five Hurt In Crash

WOODSTOCK (CP) — One Mexican jumping horse was killed and five others injured Thursday when the van carrying them back to Mexico City smashed into a low highway overpass near here.

The dead horse, Comodoro, was with the Mexican equestrian team which completed last week at the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair in Toronto. Ill health prevented him from jumping at the fair.

Comodoro was ridden by the Mexican team which won the Nations Cup in New York last year in international competition.

Man worked more than five hours to free the injured horses from the wreckage with welding torches and saws. The van roof was crushed down on the horses in the collision and the animals suffered slight cuts.

Owned by the Mexican Horse Federation, the animals were valued at $5,000 each. None of the three men in the van were injured in the crash which occurred on Highway 53 five miles east of Woodstock.

Illegal Betting Is 100 Million

TORONTO (CP)—The amount of money wagered illegally in Ontario on horse races "substantially exceeds" $100,000,000 a year, says a special provincial government reports on gambling released Thursday.

The report, authored by Toronto lawyer Joseph Sedgwick, condemns the present system that handles this money could not survive if deprived of the use of telephone services. The report, compiled by Sedgwick and Detective-Inspector Ted Hinds and statician Rolf Eng for Attorney-General Roberts, says "consideration" be given to permitting government-operated parimutuel betting on Ontario races outside the race track, in areas of the illegal bookie business.

Provincial laws permit betting on race tracks through the parimutuel, which divides up the total money wagered on any race among the holders of the winning tickets after deduction of 15% per cent for profits and taxes. The Ontario Jockey Club is the only operator of such parimutuel.

The committee calls for legislation permitting the Bell Telephone Company to withdraw service from a subscriber who is using the telephone for illegal gambling purposes.

SUGGESTS POLICE AID

In addition, the committee recommends legislation permitting attachment of a "dial-a-line" device to a suspect line or phone kiosk to aid police in tracing the whereabouts of any bookmaking ring. The device records only the telephone numbers dialed on the suspect phone and makes no record of conversation.

Calling for heavier penalties against convicted bookmakers, the report considers that small fines are merely "license or taxes to bookmakers and "even a fine of thousands of dollars is a moderate bookmaking operation."

The committee says it considered recommending legislation banning the publication in Ontario newspapers and radio of gambling information, such as odds, and then still appealing to racing in Ontario. It decided against the recommendation because U.S. newspapers or radio stations would continue to provide the information to Ontario bettors.

The report scores the present monopoly control of legal betting by the Ontario Jockey Club and Toronto Turf Club.

The committee expresses surprise that federal legislation in 1952 gave parimutuel operators in Canada a flat rate per race concession profit. "It seems to the committee inconsistent that this sole avenue of private profit in organized gambling should be allowed to persist without public scrutiny and control," the report says.

The total amount of money wagered in 1960 on Ontario flat and harness-racing tracks, was listed in the reports as $98,847,063 and the published profit of the Ontario Jockey Club was $1,262,936.

The committee says the money wagered on bets on track and in any legal betting parlors off the track is not a true index of production to be retained by the racing association should be fixed by a government body.

Packers Defeat Detroit

By JERRY GREEN

DETROIT (AP) — With or without Paul Hornung, only a complete collapse will keep Green Bay Packers' drive to their fourth straight Western Division title in the National Football League.

Just one victory in their remaining five games will send the Packers into the Dec. 31 NFL championship game with the Eastern Division champions. "We're not having a celebration—not yet," said coach Vince Lombardi, the man who built the Packers from doormats into division champions in two years. "But obviously we're in great shape needing only one more win to take it."

Hornung, Detroit punter - teammates Boyd Dowler and Ray Nitschke were available on a game-to-game basis. The army granted them and John Gordy of Detroit passes to play Thursday.

Hornung, the NFL's leading scorer, appeared rusty. But he caught a key 36-yard pass in the Packers' 40-yard drive that resulted in their winning touchdown on the first play of the final period.

The Packers now will take a few days off while New York Giants and Cleveland Browns play the Eastern Division showdown Sunday at Cleveland.

In the American Football League, the New York Titans, supported by a solid defense and lightning quick scoring thrusts, defeated the Buffalo Bills 21-14 Thursday and kept alive their flickering hopes for the Eastern Division title.

The Titans used a 67 - yard scoring pass from quarterback Al Dorow to Bobby Reme for one touchdown, and a 55-yard pass interception by Dick Felt for another.

The win gave the third-place Titans a 6-5 mark, while Buffalo is now 5-7, Houston (6-5-1) is first place and Boston 4-6-1) second.

BEACH FINALS

KITCHENER (CP) — Rinks skipped by Robert Coward of Orillia, Allan Shirr of Kitchener and Sid Smithers of Galt defeated Thursday night to reach day's final of the Kitchener-Waterloo Granite Club men's invitational bonspiel. Coward represented Ontario in the Canadian curling championships at Calgary last season.

Giles Opposes Spitball

CINCINNATI (AP) — Warren Giles is flatly opposed to legalizing the spitball pitch, a proposal expected to provoke a big battle among baseball men this month.

The National League president said Thursday he believes the pitch "would merely mean cut down, scoring and curtail home runs, which are "what the fans come out to see."

American League chief Joe Cronin has said he favors allowing the spitter because "some pitchers could add three, four or even five years to their careers" if they could use it.

The major leagues rule committee will decide at the winter meeting in Tampa, Fla., next month whether to legalize the pitch. Managers and players want a firm decision on the matter, partly because, they say, some clubs could add three, four or even five years to their careers" if they could use it.

In its legal days, the spitter came when a pitcher put saliva, or some other foreign substance on the ball, or roughed up one side of the ball and scored up a pitch with great skill that soared in an erratic and unpredictable way. It was outlawed in 1920.

Maca Meet Picton Cousins Here Tonight

The Belleville McFarlands will be trying to run their winning streak to three games here tonight when they play host to the Picton Merchants in an OHA Eastern Junior League game at nine o'clock.

The Mics have won all their previous starts, over Kingston and Peterborough, by 4-3 scores, and at present rules are penned atop the league standing.

Picton has always put up a tough scrap against their "city cousins" and there is no reason to think things will be different this season. The Merchants are managed by Chris Lockyer and are coached by Sammy Mulholland.

Among some of the better known names in the Picton lineup are Larry "Pocket" Pero, a pint-sized forward who specializes in putting the puck in the net, goalie Don Branscombe and defenceman Gary Woodbeck. Mulholland has a large group of rookies and according to reports, has them skating at top speed.

Meanwhile, Mac coach, Gordie Bell is expected to go with much the same lineup as in the two previous games. There could be a change in the net's however as Bell has indicated that he intends to use both Gord Parker and Ron Dulmage this season. Parker has played well in both games to date.

If tonight's game is a typical Belleville-Picton affair, there will be plenty of action, of one kind or another. The faithful are advised not to miss it.

Guarantees Himself Profit

How the Bookie Operates!

TORONTO (CP) — If your friendly neighborhood bookie operates on a eight - point spread on Toronto Argonauts to beat Hamilton Tiger-Cats this weekend, does that mean he has guaranteed himself a profit?

Not at all, says the Ontario attorney-general's committee on the enforcement of gambling laws, in one of its comments in the assessment of how the public will bet for and against the Argos. The bookie is a businessman, not a gambler, and he sets the spread to guarantee himself a profit no matter who wins.

The report, tabled Thursday in the legislature, explains it this way:

"Commonly, the bookmaker balances his books by means of a points spread—the bettor is required to wager not merely that team A will beat team B, but that it will do so by more than a stipulated number of points.

"The bettor is further required to give odds, for example to wager $11 in the hope of winning $5. Where the bookmaker achieves a balanced book—that is, equal amounts of money staked on each possibility—he is assured of a profit margin of $1 in 12.

"Further, the bookmaker may not pay on ties—if it happens that team A beats team B by only the stipulated number of points, or eight - point spread, the possibility of profit may be further increased by providing that those wagering to the necessary stipulate that team B will not lose by more than any seven points. Such an arrangement would mean that the bookmaker would collect on all bets if team A beat team B by 7 points or eight points."

Syndicate Acquires ML Gardens

TORONTO (CP) — A three-man syndicate headed by Stafford Smythe bought control of Maple Leaf Gardens for approximately $2,000,000 Thursday.

Smythe told a press conference that control was acquired through purchase of 45,000 shares of stock from his father, Conn Smythe, founder and president of the Gardens, honorary member of the National Hockey League Toronto Maple Leafs.

Associated with Stafford in the purchase were sportsman Harold Ballard and John Bassett, chairman and publisher of The Telegram and chairman of the board of CFTO-TV. Stafford said each man bought one-third of the controlling shares.

At a meeting of the board of directors Thursday, Ballard was appointed head of the Silver Seven — the Gardens' hockey committee.

Stafford said his first projects will include a review of the ticket distribution arrangements, television contracts and need for additional seats.

Operation of the O'Keefe Centre for the Performing Arts meant the Gardens now would "concentrate on being an arena and go after large conventions," he said.

Astrological Forecast

Saturday, November 25
By CARROLL RICHTER

General Tendencies: One of those Saturdays when it is much easier than usual to find the supplies and articles that you need in order to have what you like, as well as to add to the efficiency and the comfort at your own residence. Be sure you are careful of the feelings of others, for they are apt to be touchy tonight. Dine out this evening.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Be sure you handle duties about the house efficiently this Saturday. Then in spare time sit down with close ties and come to a far better understanding so that there is greater harmony within the home in the future.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) —An ideal day for visiting, provided you take real caution while out driving or in motion anywhere. Also, think before you speak or you could unwittingly cause relations with one important to your well-being. P.M. Be with friends.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) —Handling monetary affairs wisely this free day will insure greater security and if you make the improvements that are necessary about the home, you could get comfort and value increased. See that you set up a better budget, too.

Money Children (June 22 to July 21) — A day to have a ball at whatever it is that most pleases you. Think up unusual ways to amuse those of whom you are fond. Throw a little party on the spur of the moment and delight everyone or attend one that's nice.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Now you know exactly what has to be done this Saturday and are in the mood to clear up these tasks quickly and efficiently. Don't put it off again. P.M. Take health treatments you need so you can tackle next week's activities.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) —The right day to get together with good friends and enjoy the hobbies that are mutually pleasing. Evening is also fine for social pleasures and having a ball. You have fine talents — delight everyone with them.

Libra (Sept. 2 to Oct. 23) — Since success hinges pretty much on what you do Saturday, to get credit higher and hit upon new ideas, see that you solve many of your problems today as well. P.M. Have dinner out.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) —Get out early to those new friends, new outlets that will make your future more happy and successful. You can also have a wonderful time while expanding your horizons, taking long drives, studying the historical as well as the new.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) —Go over your books and be sure you know what your true position is on this free day, particularly with regard to your bank account. Then be happy this evening with the one you love. Forget any pretty worries — be gay.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) —Important you contact allies difficult to be with during busy week and exchange views and ideas. Then you can sign new contracts and be ready for greater success in the future. Entertain them in the evening.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Every moment should be devoted now to clearing up all that accumulated assortment of tasks that face you this Saturday. Evening is then fine for entertaining your associates and showing your appreciation for their friendship.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) —This can be one of the happiest days you have had in a long time, if you get in touch with good friends early and plan a day of enjoyment and recreation wisely. Enjoy simple pleasures with them and don't be extravagant. Use that charm!

If your child is born today . . . he, or she, will be one of those interesting people who will appear to have almost a split personality. There will be fantastic cuntsiness on one side and boisterous tomfoolery on the other. However, with the right education and religious training there can be a tremendous success in this chart, especially if you teach that there is a reason for every cause.

Canadian Press Sports Editor

Now that just about everyone's football fiberit in the land has awarded Toronto Argonauts a spot in the Dec. 2 Grey Cup final, the question before the house is whether a team finishing third in the league standings has ever made it to the East-West classic. The answer is no.

Of course, coach Jim Trimble and his Hamilton Tiger-Cats aren't conceding anything. And why should they, but there is a great gloom in the Mountain City.

Tiger-Cats wrapped up first place in the Eastern Conference a few weeks ago and then were knocked silly 25-7 by Argonauts in the opener of the two-game total - point final last Sunday at Toronto. The second game will be played at Hamilton Saturday. The in-and-out Argonauts finished third in the 14-game schedule and, by all accounts deserving, don't deserve a berth in the Grey Cup.

At times this year they skunk the joint out. They couldn't put together two good 60 - minute performances until the payoff games. Then they knocked off the second-place Ottawa Rough Riders in the sudden - death semi-final and followed with a somewhat astonishing victory over Thrifts.

ARGOS NEVER BEATEN

The whole business about this 1961 Cup final at Toronto is shaping up as something akin to civil war. Listen to the experts and they'll tell you the two teams who will occupy the benches on Dec. 3 are Winnipeg Blue Bombers and Argonauts.

If this happens, people likely will storm the Canadian National Exhibition Stadium gates in Toronto to watch.

The Bombers have a few scores to settle with Argonauts and Argos have a proud Cup record to uphold.

These two clubs have met six times for Earl Grey's trophy and the Bombers have six goose eggs to show in the win column. Toronto has hit the national final 10 times since the East-West rivalry started in 1921 and has won every time. For the most part, Argonaut - Bomber clashes have been thrillers.

STOREY HAS WILD

They met first in 1937 and Argonauts won that one 4-3. They were right back at it the following year and going into the fourth quarter with Winnipeg leading 7-4. It looked as if the decision would be reversed. But Bombers were unlucky in meeting a fine player on the greatest day of his career.

Jackie Storey got off the Argonaut bench and rambled 95 yards for one touchdown, intercepted a pass and raced 60 yards for his second, ran 100 yards to set up a third and plunged in yards for his own third touchdown. Final score: Toronto 30 Winnipeg 7.

With the Second World War over, the Teddy Morris-coached Argonauts met the Bombers in 1945-46-47 and beat them by 35-0, 9-0 and 10-9 scores.

That '47 final was one of the best in history. Argonauts were 5-to-4 favorites but that didn't bother Bombers who led 9-7 with five minutes to play. Argos got down, for the frozen field three times into range for six-pt. field goals by Joe Krol.

SANDBERG'S LAPSE

The game-winning point came with seconds remaining after a strange play by Winnipeg quarter Bob Sandberg, a standout on the Bomber team. Realizing that Bombers hadn't the reserve strength to match the Eastern club if the game went into overtime, he gambled everything on a third-down field kick with the ball on Winnipeg's 35-yard line. Centre Mat Wilson headed off to Bert Isaacson on what was known as a guard-around play and Isaacson was stopped cold.

Argos took over from there, setting the stage for Krol's kick which landed with the final whistle.

The Bombers returned for another try in 1948, the year of the great mud bath at Toronto Varsity Stadium. This was supposed to be the greatest Winnipeg team ever assembled with pass-happy Indian Jack Jacobs at quarter.

The players were up to their ankles in mud and the teams were forced to revert to the old two-backs-and - a - kick style of play.

Argonauts were the better mudders and won that one 13-0.

GRANTS ASYLUM

BRASILIA (AP) — Brazil granted asylum Thursday to Portuguese rebel Capt. Henrique Galvao but restricted his movements to the hinterland city of Belo Horizonte, Brazil said Galvao's home-in-exile is there and after.

Galvao fled to retard the Portuguese liner Santa Maria at sea last January as a protest of opposition of the Salazar regime in Lisbon.

Machines May Take Over Educational System, Claim

By ALEX MORIN

OTTAWA (CP)—Machines originally designed by psychologists to teach rats and pigeons may in another generation or so be sophisticated to the point that they can take over the whole educational system.

"This isn't as far-fetched as you may think." H. J. A. Goodman of the British Columbia Teachers' Federation told Thursday in reporting work being done by American scientists to incorporate complex digital computers into the teaching-machine industry.

He told a Canadian Teachers' Federation seminar on programmed instruction programmed learning that American concerns were forging ahead in principle to mapped the development to the point where a central computer could take over the task of presenting 30 courses to 1,000 students at one time.

The machines would be fed the facts of the student's previous knowledge and background and go on from there with programmed material that supposedly would teach him in all reasonable time, then test him to be able to.

MIGHT ALTER FUNCTION

Although this might not eliminate the teacher completely, said Mr. Goodman, it would greatly alter his function as it is now understood.

The majority of delegates to the three-day conference took a dim view of machines taking over the teaching more than a teaching aid.

H. R. Matthews, supervisor of courses study for the Protestant school board of Greater Montreal, saw great potential for machines in education but feared that unless they were used by flexible, intelligent teachers the true test of programming might be lost.

"The programme best in the eyes of the children is not a test, and a teaching aid, but a teacher."

VALUES NEEDED

However, it was a teacher of facts and facts only, Turcs or Goodman said, he could see no part value in machines.

Dr. F. G. Robinson, research director of the Canadian Teachers' Federation, said further study is needed. At present, it was clear the method could at best supplement the teacher, not supplant him. Nor could the standards of teachers who were lacking in skill.

He suggested that programmed instruction be introduced into elementary school mathematics courses.

Focus on Health

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Twelve this week! Signs of influenza in terms of death, hazardous drugs for young children and the common problems of life in a world—clears.

WAVE OF DEATH

Two Asian influenza epidemics have swept the United States in the last three years since the specific virus was first discovered, doctors say. There are indications that the second of the two may be involved to some 85,000 deaths.

Scientists have urged that influenza show be given to older persons, pregnant women and persons with chronic ailments since they are more often than not the cause of the deterioration of health the world over.

Dr. George D. Hammer said the two essential factors in the formation of pneumonia seem to be the digestive action of the stomach acids and the decreased resistance of the mucous lining of the bronchial and upper digestive tract.

Three in Field For Kitchener's Mayor's Chair

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Three men were nominated Thursday night to contest the post held by Kitchener Mayor Allan Meininger for another term of office in a seven-city, three-county and town held nomination meetings.

The three, C. Mortimer Bean, Russell Hembergerr and Harry Ashley, will participate in one of two wide-open races for municipal offices in Ontario.

No fewer than 30 men were nominated for the 10 council seats.

At Sault Ste. Marie, Mayor James Mckinstry faces opposition from Werner Hill in an attempt to retain the city's chief magistracy. Residents are to store in all six wards in the municipal race.

R. J. Miller and George St. Hilaire qualified to contest the mayoralty of Oshawa now held by F. R. Purdy, and at nearby New Liskeard Mayor J. L. Taylor has been returned by acclamation.

A two - way fight for mayor is in store at Ingersoll, where A. Norman Little is nominated to run against the incumbent, Ross Fewster.

Mayor John C. C. Leagmuir of Brockville was acclaimed to another term, as was Mayor Stanley Martin of Whitby, in another acclamation. Simcoe Reeve W. R. Rose moves up to the mayoralty, succeeding Maurice Vye who is retiring.

At Haileybury Mayor Arthur Cooke will be opposed by Ken Buffam.

Reeve Fred Stenson of North Monaghan township was returned by acclamation. But races are in store for two other reeveships.

Reeve Manford Horne of Orillia township faces opposition from Wilfred Jermey, and Reeve J. C. Richardson of Tiadale township will be opposed by Charles Shields.

AT THE BELLE — LAST 2 DAYS — Piper Laurie and Paul Newman in a romantic moment in "The Hustler". From the pages of Walter Travis' off-beat novel, comes a super-charged movie, cut from the fabric of life. "The Hustler", in CinemaScope, is playing today and Saturday at the Bella.

AT THE PARK — Cary Grant, Joan O'Brien, Dina Merrill and Tony Curtis provide the romantic interest as well as most of the humor in "Operation Petticoat", in Color, by Color Corporation comedy for Universal-International, which Grant and Curtis are the top stars, showing today and Saturday at the Park Theatre. On the same program is Color by Deluxe, "Seven Ways From Sundown" with Audie Murphy and Barry Sullivan. Continuous show Saturday from 1.30 p.m.

Robin Bain Leaving Show, Too Early to Get Out of Bed

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—CBS, rather inconsiderately for the insomniacs, is moving Dave Meeinbower on the Presidency program on the evening of Thursday. Most Americans were tired and sleepy by that after Thanksgiving dinner.

The 56th president till continued till conversations with Walter Cronkite. He covered a wealth of subjects, as it was televised so to best.

Now that Robbin Bain is planning to leave NBC's Today show, there is a new problem of income to decide she didn't like setting at 7:30 a.m. daily — it might be a good idea to reverse the whole format.

Since the speakers have been John Chancellor as head man, Frank McGee doing as world-do comical side-kick and chief policeman, the morning program has been slow-moving and beery.

That trend we could predict to advance in the coming two: One of the major TV series producers is planning a 60-minute series on another war in another hospital. The success of Dr. Kildare and Ben Casey in a season pretty bare of hit shows was bound to produce the usual flock of imitations.

Bing Crosby Is Back to Check On 'Population Explosion'

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Bing Crosby was born this week for a check on what he admits is the Crosby "population explosion."

"I not only got a-new kid of my own," said the embarrassed Bing. "I've also got three grandchildren in the oven."

Bing had come home from England to meet his sixth son and seventh child, Nathaniel Patrick, born Oct. 29.

"We haven't figured out who he looks like yet; it's a little too early to tell," said the crooning patriarch.

Bing will now have more time to spend with his expanding family. He was leaving for his Nevada ranch for four weeks rest from his overseas rigors. He started Road to Hong Kong with young Bob Hope in July, finished one day and started a TV special the next.

The Als Show, which will be on the air Dec. 11, has a story-line of Bing searching for his ancestors. He finds an authentic Inn, Crosby's head, and, in fact, the whole production crew — Terry-Thomas, Dee King and Ken Mosely. Also featured is Shirley Bassey, "a young colored girl from Wales who sings like Lena Horne."

ADMIRES ENGLISH

How did Bing take to such a long stay in England? "Fine," he said. "The eating was excellent; the English crowds a long way since austerity days. The London restaurants are among the best and we had an English cook at our place who could do anything. She was so good that I'm bringing her over if I can get through the red tape."

"London is my favorite city. The people you meet are middle-class, friendly and amazingly well informed. I enjoyed all of their mass-to-street broadcasts and you find out there about what's going on in the world.

"The theatres in London is marvelous. I thought I had had it with Romeo and Juliet, but I saw a production at Stratford Vic that was simply great. Hope and I loved Beyond the Fringe.

"It's just great to get back to a revue, but what talent! I haven't laughed so much since Ted Healy was alive. . . ."

Two Tied In Mobile Open Golf

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Newcomer Ken Still, club pro Leo Biagetti, and tournament regular Gay Brewer Jr. tied Thursday for the opening-round lead in the $15,000 Mobile open golf tournament. Each had a three-under-par 68.

Co - favorites Arnold Palmer and Doug Sanders shot a 72 and 70, respectively.

Bob Rosburg of Windsor was among five grouped at 71, while Al Balding of Toronto shot a 72.

Other Canadian scores: Jean-Paul Allary, Bolleau, Que., 76; Wil Homenuk, Winnipeg, 76, and Hal Johnston, Montreal, 75.

THE CORPORATION OF THE CITY OF BELLEVILLE

BY-LAW NUMBER 7397

A BY-LAW TO PROVIDE FOR AN EXPRESSION OF OPINION OF THE ELECTORS OF THE CORPORATION OF THE CITY OF BELLEVILLE UPON A CERTAIN QUESTION

WHEREAS it is deemed desirable by the Council of the Corporation of the City of Belleville to obtain an expression of opinion of the Municipal electors upon the question hereinafter set forth;

THEREFORE, COUNCIL OF THE CORPORATION OF THE CITY OF BELLEVILLE ENACTS AS FOLLOWS:

1. That on the 4th day of December, 1961, being the same day as the annual Municipal Elections are held, in the same polling booths and during the same hours as the polls are open for the election of persons to be submitted to a vote of the electors the following question, namely:

Are you in favor of "public games and sports for gain" after 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon of the Lord's Day, to be held only by Municipal By-law passed by the authority of the Lord's Day (Ontario) Act, 1950-1?

2. That the Head of the Council, or a member of it appointed by the Mayor by resolution, shall attend at the Council Chamber in the City Hall in the City of Belleville, on the 20th day of December, 1961, at the hour of 2 o'clock in the afternoon, or as soon thereafter as may be, and if requested so to do by the Mayor, shall then proceed to sum up the number of votes given for, and the number of votes given against the question, and publicly declare the results of the said vote.

3. That the said Head of the Council, or a member of it appointed by the Mayor by resolution, shall attend at the Council Chamber in the City Hall in the City of Belleville, on the 20th day of December, 1961, at the hour of 2 o'clock in the afternoon, or as soon thereafter as may be, and if requested so to do by the Mayor, shall then proceed to sum up the number of votes given for, and the number of votes given against the question, and publicly declare the results of the said vote.

THIS BY-LAW shall come into force and take effect on the final passing thereof.

APPROVES SUBWAY

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal received the final go - ahead Wednesday on its plans for a subway as the Quebec Municipal Commission approved by-laws enabling the city to borrow $132,000,000 for the transit system.

Owen Sound Times Reporter Came to Georgian Bay City Hard Way, by Parachute

OWEN SOUND, Ont. (CP)— The roads into this scenic Georgian Bay port city are many, and there'd be also a rail-way.

But French-born Pierre Pourchelle did things the hard way when he adopted Owen Sound by his home. He dropped in by parachute.

When the fights of this community first met Pierre's gaze they were glimmering weakly through an early-morning haze, about a mile underneath.

He was struggling with the shrouds of an RCAF Harvard plane fast running out of fuel. The future Owen Sounder's heart wasn't full of hope at that moment; it was in his mouth.

That was in July, 1955, when Pierre was 21. Now, father of two Owen Sound-born children and a reporter on the daily Sun-Times, he cannot forget the morning he thudded into a soggy field in nearby Annan, a maze of tangled leaves and pathetic cord. His plane had smashed itself in a field three miles distant.

Pierre at the time was Sgt. Pourchelle of the French Air Force, and as part of his training as a NATO pilot he should have flown from the base at London, Ont., on a triangular course over Fergus and Wingham.

LOST IN STORM

On the Fergus-Wingham leg he ran into an electrical storm. He was lost, compass went awry, and the plane wandered over Georgian Bay, more than 30 miles off course.

"I realized I was out over the water heading northeast with both fuel gauges running low," he says. "The storm was clearing in, giant clouds advanced. . . . I felt so isolated in my cockpit.

"I wanted to call for help, but the aircraft's radio was useless."

After deciding against an ejection at crash - landing, he bailed out and landed on the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Boyd.

The Boyds were a welcoming committee. He grasped out his story and got a breakfast of bacon and eggs.

It was the hospitality of the Boyd home that nurtured the young Frenchman's affection for the Owen Sound district. When he was transferred back to France the following year he decided his future home would be on the shores of Georgian Bay.

In 1957 he returned and settled here with his French-born wife. He worked at first for a local surveying firm, then for a bank, before moving into the editorial department of the newspaper.

He fills his spare time by tutoring local children in French, and runs a French-speaking club on Saturday nights.

He still cherishes an ambition from his flying days. Although he still shudders when he drives through the woody countryside, he is not entirely forced down, he is nursing the idea of becoming a bush pilot.

Tariff-Cutting Agreement May Be Shaping Up

By ALAN DONNELLY

OTTAWA (CP)—A major tariff-cutting agreement, with important side - effects for Canada, may be shaping up at Geneva talks of the 23 - nation Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

Negotiations on this move which involves the two economic giants, the European Common Market and the United States, likely will be approaching a climax when ministers of GATT member countries meet at Geneva next week for a regular session of the world - wide trade organization.

The GATT ministerial conference won't be part of the marathon tariff negotiations which have been going on at Geneva since September of last year.

But informants here say the conference discussions undoubtedly will touch on one of the main aspects of those negotiations—the U.S. proposal to reduce some of its tariffs in return for Common Market agreement to reduce the levels of the external tariff wall being erected by the six-nation trading bloc.

Under its Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act, the U.S. executive administration has power to cut tariffs on individual commodities by as much as 50 per cent over a four-year period.

If the U.S. and the Common Market reach a tariff - cutting agreement, Canada would benefit by virtue of most-favored-nation tariff principle.

Canada has been involved in its own GATT tariff negotiations, seeking agreement on reductions in tariffs of interest to this country.

However, informants indicated that the Canadian negotiations await the outcome of the U.S.-Common Market bargaining sessions.

The Geneva negotiations are the first major effort within GATT to achieve a reduction in tariffs. Canada has proposed an external tariff—a uniform tariff which would be formed over a 10-year period of adjustment in the individual tariffs of the six Common Market countries.

Two bloodstained knives were found in a garbage pail in the ward. Prison officials said that from the bloodstained state of the washroom and the condition of Wentworth's body it appeared he had tried to defend himself with his bare hands.

CASE ENDS

As investigation continued, another investigation stabbing case was winding up in magistrate's court nearby.

John Bertein Gough, 18, convicted of causing bodily harm to Robert Smith, another prisoner, was sentenced to four years to be added on to the two years he is serving.

The prisoners in Kingston serve sentences ranging from two years to life.

Evidence showed Gough and Smith met in reformatory, met again later in Toronto after their release, committed robbery with violence in Toronto together.

Smith was convicted first and Gough was picked up later. CAN'T WALK

Smith said Gough approached him in the washroom and accused him of informing police. Smith was stabbed three times and doctors said he would never walk again without the aid of canes, crutches or braces.

"In all probability you will never change," Magistrate James B. Garvin said in passing sentence. "You have ruined Smith's life physically and possibly in other ways. Your sentence must be one to act as a deterrent to others."

There were no arrests announced in the Wentworth slaying.

HOLD BOY, 13 IN HANGING OF FINKS GIRL

Sent to Juvenile Observation Home

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — A 13-year-old boy, arrested Friday following an intensive 11-day investigation by police, is to appear in juvenile court on Monday charged with the murder in the strangulation of Linda Finks, 7.

The body of the blonde girl was found hanged by her coat belt in the attic of an abandoned store in central London Nov. 13. She disappeared several hours earlier when her mother, Mrs. Ernest Finks, went her to buy a newspaper.

The boy, charged as "being a juvenile delinquent in that he did commit murder," was questioned repeatedly during the investigation. The charge was laid Friday following police consultation with Crown Attorney C. C. Savage.

Searchers found the girl's body in the dusty attic of the store, within 100 yards of her home. She was suspended by a belt looped around ceiling joists. A knee length dress set neatly beside her body.

Medical examination revealed death was due to strangulation and showed no evidence of sexual molestation.

Police, who said the old building was used as a playground, questioned 400 of the 1,000 neighborhood children in the investigation. They also combed up and interrogated all known and suspected sex deviates in the city.

Mid-November Fallout Level Up But Not Due to Red Super-Bomb

OTTAWA (CP)—An increase in the average level of fallout was recorded by health department officials in a 19-city stations across Canada in mid-November but scientists do not believe the jump reflected the new explosion of its 50 - megaton nuclear bomb Oct. 30.

The average radiation level in the week Nov. 8-12, the health department reported Friday, was the second highest weekly level recorded in Canada since Russia resumed nuclear testing at the start of September.

In the first two weeks of November daily readings recorded by the department's 24 air sampling stations combined to fluctuate widely, following the trend of recent weeks.

For the week Nov. 6-12 the average radiation level in air samples jumped to 40.3 disintegrations per minute per cubic metre of air, highest weekly figure since the 113.175 reading for Oct. 30-Nov. 5 was 22.2 and for Oct. 23-29 read 37.6.

The international Commission on Radiological Protection has set the safe permissible radiation level for persons in occupations but this is based on continuous exposures throughout a lifetime.

Fallout readings in air samples are designed to provide a quick report on atmospheric radioactivity following nuclear explosions. They are not related to absorbed doses of radiation which people may give only indirect information on probable fallout at ground level.

The readings for the two week period at the beginning of this month concerning levels of short - mouth reflect the rapid change, which occur in levels of short lived fission products, a type of radioactivity not yet considered a health danger. These types of fission products disintegrate over a short period and levels drop almost as quickly as they build up.

Although the level on Nov. 12 jumped to 76.0, a considerably

Prime Minister Visits Nfld. At Election Campaign Pace

CORNER BROOK, Nfld. (CP) A homespun visit as election-campaign pace carried Prime Minister Diefenbaker deeper into Newfoundland today as he preach preservation of human rights and the ties that bind Canada together.

Mr. Diefenbaker and his wife, paying their first visit to the province, Newfoundland, arrived Friday and set the teen-age tone of the 24-day jubilee activity.

He addressed more than 2,000 high school students, shook hands with scores of their parents and presented 10 liberal, signed copies of his Bill of Rights to student representatives.

Friday night at a public dinner here he:

1. Announced arrangements between Ottawa and Newfoundland to aid fishing communities where catches have slackened substantially.

2. Expressed hope that Britain's negotiating skill will bring both political stability to the European Market—through British entry—and preservation of Commonwealth ties.

But he sketched the hazards Canadian trade — and particularly those affecting Newfoundland—may face in the form of higher tariffs if Britain joins the European Market.

He said arrangements had been made to help fishing communities financially distressed because of low catches.

About to be implemented was a scheme whereby the winter works program would be extended to reach, with the federal government paying 50 per cent of labor costs and the province and municipalities, splitting the rest. If necessary, up to $300,000 would be given for approved local improvement projects until March 31.

The prime minister lacked at Stephenville Friday a flaw to to Deer Lake and continued back west to Corner Brook. Today, he was visiting Gander, Lewisporte, Botwood, Windsor and Grand Falls, attending more high school addresses and more presentations of the Bill of Rights each visit.

In all, Friday, he saw more than 5,000 people—many waving welcoming placards and cheering, despite the Liberal political tone of the province. He spoke to three big high school audiences, was interviewed by students, on a Corner Brook TV program and had a private million-dollar luncheon with Premier Joseph R. Smallwood, his wife, which he called an outpost of freedom.

He also conferred privately with Newfoundland Progressive Conservative Leader Hickman, Opposition Leader James Green ot Corner Brook. The events of the political day ended at the top, frequently emphasized by Mr. Diefenbaker, with a call for unity by the addition of Liberal members of the legislature and Cabinet to the Conservative ranks.

Finns Say Talks Postponed With Reds on Baltic Threat

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Finnish sources said tonight Finland has agreed to postpone talks it sought with Finland on military dangers in the Baltic.

The talks, slashed into effect Finnish President Urho Kekkonen returned here by air from Novosibirsk after a day of talks Friday with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

The talks in the Siberian city 2,000 miles east of Moscow centred on Finland's fears of Soviet calling for defence consultations on West Germany and the Soviet allegedly threatening Russia through Finland.

Reports suggested of the talks, the sources said, was expected to be made later in Moscow and Helsinki.

As he headed home he was assured of another term as Finland's president.

In the Finnish capital, former Premier Karl-August Fagerholm Friday withdrew from the January presidential election in favor of the stood a good chance of beat.

Cures for Educational Ills Presented at Final Session

WINDSOR (CP)—One thousand men and women interested in Ontario's educational problems have been attending three days of deliberations which ended Friday night.

Delegates to the first Ontario Conference on Education will hear recommendations presented at 33 study groups. Conference officials hope the suggestions will form the basis for a blueprint of the future of education in the province.

An assortment of cures for educational ills were presented here Friday, ranging from theories discussing how education in Ontario can be improved.

Dr. S. H. Deeks, director of the Industrial Foundation on Education, said the emphasis of discussions must be devoted to education. Young people must be encouraged to stay in school until they have achieved their full potential. More aid should be given deserving students, and new tools of communication, such as television and teaching machines, should be developed.

Trevor Moore, vice-president of the University of Toronto, proposed that children begin school at an earlier age. Technical skills should be introduced at every level so that students could enter university at the age of 16 or 17. Education should also be aimed at conditioning the public for "years of leisure."

The contention that there is little wrong with Ontario's school system was made by Dr. Ross Robinson, general secretary of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation.

Offensive Newspaper Men Needed

MONTREAL (CP) — A provincial Montreal Historian said Friday newspapermen "need a lot of often vive newspaper men to stir the world out of its lethargy."

Murray Ballantyne, in a panel discussion at Loyola College, blamed dull newspapers, and universities too, for the trend towards mass conformity in today's modern society.

The point has been reached now where people's minds are either empty or numb," he said.

Two Fugitives Get Added Terms

KINGSTON (CP)—Two penitentiary escapees were each sentenced Friday to additional terms for their escape from Collins Bay Penitentiary Sept. 5.

Judge Maxwell Strange sentenced James Pearson, 28, of Kapuskasing and Peter Pattison, 21, of Toronto, to three months concurrent on charge being at large and escaping custody.

The pair were recaptured 75 minutes after they fled.

NAME PEARSON CANDIDATE IN ALGOMA EAST

Liberal Leader Is Unopposed

ESPANOLA (CP) — Opposition Leader Lester B. Pearson said Friday a Liberal government's first domestic objective would be a massive attack on unemployment.

He said this would be done through fiscal, monetary and planning policy "which will put people back to work."

"I'll not be done, it has been done, and it will be done," the Liberal chief said.

He was addressing a Liberal meeting here where he was nominated for the sixth time as candidate for Algoma East in Northern Ontario, an area described as Liberal country.

Mr. Pearson's nomination was unopposed.

He told the crowd of 200 that the current situation of heavy unemployment and massive, chronic unemployment, is "intolerable."

Dealing with the international scene, Mr. Pearson said that as prime minister he would do everything possible to "make Canada's voice clear and secure on the side of peace."

FRAMES GREEN

He praised Conservative External Affairs Minister Green as a hard and honest worker on the international front.

But he said Canada's voice, internationally, in the Conservatives took office in 1957, has become "more uncertain, more hesitant, more negative" compared with the former Liberal government's external policy.

He also accused the government of a "sterile and negative attitude" in attempting to persuade Britain to stay out of the European common market.

"These policies don't have taken that attitude," he said.

Canada's position should have been that if Britain did decide to enter the European alliance, Canada possibly would also take to avoid economic dislocation elsewhere and to "see if they cannot work out a world this development."

Rejection of the Liberal policy aimed at an Atlantic free trade area, Mr. Pearson described as a continuation of "an opportunity for Canada to have a fourth option, and to open up and have a half size."

He was sharply critical of what the Conservatives ineffective government attempts to renegotiate Britain's long-term commitment to purchase 12,000 tons of Canadian uranium in the 1965-66 years.

Mr. Pearson, whose riding includes the Sault Ste. Marie area centre, noted that talks were held in Ottawa last week but said he could find no evidence of "definite progress."

"No doubt there have been con-

DAWSONVILLE, Ga. (AP)—Sheriff Rufus Talley reported a prisoner escaped by cutting a hole in the jail roof and making a can opener. The sheriff found the can opener behind the toilet in the roof Thursday but the prisoner J. W. Weatherford, on burglary charges—still is missing.

Canada Demands U.S., Reds Forget 'Numbers Game'

Deal With Disarmament On Global Basis, Plea

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — Canada has proposed that disarmament be tackled promptly on a global basis with the United States and the Soviet Union forgetting their "numbers game."

External Affairs Minister Howard Green urged Friday in the 105-member United Nations political committee that Africa, Asia and Latin America be represented in future negotiations.

Green told reporters later he feels that the formula of one country from each of those geographical areas would have a better chance of acceptance by the U.S. and Russia. But in his speech he also mentioned the possibility of two countries from each of the main-country continents.

"Whatever agreement may be reached, he said, the fundamental point is not a question of numbers but of determination to go on with the job of actual negotiations," Green said.

He departed from his prepared text to describe the talks between the U.S. and Russia as a "numbers game" which could not be played indefinitely when the issues involved civilization and a "world blown up."

SHOULD BE WITH UN

The Canadian made an important issue of the contention that any disarmament negotiations should have a connection with the United Nations — unlike the talks now underway in Geneva in June 1960.

Those talks—with five countries from each side—were set up by the 18g Four with only occasional reports by the UN and since their dissolution the Soviet Union has launched a crusade to have the UN abandoned in the world among three political groups.

Green told the committee in its debate on disarmament he felt the Russians "are not afraid of me"—the question of controls—but of negotiating body should remain a barrier since the U.S. and Russia appeared deadlocked over the issue of the whole problem.

On another topic, Canada abstained on the Soviet resolution in earlier voting in the committee. Russia had asked against it Friday, in view of the Soviet resumption of nuclear tests toward disarmament. Green said: "our main intent, however, is to see disarmament negotiations going again."

Canada has been hopeful of the warming use of nuclear weapons as a crime. Green said the attitude of Canada has been hypocritical, and the Western powers "have always insisted they would be justified to use nuclear weapons if the Soviets used them first.

The vote switch by Canada brought a charge of "NATO discipline" from a Russian delegate, but Green told reporters this was the usual sort of reaction from Moscow.

Teeth, Bones And a Shallow Grave May Tell Amelia Earhart Story

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A landing strip with a few bones formed the latest chapter today in the mysterious 1937 disappearance of Amelia Earhart, the world's best known woman flyer.

Fred Goerner, 36, a reporter for radio station KCBS here, said a group, organized by him, that he found a shallow grave on the jungle atoll of Nikumaroro Island that contained bones and 27 human teeth.

"We are not sure these are the remains of Amelia Earhart and Fred Noonan," Goerner said. "But Theodore H. Gillespie, coroner of Contra Costa County, who examined the bones in Bellingham at Berkeley has agreed to study them."

Miss Earhart and Noonan, her navigator, were on a flight around the world when they disappeared July 2, 1937.

The last word from her was a radio message: "Have one half-hour fuel and no landfall. She was near tiny Howland Island in the Pacific, some 1,600 miles from Hawaii.

Goerner said Miss Earhart

Will Meet Force With Force Says Tshombe

ELISABETHVILLE (AP) — President Moise Tshombe of Katanga province today warned the UN and the central Congo government that he would "meet force with force."

This was Tshombe's reply to the UN Security Council resolution saying that Katanga's secession must be ended "by force if necessary."

The president called a special press conference and said:

"We are prepared for any aggression and solution of the problem by peaceful means. However, if we are attacked we will reply with force."

Federal Deficit Is $211 Million

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government's April-October budgetary deficit in the first seven months of the 1961-62 fiscal year as expenditures for defence, hospital insurance and unemployment relief rose.

The deficit for the April-October period compares with a deficit of only $10,300,000 for the same period of fiscal 1960-61. Finance Minister Fleming estimated in his April budget that the deficit for the whole year would total $650,000,000 in the fiscal year ending March 31.

Revenues for the April-October period, expenditures climbed to $1,160,000,000 from $1,160,000,000 a year earlier. Revenues advanced more slowly, to $3,220,000,000 from $3,170,000,000, while continued weakness in corporation income tax collections.

Defence department spending in the seven months jumped by $100,000,000 to $632,000,000 and civil contributions to provincial medical care plans more than doubled to $61,000,000 to $1,700,000 and public debt charges rose $24,300,000 to $387,000,000.

Revenues from personal income tax continue above last year at $1,101,000,000 — the same amount as $73,900,000.

But collections from corporation income tax—till waiting for this year's reduced profits — were $86,600,000 lower at $697,700,000.

Federal Deficit Is $211 Million

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government's April-October budgetary deficit in the first seven months of the 1961-62 fiscal year as expenditures for defence, hospital insurance and unemployment relief rose.

The deficit for the April-October period compares with a deficit of only $10,300,000 for the same period of fiscal 1960-61. Finance Minister Fleming estimated in his April budget that the deficit for the whole year would total $650,000,000 in the fiscal year ending March 31.

Revenues for the April-October period, expenditures climbed to $1,160,000,000 from $1,160,000,000 a year earlier. Revenues advanced more slowly, to $3,220,000,000 from $3,170,000,000, while continued weakness in corporation income tax collections.

Defence department spending in the seven months jumped by $100,000,000 to $632,000,000 and civil contributions to provincial medical care plans more than doubled to $61,000,000 to $1,700,000 and public debt charges rose $24,300,000 to $387,000,000.

Revenues from personal income tax continue above last year at $1,101,000,000 — the same amount as $73,900,000.

But collections from corporation income tax—till waiting for this year's reduced profits — were $86,600,000 lower at $697,700,000.

WOMEN'S RINK BEATEN IN FINALS AT BURLINGTON

The women's section of the Quinte Curling Club are showing their prowess early in the season and if the showing at Burlington last Friday is any criterion, they will be heard from before the season is over.

A rink of Mrs. Jean Riley, lead; Mrs. Heather White, second; Mrs. Agnes Senn, vice skip and Mrs. Jane Shepherd skip journeyed to Burlington for an open bonspiel and found plenty of competition. They were successful in moving to the finals and were beaten by a Galt rink after a close struggle. There was a full draw and the women report a very enjoyable time with the Burlington Club voted excellent hosts.

Macmillan Talks "Berlin" With de Gaulle

CHELWOOD GATE (Reuters) Prime Minister Macmillan and French President de Gaulle came in grips with the Berlin crisis today at Macmillan's Sussex home.

The two leaders ushered their second day of talks amid reports Macmillan had received a message from President Kennedy on his Washington meeting with West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

Reduce Period Children Stay In Care of CAS

The board of directors of the Children's Aid Society met on Thursday. Mrs. James H. Fraser, the president, presided.

Mr. Bruce Kerr, the local director, reported that during the month of October had been a busy one for the Society and that thirteen children had been admitted to protective care. "Despite this," Mr. Kerr said, "we provided more than 2,000 fewer days care this past month than was provided in October, 1959, a drastic reduction. Although our Children's Aid Society considers we are now better equipped to meet the needs of our children and, consequently, they remain in care for a shorter period of time. A total of thirty wards of the Society have been placed in adoption so far this year and an additional thirteen have been brought in from outside agencies for placement with the result 50 whom children are not available locally."

Mr. Kerr made reference to a recent decision handed down by the Juvenile and Family Court concerning the adoption of a child by a family of a religious faith other than his own. He said that in his opinion this should be given careful study in respect of a specific situation and that it need not in any way affect the existing policy of the Society which is to place children of the Roman Catholic faith with Roman Catholic families and children of the Protestant faith with Protestant families.

Manpower T. Y. Wills appeared before the board on behalf of the Juvenile and Family Court Committee and presented a tentative draft of an agreement between that committee and the Society concerning the provision of detention facilities for children in charge, the agreement was approved.

On a motion of Alderman George Wishart which was seconded by Mrs. Fraser and Mrs. Bancroft, the Board approved a resolution to amend the bylaws of the Society by the introduction of a clause which would serve to provide automatically a member from board membership if any member is absent without excuse from three consecutive meetings of the board or meetings of committees of the board.

Acclamations Are Numerous In District Municipalities

Acclamations were generally the order of the day in rural Hastings County yesterday as nominations for next year's councils were held in various townships and villages.

Municipal councils in Sidney, Thurlow and Hungerford saw all positions filled by acclamation, but in the village of Stirling there will be a fight for the reeveship. Reeve Douglas Spencer is being opposed by Burton Thompson.

In Madoc township, Reeve Hesleigh Hamilton, this year's county warden, was returned to office by acclamation as was deputy reeve Gerald Irvine. The only change in council is Gordon Willman who will replace Elvin Hart who retired following five years in council. The other two members acclaimed were Jack M. Bush and Ernest Kells.

Reeve Percy Pound of Thurlow was returned by acclamation as was his deputy reeve Clayton Hall, while in Rawdon Reeve Harold Vardy and Deputy Reeve Vincent Healey were also returned by acclamation. Councils in both municipalities were also returned.

School boards; (all acclamations) North Thurlow — George Thompson and Everett Green; South Thurlow — Kenneth Griffin, Harry Thomson and William Lucas; Centre Thurlow — Earl Rose, Clarence Chambers and Gerald Livingston.

HUNTINGDON

There will be an election for reeve in Huntingdon township where Reeve Homer Wilson is seeking his 6th term of office will be opposed by former councillor Russell Sills.

Council was returned by acclamation. Three members are Kenneth Holland, Goldie McMullen, Elmer Rollins and Wesley Farrell.

TWEED

Reeve — Burton Thompson
Douglas Spencer (both qualified).

Council — Emerson Hodgins, Hugh Hanna, A. Thompson, E. J. Courneyea, Wm. G. Allan.... Allan withdrew, Ernest Bateman, P.U.C.—Cartha Casaidy (acclamation).

School Board—Walter Higgins, Dr. G. S. Berry (acel.)

UN Secretary Speaks Plainly To Soviets

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold of Britain and Thant has made plain he will use his powers to train the United Nations civilian and professional moves in any part of that country, and the Soviet efforts to limit UN authority.

U Thant spelled out his position in blunt terms in a major speech to the Security Council since he became chief after the two Soviet veloes killed U.S. efforts to give him a broader hand in the Congo.

The Soviet Union warned U Thant that it would be watching closely to make sure he does not go beyond the mandate of the council.

The council finally adopted a watered-down Afro-Asian resolution demanding that secession-ist activities "cease forthwith" in Katanga province alone and empowering U Thant to use force if need be to drive out foreign mercenaries out of that breakaway province.

The Russians used the veto to defeat U.S. amendments which would have had the council deprecate "all armed action" against the central Congo government and authorize U Thant to help the state reorganize and retrain its army.

The amendments could be interpreted as empowering the UN to move against any uprising by Congo leftist leader Antoine Gizenga.

Observers, expressed belief, however, that the Soviet moves were checkmated by U Thant's assertion that the UN force should suppress "all armed activities" and secessionist moves anywhere.

Diplomats Move But No Progress

The mincing measures of the diplomatic minuet are beginning to seem as frenetically stationary as the new American dance, the twist.

There is plenty of movement but no progress. Chancellor Adenauer talks to President Kennedy, President de Gaulle talks to Prime Minister Macmillan, de Gaulle is going to see Adenauer.

But there is still no sign of East - West negotiations on Berlin. In fact, rather than advancing, the Western powers seem to be receding. The feeling current in the Bonn capital ago that East Germany must be accorded some form of de facto recognition, and the Oder - Neisse line accepted as Poland's western boundary, now appears less clear-cut.

All these high - level meetings are in effect a kind of piecemeal Western summit, and de Gaulle has been trying hard to solve his problem not so much a Berlin as of the attitude of the statesmen as on the intractable nature of their subject matter.

KEY TO CONTENTS

For Berlin is the central problem of the cold war, the key to the contest for Europe. As Lenin once said, he who has Berlin has Germany; who has Germany has Europe; who has Europe has the world."

As Khrushchev said, Britain and the United States have no illusions with Russia before things can be settled to their satisfaction. The takes a more cautious view. There is new mood in Western Germany, a stirring of renascent nationalism, reflected in new arrangements for political forces that resirict Adenauer's freedom of action.

De Gaulle seems just as stubbornly opposed to negotiation. He has written that there are "dead periods" in history when the only useful action is no action — and events have shown that few can excel him in diplomatic immobility.

UPHILL TASK

Thus Macmillan faces a thankless task in his personal talks with de Gaulle at the British statesman's country home in Sussex. The French leader has made several previous attempts to woo the French President, apparently without success.

If the Berlin talks get nowhere, Macmillan can try his hand at bringing the French attitude on the prospects for reconciling British interests with the European Common Market with Commonwealth interests.

Finance Minister Fleming of Canada, who saw de Gaulle in Paris last week, reported the French president gave him little encouragement. Macmillan may hope that he can be a little more persuasive than Fleming.

State Dept. Rejects Charge Of Misconduct

WASHINGTON (AP) — The state department rejected five day charges of misconduct by the American embassy in Moscow.

The leftist government of Soviet Premier Khrushchev was reported to have asked two American officials to seek on a goodwill mission to Cuba. Leaders there also have been complaining that the visiting Americans were "disgusted" by the people of the Gulf Island.

"We deny categorically that there was misconduct of American officers in Moscow in connection with this visit," state department spokesman Lincoln White told a press conference. The two ships, the Donner and the Pickens County, have been on a goodwill tour of Africa's Atlantic coast for about a year.

Prices Remain Steady on City Market

The local farmers' market, busy and prosperous place in mid-summer, resembled a deserted village this morning as only a handful of purchasers and vendors turned out. A few vendors took advantage of the sunny weather encountered in Belleville this morning, while perhaps others were frequented the market decided they would wait and return next year.

Meanwhile, the variety of fruits and vegetables were limited with prices remaining the same as previous weeks.

In the vegetable department, carrots, onions and beets were selling for 15c a pint container, cabbage and cabbage sold at 10-25c according to size.

Potatoes were offered at $2.50 a bushel and apples from $2.50-$3.00 a bushel and there was plenty of apple cider, selling at $1 a gallon.

Eggs remained the same price this morning as last Saturday morning, extra large selling for 55c a dozen, large 51c, medium 52c and small 45c.

The handful of vendors will continue to take their journey to the market square on Saturday mornings, as long as the weather is nice. As one lady remarked, "I never know until Saturday morning whether I am coming or not". "If it looks like a nice day I load up my car and come, but on the other hand if the sky looks cloudy, I stay at home".

Spy Identified As Russian-Born Not Canadian

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Bureau of Investigation wrote a sequel to the story of Igor Gouzenko, Soviet spy, on Friday by identifying the principal figure in the Canadian case.

The man, named in court as Gordon Arnold Lonsdale, was arrested in January this year, and was sentenced in March to 25 years. He was head of a spy ring that stole British naval secrets, including details of the atomic submarine Dreadnought, built with the help of U.S. bluejackets.

The trial produced inklings that he was a Russian with a wife in that country, but no details.

Today Attorney-General Robert F. Kennedy announced that the investigation into the spy established his background and his real name of Conon Molody, a 39 - year - old native Russian said Molody came to the United States in 1954 — posing as his own 11 .. year - old son, Peter, with her in Berkeley, Calif., until he returned to Russia about 1958.

Molody, that he is believed to have served in the Red Army before drawing an assignment as an espionage agent.

He went to Canada in 1954, obtaining a passport and birth certificate in the name of Gordon Arnold Lonsdale, before leaving in February, 1955.

Award Contract For Bridge St. Church Addition

Parking Space At Hospital Is Expanded

Visitors' parking accomodation at Belleville General Hospital is undergoing a partial re-location and expansion which has already seen a new entrance and will ultimately see an increase in the number of parking spaces.

The new entrance to the hospital visitors parking lot is east of the Bridge Street entrance on the extreme northeast corner of the hospital grounds.

The former parking lot is being extended further east and additional parking area will be provided adjacent to the hospital's heating plant building.

Grading operations are about completed and crushed rock is being applied.

Parking is being taken away from the area immediately west of the Bridge Street entrance and east of the isolation wing and this area will be seded along with the area west of Bridge Street which was formerly used for parking and the parking lot entrance.

Suffers Severe Hand Injuries

IN MEMORIAM

MARRIAGE. — In memory of a dear father and grandfather, Thomas Durand Marriage, who passed away four years ago, November 26th, 1960.

Why would you like it we could talk to you,
Maybe you'd be the same old way
Quiet, kind and true.
To sit with you and chat awhile,
Share some home-brew a fishery,
Cheer you when you're feeling blue,
For you'd never know the heartache
I'd be hiding.
We'd be over-cheerful—
Always pretending
Your love and Noelle and grandchild.

MARRIAGE. — In loving memory of our father, Thomas Durand Marriage, who passed away four years ago, November 26th, 1960.

In the realm of memory we walk,
And feel the presence of dad we love,
But still the vacant chair we see,
And miss him most of all.
Oh, for one who once sat there,
Lovingly missed by daughter
Lottie and son-in-law Ernest.

MARRIAGE. — In loving memory of my dear father and grandfather, Thomas Durand Marriage, who passed away November 26th, 1960.

Sad but I think of you;
Those left behind are very sad.
Not one hour from my mind you've been,
Since you left me.
When I am all alone
The thought comes so very much,
The one I called my own.

MARRIAGE. — In loving memory of my dear father and grandfather, Thomas Durand Marriage, who passed away November 26th, 1960.

Sad and still and silent,
And a heart that's full of pain,
Memories of a loved one
Who will never come again.
Where my dear father rests,
His troubled mind are past,
He has gone to that land of rest
At last.
He has found peace, rest at last.
Dad, we miss you so much,
But we're very much we miss you,
Dad, we miss you so much.
Sadly missed by daughter Jean and husband Linda.

To forget the day we lost you,
Would be impossible indeed,
To remember you is all we can,
And plant
Flowers in memory no one can see.
Sadly missed and always remembered by Noelle.

Thieves Foiled

TORONTO (CP)—Safecracksers, frustrated in an attempt to blow open a safe containing bowling company vault Friday, escaped with about $10,000 worth of diamonds from a display case.

The safe's front door was blown off, but the thieves were unable to get at thousands of dollars worth of diamonds in another compartment.

A second break-in at a bar store in the same area Friday netted thieves $15,000 in fur coats and jackets.

Mayor D. James MacDonald of Trenton, was returned to a second two-year term as the chief magistrate, by acclamation, last night when the two other nominees for the mayoralty, Vagn Lange and Gerald A. Weaver, did not qualify. (Photo by La-Rocque Studios, Trenton.)

Mayor James MacDonald Acclaimed for 2-Year Term; 12 Running for 4 Seats

TRENTON — Mayor James MacDonald of Trenton was returned to office by acclamation last night, after Councillor Vagn Lange and Gerald A. Weaver, who had been nominated, failed to qualify.

Mayor MacDonald will serve a two-year term. He was first elected as mayor in December, 1959, when he was opposed by Ross Burtt.

On Thursday night, Clifford A. Baker, 1861 chairman of the Trenton Public Utilities Commission, was acclaimed as a commissioner, as his nomination for the position was not opposed.

There will be no election for the board of education this year. Nominees, Mrs. Gabrielle Griffiths, Delbert Topping, George Greer, Louis Knack and Stanley Ketcheson were acclaimed.

Donald J. Sutherland, nominated on Thursday night, qualified with the stipulation that if a sufficient number of nominees qualified to fill the five vacancies on the board, he would retire on the board, he would retire.

Mr. Sutherland told a reporter early in the evening that he was concerned about the lack of interest in the board, and that he would let his name stand if other nominees did not see fit to qualify.

Any lack of interest in board membership was counter-balanced by the very real interest shown in council. Twelve of the 14 persons nominated for council on Thursday night, qualified.

Thursday night, Vagn Lange, nominated both for the mayoralty and for council, withdrew his name from the council list. Last night Councillor N. J. Mc-Nair failed to qualify.

Trenton voters will be asked to select four councillors from the following list: Ronald Birkett, Elmer Bonter, Jim Brown, James F. Day, James S. Duncan, C. V. Graham, Duncan J. McDonald, Don Seals, Ed. Todd, Alfred Vaughan, Douglas Whitley, R. J. Whitley.

On Monday night, commencing at 6 p.m., members of municipal bodies for the 1962-63 term, will report to the ratepayers at a special meeting in the auditorium at Trenton High School.

All qualified nominees will have the opportunity to address the assembly and state their platforms.

Elect Officers For Scout Assoc.

TRENTON — On Thursday night the annual meeting of the Trenton District Council of the Boy Scout Association was held in Canterbury Hall.

Executive officers elected for the 1961-62 season were: honorary president, D. G. Alyea; president, Sid Walker; treasurer, Wib Sherr; committee members, Norman Sprague, Mel Mountenay, Rev. K. F. Blackford, Rev. J. T. Irwin, E. B. Burford, Ted Snider, W. Wilkinson, and Sam Mowbray.

Larry Wilcox, field commissioner, presented 10-year service awards to committeeman Jim Page, Scoutmaster Jack Delong and Assistant Scoutmaster Andrew Harris. Mr. Page has been recommended to provincial headquarters to replace Sam Mowbray as district commissioner. Mr. Mowbray has served in this capacity for the past two years. He has been a member of the district council for 14 years.

Motor Vehicle Production Up

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian motor - vehicle production this week is estimated at 10,252 units compared with 10,218 last week, says the Canadian Automobile Chamber of Commerce.

Production consisted of 9,002 cars, compared with 9,015 and trucks compared with 1,145.

Production to date this year totals 342,142 units compared with 356,055 in the corresponding period last year —make up of 285,463 cars compared with 291,809 and 56,971 trucks compared with 64,246.

TRENTON — Latest tests conducted at the Sidney Street well indicated that the well is capable of pumping water at the rate of 400 gallons per minute. Tests were carried on in September, at which time the well was in operation for eight hours a day, five days a week, for a 25-day period.

On October 16 pumping was started on a 24-hour a day basis and this test was carried on for one week, with the well showing a consistent performance of 400 gallons to the minute. This rate would supply 576,000 gallons a day, or 4,000,000 gallons in an eight-day period.

At Thursday's meeting of the Trenton Public Utilities Commission, chairman Clifford A. Baker said that there had been no further enquiry into a suggestion that this auxiliary supply of water, from protected underground sources, might be earmarked for possible use of town citizens following a nuclear attack. Mr. Baker said that at the time this was suggested, world conditions had looked considerably worse than they do at the moment.

The commissions voted to spend not more than $100 on a float for Trenton's Santa Claus parade. Utilities union members and staff members have volunteered to build the float and man it on parade day.

Commissioners felt that the town's children, the merchants, and the utilities would all benefit from the project. The float will incorporate a certain amount of advertising for the utilities.

Said Commissioner Charles Hilborn: "We couldn't spend the money in any better way. The parade is important to Trenton people."

Chairman C. A. Baker proposed that in the future, when trees are to be trimmed or cut down or poles to be moved, an office representative should call on residents living in the neighborhood where the work is to be done and explain what the utilities are mean to do in creating better relations between the utilities and the general public.

It was decided to approach district contractors on the matter of having older trees and "spoiler" trees, which prevent the growth of smaller trees, removed from a utilities easement northwest of the town. The contractor would be asked to cut the trees and stands and to remove it under supervision, so that other trees would not be harmed in the process.

Predict Beef Price Boost Of 10-12 Cents

EDMONTON (CP) — Packinghouse and retail officials Friday predicted a 10-to-12-cent increase in Canadian retail beef prices by Monday.

Reduced receipts of cattle at public stockyards on the Prairies and in Ontario created a strong market during the last month.

In Edmonton, beef cattle brought $23.50 to $25.85 a hundredweight Wednesday, highest prices the public stockyard has recorded since 1918. The Calgary price reached $25.

Stockyard receipts of cattle dropped following a long period of heavy deliveries by farmers clearing out their herds because of a lack of feed after summer drought, and because of attractive prices offered by United States buyers.

Retail store managers in Calgary said their prices rose Friday, or would rise by Monday, by as much as 12 cents a pound for choice beef which averaged $1 a pound.

Vancouver packinghouse spokesmen said there would be "a almost immediate consumer price increase" of about 10 cents a pound in the lower mainland market.

Winnipeg officials said the meat price increase would be country wide.

Wenner-Gren, Famous Swedish Financier, Dies

OF from Reuters-AP

STOCKHOLM — Axel Hennergren, Swedish financier who poured several million dollars into British Columbia in his plans to turn it into an industrial empire, died in hospital Friday.

Death of the 80-year-old Swede, who built up one of the world's biggest fortunes through his skilled business organization ability, was attributed to cancer.

Wenner-Gren had active business interests in 20 countries, including Canada.

One of the world's biggest philanthropists, he gave an estimated $25,000,000 from the fortune he founded on vacuum cleaners and home refrigerators in various scientific and health foundations he set up in his native Sweden, Austria and the United States.

RETAINS INTEREST

Just before his 80th birthday last year, Wenner-Gren said accumulation of more wealth did not interest him. But he retained a keen interest in his business concerns.

A man known to kings, industrialists, scientists and financiers through the world, Wenner-Gren shunned personal publicity except in his promotion of science.

"It is my firm conviction that science can save the world," he said once, and put much of his energy to spreading that philosophy.

He was blacklisted by the United States in 1940 on suspicion of aiding the enemy in the Second World War. At war's end, he fled a exile in Washington and the charges were dropped.

STARTS AS OFFICE BOY

He started as a tea office boy in a cream separator company. The move that started him along the road to great wealth came in 1918 with his interest in the vacuum cleaner, a new development. He bought one of the original machines and started tinkering with it.

The tinkering brought major improvements. He founded the Electrolux Vacuum Cleaner Company. He produces that improved model.

After the First World War he also expanded by buying up a new refrigeration system invented by two Swedes. He made the first refrigerators using the heat-vaporizing principle of cooling now in common use.

The money from these ventures led him into further investments, in timber, pulp mills, mines and food'stuffs.

Chaput Will Not Appeal 2-Week Suspension

HULL, Que. (CP) — Dr. Marcel Chaput, prominent figure in the Quebec separatist movement, said Friday he will not appeal his two-week suspension by the Defence Research Board.

He was suspended by order in Quebec City last Friday to attend the Laval University conference on Canadian affairs. After the board's ruling he was on leave of absence. The two-week suspension without pay is running. Dec. 4.

Dr. Chaput, president of Le Ralliement, now a Union Nationale Nationaliste (National Independence Rally), said he has planned to speak in public during the period of his suspension.

He is scheduled to address a public meeting Dec. 5, the day after it ends, in Fort Coulonge, Que.

Sixty years ago there were less than 50 sanatorium beds in all Canada. This meant that thousands of patients were being treated, or untreated, in their homes. The doctor advised rest, fresh air and nourishing food. If he was lucky he could afford it there was an ad ditional recommendation that the fresh air be high and dry—the desert of Arizona or the prairies being preferred; if this course was financially impossible then a tent in the back yard at home or a sleeping porch was the compromise.

Bond Market Prices Are Unchanged

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canadian bond markets were firm this week with most prices unchanged.

Day-to-day money was plentiful at two-per-cent.

The treasury bills weakened slightly with the 91-day bills at 2.4 per cent and the 182-day bills at 2.84 per cent.

The mid and long term government market was unchanged with the Canada 4¼-per-cent, 1966, quoted at $101.25 bid, 4½-per-cent, 1983, at 103 and the CNR five - per - cent, 1987, at 108.75.

Two new issues appeared on the provincial market A $20,000,000 Alberta Municipal Finance Commission came to the market at 5¼-per-cent due Dec. 1, 1933, at 338.50 to yield 3.37 per cent The province of New Brunswick issued a $7,500,000 issue in two parts. The first, a $1,000,000 issue at 4-per-cent due Dec. 15, 1956 at $99.75 to yield 4.31 per cent and the second, a $6,000,000 issue at 5¼-per-cent due Dec. 15, 1933 at $99.25 to yield 5.38 per cent.

Queen Given Warm Welcome At Freetown

FREETOWN (AP) — Flotillas of flag-bedecked native canoes paddled out into the Rokel River today to greet Queen Elizabeth as she arrived aboard the royal yacht Britannia to begin a five-day state visit to Sierra Leone.

There was an anxious moment when one canoe almost collided with the gleaming blue side of the royal yacht and narrowly escaped being caught in the ship's churning propellers.

A 21-gun salute from Freetown's Tower Hill thundered a welcome when the Britannia entered the estuary. That was the signal for the little boats crowded with cheering fishermen to swarm out around the yacht.

The boats, whose design has changed little in 500 years, were decked with Union Jacks and colored bunting and the flag of newly independent Sierra Leone.

The Queen, in a blue dress, stepped down the royal gangway to be greeted at the dockside by Prime Minister Sir Milton Margai in flowing white national costume.

From the dockside the Queen and Prince Philip drove down the crowd-lined streets, past the city's famous cotton tree, where freed slaves held their first meetings 164 years ago, to historic Fort Thornton for a civic reception.

Report France Tests A-Bomb

LONDON (AP)—The London Evening Standard's Paris correspondent reports that France carried out a secret underground nuclear explosion in the Sahara Nov. 7.

It was a small-calibre atomic bomb and the fact it was exploded underground made the test undetectable, writes Sam White, who has represented the Standard in France for many years.

White says news of the test has been kept from the French press under threat of prosecution for a breach of national security.

Separatists Are in Earnest

KINGSTON (CP) — Dr. Marcel Chaput, leader of Quebec's separatist movement, said Friday night French - Canadians are not just trying to pressure Ottawa but are determined to "become a separate entity."

"The movement is more than a psychological campaign to pressure Ottawa into granting Quebec concessions," he said. "We will become a separate entity. We will not be a minority any longer."

Dr. Chaput said that in his 37 years as a civil servant on the Defence Research Board he has not once had to do work in French for a supposedly bilingual government. He made the remarks after an appearance on a local television station with two professors of French from Queen's University.

"Even a lot of French-Canadians don't know the separatist woes not serious to begin with," he said. "We are a very strong movement, barely over a year old. We have accomplished 10 times more than we anticipated."

Something Worth Fighting

A common complaint heard these days concerning the hot conflict of ideologies between the free nations and the communist world is that we, the citizens of a free nation, do not know for what we are fighting.

There should be little doubt in the mind of any thinking person as to what is at stake. It is our individual freedom—the freedom to do the many little, insignificant, everyday sort of things which combine to make up a part of our way-of-life.

Not many people really have this freedom, although thousands are now fighting for it in places such as Africa and Asia. This appears to be the only method of achieving individual freedom. It is the same way in which our ancestors obtained it.

It is a precious thing. We who have it must cherish it, protect it and, when necessary, fight for it in order to keep it. It is the latter aspect which engendered two world wars and a lack of attention to the former which allowed them to develop.

Dictators are jealous of it. They cannot exist with it. They must seek to destroy it if they are to survive.

The more ambitious of these individuals or groups will seek to destroy freedom outside of their initial territorial domain once the seed of ambition grows within them. This happened in 1914 and 1939. It will happen again if we are not strong in our defence and protection of it.

Freedom is a positive thing. It cannot be confined, else it means nothing. Those who have it must share it with others if they are to keep it strong.

The desire for freedom is inherent in every strong man—and in many weak ones. It belongs to the strong, who can maintain it, but is often given to the weak, who enjoy it but do little to cultivate it.

It is perhaps our problem that too many weak people have it. They are unable to appreciate it because they had it given to them—they did not earn it. They will easily lose it to those who would take it from them.

Today we face the greatest threat to freedom the world has ever had. The communists will take freedom from the weak just as easily as they drove tanks over helpless Hungarian women and children. They will even execute their own kind to keep their kind of freedom the possession of a very small group.

We are the free. Are we also strong? We shall have to be if we are to remain free. If we are to keep on enjoying the many little everyday things in which we take pleasure.

There is no half-way house for the weary on the road to freedom. We not only must travel its course full length in one continuous motion and not trifler away our time at the roadhouse of apathy, indulgence, compromise and ignorance, but we must also be prepared to put down any highwaymen en route.

An Unwise Observation

Dr. Marcel Chaput, a scientist with the Federal Defence Research Board, has been suspended for two weeks because he left his job to make a speech at a conference on Canadian affairs at Laval University.

Dr. Chaput is a leader of the separatist movement in Quebec, which is urging that that province secede from Canada.

Dr. Michael Oliver of McGill University, national president of the New Democratic Party, has termed Dr. Chaput's suspension an act of "unpardonable pettiness."

It is unthinkable that the new Democratic Party should regard the possibility of the secession of Quebec with equanimity. Indeed, it is difficult to see how a party of its principles, which in other areas stresses the supremacy of the interests of the many over the rights of the few, could countenance secession even if Quebec residents overwhelmingly favored such a course.

It is thus evident that Dr. Oliver can hardly have been supporting Dr. Chaput's views. One of two alternative explanations remain. Either he was trying to curry favor for his party with Quebec separatists, a sorry example of political expediency, or he was expressing a personal opinion at the expense of misrepresenting the stand of the party he heads.

Letter To The Editor

Backs Opposition To Sunday Sports

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer:

I had intended writing an article to be printed in your paper regarding Sunday sports and open theatres but had not as yet submitted it. I was very interested in the letter in Tuesday's, Nov. 21st paper on "Interested Citizen" had written and I'm back of it wholeheartedly. He or she has covered a lot of the spiritual ground which is the only foundation for the prosperity of any country or nation. No one has ever prospered on any other. The world is on the brink and facing the worst calamity it has ever faced and people are disregarding God's rules and laws and wondering why things are as they are.

If the laws of our land were disregarded as God's laws are, and no penalty to pay, as result they wouldn't be worth anything. God's laws and rules are sure to bring punishment. The Bible says those who honor Him I will honor. I don't remember a few years ago when the policies were at war when people got to their knees and they turned to the side of the allies. If My people which are called by my name shall humble themselves and pray and seek My face and turn from their wicked ways, then will I hear from Heaven and will forgive their sin and will heal their land."

I refer earnestly to the Scripture quoted by the "Interested Citizen."

Be not deceived, God is not mocked, whatsoever a man or nation sows that shall they also reap.

Should Keep Cheap Camps

Ottawa Citizen

An ill-advised appeal has been made to the provincial government by the Ontario Tourist Council Association to stop operating its dollar-a-night camp sites. The OTCA argues that operators of motels, resorts and trailer camps are damaged by government management of the camp sites. They propose that the province lease the facilities to private operators or raise the rates to make camping rates for accommodation in the area concerned.

The OTCA is one of the members using the provincially-operated sites, the majority is on vacation at all, rather than a more expensive vacation. In the parks operated by the Ontario-St. Lawrence Development Commission alone, 36,275 families or groups camped this year. There is little doubt that many of this large number of families would not have been able to enjoy a holiday in the open air except for the inexpensive rates provided by the provincial authorities.

There should be ample room in the province for both the provincially-operated camp sites and for privately operated motels and resorts, as well as trailer camps. One provincial official in Northern Ontario has said that despite the large number of camping sites now in that area along the St. Lawrence, motels in the area were crowded all summer—while other stores, restaurants and service stations in the district benefited from the heavy influx of campers.

The government's camp site program has won broad approval. The only problem connected with it so far has been that it has not progressed as rapidly as the OTCA would have to prove beyond any doubt whatsoever that motel operators are being threatened financially because of the camp sites before their case would deserve consideration.

FAITH MAKES US HAPPY

Why, oh why, do we keep on spreading the untruth that religion is a matter of sighs and dread? Religious faith indeed does not lead us to fear of life in terms of quiet solemnity. But such solemnity is not gloom. It is resolute purpose and something itself as it faces life's issues.

The fault of most religious faith is joy. The really happy people in the world are people who have a hold on some religion and who in turn allow that religion to have a hold on them. They acknowledge the moral standards which this religion sets up. They give themselves seriously to living up to these standards. They turn from evil in the spirit of Jesus who in his encounter with Satan said, "Get thee behind me, Satan."

Yes, there is plenty of serious-ness about sincere religion, but the outstanding characteristic of sincere religion is joy. I am not think that the happy people in the world are sinners and the unhappy people are the church members, then go to a church service and listen to a congregation singing a hymn of joy and triumph. Read the New Testament and find therein the promises of joy too great for the human mind to comprehend in anticipation.

"Be glad in the Lord, and rejoice, ye righteous." Do you want to be truly happy? Then take hold on Jesus' faith and let it lay hold on you. There is no joy so great as the joy which such commitment produces.

With all indications pointing to a snowless November, it was learned today that twenty-five acres of wheat under the soil now fell in November last year. Harry Frolick had occurred while in some cases highways were blocked and traffic disrupted.

Announcement was made yesterday that Margaret Elliott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lancelot Elliott of Tweed, has been declared winner of the first Carter Scholarship for Hastings County. The Scholarship carries a value of $100.00 and Miss Elliott is now taking an Honors Course at the University of Toronto.

Following the meeting of the Public Utilities Commission on Tuesday, the Council in committee of whole meeting on Thursday night preparatory to the regular council meeting on Monday night, discussed their concurrence in the stand taken by Mayor Thompson with respect to the profits of the Waterworks being returned to the city. A recommendation "That while the present outstanding utilities bonds matures are financed by the City at large, who in consequence are entitled to any profit accruing as they would be liable for any loss sustained by the said property, as a Council we therefore express our concurrence in the position taken by our Mayor."

20 YEARS AGO

November 25th, 1921

Four thousand, five hundred and twenty transients have been given shelter here. The register containing the names of transients who have been given shelter at the Bellevville Salvation Army Hall is brought up to date. It shows that since the first week in the present year, and up to and including Thursday of this week, 4,320 individuals have been given lodgings for the night. During the last winter the wanderers were fed with hot, nourishing soup and bread, and the same practice will be continued this winter. In fact, for some time past transients have been receiving food after arrival and departure. Through the kindness of numerous church and other organizations, the transients often enjoy many varieties of food emanating from social gatherings.

Cabinet Solidarity

Toronto Telegram

The president of Venezuela gave some timely advice to the wives of his cabinet ministers. He suggested they wear black negligees to keep their husbands from extra-marital adventures.

According to a Toronto ladies wear designer, black should be a lady's favorite if she wants to be glamorous. It enhances the air of mystery which is a woman's chief appeal.

It would seem to be good advice for a wife to keep herself attractive. Some ancient traditions require a husband in the marriage contract to provide his wife with cosmetics — for his own good.

Double-Talk By Douglas

Canadian Chamber of Commerce News Letter.

On October 18, Premier T. C. Douglas of Saskatchewan, on the CBC telecast, "The Nation's Business," made the claim that, "We in Canada spent a smaller portion of our national income on social security than nearly all of the modern industrial nations of the world." He went on to say that "no Canadian can be proud of the fact that Canada has the seventeenth place with Chile in the world's league of social product. People with gout have a high level of uric acid in the blood. Lumps and crystals of uric acid and salts of the acid form in the tissues (called gout).

Mainly gout attacks the joints although these tophi may form anywhere —in the ear lobes, the skin and around affected joints.

The joint pain resembles arthritis — but is different in that in gout attacks can come without warning, perhaps while you are asleep at night. Yet between attacks the patient is quite comfortable.

How long does an attack last? Anywhere from a few days to several weeks — unless recognized as being gout and treated.

Colchicine, a very old drug, remains the most widely used and one of the most effective drugs for relieving an attack and controlling gout. It does not cure the disease, however it may upset the intestinal tract. Other drugs are phenylbutazone and indocin which relieve pain but which are effective when colchicine may not be effective or may be too upsetting to the stomach in severe cases the steroid cortisone, ACTH, may be necessary.

With these various drugs used properly, attacks of gout can be terminated in from one to three days. There is no need to suffer longer. As any victim will tell you, gout can be very painful when an attack strikes.

Although there's no known cure, a great deal can be done to help the body get rid of excess uric acid between attacks. Avoid such drugs as small doses of colchicine, probenecid, and salicylates.

Remember in considering how often attacks may come: Every month or two or three, or only once in a great while. Some patients with careful use of drugs and by taking care of themselves go for years without attack, while it's worthwhile to be careful.

Gout (which attacks men in a ratio of about 20:1) most commonly afflicts the joint of the big toe, but it can affect any other joint or joints, including the spine. All too often it isn't recognized, which is a great shame, because so much can be done to relieve it.

Remember, no one has an obvious cause of a recurrence; a change in diet, for example, is more likely in spring and fall; they may follow surgery, use of certain drugs and sometimes have external injury, alcoholic excesses, or infections.

Often attacks come about a "clever gout." Diet no longer is considered as important as it once was. Excesses in alcohol should be avoided. It is thought wise to limit the protein and fat during an attack, and diet parties foods (beans, peas, coffee, tea, and "organ meats" such as sweetbreads, etc.).

Remember, at this time a person's by normal, balanced diet appears to be as good as any.

Will Salvage Old Tin Cans

St. Thomas Times-Journal

Hamilton is one of Canada's most industrialized cities and recently another industry, one entirely new to Canada, was added to the number.

The sponsor, identified only as M and T Chemicals of Canada Ltd., "detins" tin cans, removes them into scrap metals and chemicals for industries needed in certain industries. Canada's first detinning plant will produce two valuable chemicals in quantities not only enough for Canada's needs, but more than half left over for export. The $1,250,000 plant is located on seven fifth acres of acres on the outskirts of Hamilton.

Using "white scrap" (tinplated metal) from can makers' plants, the detinning process produces sodium and potassium stannates. Stannates are used to tin plate decorative and aero engine pistons.

"Black scrap" (tinplated metal) is sold to steel mills where it is processed to produce high grade steel scrap. This in turn is plated using tin stannates produced by the detinning process. The tin plated sheet steel is then used by the can makers to complete the cycle.

Modern science has reduced the great deal of waste that once prevailed in manufacturing but it has struck us that manufacturers are somewhat conscious of methods of economy. Billions of jam containers, glass or tin, are only used once, which is good for the makers of the containers, but they should have a salvage value that would amount to a huge sum in the aggregate.

Canadians Seldom Walk

Sault Daily Star

Canadians, it is frequently being said, are fast becoming, if they have not already become a nation of non-walkers. It isn't true to say that nobody walks anymore, and there are free-striding Canadians here and there prepared to refute indignantly any statement of sweeping "They're in a class by themselves," however, is a vanishing breed. Some of the reasons, necessity, come from choice. either case there are factors at work here, and to thin their ranks steadily.

There's no mystery about why the well-to-do walkers grow steadily less numerous.

The fellow who walks of his own choice, usually for reasons of physical fitness, is subject to a certain amount of mild pressure to conform. One of his knock-on-wood habits is completed without well-meaning friend or acquaintance hauling over to the curb to offer a lift. When the inevitable question comes, that nothing has happened to that the baker's car, and that he's on his way home from a journey on foot, thanks just the same, he can expect a reception otherwise reserved for measles, soot shower or fresh air addicts.

All sorts of reasons for the decline of walking are advanced. Least convincing is the argument that it's chiefly due to parental over-indulgence of the rising generation. Probably the simple explanation is that the walker can see why he should walk when he doesn't. There's no way should his juniors feel otherwise!

A Gout Attack Can Come Without Advance Warning

By Joseph C. Molner, M.D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: What causes gout and how long does it last? — O.G."

Gout is one of the oldest diseases known to man and we still don't know what causes it. Oh, we know it has something to do with the way the body metabolizes the uric protein and the uric acid which is one of the products. People with gout have a high level of uric acid in the blood. Lumps and crystals of uric acid and salts of the acid form in the tissues (called tophi).

Mainly gout attacks the joints although these tophi may form anywhere —in the ear lobes, the skin and around affected joints.

The joint pain resembles arthritis — but is different in that in gout attacks can come without warning, perhaps while you are asleep at night. Yet between attacks the patient is quite comfortable.

How long does an attack last? Anywhere from a few days to several weeks — unless recognized as being gout and treated.

Colchicine, a very old drug, remains the most widely used and one of the most effective drugs for relieving an attack and controlling gout. It does not cure the disease, however it may upset the intestinal tract. Other drugs are phenylbutazone and indocin which relieve pain but which are effective when colchicine may not be effective or may be too upsetting to the stomach in severe cases the steroid cortisone, ACTH, may be necessary.

With these various drugs used properly, attacks of gout can be terminated in from one to three days. There is no need to suffer longer. As any victim will tell you, gout can be very painful when an attack strikes.

Although there's no known cure, a great deal can be done to help the body get rid of excess uric acid between attacks. Avoid such drugs as small doses of colchicine, probenecid, and salicylates.

Remember in considering how often attacks may come: Every month or two or three, or only once in a great while. Some patients with careful use of drugs and by taking care of themselves go for years without attack, while it's worthwhile to be careful.

Gout (which attacks men in a ratio of about 20:1) most commonly afflicts the joint of the big toe, but it can affect any other joint or joints, including the spine. All too often it isn't recognized, which is a great shame, because so much can be done to relieve it.

Remember, no one has an obvious cause of a recurrence; a change in diet, for example, is more likely in spring and fall; they may follow surgery, use of certain drugs and sometimes have external injury, alcoholic excesses, or infections.

Often attacks come about a "clever gout." Diet no longer is considered as important as it once was. Excesses in alcohol should be avoided. It is thought wise to limit the protein and fat during an attack, and diet parties foods (beans, peas, coffee, tea, and "organ meats" such as sweetbreads, etc.).

Remember, at this time a person's by normal, balanced diet appears to be as good as any.

"Dear Dr. Molner: What is a brain wave? — M.E."

They electrical impulses are constantly occurring in the brain and can be detected and recorded by an electro-encephalogram. The EEG machine is very useful in diagnosis of convulsions, suspected epilepsy, tumors or brain injury among other things.

Note to J.H.: I don't know of any type of cataract that cannot be surgically removed by the appropriate time. Age is not a matter of any importance in such cases.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE LAST LAP

Starts are always easy. And for a considerable time a good pace may be kept up. But it's the last lap that counts for most. It isn't what we put into a bank or a job when we learn how it piles up interest and increases the principal.

The last lap is the extra dividend that life gives to him who has trained himself to run the race who has refused to be beaten.

I once saw an exciting automobile race in which the drivers strove for the winning lap. They went mile after mile on a neck-to-neck. Then something happened. Through a blunder, one driver lost a lap.

But soon he who had lost gained that mile and on until he had but one lap to make up. The crowd rose, to its feet as this plucky driver swept past his striving rival. That last spurt—the grit it took to make that last lap—did more than victory and which won for him the applause.

Life must be lived as sweatily as possible if we would be steeled for the last lap.

Everything doesn't have to be done today. But as much as possible must be done today and that in a manner as well as by rote. The rest will take care of itself.

The little things you do today which seem so irksome may be the very things that will later will make it possible for you to take the last lap gloriously.

Good luck to you then and be patient.

Remember the last lap. Let nothing take that from you as the thing that belongs to you.

THE PACKSACK

At the request of the numerous alternate sponsors, the authorities have obviously allowed the advertisers who pay for the same time-slot programs to have a little teeny weeny bit more on their own programs, and at the same time have permitted the radio and TV stations to weasel in a few more quickies before, during, after, and before again. Especially during daytime broadcasting, the number of quickies has increased to such an extent that they create a fairly whizzing sound as the various alternate sponsors flick by.

Will Hold Civil Defence Conference

By JACK VAN DUSEN

OTTAWA (CP) — A cabinet-level federal-provincial conference will be held here Monday to discuss the chances Canadians have of surviving nuclear attack.

Defence Minister Harkness announced the meeting Friday night, nine days after some 1,000,000 Canadians did theoretically in the nation-wide exercise Tocsin B, a mock raid of nuclear missiles and bombers.

Results of the exercise, designed to test Canada's national survival plans, will likely come up for discussion.

The provincial cabinet ministers and the only premier coming—W. S. Lloyd of Saskatchewan—may want to know why so many Canadians died in the theoretical war and why 14 major Canadian cities were wiped out.

Full evaluation of the mock attack, however, may not be available for the meeting. A Federal Emergency Measures Organization spokesman said Friday night.

MAY DISCUSS SHELTERS

Another explosive topic will be the federal government's attitude towards fallout shelters. So far the government has gone no further than to encourage Canadians to build their own basement shelters from government plans.

Federal financial aid which pays as much as 75 per cent of the cost of such projects is provincial and municipal civil defence training schemes and the salaries of full-time emergency measures employees of these governments does not extend to fallout shelters.

The government has surveyed some 4,000 older federal buildings to determine whether they can be provided with fallout shelters and has announced new buildings will be equipped with shelters—but it has given no hint of aid to the provinces or municipalities for such projects.

Mr. Harkness said fallout shelters will be among the topics to be discussed at the one-day closed meeting.

DISCUSS VARIED TOPICS

Other topics he listed include emergency measures supplies, public information, the financial aid program, emergency health and welfare and training.

The federal government is stocking $18,000,000 worth of medical equipment and medicines outside of target areas for use in event of attack. It has started the training of a 100,000-member national survival militia.

The meeting will be under the chairmanship of Mr. Harkness. Other federal cabinet ministers to attend include Solicitor-General Browne, Health Minister Monteith, Defence Production Minister O'Hurley and Associate Defence Minister Sevigny.

cluded to put that commitment into operation and let the uranium industry in this country know where it stands."

HE DISAPPROVES

Addressing a banquet following his nomination, Mr. Pearson expressed his disapproval of Prime Minister Diefenbaker's stated intention of remaining in his own basement shelter in Ottawa.

Mr. Pearson noted that a great deal of money has been spent on the construction of an underground shelter—he did not specify the location — for the use of the government.

"That is where the prime minister should be," Mr. Pearson said. "He has been chosen to be responsible for government in good times and bad times."

Referring to the entire government survival program Mr. Pearson said that left without shelters would be many who either could not afford such shelters or do not own their own homes.

"It must be done on a community basis," he said.

U.S. Navy Jet Claims Record

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Navy claimed a world jet speed record of 1,606.32 miles an hour Friday for its McDonnell F-H Phantom II jet fighter.

Marine Lt.-Col. Robert B. Robinson, 38, attained a maximum speed of 1,650 miles an hour— 2½ times the speed of sound—in setting the new mark. He set the record in a flight from Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., last Wednesday.

The new mark was 81 miles an hour faster than the previous record of 1,525 miles an hour set by air force Maj. Joseph W. Rogers in a Convair F-106 interceptor Feb. 15, 1959.

Government Will Operate Pension Fund

TORONTO (CP)—The Globe and Mail says the Ontario government will establish a government-operated pension fund for municipal employees in a bill to be introduced at the current session of the legislature.

The newspaper says the measure is expected to be one of the most important instituted in the municipal field this session by Municipal Affairs Minister Cass, former highways minister who assumed the new portfolio in Premier Roberts's first cabinet.

The scheme would be designed primarily for smaller municipalities whose senior employees have been leaving for larger communities where better retirement benefits are promised.

The plan would cover all municipal employees not already covered by private pension plans. Although administered by the province it would operate on the same formula used by insurance companies administering pension schemes.

About 900 Ontario municipalities are without employee pension plans. Municipalities wishing to institute such plans have needed passage of a private bill in the legislature, or permission to enter into an agreement with the administering private organization.

The newspaper says it is expected that where there is an existing pension plan for municipal employees, new employees will be required to enter the provincial scheme, while employees already contributing to a privately - administered scheme will continue to do so, proposed Dennis-West German joint military command complicated the position of a neutral neighbors and brought the West German threat "closer to the shores of Finland and the Soviet Union."

Khrushchev added: "We regard it as our most important duty to take all measures now, before it is too late, to curb the West German militarists and revenge-seekers who are arrogantly demanding the revision of the state frontiers that took shape after the Second World War."

Khrushchev did not specify what measures would be taken. But he noted that Russia has called for a nuclear-free zone in northern Europe and in 1958 voluntarily resumed its military base at Porkkala, Finland, despite a 50-year lease signed in 1944.

ondary School Teachers' Federation. The main problem was that society was unsure of education's aims.

"We are expected," said Mr. Robinson, "to educate children for a world of tomorrow that we can't even envision. I wouldn't that life tomorrow won't be much different than it is today. I would like to see the schools go back to the basic aim of developing trained minds."

Mr. Robinson said Ontario must turn away from the pattern of having teachers turned into "automatons operated by supervisors."

Max Swerdlow, education director for the Canadian Labor Congress, said school supervisors are too rigid and don't really allow pupils to develop their full potential. He proposed that students be taught more than one job and that more research be done into multiple trades.

An Ottawa education official, speaking at an area meeting, branded Premier Robart's new secondary school program as "hastily conceived and prematurely announced." Dr. Harry Pullen, deputy ministeradministrator for the Ottawa collegiate institute board, said "those who have to live with the plan had nothing to do with its promotion."

Another speaker, Dr. Kenneth Hunter, superintendent of Etobicoke township public schools, urged the creation of a non-government institute for curriculum research and development in Ontario.

Swedish Tale Of Russian Spy Gets a Laugh

OTTAWA (CP) — A Swedish magazine's tale of a beautiful but ruthless Russian spy who worked out of a downtown Ottawa lingerie shop was greeted Thursday with smiles in official circles.

The modern-day Mata Hari tale is reported in the Swedish magazine Aret Runt (Year Round), Police and federal government officials said they had no record of the woman.

According to Aret Runt, a 27-year-old professional spy named Tanja Markovna Radionaka operated an espionage ring here for about two years, using a lingerie store as her "front."

The story says she was recalled by Soviet authorities in March of this year after she:

1. Poisoned a German - born electronics engineer who refused to hand over secret data, making it look like a suicide.

2. Arranged the kidnaping on a main street of a Czechoslovak immigrant working as a draftsman in an aircraft factory. The draftsman, who had threatened to go to the police rather than co-operate with the spy, was drugged and subsequently put aboard a Russian ship.

3. Became engaged to a "high-ranking member of the police."

W.H.A. Reviews Activities, Discusses Needed Equipment

The November meeting of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary, Mrs. M. J. Jones presiding, was filled with reports of important business pertaining to the activities of the Association. Possibly the most interesting of these concerned the Fashion Finale on November 19th. Covering this subject, Mrs. B. E. Burley, convener of this outstanding fashion event, acknowledged the many favors extended to the Association, making possible the substantial surplus of over $1300. Special tributes went to Mrs. V. Barkley for providing the musical background, to Mrs. J. H. Forrester, the efficient chief velocity commentator, to Mrs. Robert Reid for interludes of song, and to Mrs. W. Frisby who provided the most delicious refreshments ever given after the Finale. Many giving of their time and talents were included in Mrs. Burley's remarks in appreciation.

The regular monthly reports of the secretary and treasurer were given by Mrs. W. Musgrove and Mrs. George Hume.

NEW EQUIPMENT NEEDED

The need for new equipment and old refrigerators was brought to the attention of the Auxiliary by Mrs. H. H. Murray convener of the Gift Shop and her requests were readily granted. Gifts are appealed to the members for Christmas baking.

Miss Nell Merry spoke of her plans for selecting holiday treats for those unfortunately confined to hospital during the festive season.

A goodly number of puppets were sold at the Fashion show, to the amount of $70 as reported by Mrs. F. L. Wilson and her committee.

The Opportunity Shop, looking forward to Christmas sales, is in need of merchandise to stock the gift tables. Telephone Wo 2-5115.

Through the kindness of Mrs. B. Safe, a tea attended by members of the Auxiliary was held in her home on Friday afternoon. Special guests were the Phillipine technicians engaged in work at the hospital.

Mrs. Norman Desmond, representing the Alpha - Lambda chapter of Beta Sigma Phi, asked the auxiliary for some financial assistance to replenish the Samaritan Chapter. This work is financed by the Women's Hospital Association.

At the conclusion of this business session, delegates to the Ontario Hospital Association convention in Toronto last month, passed on briefly their impressions and inspirations of the meetings. Mrs. Jones remarked that 191 Auxiliaries, with a membership of 704,000, raised just short of a million dollars in hospital work in one year. She also reported for Mrs. J. R. Boehm, the patient benefits from the volunteer program where such a service existed.

PROJECTS OUTLINED

Mrs. F. Beeby, also a delegate, detailed the projects and ideas of later auxiliaries. The outstanding public relations' exhibits attracted much attention. Poster exhibits, tray favors, displays of child attractions featured the work done to assist in hospital care. Many new ideas for comfort the patient, full of doubts and fears, and to aid the patient in adjusting to hospital life were described.

In his remarks, Mr. W. F. Dashnel, administrator of the hospital, expressed the concern of the speakers at the convention, that the needs and longings of the patients should be kept uppermost in mind. A psychologist Dr. Lagilvcozzo, stressed the importance of the human touch and home-like atmosphere. The staff assists in providing as much personal attention as possible in the interest of their patients, facilities and equipment should be supplied by modernizing and streamline the routine so necessary in providing the best of service throughout the hospital.

The December meeting, the Christmas party, and dessert luncheon, will be held early in December.

A pleasant social half hour was spent over a cup of tea served by Mrs. B. Safe and Mrs. S. A. Kverda, and Auxiliary ladies.

C of C Plans 'Yule Light Up Contest'

The Yule Light will definitely visit the village on Saturday, December 16th, at 2 p.m. at the Christmas tree on the dairy lot, at the four corners. Every boy and girls in the village and in the surrounding area will be given a treat. There will also be a free movie for the school children in the local theatre. Plans were made also for two other free movies for the children on Saturday, December 9th and Saturday, December 23rd, scheduled for 2 p.m.

The store hours were also arranged when the stores will be open for business on Monday, December 8th and Monday, December 15th. Each evening from December 19th until December 24th, the stores will remain open until ten o'clock in the evening.

As well as Christmas Day, all stores will also be closed on Boxing Day, December 26th.

The Chamber of Commerce with the co-operation of the public utilities commission have planned "A Christmas Light-up Contest". There will be one prize for the best commercial area of the village, with several prizes for the residential area. Each merchant will be asked to contribute a share of the expenses and the canvassers will be on the job in a few days.

The plans which already have been completed ensure that the aim is to have a more colorful Christmas in the village and householders are urged to light up and decorate and thus help to make it a memorable picture of beauty.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

The Belleville Gayettes baton group, under the direction of Gail (Chadwicks) Chapman took part in the Santa Claus parade which was held in Kingston, this morning.

Legion Branch L.A Admits New Member

The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary of Branch 99, Royal Canadian Legion was held on November 21st in the Legion Hall with the president, Mrs. D. E. Jeffs in the chair.

One new member, Mrs. Dorothy Berry, was initiated into the auxiliary and received a hearty welcome from the members.

An application for membership was received from Mrs. Ina Bell Bush and was favorably accepted.

Mrs. Jeffs reported on the Poppy Day parade and on the dinner at the Queen's Motel. Both were enjoyed by the members.

The euchre tournament being held on Armistice early in December was discussed and Mrs. Betty Hodge was appointed Poppy Chairman, Anyone willing to attend, please call Mrs. Hodge.

During recess a raffle on three boxes of Christmas cards was held and they were won by Mrs. Jeffs, Mrs. Heesman and Mrs. Bush.

VARIOUS REPORTS

Reports of the various committees were then read. The banquet chairman, Mrs. Hodge, spoke on four banquets to be held in December and asked the ladies to please donate their services.

The social chairman, Mrs. Ackerman announced that the Christmas dance will be held late in December for members and their escorts and members of Branch 99 and their wives. Auxiliary ladies are asked to bring sandwiches.

The children's Christmas party will be held on December 20th, at 2 p.m. for members' children up to ten years of age with Mrs. Shirley Bean in charge.

With the new Legion Hall opening committee, the members unanimously voted to donate new drapes for the windows. These will be ready by December 19th.

Mrs. Jeffs announced that the election of officers for 1942 will be held at the next general meeting in December and all ladies are urged to attend.

After the meeting adjourned lunch was served.

Women's Activities

MELROSE W.S.S.

The ladies of Melrose WMS met for their November meeting at the home of Mrs. C. Osborne with an attendance of seven.

Mrs. J. Milligan, president, took charge with a hymn "Wait on The Lord." Psalm 46 was read by Mrs. W. Osborne.

At this time a moment of silence was observed for the late Sergeant Leslie Pearce.

Business followed. Mrs. E. Embury read the minutes of the previous meeting. It was decided to hold the December meeting at the home of Mrs. Ray Embury with Mrs. S. Dennis as leader, each lady to be responsible for an item on the program.

The program followed, consisting of a reading on "Remembrance Day" by Mrs. J. Milligan; "Life of Christian Medical Missionary," by Mrs. G. McLaren; "Sacrifice" by Mrs. C. Osborne; "We All Need Each Other" by Mrs. R. McFarlane; "What We Leave Behind Us," Mrs. E. Embury; and "Afterglow" by Mrs. J. Milligan who closed with prayer.

The hostess served lunch, and a social time followed.

A Lift for Living

Living a Disciplined Life

By Dr. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

John R. Mott, who for so many years was a renowned leader of youth and head of the Y.M.C.A., once said that he was often asked by anxious parents to say a few things that he hoped would help their children. He said that question always made him think of an Indian lad who was reared by an uncle. That uncle took such pains in taking care in the training of the boy's mind and tastes that when it came time for the boy to go to college, the uncle laid his hands on the lad's shoulder and said, "David, do what you have a mind to, do." He knew that a free choice between disciplined information forming his desires and judgments that he could be trusted on almost any campus.

I think Dr. Mott's advice to parents was better than that of a certain college president who counseled a score of worried parents that his college was a safe place for their sons and daughters. He concluded in his letter with the statement: "This campus is all right. It has no fences to keep them in or to keep them out." I am feeling that an undisciplined youth is as well off in Christendom as in less than seven miles from any campus!

In order to develop the disciplined life, we must go into the public utilities commission have planned "A Christmas Light-up Contest". There will be one prize for the best commercial area of the village, with several prizes for the residential area. Each merchant will be asked to contribute a share of the expenses and the canvassers will be on the job in a few days.

The plans which already have been completed ensure that the aim is to have a more colorful Christmas in the village and householders are urged to light up and decorate and thus help to make it a memorable picture of beauty.

SELECTING EXPERIENCES

Some people have the idea that the best way to the full life is to get the most experiences. They will try anything that comes. They would collect experiences as people collect stamps. Then they forget what C. E. Montague wrote in his book experience carry a minus sign. They subtract from the richness of life rather than add to it. But I would live with satisfaction and I would die with satisfaction on the experiences we have chosen. We must renounce these thoughts and deeds which we know to be evil.

Jesus stressed this principle of self-discipline in relation to the good life. He said, "Narrow is the gate and hard is the way that leads unto life." But they were the restraint of athleticism rather than that of asceticism. Jesus taught that we have to discipline our body in order to train it fully. He would have us give up certain indulgences in order to have the more worthy mastery of his strength on the athletic field. Likewise the singer must go through the rigorous discipline of vocalizing before he can make use of his voice on the stage.

But when we have gone into the mountain which is to have mastery of the body, mind and spirit, there is more to call out to what the scripture calls the "glorious liberty of the sons of God" — free from the burdens of guilt because God through Christ has removed the cause of the past; free from the shackles of habit because God through Christ gives power to overcome the enslavement of the body; free from the fears of conscience where we are always watching lest we measure up to others; free from conformity to convention, free from foolish fears, yea, free even from the fear of death.

ONE-WORD MESSAGE

Two or three years ago at a conference of ministers my friend Dr. Robert Goodrich Dallas handed me a card. I thought it was his personal calling card because it carried his name. But printed under his name was this question: "What does a person miss by being a Christian?" Below it was the one word (over) I turned the card over and found just one word printed on the reverse side. The word was "Risk." I thought that at first glance was a very odd setting a profound truth.

About all that one misses in life by being a Christian are the devilish things. To be sure, it is sometimes hard to resist temptations, for the good things of life have to be paid for in advance by an effort of will. But our best pleasures have to be paid for afterward on the low dreary installment plan.

Those God-given hunches, desires of ours are like noble organs with many pipes and manuals. They are capable of making rich music. But they must be played on and not played with. Happiness is more than the indulgence of mere pleasures. It comes from harmonizing our pleasures, and that requires discipline.

Yes, and remember that to be good we must be good for something. Jesus knew that people are saved because of the good things they do rather than the evil things they do not do. "He not overcome of evil but overcome evil" said good."

Avondale Cubs, Scouts M.A. Plans Parties

The Avondale Cub and Scout Mothers Auxiliary held its November meeting at the home of the president, Mrs. Joy Wonnacott, on Selina Ave last Wednesday.

A suitable project was adopted to raise money to support the Auxiliary in the coming months. Christmas parties for both Cub and Scout Packs were planned for December with the Auxiliary supplying the refreshments. Bills for scarves and patches were presented on behalf of the sewing convener, Mrs. Shirley Bennett.

A monthly report was given by Mrs. Nix, the treasurer.

The Auxiliary further made plans for their own Christmas meeting to be held on December 15th, at the home of Mrs. Catherine Thompson, Wright Avenue. Gifts are to be exchanged and refreshments served. All members are urged to attend as a special meeting, and to note the change in date.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Bennett and Mrs. Wonnacott an enjoyable social hour followed.

Horticultural Soc. Elects New Officers

STIRLING — On the evening of November 20th, Mrs. Robert Patterson was hostess for the Christmas meeting of Stirling Horticultural Society with a fair attendance despite the snow storm which came during the evening. The living room was decorated with a setting of pines, red and white tapers and ornamental decoration in pastel blue.

The president Mrs. Floyd Armstrong opened the meeting and welcomed the group. Mrs. Ashley Brooks read the minutes and correspondence. A film on "Flower Arrangement" has been booked for April 9th. Membership is at 183 and there is a good bank balance.

It was decided to purchase shrubs in the spring for the public school ground as a cost of 50 cents. Mrs. Robert Bell gave the report of the flower show committee and said that a few copies will be available at a later date.

Mrs. Ray Mitchell gave a report of the nominating committee which was accepted, the behaviour of our teen agers! It is true that influences outside the home do not do much to help exceptionally fine examples for today's youngsters.

and the awards were pastel colored plastic flower pots.

Mrs. Grant Hubble conducted a Christmas carol contest and the prize was won by Mrs. H. Wale.

The hostess and the Mount Pleasant ladies served fruit bread, Christmas cake and coffee and all enjoyed a social chat.

A vote of thanks was tendered for the hospitality, program and refreshments.

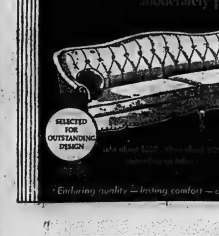
Just Plant the Roots

By ALMA MASON

My Dear Iris — I am so sorry to hear of the serious illness of your mother. Although you are naturally sad and troubled, Africa must seem so very far from your Canadian home, you must retain a measure of satisfaction in the thought that you had such a lovely, long visit with your Mom recently.

You reproach yourself without reason, my dear, when you state that you neglected your mother. I am sure you would find if you were to ask her about this fancied neglect she would tell you that her heart holds many memories of your kindnesses but does not find room at all for recording distress in regard to your motherdaughter relationship. You are now a mother. I am sure you have learned that God seems to have fashioned the mother heart so that it quickly erases the faults of children and permanently glorifies their virtues.

You speak of Terry being rebellious and unreasonable. How quickly we parents become obsessed over the misbehaviour of our teen agers! It is true that influences outside the home do not do much to help exceptionally fine examples for today's youngsters. However, time is a master craftsman engaged in restoring and repairing the fallacies of youth.



Let me tell you about our poplar tree: It was planted on a cold November day. It was suddenly exposed to the ruthless winds and ice and snow of winter. Children broke its branches to the ground. We despaired of it's eventual growth; but we were looking at the battered shoots above the ground. We could not see the strong brown roots we had planted. They were spreading and growing underground and getting ready for the little tree's maturity.

So it seems to be with parents and sapling children. We must patiently wait for hail and frost and bitter gales to subside. With maturity, our little trees will eventually draw on the sap of the sturdy roots we planted. We must just plant the roots and then sum them with faith and love and hope and patient example. Eventually, God will do the rest. — Lovingly Lou.

QUESTION:

. . . I would welcome your recipe for cornmeal muffins. My husband says mine don't taste like the C.P.R.'s or perhaps yours measure up to that standard! . . . Doreen B.

ANSWER:

Try this:

CORNMEAL MUFFINS:

1 egg, 2 tablespoons sugar, 1-4 cup corn cup melted shortening, 3-4 cup flour, 1-3 cup corn meal, 1½ teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt.

Beat the egg until light and mix with sugar, and shortening or butter; sift the flour, corn meal, baking powder and salt together. Add liquid mixture to the dry ingredients all at once. Blend, using as few strokes as possible; do not beat. Fill greased muffin pans 2-3 full. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. for 20 minutes. Remove from pans with a spatula and serve while warm.

QUESTION:

. . . If you happen to have a recipe for coconut macaroons that does not require condensed milk it would be appreciated . . . Can you tell me why I have so much trouble with French fried onion rings? I soak them in ice water then roll in milk and seasoned flour . . . I even tried the egg batter and crumb method but the coating still comes off. Yes, I do them ahead of time and chill — Patricia P . . .

ANSWER:

COCOANUT MACAROONS:

3 egg whites, ¾ cup fruit sugar, 1¼ cups shredded cocoanut, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Beat egg whites until stiff. Add gradually ½ cup sugar; continue beating until mixture holds its shape. Sift remaining sugar over top and fold in lightly. Add cocoanut and flavoring. Drop from a teaspoon on buttered baking sheet. Bake at 250 deg. Fahr. for 20 to 30 minutes, until lightly browned. Remove at once with spatula.

FRENCH FRIED ONION RINGS NO. 1:

3 medium large onions, 1 egg white, ½ tablespoons flour, 2 teaspoons milk, ¼ teaspoon salt.

Slice onions across in ¼" slices; soak in ice cold water for 1 hour; drain and dry. Make a batter of remaining ingredients; coat onion rings with mixture. Fry in deep fat at 375 deg. Fahr. until golden brown.

FRENCH FRIED ONION RINGS NO. 2:

Slice onions and dredge lightly with flour. Beat 1 egg; add 1 cup milk, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1½ teaspoons salt, ½ teaspoon pepper, ½ teaspoon medium-sized onions.

Combine ingredients (except onions) to make batter. Dip egg beater, beat until smooth. Cover and let stand at least 30 minutes before using. Slice onions crosswise in about ¼" slices. Separate rings; dip in batter and deep fry a few at a time until brown and crisp. May be kept warm on a cake rack in a 200 deg. Fahr. oven until ready to be served (about 15 or 20 minutes).

Riding Around in a Rickshaw Suits Hong Kong's Congestion

By SHIRLEY And BOB SLOANE

Hong Kong, British Crown Colony — The thought of riding in a rickshaw makes most North Americans vaguely uncomfortable. There seems to be something undemocratic if not immoral, about allowing a sprightly coolie to haul you around in a wheeled chair as if he were a beast of burden.

But there is another side to the story. For one thing, a rickshaw is an eminently useful factory way of getting around a swarming city like Hong Kong when traffic is always heavy and the streets are often gouged by construction. It dashes nimbly around the cars and potholes. It is cheap to ride, reasonably slow and safe, affords a scenic view and is surprisingly smooth and well-sprung.

The man who hauls this neatly balanced vehicle is undoubtedly in better condition than you with powerful arms and legs and a lean physique that causes him to perspire no more than anyone else. When he gets tired, he goes home and sleeps.

Above all, you will notice, he is cheerful and willing, often as voluble as a New York cab driver, with English English picked up from GI's.

Patronized mostly by elderly Chinese ladies and by tourist customers, there are about 850 rickshaws in Hong Kong. What the means is that 850 families of varying sizes are being supported by this similar labor.

NO WORK DEGRADING

In Hong Kong no work is degrading. The leprosy of the rickshaw is just one illustration of the spirit of enterprise in this Kong today. The rickshaw coolie is happily working for a living in the most primitive and under conditions so apparently impossible that they stagger the imagination.

After World War II, Hong Kong was a badly disorganized city of over, a million. In the past decade all the refugees and souls have streamed here. They came by Red China's legal emigration quota of 50 a day, by junk and sampan in illegal defiance of thousands, and by bandits swimming across the Shumchun River. More than a million of them were destitute.

Not only didn't Hong Kong collapse under the burden, but it bloomed. By some miracle of free enterprise and free, clean apartment developments to house the millions who at first lived in squalid huts on the hillsides. Today only 300,000 of the refugees and their descendants remain in the shack towns. They too will be absorbed within three years.

Attracted by the plentiful labor supply, industry rises and put nearly everybody to work, many as independent contractors in textiles. In street arcades, even below the apartment houses, you can see women selling blankets — and selling soft drinks on the side. The rest went into the construction or at least what Chinese do so well — setting up small shops to sell necessities to each other.

Attracted by the bargains a handful from all this cheap labor as well as by the awesome productivity of China — a few more still never see — the tourist trade has sprung up. They were not disappointed.

Hong Kong has one of the most startlingly beautiful settings in the world. It curls around a lovely deep harbor that winds far inland like a Norwegian fjord. It is blessed with a tropical sunlight that bathes it in morning and evening with breath-catching brilliance. Botticelli sails of fishing junks punctuate the waters as if placed there by a painter who was surrounding his the new apartments and hotels and took down on the view of which they have become a part.

EVERYONE IS BUSY

Most of all, there are the 3,000,000 people that somehow have been jammed neatly into these 399 square miles. They swarm in the streets below the towering tenements—Cantonese women in Chinese pajamas with babies strapped to their backs, Shanghainese girls in Suzy Wong dresses slit up to here, men staggering gingerly under yokes burdens of wood—and the ear-screeching children playing soccer in the playgrounds and countless school yards...every one busy, working, going somewhere and forever buying and selling whatever humans need in the thousands upon thousands of shop stalls.

The electrifying commerce goes on everywhere, all the time — among the neon-lit restaurants and department stores of Nathan Road at night; down the teeming alleys, side streets and canyons of Kowloon, and by bandits swimming across the Shumchun River. More than a million of them were destitute.

15th Scout LA Plans Special Yule Events

The November meeting of the 15th Belleville Scout and Cub Ladies' Auxiliary was held on Wednesday, the 17th, with 19 mothers attending.

The highlight of the evening was arranging for the forthcoming Christmas party and parents' night on Wednesday, December 13th. This is an opportunity for new mothers to meet their boys' leaders, the group committee members, as well as the ladies of the Auxiliary — so come and have a chat.

A make-believe-tea was also arranged and the executives are now busy sending out invitations. It is hoped all other auxiliaries will support this event.

Auction sale and bake sale preparations will be taken up at January meeting. Outgrown clothing may be donated for this project. There will not be a December meeting due to all the other activities.

The program ended with a lively discussion on how to improve the Auxiliary and many questions answered.

Coffee was served and the meeting closed, ending a most stimulating evening.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

SILENCE IS GOLDEN

Recently, at a party, a group of us were discussing the things we dislike most about office work. Even though a number of professions were represented, the biggest gripe was the same: Noise!

While many forms have installed such purifiers as acoustical ceilings, carpets and noise-absorbing office materials, there's still a little that can be done on an everyday level about the human element.

As one man—a lawyer—put it: "If my secretary doesn't stop dropping things, I'm going to drop him!" An accountant raised athletic heels as bigger noise-makers than a battery of adding machines all going at once. Loud phone conversations and shrill laughter were also jarring notes that made the group wince.

What it's hard to pussyfoot around a job, the group agreed that noise pollution is usually since a few decibels if the office force practised better manners. In effect, this involves remembering a sort of notice this gets under the skin of co-workers. Here are ten big steps to soft-pedal it. Here are some recommendations:

A loud, grating laugh is as much of a liability in the office as it is socially, especially since it very often interferes with deep thinking at adjoining desks. If you cultivate a silvery tinkle or voice and learn to enunciate clearly, you'll find that people will shout in an effort to be understood.

Unfortunately, there are many who just can't speak below a whisper no matter how hard they try. If this establishes better communication, then it's more considerate of others to use a silencer that fits over the mouthpiece and helps the conversation with, so to speak.

Banging drawers is another bugaboo way to increase office tension. If you keep a well-organized desk, you'll find that as much need to slam through drawers to find a misplaced document. Cushioning under the desk-pad, phone and chair also help cut down on noise.

Clicking heels are another source of office annoyance, especially when they beat a tattoo on the ready frazzled nerves eight hours a day. We have great admiration for women who keep a pair of soundproof shoes in the office and change into stilettos after five.

More tons and tons noise is just what the doctor ordered. If you're an office manager, consult such thoughtfulness. Me on the nice-to-live beat would be much more nerve-wrecking.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Mattie V. — When I meet the right man, I'll just know it automatically.

Mattie V. — I try to tell her it's just luck. You never know a man until you marry him.

* * *

Mattie V. — My mother is upset because I refuse to take my current boy friend seriously. She's eager for me to get married, and she thinks this fellow is just right.

The trouble is that she thinks almost anyone is okay, and that it's all right to get married and then fall in love! But I know exactly what I'm looking for in a future husband, and it's more than a steady pay check, a steady smile and a convincing line. Above all, he must be looking for me, and just any girl to wince.

What it's hard to pussyfoot around a job, the group agreed that noise pollution is usually since a few decibels if the office force practised better manners. In effect, this involves remembering a sort of notice this gets under the skin of co-workers. Here are ten big steps to soft-pedal it. Here are some recommendations:

I'm 18. Maybe it's my mother's pushing plus the messes I see my married friends in that make me careful — and a bit scared. Jerry's nice, but I have no intention of marrying him.

* * *

Mrs. E.V.—I'm sorry for any boy who marries Mattie. She makes it her business to find as many faults in him as possible. She wanted to break up Jerry for the reasons she shouldn't marry him: she's afraid of getting the gossip qualities which would make him a fine husband.

How is Jerry's love. And, believe me, no mother could want a better son-in-law than her daughter to. He's a high school teacher, plus a camp director in the summer. But no matter what he is "square and an egghead."

The truth is that Mattie is not ready for marriage a success. No matter how many beaus she's had. Mattie, when you encounter Mr. Right, that happiness-ever-after will elude you if you expect to sit back and leave all to love.

In that sense, your mother is right. The poets notwithstanding there's not just one true love in everyone's life. Most people can learn to love a kind, compatible, trustworthy member of the opposite sex.

But we agree with Mattie that it's worth holding out for the "X factors" which will make the job a snap. Might as well settle for someone who's easy to love, and have that much of a head start in getting along on a "forever" basis.

There's where Mom bows out of the picture. Besides the older man, Mattie must seem the inner man — his true character and attitudes. And then she must measure his ability to meet her requirements. In the self-conscious about not having a college education? If so, will he encourage her to go back to school some day, or will he gloat cruelly over her ignorance?

Take plenty of time, Mattie. It's better to have a long drawn out courtship and find out what your gentlemen friends under all the circumstances (after disappointments, in emergencies etc.) than to make an impulsive, ex-service girl (to those Marine) and wind up with a "life, long sentence. Mom managed to keep his true self under wraps. But once you settle upon someone, the reluctant mate he can be will be your problem.

INTO THE LAND OF MARK TWAIN

"It were best that we should all think alike; it is difference of opinion that makes race-races."—Pudd'nhead Wilson's Calendar.

On the north wall of Mark Twain Museum, in Hannibal, Missouri, stands a combination regal piano and pipe organ in fit black mahogany, eight feet high, case. This had been Twain's pride and joy. For museum purposes it is now wired to play, without choice of selection, excerpts from Virginia Reel, Moonlight Sonata, Marseillaise Hymn, Polka, Caprice and Invitation to the Dance.

The melody last named, was filling the room, when we came across several models of Walter Russell's work. One was a large bust of Mark Twain. It had so pleased Rudyard Kipling, John Masefield, George Bernard Shaw and other English authors that they caused the British Government to have a model copy be placed in Victoria Embankment Gardens.

The other was a small scale model of Mark Twain Memorial, most beautifully conceived. Mark Twain is seated in the center and twenty-seven characters from his books stand grouped around him. Characters, it is said, which include nearly every typical character that has built America as it is now "grass roots" of the country.

At the information desk that centered this part of the Museum, we enquired if a post card of this group was available.

Just at that instant, another visitor stepped up to enquire if a certain current number of a national magazine were procurable.

"All sold," the same attendant told him and then added "I sold 175 copies because we handle that magazine here in the museum, but it made me pretty angry everytime I handed out each one. Oh, I know the article in it about Hannibal was well-written and all that, but I just don't happen to think, carping shadow on members of his clientele and the town itself by making derogatory remarks shows very good taste. So shortly too — think of it, from coast to coast!" and her dark eyes blazed. "Of course," and she smiled a little, and in a kindly way, "I realize for outsiders, 'he sources', it would be an interesting, arresting matter. However. Now then here's a little brochure out by the Hannibal Chamber of Commerce with some good-old fashioned unvarnished facts, and maybe you would like to read about them." And she handed one to us as well.

Because loyalty is good to witness, we were glad to do so, and it read in part: "...Hannibal's more than 20,000 citizens extend to you a genuine welcome. While Hannibal's historic sites have been preserved as they were in the days of Mark Twain, the major portion of the city has changed from a small Missouri village to a thriving city, the metropolis of northeast Missouri, 120 miles north of St. Louis. It had two major railroads, four bus lines, three truck lines, four highways, and a barge service on the Mississippi River. Airport four miles. The city is supported by rich farm lands, profitable industrial and commercial establishments. Produce include..."

We later, drove to the top of Hannibal's Hill, where Mark Twain played as a boy, and from where the whole town lies to spread about like an apron, and here Mark Twain ventured one morning back in 1882 and found he could "mark and fix every locality, every detail" and was "greatly moved" saying aloud: "Nothing is changed. Everything in this tranquil refuge of my childhood are now in heaven, some I trust, are in like place."

Thus we left Hannibal. A most fortunate city to become heir to so world-famous an heritage as received by one man in but one writer. "...save the most characteristic picture of the very heart of American life ever given of that period..." and made immortal. Hannibal's present days as each generation accommodates Tom Sawyers and Huckleberry Finn in adventure after adventure, dear to the heart of all.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED WILSON

It is fun to be able to look at a bird and then say to yourself, "This must be a flycatcher of some kind because it has a daintily built bill for dealing with little insects", or "Here is a predator, because its cruel-looking bill is hooked for tearing apart small animals while holding them in those strong feet." Bird's bills are shaped to suit their use. On account of their food taste, seed eaters are often able to spend the entire year in Canada, as their bills are most familiar to us — short and stout, adapted for cracking open the seeds.

The majority of our sparrows take little else but seeds, although some of them, as the field and chipping sparrows, thrive on insects in their season. The common house or English sparrow, not at all related to our American family, has much the same shaped bill, although experts see a difference. It, of course, is largely a seed eater. The goldfinch, one of the best known members of this class, with a typical, canary like bill, is able to stay in our snowy climate longer than many other kinds because of its fondness for seeds of birch alder, and the conifers. In the case of the purple finch, the bill is conical and particularly thick. Seeds of trees are its winter favorites. Much the same may be said for the linnet, though its winter fare is more in line of weed seeds. Lapland longspurs and snow-buntings come down from their far northern breeding grounds to feed on the seed heads that protrude above the snow.

UNUSUAL SIZED BILLS

Birds with bills of unusual size form another group of seed eaters. Though somewhat the same shape as those of sparrows, the grosbeaks' bills are extremely large for the size of the birds, are thick, and rounded in appearance. Both pine and evening grosbeaks travel only when in need of food supplies — the one looking for seeds of apples and mountain ash berries, the other for seeds of the Manitoba maple. Their coming to us is always a pleasant surprise. The cardinal, although a close relative, is resident wherever found.

Seed eaters of a third group require very specialized bills because they really earn their living the hard way. The red and also the white-winged crossbills crack open the cones of spruce and fir, pick out the seeds, and noisily crack them. For this purpose they have been given a regular carpenter's tool: a bill with the tips crossed.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Several writers from the sticks where the professional head-hunters prowl in search of tender, young hockey flesh have commended favorably on Milt (Toronto Star) Dunnell's blast of the Ontario Hockey Association set-up with the pro interests.

Dunnell quoted the Whitby Ashby case (which probably caused the OHA to change its tune and allow the kid to play for a home town team.)

Ashby was told he had been drafted by the Black Hawk St. Catharines team and as a draftee could not play for any junior "A" club except the one which drafted him. Of juvenile age, Ashby was also told he could not play hockey in that class either.

Said Dunnell: "There are a lot of things the OHA doesn't explain—such as why it permits the pros to move in and run an important segment of the OHA show—and why it doesn't have the guts to go to bat for one of its own players. Some day an exasperated person will take the OHA to court, and that will be the end of the draft regulation."

Lan (Hitchenor Record) Taylor commented: "What has happened to Ashby is another illustration of the sad mess into which hockey has been projected as a result of meddling by professional interests. The whole system needs an overhaul and there is no real remedy for the Ashbys until a complete change of regulations has been achieved . . . Ashby of course, should walk over and consult the family solicitor. It's amazing what a little legal skullduggery can do when it comes to clearing up this sort of injustice."

Once the professional interests wrap their vicious tentacles around a midget, junior "B" or junior "A" youngster 16 and over, he is their's heart, body and soul. Once drafted he cannot even be approached by another club.

A player can go to the United States and play for a college team, but after his university training he is still the property of his National Hockey League "father," as long as that club wants to keep his hockey rights.

The only way the youngster can "free" himself is to be traded, get his unconditional release, or quit hockey entirely.

No other club in the National Hockey League or the affiliates can even talk to the youngster. They are not allowed to sign him as they are liable to a $1,000 fine for "tampering" with another club's player.

We have a case at point here in Belleville. The player is Paul Zakos. The youngster was drafted by the Montreal Canadiens who sponsor the Peterborough TPT junior "A" squad, and sent to that city. At the time the Habs had a tie-in with the junior "B" club of Peterborough. That arrangement has since been cancelled, but Zakos is still Canadiens' property.

The Montreal club operates a junior "B" team in St. Thomas and wanted to send Zakos there. He had attended high school in Peterborough and wanted no part of junior "B" activity with the St. Thomas club. So he returned to Belleville.

According to the book of rules, Zakos could not play with the Belleville McFarland juniors since they are under the sponsorship aegis, if you can call it that, of the Chicago Black Hawks. However, the Canadiens gave Zakos permission to play with the local squad which met with the approval of Coach Gordie Bell.

Enter the Black Hawks. They promptly refused to let Bell use Zakos because he is the property of the Montreal club. So unless someone has a change of heart or a sense of fair play, young Master Zakos will be out of hockey for the season.

Perhaps the Hawks' management can take a lesson from the Boston Bruins. We understand that three Kingston youngsters drafted by the Canadiens are playing for the Boston-sponsored Limestone City junior "B" squad. They have the full permission of the Habs, but unlike the Hawks, the Bruins are allowing them to play for the Kingston club and not putting them on the sidelines because of some narrow-minded "they don't belong to us" idea.

From what we have seen, the Black Hawks have made no earth-shattering attempts to send players here for the McFarlands. Three have reported thus far. One is playing, another did not make the grade, and was sent back, and the third was "mixed up" with other clubs, he said, and returned home.

Meanwhile the big-hearted Hawks are forcing a promising young player, a youngster, who loves hockey and wants to play in his home town, to sit on the sidelines.

EXPECT MANY WRITERS

TORONTO (CP)—The Dec. 4 heavyweight title fight between champion Floyd Patterson and Tom McNeeley is expected to be one of the best-covered events in Canadian sports history.

Bill Miller, assistant general manager of Channel Sports Incorporated, co-promoter of the bout, expects about 400 journalists to be present. Besides Canada and the United States, requests for press accommodation have come from Britain, France, Germany, Australia and the West Indies.

The Grey Cup football game Dec. 2 will be covered by about 175 Canadian journalists. It is expected that almost all will stay the extra couple of days to attend the fight.

Composite Of Stars

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Gordie Howe, acclaimed by many as the greatest all-round player in hockey's history, reaches another milestone Sunday.

When he steps on the ice along with his Detroit Red Wings teammates in Chicago, he'll be participating in a record - breaking 1,000th National Hockey League game.

The muscular and slope-shouldered right winger, having scored eight times in the current season, has no plans to call it quits now. He's only 33 and he figures he can go on for at least four more seasons if he can avoid serious injuries.

Records are not new to Howe. He already owns a Stithell of them and is given a good chance to surpass retired Maurice (Rocket) Richard as the NHL's all - time goal-getter.

Frank Selke, general manager of Montreal Canadiens, once said about Howe:

"He's a composite of some mighty fine stars, including Richard, Jean Beliveau, Milt Schmidt and many others. I've never seen anyone combine so many faculties. He's simply the greatest."

Selke said he won't be taking anything away from Richard, who retired before the 1960-61 season got under way after 18 prolific seasons with Canadiens, when he talked about Howe.

The mark Howe will be breaking Sunday was established by Ted Lindsay, a former linemate who wound up a 16 - year career with Chicago two seasons ago.

Howe, being the perfectionist that he is, probably would rather forget his 999th game that tied the record.

He was easily Detroit's best player in a 5-3 loss to Canadiens Thursday night, scoring one goal — his 479th — which left him only 65 behind Richard's total.

But he made a costly error in the game's final minute. With Canadiens leading 4-3, Red Wings removed goalie Terry Sawchuk for a sixth attacker in an effort to tie the score.

A Montreal shot stoned at the empty cage was off the mark. Howe retrieved the puck and while attempting to pass to a teammate, had it intercepted by Montreal's Claude Provost who skated in to score in the open net and clinch the game.

Howe, as could be expected, was in no mood to talk about his record-equalling game.

"We lost, that's all I know," he told a reporter. "Besides I don't recall exactly how many goals I've scored like that one. Was this our 19th or 20th?"

The Detroit - Chicago game will be the only meeting of the weekend for both clubs. The Wings, fourth place, and Hawks, in fifth spot, have both been disappointed so far.

Sunday, Montreal will be at New York and Toronto at Boston.

"We're just not scoring enough goals," Detroit coach Sid Abel said after the loss to Canadiens.

"We have a lot of potential 20 - goal scorers, but they don't seem able, except for Howe, the greatest player in hockey today, to put the puck in the net."

Howe already has scored 10 goals this season. He has assisted on 19 others for 29 points.

Chicago has been the saddest-looking club in the league. Big things were expected of the Black Hawks after their Stanley Cup win last spring. But so far the club has won only four times in 18 starts.

Win Number Three

Macs Whip Picton 15-2

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Writer

The Belleville McFarlands waltzed to a lop-sided 15-2 victory over a very weak Picton Merchant club here last night for their third victory in as many starts in the OHA Eastern Junior hockey league.

Building a 7-1 score in the opening stanza, the Macs were never pressed even when at a two-man disadvantage through penalties. They completely outplayed the floundering Merchants, outshooting them by a wide margin in every period. It was a 10-1 game after two periods before the winners outscored their opponents 5-1 in a penalty-riddled third heat.

While the clubs stuck to scoring in the first period, things got rougher in the final forty minutes. Belleville picked up 13 penalties, including a major to Dave Smith and a misconduct to Paul Zakos, both in the final period. Picton drew ten penalties with Bob Brown the badman. Brown drew four minors, a major for his fight with Smith, and a misconduct.

In the scoring department, all nine Belleville forwards and one defenceman shared in the point spree. Moe Hunter scored three goals and added two assists while Pete Weston had two goals and three helpers Garry Hall was next in line with one goal and three assists, Graydon Scott had two and one, Gary Duvall and Dave Smith one and two each, Billy McGuire and Pug Keller two goals apiece, Larry Mavety one and one and Bucky Ethier a single assist.

While many of the Mac goals were on pretty plays or on hard-earned efforts, a number resulted from the Picton players just standing around and failing to check or clear in front of goalie Dan Cole. Ron Dulmage had little work at the other end of the rink.

PICTON: Cole, Brockie, Woodbeck, Wilson, Pero Haddock, Channell, Brown, Irwin, Sainsbury, Taylor, Martin, Stacey, Craig.

Asks Fans To Aid in Dope Problem

LONDON (AP) — With two beautiful women providing an intriguing background, the Jockey Club and the National Hunt committee appealed today to all followers of horse racing to help stamp out a wave of doping in Great Britain.

In addition Britain's bookmakers, through the Bookmakers Protection Association, announced they are prepared to offer a reward of £5,000 for information in the campaign against the doping syndicate which is believed to have pulled off several big money coups of British racing, the latest at Newcastle a week ago.

Detective Inspector James Bruce of Scotland Yard and Col. Neville Blair, chairman of the Jockey Club, particularly wanted to question the two women.

One is a blonde, aged about 30 who used to be a model. She is Irish and speaks with precision. She owns a dark blue convertible auto and wears a rich mink coat over her tweeds. The other is a stunning brunette in her late 20s who has spied out many stables.

The race at Newcastle last Saturday involved Hiawatha II. He was the hot favorite, but finished last. And the stable where he is trained was visited recently by the blonde and one of three gamblers who are also sought.

4,000 Fans Cheer

Tigers Get Sendoff

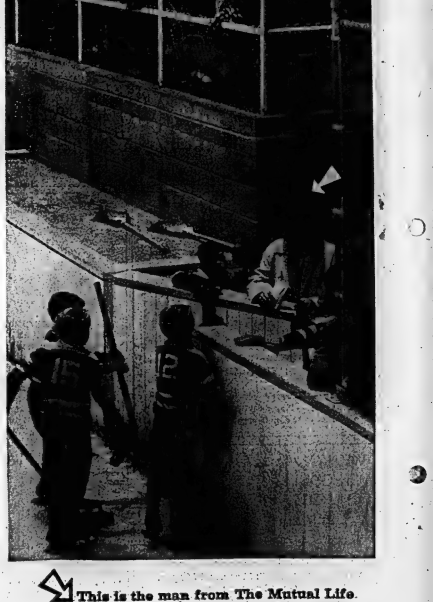
HAMILTON (CP)—A crowd Holden, and Miss Tiger-Cat, Ingrid Counselwasky. They made of 4,000 fans cheered Hamilton grid Tiger - Cats at a parade and presentation during Friday night's rally for the final game of the Eastern Football Conference.

The fired-up Toronto Argonauts, who only a few weeks ago hardly were given a chance to get to the Grey Cup final, carried a formidable 11 - point lead today into the deciding game of the final against Hamilton.

Each of the Hamilton players was introduced on a stage on the site of Hamilton's old city hall, torn down earlier this year, after they rode through the city in open convertibles, preceded by a police escort of majorettes and a fire engine.

Coach Jim Trimble was done a good turn by photographers when they were not content with just one shot of him being kissed by Miss Canada, Nina Trimble asked: "Are you sure you don't want us to do it again?"

The Tiger-Cats have the advantage of their home field at Civic Stadium and the support of the vast majority of the near-capacity crowd of around 27,000, who will be cheering them on with Hamilton's famous screeching yell of "Ookaa Waa Waa."



The winner of the series will play the western champion Winnipeg Blue Bombers in the Grey Cup final in Toronto next Saturday. A Hamilton victory will send the Tiger-Cats into the East-West classic for the fourth time in the last five years while a Toronto win will give them a chance at the Grey Cup for the first time since they won it in 1952.

Minor Hockey

The Belleville Blue Beetles juvenile team handed the Public Worker a 9-2 defeat in an exhibition hockey game played at Memorial Arena early last evening.

Symons led the winners with three goals while McMillan and Richards scored two apiece. Boomhower and Soule potted the others. Brenton fired both of the losers' goals.

Ski Team Heads for Zurich

MONTREAL (CP)—Canada's national ski team left Montreal Friday night, for a winter of training and competition aimed at putting them in top form for the world ski championships next February in Chamonix, France.

The 15 young men and women are headed for Zurich, Switzerland, where they will begin training under their European coaches.

The women's team of Ann Paterson and Vicki Bestbier of Ottawa, Nancy Greene of Vancouver, Linda Crichton of Shawinigan, Que., and Nancy Holland and Fay Pitt of Montreal, will train under Paul Gravenmeyer, who guided Canadians Lucille Wheeler and Anne Heggtveit to triumphs in world competition.

The nine men—Verne Anderson and John Platt of Rossland, B.C., Leon Gallin of Levack, Garry Battistella of Kimberley, B.C., Roddy Hebron of Vancouver, Peter Thomas and Ross Lagace of Mont Tremblant, Que., Jean-Guy Monnet of Ste. Agathe, Que., and Renaud Argouin of Thetford, Que. — will be coached by Austrian Franz Theleber.

Last year a similar training program was held in Europe under the same coaches and the Canadian skiers showed a sharp improvement during the winter. Monnet is in top physical condition from a year of construction work and is Canada's best hope on the male side. He is equally proficient in both slalom and downhill racing and placed third in the U.S. national giant slalom this year.

Training time in Europe has not been decided yet. The team will compete in most of the major European meets between January and February and showings in these competitions will determine the competitors at Chamonix.

Beliveau Back in Two Weeks

MONTREAL (CP)—Jean Beliveau is longing for the day he'll be able to return to the Montreal Canadiens lineup.

If all goes well, the six-foot, three centre, figures his right knee, injured in a pre-season exhibition game, will be sound enough to come back in about two weeks.

"I can hardly wait to get back there," he said in an interview.

Beliveau, whose play-making during eight National Hockey League seasons with Canadiens has been superb, suffered painfully severed tendons when defenceman Bill Folk of Spokane Indians fell on him during a game at Trail, B.C. Beliveau's knee was in a cast for more than a month and, although he has been skating for about 10 days, he hasn't participated in any scrimmages yet.

"I've been skating regularly and the knee feels fine," he said.

Beliveau, 30, has scored 274 goals, third highest among active players. He has 600 points in 506 NHL games.

Win 12, Tie Two

Wings Still Unbeaten

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

A goal by Pit Martin with less than four minutes left in play saved Hamilton Red Wings' phenomenal unbeaten streak in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A Series Friday night.

Duke Martin's goal gave the Wings a 4-4 tie with Niagara Falls Flyers, second - place deadlock against 12 wins in the 16 games they've played this season.

Montreal Junior Canadiens narrowed the Wings' leadership to 12 points with a 6-1 home-ice victory over St. Catharines Teepees while Guelph Royals' defeated Peterborough Petes 5-3 in the night's other game.

The Wings turned on the heat after Martin's goal and only rookie goaltender Jim Coudry's acrobatics saved the Flyers at Niagara Falls. Hamilton outshot the Flyers 16-5 in the final period and Coudy turned back point-blank drives from Howie Menard early in the period and Paul Henderson with just 40 seconds left.

Menard, Wayne Rivers and Earl Heidaka scored the other three Hamilton goals as each team held the lead twice and never were separated by more than one tally. Flyers' snipers were Howie Dittrich with Nabru, Ron Hergott and Terry Crisp.

GETS ALL PENALTIES

Niagara Falls collected four minors in the last-moving game but drew 12 penalties, the three Hamilton goals as each team held the lead twice and never were separated by more than one tally. Flyers' snipers were Howie Dittrich with Nabru, Ron Hergott and Terry Crisp.

GETS ALL PENALTIES

MONTREAL (CP)—Jean Beliveau is longing for the day he'll be able to return to the Montreal Canadiens lineup.

If all goes well, the six-foot, three centre, figures his right knee, injured in a pre-season exhibition game, will be sound enough to come back in about two weeks.

"I can hardly wait to get back there," he said in an interview.

Football May Oust Baseball

ELMIRA, N.Y. (AP)—Branch Rickey, former executive with major league baseball teams, says that if baseball doesn't watch out, football will become the top sport in the United States.

"How many people do you think watched pro football Sunday, both in person or on television?" he asked.

"I look for football to extend its season in the near future, his nimble mind 100s in 11's not out of the question to see games as a year-round sport. If the people want it, if they'll pay for it, the market very possibly will be opened all year."

Major league baseball seems to be declining in popularity, he an attendance penalty to Teddy said.

comes to 2-1 by the period's end.

Three Galt goals in the second settled the issue, an extra goal midway through the third being anti-climatic.

A Woodstock goal in the first period set the pattern in the third game, the Athletics taking a 2-0 lead midway in the second before Sarnia showed a short burst of power late in the period, their two goals in a row being answered before the period ended was over.

Playing coach Don Savage, Jerry Hamilton and Dawson Schroeder scored for Sarnia as the Rams were outshot 31-13 in the game played before 500 at Woodstock.

Salim Favored Over Bahama

NEW YORK (AP)—Farid Salim, the tall, skinny Argentinian middleweight champion, is an 8-to-5 favorite to whip skilful Yama Bahama of Bimini in a television fight here tonight.

Salim, 25, 160 pounds, will be seeking his second straight victory in the United States and his eighth consecutive triumph of the year. His record is 20-1 with two draws. Bahama, 26, has won his last two and has a 66-13-3 record.

Bahama is ranked seventh by Ring and ninth by the NBA. Salim is ranked 10th by Ring but is unranked by the NBA.

Wolves Down Trappers

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sudbury Wolves downed North Bay Trappers 4-3 Friday night and now are snapping at the heels of Hull-Ottawa Canadiens for third place in the Eastern Professional Hockey League.

The Wolves are one point behind the Canadiens and have two games in hand.

Sudbury, marks men were Gerry Foley, Ed Stankiewicz, Keke Mortson and Neil Furth. Scooks Furth clinched it for the Wolves with 51 seconds remaining.

North Bay's Goose Gosselin made a last - ditch effort and rang up the Trappers' third with seven seconds to go. Other North Bay scorers were Norm Waslowski and Camille Bedard.

Meanwhile, Kitchener - Waterloo Beavers, who lead the league by seven points are expected to use left winger Barry Jakeman, ex-Guelph Royals against Sudbury tonight. He will replace Bryan Hextall, whose two-week-old injury has been diagnosed as a broken tibia in his right leg.

Seize Drugs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration Friday announced seizure of a drug it said war-being promoted falsely to athletic coaches as an aid to physical endurance.

The FDA named the drug as "Crutch-Aid Blitzo — Stam Juice supplement," shipped by Health Research, Inc., Little Rock, Ark.

The pills were labelled "to improve resistance to bruising, bleeding and the common cold," the FDA said. It charged that products would not be effective for the conditions for which they were represented in their label ing.

Star of 'The Rebel' Not Sure He Wants Series Revived

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Will The Rebel rise again?

It could happen, says Nick Adams, who played the Confederate veteran for two years on television. But he is in the curious position of not being sure he wants the series to revive.

The Rebel had a creditable record. The ratings were generally good and the reviews often good—and on both sides of the Mason-Dixon line.

So what shot the Reb down?

"It was a combination of circumstances," said Nick. Among them: The sponsor agreed to relinquish the Sunday night time, only to learn another cigarette commercial was given it; the sponsor pulled out of the network in a huff; the show was shunted to Thursday night, but was bumped for the Steve Allen show; by that time Nick was late to find a time slot on any network.

"Naturally I was disappointed," said Nick. "It was an actor's dream—steady work in a starring role and participation in the company profits. $2,000 a show, 16 2-3 per cent ownership.)

"But it may work out well for me in the long run. I had two years in TV—enough to get myself established, but not too much so I saturated the market. The movie work I've been getting since then has been much better than I had before the series.

"I've done a war picture, Hell Is For Heroes, and now I'm playing a tough guy who is really an idealist in The Interns. And I've got other pictures coming up."

That's his dilemma. The Rebel is close to Nick's heart, not to mention his capital gains. It is being mentioned as replacement for Top Cat on Tuesday nights.

"But what every actor wants is to make it in pictures," he said. "That's the big time. Now that I'm hitting it pretty good in pictures, I'm not so sure I want go back to TV."

Brewer Grabs Big Lead

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Gay Brewer Jr. shot a six-under-par 66 Friday and moved into a four-stroke lead with a 135 total in the second round of the $15,000 Azalea open golf tournament.

The 29-year-old pro had been a dismal 74-76 for first place after an opening-round 69 Thursday.

George Knudson of Toronto was alone in fifth place with a 70 Friday for a 141 total. He has followed in sixth place by Arnold Palmer, the defending champion, and Dan Sikes Jr., both two strokes back at 143.

Brewer, of Winter Park, finished in a tie for 18th place with a second-round 74 for a 148 total. Al Balding of Toronto shot his second 72 for a 146 total and is tie for 26th place.

U.S. College Football

NEW YORK (AP)—Seven of the top 10 U.S. college football teams wind up their regular campaigns today in games that may determine some of the post-season bowl combatants.

Or the ranking teams, top-rated Alabama, fifth - ranked Texas and unranked Mississippi are idle. Alamabe—with Rutgers one of the last two major unbeaten, untied teams —has the weekend off. Texas whipped Texas A and M 25-6 Thursday and clinched a spot in the Cotton Bowl, where it probably will play Mississippi.

Unbeaten but once-tied Ohio State, No. 2, and Minnesota, No. 3, still have rose bowl aspirations despite reports that the Pacific Coast is making eyes in the direction of Alabama.

Ohio State is a touchdown favorite over Michigan and Minnesota, which has won seven in a row after an opening loss to Missouri, tackles Wisconsin.

Fourth - ranked Louisiana State, with an 8-1 record, plays Tulane and, if victorious as expected, immediately will announce acceptance of a bid to the Orange Bowl at Miami. There Louisiana State, which upset mighty Mississippi, will play a representative from the Big Eight—either Colorado or Kansas.

Takes Lead In Aussie Golf

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP)—Frank Phillips of Sydney, Australia, took a four - stroke lead in the Australian open golf championship Friday with a halfway score of 141. Gary Player of South Africa, the U.S. Masters champion, and Stan Leonard of Vancouver were well off the pace.

Phillips shot a 67 over the par-73 Victoria course Friday. Two former British Open champions, Peter Thomson and Kel Nagle, were tied for second with 137.

Player, who shot an opening-round 68, shot a 73 Friday for 139. Leonard, winner of the Canada Cup individual title here in 1959, added a 74 to a previous 72 for 146.

A 22-year - old Sydney pro, Billy Dunk, shot an all - time Australian Open record with a 66, but he had a previous 76 for 149.

U.S. Aces Bow To Amerks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Dick Gamble's scoring heroics—three goals and one assist—have brought the streaking Rochester Americans sole possession of the Western Division lead in the American Hockey League.

The Americans, who have won six of their last seven games, beat Quebec Aces 4-2 in the only league action Friday night and broke out of a tie with the idle Cleveland Barons for the Western Division lead.

Rochester now has 32 points, Cleveland 30 and the third-place Buffalo Bisons 19.

Gamble had a hand in all four Rochester goals, scoring the first three and assisting on the last. He put the Americans ahead 1-0 midway through the first period, but goals by Claude Labrosse and Mike Labadie gave Quebec the advantage in the second.

Gamble then blasted in two goals in 77 seconds and gave the Americans the lead that stood. He also assisted on Alex Faulkner's third period tally.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER
GENERAL TENDENCIES

A day to make sure that you know exactly the principles under which you are living and to improve them by thinking out what you can do to bring unto yourself greater protection and success by more thought and application thereto. Services, studies help and you find improved conditions follow at intriguing waste now.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) An ideal day to plan the future more wisely so that you establish better relations between close ties and business people you are called with. See that you don't jeopardize present security yet make vocational moves more lucrative.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) Apply the philosophies now that you know to be workable and sure to attend that religious lecture and imbue the wisdom of enlightened speaker. P.M. Plan new vocational activities intelligently.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) If you get together with practical individuals who have their feet on the ground now, you can pool your varied experience and come up with fine ideas for the future. Then you can plan for greater security in the days to come.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) Be very sure you don't go to the ideas of a good friend of long standing, otherwise you may lose out on many of the benefits which the future has for other. Make sure also that you step out socially in P.M. and increase prestige.

Leo (July 22 to August 21) Much meditation upon your cherished dreams and what you have actually done constructively to achieve them brings excellent results today. Busy yourself with the changes that must be made if you are to progress faster. Grow.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) Every opportunity is yours now to show your deep devotion to trusted friends by entertaining them royally at whatever it is that pleases them. Generosity and sincere love brings fine results. Have a happy time.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) If you stay away from artificial individuals now, you can save fine friendships that mean a great deal to you. Also, see sure you include close ties in any conventional social activities or they are offended.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) It would be the height of wisdom to get together with most trusted adviser you know for day. Let him, or her, help you to plan your future better. Put ideas in motion quickly, contact the right people, have to-the-point discussions.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Deep meditation at some quiet retreat brings the answers you have been searching for and points the way to a better future. Later, confide in closest tie and get co-operation for carrying through with ideas formed.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) On this free day, let the right people know what a conscientious and loyal individual you are and that you are also a good samaritan. This paves the way to more harmonious dealings in the future, which leads to greater success.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) With all the tasks facing you today, it is well that you first lend a helping hand to others so that you realize how much carry through quickly and get lighter your own burden is and these Sunday chores behind you. Then all Out.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) A wonderful time can be had today, if you plan your time cleverly and are with the right people. Remember that a smiling face will get you more favors than being a big spender, and you will derive far greater benefits from your activities.

If your child is born today there will be tremendous charm and ability in this child, but it requires that you early teach tact and thoughtfulness for others, owing to the dynamism here, and otherwise valuable friendships will be lost. Once egotism is removed, the chart is fine for anything that brings your progress before the public or in the field of real estate, working with sand, etc.

General Tendencies: Suddenly you have far more pep and zest, and although conditions can be somewhat confusing you have now the chance, by your own resourcefulness and ingenuity to get ahead and to accomplish major, and minor, matters with dispatch. Don't let the bugbear of doubt creep in or you can render much of the good aspects ineffective. Come all with your winsome smile — and now!

Aries (March 21 to April 19) By being your most charming and smiling self today, you can accomplish a great deal, but take care later you are not extravagant where entertainment is concerned. Otherwise, evening is especially good for gathering with friends.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) Take care that a determined associate or one who is a challenge to you does not swerve you from your purposes today. Get the co-operation of closest ties and you still will out and make quite a success of things. Expand.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) Particularly fine day for activity, making calls, writing, getting reports, etc. in order, visiting, studying. However, don't permit any dull chores to bog you down and keep you from getting out to what is truly important. Grow.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Forget thinking about having a good time today and use energies in having a greater income in the future by making plans investments and working harder today so that you are not worried about obligations in days to come. Be wise.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — It is best to get away from home and all its problems early so that you accomplish a great deal in the world of business, for which close ties will be grateful when they look at mail. Others clearly. P.M. improve health, beauty.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Now is th: time to concentrate upon having a greater abundance and to spare in the future. However, be sure you drive very carefully and choose your words wisely if you are to have the smoother results possible from today's activities.

Libra (Sept. 22 to Oct. 22) — You are fortunate in having an influential friend's ideas to assist you in your career so that you can hob-nob with the upper crust. However, don't invest beyond your means.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — You are not thinking as clearly as usual now, hence be sure to follow the ideas of higher-ups if you want to make a big success of today's activities. You will also be highly enlightened and know how to operate more wisely in the future.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — By living on a higher plane of consciousness now, you find that success will come easier and faster. However, this requires that you forget about that emotional involvement — which you should have done long ago, anyway.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Handle all money and personal matters wisely today. But you will have no luck in this unless you first avoid that person who likes to gossip so much and takes up so much of your time. Be practical and increase will power.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) If you first put regular duties behind you quickly, you can then get together with a purposeful associate and go over those plans you have been formulating for some time. Be thorough, then come to a meeting of the minds.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) You are anxious to get out to new outlets, but it is important that you first handle any regular tasks wisely and efficiently. Then full speed ahead on the new, which can be pregnant with success. Co-operate with co-workers.

M your child is born today, he, or she, is one of those delightful children whose future can be very bright, provided the interests if focused on the new and modern and is not stifled in an old-fashioned atmosphere. The chart is particularly fine for any work connected with government or any profession that places your promising progeny in the public light. Give religious training early.

REAL ESTATE WANTED

SOLD OUT!!

Well almost. We are short of listings. Our policy is to limit our listings, give individual service and sell them. We believe that we consistently have the finest selection of two-plus homes in the city. This is due to the fact that we are not in the building business, but deal exclusively in resales. This is probably the reason more people place their properties with our office knowing they will receive all of our attention. For preferred attention ask for Doug. Stork WO 9-5748. D. T. Stork, Real Estate Broker, 338 Pinnacle Street.

Stirling

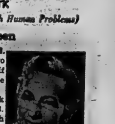
Mr. Stuart Baine is a patient in the Belleville General Hospital.

Mrs. George Heasman attended a miscellaneous shower on Tuesday evening, November 14th at the home of Miss Gail Parker, Belleville, in honor of Miss Grace Heasman, Reg. N., a bride-to-be.

Mrs. Charles Johnston, Mrs. Percy Bonter, Mrs. Carswell of Trenton presented an interesting message relating to the new study for 1962, "Signals for the Strike," at St. Paul's United Church, Stirling. This was the final meeting of St. Paul's Women's Missionary Society and the program was in charge of Mrs. Earl Eggleston, Mrs. George Carlyle assisted in the lighting of the years from the date of organization in August 1868. The allocation for 1961 is $700 and the group hopes to double this. Following the close refreshments were served and the meeting declared on. All enjoyed.



Mrs. Percy MacMullen, Mrs. George Heasman, Mrs. Roy Tucker, Mrs. Vernon Herity and Mrs. Clark of River Valley Institute attended the meeting of the Women's Institutes area at Club Canara, Belleville last week.

The grounds around the Stirling Post Office have recently been landscaped. A very attractive fence has been placed on the outside of the enclosure. Ontario Hydro shrubs have been planted and the section has been given a tractive effect all about which Mrs. Barbara Woodall, B.A., of the Ontario Hydro, took a complete report on meal and she also demonstrated the use of various electric appliances and gave advice re proper and adequate lighting in the home.

A record player was loaned by Lamb's Electric and Mr. Eugene Burrell was in charge of the music for the evening. The merchants of Stirling donated a large number of prizes

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS:—I have just turned 13. I was wondering if it was all right to go out on dates with boys and to dances. If it is, what is the proper time I should be home.

Please send me the name of a book about how to act and have fun at 13. And do you think I should go with some girls and hang around the restaurant till about ten and eleven o'clock at night on school days? Or should I just go to dances on weekends?—BEWILDERED NUMBER TWO.

DEAR BEWILDERED:—Hanging around restaurants, going to dance halls, staying out late, are not for a well-respecting young lady of 13. May sound exciting but it's just cheap. And can lead to plenty of unhappiness. You should never be out on the street at ten p.m.

You can have boys at your parties. The parties should be at your home or a friend's home, where there are older people around. No dates alone with boys—not yet.

If you go to dancing school and early evening dances are held there, this is o.k. Your mother or father, or somebody else's mother or father, calls for you and takes you home.

* * *

DEAR DORIS:—Does anyone know what it feels like to go off on your honeymoon and on the first morning find your wife shaving! How she concealed this I will never know. There is entirely too much courting in the dark.

Now it seems that we can never run the risk of having children, as I would want no daughter of mine to go through such a painful existence. It is hereditary as most of her relatives I now find are this way.

Friends invited me not to marry her but seemed reluctant to say why. I have wept bitterly but what shall I do?—BROKEN HEARTED.

DEAR BROKEN—Superfluous hair is far more common in women than you imagine. It does not mean your wife is in the age family. Yet she can't help her hair, any more than you can.

If she concealed it from you, no one else knows either. So quit worrying.

Being feminine or masculine is a matter of degree and of disposition. You are in love with your wife. She must have seemed attractive to you. You must have seemed masculine and masterful to her. If you have faults, you did not parade them when you were trying to win her.

If you are both healthy, this is not sufficient reason for denying yourselves the pleasure of a family. Ask your doctor if I'm not right.

Your Car

Service Is Wise Investment

By EUGENE B. MILMOE

How much do you spend each year on car upkeep — excluding gasoline costs?

One estimate by an automotive publication put the average expenditure in the neighborhood of $165. Service station men however will tell you that many customers — not necessarily do-it-yourselfers — will rarely exceed $35, and a $50-a-year man is considered a good customer.

This should indicate why so many cars are worn and weary after just a few years . . . and also why safety inspections are so necessary.

If prices continue rising it may soon be necessary, but right now you certainly don't have to pay $165 a year for the usual parts and services needed to keep your car in top shape. About half that amount is a more realistic figure for the average car owner — and the performance, car life and safety it can buy makes it an excellent investment.

W. G. asks: "Why do I have starting trouble only during rain, fog or dew?"

(A) Dried out or cracked wiring insulation is the usual cause of ignition troubles when the weather is damp.

H. L. writes: "The squeaking around the right front door of my car sounds like a family of frightened mice. It's oiled and greased everything a dozen times. The door as well as the window glass is good and tight. Any help will be welcomed."

(A) It could be the weather stripping. Suggest you try one of the silicone sprays recommended for lubricating this weather stripping.

[illegible] which claim "no lubrication service needed before 30,000 miles" can't possibly refer to engine oil, too . . . or can they?"

(A) Apparently, you only seen the headlines. Engine oil changes aren't included in the 30,000 mile schedule, but they have stretched the recommendation to every 6,000 miles.

The writer of this weekly advice column is a 13-year-old boy. The advice he gives is strictly his own. It has not been changed by his parents or the editor. He welcomes letters from parents. If you want him to discuss your problem write to ASK HENRY, in care of this newspaper.

Dear Henry—My 10-year-old son has been nagging me to get him a dog. How do I know I won't be cleaning up after it.—WILL NOT LIVE A DOG'S LIFE.

Dear Will Not:—Once when I was a little kid I got dog fever and really wanted a dog. Friends who were on holidays let me take care of their dog. Yes, my mom ended up leading a dog's life.—HENRY.

Dear Henry—My parents tell me I am too young to date girls. But all my friends started two or three years ago. I have lost three girl friends this way. If I date, my parents find out some way. Please give me your advice.—DESPERATE.

Dear Desperate:—Desperate for what?—HENRY.

Dear Henry—I have a boy named Capoon. He is 14, will be 15 next March and still in grade 7. Please give me an idea how to get him along. He failed two times during the last three years. Sometimes he asks me if he may go to work.—E. H.

Dear Mr. E. H.:—You give me the impression that you are a busy business man. Flop a few deals and spend some more time with your Capoon. Talk over his problems, help him on school work, play sports and work on hobbies together. You will land a much bigger and more important deal with your son.—HENRY.

Dear Henry—I have two boys, Sam, 8, and John, 7. John has always received too much attention, mostly from grandmother. Now in school, he has started lying to get attention from certain classmates. I have told him this is not right and since he has kept on doing it, I have ignored his stories. His father would just whale the daylights out of him if he knew. On the other hand, I don't want John to get a reputation of being a liar. Which would be best?—VERY CONCERNED MOTHER.

Dear Very Concerned Mother—Tell daddy. If your kid goes around telling tall tales, they will stick in his tail for the rest of his life. He won't impress anybody when they come to see his three housedogs.—HENRY.

Dear Henry—I read your column each week and I was wondering where you get the answers for the questions.—WONDERING.

Dear Wondering:—I get the answers from the same place Einstein got his theories.—HENRY.

MARMORA — Marmora village water system has at last been declared ready for use and the village works superintendent was instructed to turn on the water this week at places of business and residences where it was desired. The system will service McGill Street, Forsythe, Hayes, Bidwell and North Hastings Avenue, all south of William Street.

A new business has been opened in the village a laundromat on North Forsythe St., just south of the Royal Hotel. A. J. McCaw is the proprietor.

Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Whitemore formerly of Deloro have taken up residence in Belleville where Mr. Whitemore is convalescing with the D.S. and R. Stellites. They will be greatly missed in the community and church and were presented with gifts from the Chamber of Commerce community and church.

Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Nicholson are settled in their new surrounding at Cobalt where Mr. Nicholson will follow the same line of work in chemistry as he was engaged in at Deloro.

Mr. and Mrs. Nicholson will be greatly missed in several spheres of the community having been residents of the district for 35 years. They were tendered a farewell party and gifts from the community and from the Chamber of Commerce and Mrs. Nicholson received a gift fro mthe Catholic Women's League.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert McIntee and daughter Mistress residents of the district here moved to Cobalt and others from the village of Deloro due to the closing of the D.S. & R. plant and have found work elsewhere or early retirement. Mr. and Mrs. John Cann Sr., left some time ago for Cobalt where Mr. Cann is general manager of the plant there, as he was at the Deloro plant.

Terrorism Sweeps Big Port City of Oran

34 Accident Victims, 24 On Highways

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Traffic fatalities were lighter this weekend, but the category remained the most lethal in a survey of accidental deaths conducted by The Canadian Press.

The survey, taken from 6 p.m. local times Friday to Midnight EST Sunday, revealed an overall total of 34 accident victims—24 of them killed in highway mishaps.

There were five deaths reported by fire. Four were in Ontario, three of these in one home in Ste. Marie.

There were two hunting fatalities, one each in Manitoba and British Columbia, and four deaths through unclassified causes, in Ontario Nova Scotia, Quebec and Alberta.

PROVINCIAL FIGURES

Individual provincial figures with traffic deaths bracketed: Ontario 13 (7), Quebec 9 (6), New Brunswick 3 (3), Manitoba 3 (2), British Columbia 3 (2), Alberta 2, Newfoundland 2 (0), Nova Scotia 1 (0), Saskatchewan 3 (1), Prince Edward Island 0.

Ontario deaths:

Mrs. Martin Doyle, drowned in the Irvine River just south of Guelph, Friday night, when her car failed to negotiate a turn and plunged into the river bank;

Lloyd Alexander Doan, 48, of St. Marys, killed in a two-car collision near Stratford early Saturday;

Jarvis Francis Burke, 39, of Kirkfield, killed Saturday night when his car crashed into a safety island in Metropolitan Toronto;

Gordon Grant Hardy, 48, of Peterborough killed Saturday when his car collided head-on with a truck on Highway 7, three miles west of Peterborough;

Daniel Stonefish, 71, struck by a car on Highway 4 near Lansdowne, two miles north of London, Ont., Saturday night;

John Spencer, 21, of Hespeler, who died in hospital Saturday night of burns received in a hunting cabin fire at Mosquito Lake, 72 miles north of Sault Ste. Marie;

2 DIE IN FIRE

Mrs. Lorna Figures, 35, her daughter Beverly Ann, 9, and Mrs. Figure's mother, Mrs. Helena James, 77, who died when their home at Lake Nosbonsing burned early Sunday;

Fred Chamberlain, 30, of Outtar, killed Saturday night when his shotgun accidentally discharged as he climbed a fence;

Mrs. Florence Mueller of Monkton, dead in hospital Sunday night of injuries received in a two-car crash on Highway 2, 12 miles west of London.

An unidentified hitch-hiker killed Saturday when the car in which he was riding overturned on Highway 7 near Perth.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: The unseasonably mild weather of the last couple days has come to an end in Southern Ontario. Temperatures were still near 60 this morning, but cold northerly winds will push temperatures steadily during the day. Considerable snow accompanied the cold outbreak through Northern Ontario. Frequent snowflurries and even a few snowsqualls will occur in the northerly flow off Georgian Bay but the rest of Southern Ontario, or at least only a few snowflurries as winter weather envelops the area.

ALGIERS (AP) — Lynching, shooting and grenade-throwing by anti - Gaullist Europeans and Algerians in revenge clashes killed 16 persons and injured 87 in one of the bloodier weekends of the seven-year Algerian war.

French troops and police were caught in the middle as terrorism swept Algiers and the big western port city of Oran.

Six Europeans and 10 Moslems were killed as first one group and then another attacked.

Waving clubs, a screaming mob of Europeans broke into a jail in Algiers, lynched one Algerian suspected of having beat another before police reinforcements drove them off. The woman had been arrested earlier after a grenade wounded three Moslems in a sidewalk cafe.

ROAM THE STREETS

From Oran, 220 miles to the west, bands of European youths roamed the streets, attacking any Moslems they encountered in revenge for the killing of seven Europeans, 11 others shot in the back or beheaded along the street. Three Algerians were reported killed and six injured in these attacks.

Nearly 20 plastic bombs, favorite weapon of right-wing terrorists, exploded Saturday in Algiers during the week-end.

Shortly after midnight Saturday, Mr. Pearson was met by mixed applause and booing when he arrived at a banquet of celebrating curlers attending a Royal Canadian Legion district banquet.

However, he made a non-political speech and was applauded loudly at the end.

The banquet arrived late in the capital by train today. He is scheduled to fly to Regina

Stores are put into effect in Algiers and Oran—the fourth Algerian city—after two largest cities—in an attempt to curb night attacks.

Clandestine broadcasts by the right-wing secret army organization, said for fugitive French military officers opposed to President de Gaulle's self-determination policy for Algeria, stirred up the mobs.

TERROR SPEAKS UP

A voice claiming to be that of former Gen. Edmond Jouhaud broke into the radio broadcast Sunday with a denunciation of de Gaulle's policy and admitted terrorist attacks.

The broadcast went into hiding after the abortive "revolt of the generals" in Algiers last April and was sentenced to death in absentia by a Paris court.

The voice said the underground army was responsible for the "execution" several days ago in Oran of municipal councillor Jean Claude Piris. It also admitted a machine-gun attack on an Algerian cafe where eight persons were wounded.

INJURED IN BLAST

BASEL, Switzerland (AP)—A bomb exploded in Basel's railway station Sunday night, injuring two persons, one seriously, and causing minor damage. The blast occurred in a locker in the first-class section of the station, which straddles the border where Switzerland, France and West Germany meet. A man suffered burns and bruises from flying debris.

'Common Market Document' Leak Work of Foe of Britain's Entry?

LONDON (CP) — The British government today was reported to be taking a serious view of a leak to the United States of Britain's opening statement in the Common Market negotiations.

Prime Minister Macmillan's government faced a major parliamentary debate today on the handling of Commonwealth consultations as a result of the leak.

But the concern goes far beyond the effect it may have on the talks. Some concerns suggest that the weekend sequence of events provided evidence that some one close to the Common Market negotiations is opposed to Britain's entry in the trade bloc.

One result of the leak was a foreign office announcement that the text of the speech given by Lord Privy Seal Edward Heath, the minister in charge of the Brussels talks, was to be made available to Commonwealth countries, probably today.

The view that the leak may have been a deliberate attempt to complicate negotiations was suggested by two national newspapers today.

The Financial Times reports that the Soviet Union has proposed to British membership in the community can successfully disclose Britain's bargaining position in subsequent stages of the talks "this prospect of a settlement would be very much less certain than it has been."

The Conservative Daily Mail, in a front-page editorial, says

PENSION PLAN IRRESPONSIBLE SAYS PEARSON

Cannot Afford It Claim of Leader

OTTAWA (CP) — Liberal Leader Pearson said Saturday the new Democratic Party has been "not very responsible" in drawing a $75-a-month old age pension.

"That would be fine if we could do it," he told a non-informal meeting at Manitowaning, a town on Manitoulin Island where in his Algoma East riding.

But Mr. Pearson said a $30-a-month increase in the present $55 pension along with the NDP's proposal to make it payable to all those 65 and over-instead of 70 as now would cost an extra $400,000,000 to $500,000,000 a year.

The huge expenditure would come "at a time when we are already in the hole," he said, referring to Conservative government deficits. These deficits mount at the rate of $1,000,000,000 —perhaps $1,200,000,000 — by next March 31.

This was one of several points made by Mr. Pearson in stressing the economic situation in speeches late Saturday at both Manitowaning and Little Current on Manitoulin, largest of the world's fresh-water islands.

BOOED BY CURLERS

Returning to the mainland from Espanola Saturday night, Mr. Pearson was met by mixed applause and booing when he arrived at a banquet of celebrating curlers attending a Royal Canadian Legion district banquet.

However, he made a non-political speech and was applauded loudly at the end.

The banquet arrived late in the capital by train today. He is scheduled to fly to Regina

Dining Lounges, Liquor Licences Are Approved

TORONTO (CP) — Voters in 15 municipalities outside of Etobicoke Saturday approved liquor licences for dining lounges but not for cocktail bars.

A 60 per cent vote is required for approval.

The voting came after a long campaign waged by both sides in the Etobicoke drive. In the three ministers, claimed the licences would increase alcoholism. They argued voters in the suburb's young people "an invitation to drink and drive" by rejecting added facilities.

The vets were led by Clive Sinclair, 39, reeve, township deputy reeve of York County and a committee member of the Toronto Transit Commission. He was supported by Etobicoke Reeve Ossie Wattie, who said a favorable vote would mean a new settlement for the township including a $28,000,000 hotel.

Secret Speech Revealed

Cannot Join Common Mart If It Ruins Commonwealth

BRUSSELS (Reuters) — Britain told members of the European Common Market last month that she wants to be a full member of the trade group but could not be able to join if the move meant grave injury or ruin for Commonwealth members, it was disclosed today.

Reuters obtained through private sources a copy of the text of a hitherto secret speech which British Deputy Foreign Secretary Edward Heath delivered Oct. 10 in Paris before Common Market Ministers. Heath is the minister in charge of Britain's negotiations for Market membership.

In discussing British motives for membership in the market, formally called the European Economic Community — Heath declared:

"In saying that we wish to join the EEC we are stating our desire to become full, wholehearted and active members of it. We are not ministers of the widest sense and to go forward we must go in the building of a new Europe."

However, Heath said he was sure Britain could not join

Education Conference Ends, Many Changes Suggested

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — The First Ontario Conference on education ended here Saturday with a review of more than 150 recommendations made by the 1,000 delegates.

Although the conference as a whole took no official action on the recommendations, some points raised are expected to be brought to the attention of the provincial government.

Recommendations will be considered and studied by the 15 organizations that sponsored the conference. It will be up to them to take any action on the government to effect changes.

Almost every aspect of the province's educational system was examined in detail by 20 study groups that met simultaneously during the three-day gathering.

Among the problems debated were the financing of education and religious instruction in the schools.

Several study groups recommended that surveys be made of grant structures. Concern was expressed that the mounting costs of education might prove too heavy a burden for the municipal taxpayer. The provincial aid to municipalities

Canadians Swing to View Selective Tariffs Are Best

HOLLYWOOD, BEACH, Fla. (CP)—Canada must bring her trade, particularly with the United States, into better balance, Walter Gordon, of Toronto, said today in an address to the Canadian Industry Association of America.

Mr. Lank, who is president of the Canada Development Corp., said there is nothing wrong with Canada that Canadians can't fix, and added:

"I have come up this direction to suggest to you that they might just do that all by themselves unless Canadians very quickly decide that a co-operative approach to her economic difficulties and a firm will would be decidedly the better way to follow for our country. Canada is in a ferment (in recent years) that reminds me of what you need not be surprised if, as I hope, bold proposals result."

Mr. Lank, American-born but a resident of Canada, said he was a growing number of Canadians and their elected representatives who are beginning to realize that the best answer is the view that a selective and discriminate use of tariffs will best further Canada's interests at this time.

"In selling such tariffs, the given product should be produced domestically or imported. The idea is not that we might grow bananas but that we improve our yardsticks for determining the products that can be first decisions would be whether

NATIONAL POWER GRID PLAN IN WORKS PM HINTS

Back in Ottawa After Nfld. Visit

GRAND FALLS, Nfld. (CP)—A hint that a national power grid plan is in the works was dropped Saturday night by Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

He said it may not be too long before such a grid could be established using new techniques in long-haul transmission of power.

The province's willing, Sinn plans could be made for a national grid to carry the country's vast hydro - electric power resources from coast to coast.

In a public address, he also asked Canadians to participate in government by sending him ideas for the development of Canada's natural resources.

"If you have an idea . . . I'll be that co - operation," he said.

The drop-me-a-letter program was no idea "each of us becomes a part of the government," Mr. Diefenbaker told an audience of 1,500 in a hockey and paper town where he launched his 1958 campaign for a visit to Newfoundland.

His speech, outlining government efforts to stimulate investment and trade promotion, sprung a new theme in the election format of town-to-town visits that featured talks to high school audiences, where student representatives got likeminded answers to Bill of Rights and speeches about the benefits of a Canada with common purpose and unity.

In another speech here Saturday night he leaned heavily on events in the past four years of Conservative rule.

Mr. and Mrs. Diefenbaker flew back to Ottawa today after spending Saturday night in private at Gander.

Two Men Die Of Heart Attacks Watching Game

TORONTO (CP) — At least two men died of heart attacks, one here and one at Hudson, Que., while watching a telecast Saturday on the final playoff game of the Eastern Football Conference. In addition, a hockey fan was stricken ill at a Montreal game.

At Hudson, Jack Mackell, 61, father of Reverse National Hockey League player Fleming Mackell, collapsed and died, while in Toronto Harold A. Livingston, a retired construction company executive, succumbed.

Mr. Livingston, an avid football fan, suffered a heart attack a weak heart from attending football games for two years. He collapsed during the hectic minute's play of regulation time in the game between Ottawa Rough Riders and Hamilton Tigercat quarterback Bernie Faloney ran the length of the field for a touchdown play that was called back by the referees.

His last words were: "Look at that Faloney run!"

Reds Say NATO Baltic Command Will Restore German Sea Power

LONDON Reuters — Russia charged today that West German "revanchist" circles "are aware" of NATO "as it now rules its land forces."

The Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda, quoted by the Russian news agency Tass, made the claim in commenting on talks Friday between Finland's President Urho Kekkonen and Soviet Premier Khrushchev in Novosibirsk, Siberia.

Pravda voiced open Soviet attacks on recent Western discussions on setting up a NATO Baltic command. It declared some Scandinavian leaders "do not see or do not wish to see that a Baltic command will be nothing but a screen for the accelerated restoration of German militarism on the sea."

Wants Controls Before Tests Underground

Seeks Four-Power Pact Open to Other Powers

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union proposed today banning all nuclear tests in the air, underground and under the sea.

The proposed was made in a short, unanounced statement to correspondents in the Soviet foreign office on the eve of renewing talks in Geneva for a treaty to end testing of nuclear weapons.

The agreement proposed by the Soviet Union contained these articles, aimed at dealing with a separate kind of testing.

Article One contained a direct reply to the American announcement that it was going to underground tests in the hardness of the reopening of the U.S. it said:

"The states participating in this agreement assume the obligation not to carry out any underground tests if evidence is given before their reach agreement among themselves on a system of control over such tests as a component part of international control for carrying out the agreement on general and complete disarmament."

MAY AIR TESTS

Article One bans atmospheric tests such as were carried out by the Soviet Union in September, October and early November.

It says:

"The states participating in the agreement solemnly commit themselves not to carry out tests of any kind of nuclear and thermonuclear weapons in the atmosphere, in cosmic space and under water."

Article Two provides that all countries use detection systems to assure observance of the agreement. This article said:

"With the aim of carrying out mutual observance of fulfillment of commitments contained in article one of this agreement, the states participating in the agreement will use their national systems for detecting nuclear and thermonuclear explosions.

The fourth article proposes to include not only the atomic club powers but all other states as well. It said:

"This agreement goes into force immediately after it is signed by the representatives of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, the United States of America, the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland, and the Republic of France, and is open for joining to all states."

CRITICIZES STALIN

PARIS (Reuters)—The French Communist party has attacked the "mania and crimes" which resulted from the per sonality cult of late premier dictator Joseph Stalin did serious damage to the Soviet economy, party leader was disclosed Sunday night. The party central committee passed a resolution claiming Stalin's "false theory" that the class struggle would increase in proportion to the progress of social. It said: "Look at Russia today."

Smoke Just Burning Bush In New Guinea

MERAUKE, Dutch New Guinea (AP) — Hope for Michael Rockefeller, missing since Monday as wisps of smoke welling up from the steamy jungle of which he disappeared eight days ago, but they dwindled to burning brush.

The smoke was spotted Sunday by a searching Australian Air Force plane, raising hopes that Rockefeller, millionaire Dutch officials said an investigation proved to be "a wild goose chase."

Helicopters criss-crossing the jungle searching for Rockefeller, New Guinea were scheduled to set out early Tuesday. Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York and his wife, Mrs. Happy Rockefeller, were expected to the United States soon after.

Ground parties, however, will continue to comb the crocodile infested jungle coast for at least two more weeks.

"We still have one hope," a Dutch district official said. "It's that Michael Rockefeller is still alive and given aid and shelter by the natives.

Toronto Man Is Gangland Murder Victim

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (CP) — The second gangland-style slaying of a defendant in a $150,000,000 international narcotics smuggling trial was disclosed today when authorities identified the charred body of a torch murder victim as that of Albert Agueci, 36-year-old Toronto fugitive.

Agueci had jumped $20,000 bail in the trial of 32 men in New York—now in recess until Wednesday. All were charged with conspiring to violate the narcotics laws.

Two hit - and - run autos found Agueci's body in a field near suburban Penfield last Thursday — U.S. Thanksgiving Day. Identification was made by the Federal Bureau of Investigation from fingerprints.

Police said Agueci's arms were bound behind his back with wire. He had been strangled with a plastic clothesline and doused with kerosene. He had been dead two days.

Police said Agueci sold his house in Toronto and his car about a month before he was to appear in New York for the trial that started three weeks ago. His wife, Anita, has been living with friends in a two-room flat in Toronto, authorities said.

There will be an election for the reeveship in Marmora and Lake townships however with the present reeve John Wilkes to be opposed by former reeve Irwin McCoy.

Ethiopians Control Kindu

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP)—The UN today announced its Ethiopian troops have taken control of the town of Kindu, where 13 Italian UN airmen were slaughtered more than two weeks ago.

No details of the takeover were released, except that the European garrison numbering an estimated 81, was well and safe.

The only signal received at UN headquarters here said the entire Kindu civilian population gave the Ethiopians a "warm welcome" as they entered the town.

Ever since the massacre, the UN has been confined to the airport, with only occasional reconnaissance forays into the town controlled by the Congolese troops.

Second Course Recruiting Now Under Way

Recruiting for the second National Survival Course will start today in preparation for the course to commence on January 9th. It now will undergo at the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment armories. Some 80 recruits have already been signed up, the recruiting officer, Capt. Clyde Pinder said this morning.

Capt. Pinder stressed the advantage of course applicants signing on as early as possible. All those with their documentation and medical to be completed promptly and if berth assured them if they pass the qualifying standards.

The age limits for the course are 18 to 30 inclusive and applicants must, of course, be physically fit. The course is held in both Picton and Belleville and transportation arrangements are laid on for those wishing to take the course. Full pay during area free for which the registrant is responsible.

Besides the future commencing on January 9th there are two more which the regiment is conducting under the Emergency Measures Organization's Current plans. The third course runs from February 26th to April 8th and the fourth in April 16th to May 27th.

Although the training taken by course recruits are such subjects as drill, first aid, evacuation of injured from ruined buildings and training with the new FN rifle. Fay parades are held weekly.

PENSION PLAN

Tuesday to address the Bay-Hastingswa Liberal Federation.

At a party luncheon in Lisle Guerrier he said that the economic situation — especially unemployment—will likely be the main political issue in the next general federal election.

He predicted that Prime Minister Diefenbaker will call the election next May or June if the unemployment situation improves during the winter but if the situation was as bad or worse than last winter, the voting probably would be delayed until next September or October.

SEES GOOD CHANCE

"We have a very, very good chance of getting a clear majority," Mr. Pearson told Liberal supporters, even the public had come to realize that under Conservative government the country "has stopped moving ahead"; the 1945-57 years of Liberal administration now looked "pretty good" to the public.

Again condemning the Diefenbaker government's "negative" attitude toward possible British membership in the European Common Market, Mr. Pearson said a good opportunity has been lost to advance toward an Atlantic free trade area.

Membership for Canada in such an alliance would mean a big expansion in export markets steps would have to be taken to help Canadian industries which may be hurt.

"It would be the-kind of job I'd like to take on," Mr. Pearson said.

Styles Bridges, High-Ranking Senator, Dies

CONCORD, N.H. (AP)—Senator Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, ranking Republican on the armed services committee and a member of the foreign relations committee, died in his sleep Sunday at his home.

The 63-year-old senator who had returned home for a rest the most influential men in the United States, had been in poor health.

He suffered severe pulmonary congestion in Washington Aug. 28. Almost a month later, Sept. 20, he was taken to the Concord Hospital with a severe heart attack. He was discharged Nov. 2 and returned home for a period of convalescence.

President Kennedy sent a message of condolence to Mrs. Bridges. Kennedy in a statement said Bridges "was a great patriot who devoted his life to the continuing strength of our country."

His death marked the second congressional funeral in less than a month. Within 10 days after the death of Speaker of the House of Representatives Sam Rayburn.

BECOMES A POWER

Bridges was a power in the Republican party almost from the day he first took his seat in 1937. When the Republicans controlled the Senate, Bridges was chairman of the powerful senate appropriations committee which controls the purse strings of the government.

He was the senate's senior Republican and since 1952 had served as chairman of the Senate Republican policy committee.

Bridges was friend and confidant of Republican and Democratic presidents alike. He described himself as a "middle-of-the-roader" but was generally regarded as one of the most articulate spokesmen for the conservative point of view.

NEVER LOSES ELECTION

During a long and spectacularly successful political career that at times was also a local checker of voting lists, Bridges never lost an election.

He broke most of the state's voting records and the 173,351 votes he received in winning his fifth Senate term last year, was the highest ever given to any political office in New Hampshire.

He was born and raised on a small farm in West Pembroke, N.H. His wife, Helen, was his father died and the future senator spent most of his time on the farm plowing the land and milking cows.

Bridges worked his way through the University of Maine, graduating with honors in dairy barns. Besides his wife he leaves three sons by his first wife who died in 1938. He remarried in 1944.

Quinn's Store, Tweed, Entered, Safe Blown

TWEED (Special) — When the employees of the Quinn store arrived there Monday morning, it was found that during the week-end the store had been entered, the safe blown and some money taken. Also stolen were some articles, including cigarets, coke and candy bars.

Severe damage was done on the safe, which is a large one and heavy. It was blown by experts as articles were used to muffle the sound of the explosion. Provincial Constable Walter Higgins is investigating the break-in but as yet no clues have been uncovered.

Resting at the Thomas C. Thompson Funeral Chapel, Trenton until 2 p.m. Tuesday, the funeral service will be conducted by Rev. Maurice Imhoff. Interment was at St. Andrew's cemetery at Sloco, where Rev. Mr. Brickell will say the committal prayers. The funeral was largely attended, showing the wealth of spiritual offerings and other floral tributes testified to the high esteem in which she deceased was held in the community.

The bearers, all nephews of the deceased, were Thomas and Andrew Kelly, Thomas Gerrard and Kevin Mulrooney and Edward Hicky.

ARTHUR EMERY ELLIS (Wellington)

Following a week's illness, Arthur Emery Ellis of Wellington, died at his home on Tuesday last. He was born in Hillier 69 years ago, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ellis and had resided in the village of Wellington for 30 years. He formerly retired from Marlatteburg.

He was a member of the United Church and is survived by his wife, Dora Fritz, one son, Donald Ellis, Cosmcon, Ont., Mrs. Howard (Lena) Hillier, Belleville; three daughters, Mrs. Keith (Alice) Greenwood, Bedneroville, Marion (Mrs. Wilbert) Campbell, Hillier, Doris (Mrs. Lorne) Bellhouse, one stepson, Albert Mallory, Wellington; one brother, Clifton Ellis of Hillier, and two sisters, Mrs. Charles Hobbs, Medicine Hat, Alta., Rose (Mrs. Claude McCartney) Wellington. Also surviving are 16 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

The funeral for Arthur Emery Ellis was held on Friday from the Ackerson Funeral Home. The service in the church was conducted by Rev. A. Truax and the committal took place at Wellington Cemetery. The bearers were Allan Martin, Ben Ellis, Norris Parks, Lesley Lamber, Fred Upton and Leonard Vandeef.

Bullets, Bombs Fly Across Berlin Border

BERLIN (Reuters) — More bullets, and tear gas grenades flew across the Berlin border Sunday night as East German border guards fired on a West Berliner. The shooting escalated his massive wall-dividing the city will remain until West Germany quits NATO.

An East German border guard fired three shots at a 27-year-old woman who scrambled unharmed through barbed wire into the American sector of West Berlin, bringing the weekend total of refugees to 21.

East Berlin police carried 15 East Berliners away in trucks after tear gas grenades failed to disperse them while they waved to relatives in the U.S. sector.

In another incident West Berlin police threw more than 50 tear gas bombs at East German police who bombarded West Berliners with chunks of pavement, empty bottles, bricks and concrete slabs from rooftops along the Bernauerstrasse in the French sector.

Trent Cottons Employees Go on Strike Monday Morn

TRENTON — At 7:30 a.m. today, some 150 to 160 members of Local 241 of the Textile Workers Union of America, employed at the Trent Cottons mill in Trenton, went on strike.

Negotiations between company representatives and union officials have been going on since July 15, when the union's contract expired.

At that time, the union asked for a 10 cent an hour "package" raise across the board, and a two-year contract, incorporating an additional pension plan, with the cost of this supplying insurance being borne by the company.

A strike vote was called for on October 29 in the Trenton plant and in the Hamilton and Dundas plants of the Hamilton Cotton Co., which also owns Trent Cottons is a subsidiary. Ninety-five per cent of the union members voted to strike if a settlement could not be reached.

A "minority" report from a conciliation board recommended a 5 cent an hour raise retroactive to July 13 or this week, and a two-year pact to be instituted and paid for by the company and an additional 5 cents an hour would be become effective July 13, 1962. Union officials turned down the suggested agreement the contract would expire on July 13, 1963.

Union officials met with company representatives on Nov. 21 to discuss the board's report.

On Nov. 23 the company made a counter-proposal, agreeing to the surgical plan of benefits in the contract but offering only to pay a fixed amount on current premium rates and to pay any further raised to become effective July 13, 1962.

On Sunday afternoon, members of the local union met and voted to strike at 7:30 a.m.

Executive members of the local are Frank Wilson, president; Jack Gannon, vice-president; Jack Phillips, recording secretary and Mrs. Marion Hall, financial secretary.

Clifford A. Baker is the manager at the Trent Cotton Co. Today, Mr. Baker said that due to the decline of setting power and the increase in cost prices in the textile industry generations, as well as due to the competition from abroad, the company was not in a position to meet the demands of the union. He said that if that is the case, the 23 offer made by the company would be final.

Cars Suffer Damage In Minor Accidents

TRENTON — On Friday night, a Trenton resident's car rammed the rear of a car preceding him at a line of traffic lights on Dundas West. He told police that he had dropped something on the floor of his car and that in the bending down looking for it when the ramming occurred. Damages were estimated at $150.

Early Saturday morning, $150 damage was caused when a car driven by Joseph Laporte of Trenton struck a wall near the Trenton Cold Storage.

Around 1.50 a.m. on Saturday, cars driven by Arthur Dorland of Wooler and Douglas Cooney, R.R. 3, Brighton, were involved in a crash on a sideroad, on the outskirts of Brighton. Damage to the two vehicles was extensive, but no personal injuries were reported.

The CNR subway on Highway 33 was the scene of a motor mishap around 2.30 p.m. on Saturday. John Brewer of Trenton lost control of his vehicle and struck a department of highways sign near the subway. Mr. Brewer was not injured and damage to the car was estimated at $100.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) – Industrials broke an eight-day decline during heavy morning trade on the stock market today.

Strength in banks and financial institutions helped the industrial index to the strong advance. Other groups were mixed.

Speculative action was again strong and trade heavy. Default advanced o 12¼ on 26,592 shares. It had earlier struck a new high of 13¾.

Canadian Dyno gained two cents at $2.80, while Willson-Corblin, which has been losing Lake Dufault on its upward climb, dropped 3½ cents at 41¾ cents.

On the industrial board advances of ¼ went to Bank of Montreal and Canadian Imperial Bank of Canada, while Royal Bank and Toronto - Dominion each gained ½, the latter to a new high of 70. Traders Finance A was ahead ¼.

On the exchange index, industrials gained 1.17 at 602.50, golds 40 at 89.10 and western oils .11 at 111.18. Base metals dropped .23 at 210.30.

The 11 a.m. volume was 1,- 780,000 shares, compared with 1,038,000 at the same time Friday.

The weakness in base metals was confined mostly to junior issues, notably Bathurst and Labrador each advanced ¼, while Falconbridge dropped ¼.

Home B and Hudson's Bay led western oils with gains of ¼ and ¼ respectively.

MONTREAL (CP)—The U.S. dollar was at a premium of 1-15-16 per cent in terms of Canadian funds near noon today. Friday the noon rate was $1.03 13-16.

Pound sterling stood at $2.80⅝, up ⅜.

Rescue Efforts Prove in Vain

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. (AP)—The frantic rescue efforts of Alvyn D. Hardman, 19-year-old student at the Soo branch of Michigan Tech, have proved in vain. The friend whose life Hardman tried to save by the risk of his own died Saturday night.

Hardman is confined by severe arm and hand burns to a hospital in neighboring Sault Ste. Marie, Ont. His friend, 21-year-old John Spencer of Hespeler, Ont., died in the same hospital.

Hardman, home in Hespeler for the Thanksgiving holidays, and Spencer had gone hunting on Mongoose Lake, 15 miles north of the Soo.

Hardman said he was about 100 yards away when there was an explosion and the cabin he and Spencer occupied became a flaming inferno inside. Spencer had been attempting to kindle a wood stove fire with gasoline.

Hardman dashed into the burning cabin and hauled out Spencer, whose clothing was burning off. Then he dashed a mile and a half to an Algoma Central Railway section repair camp and asked that an airplane be summoned by telegraph.

When an plane came immediately, Hardman loaded up his friend and carried him the mile and a half to the railway tracks and put him aboard a train headed for the Soo.

Mac White's Rink Wins One-Day Spiel

The first one-day men's spiel was held at the Quinte Curling Club on Saturday and despite the fact there were only eight rinks in play or one draw, everyone had an excellent time and some wonderful curling due to the excellence of the ice. It was fast and true and the boys had a little trouble keeping the weight.

The smallness of the draw was due to several factors. A number of the members were in Kingston to the opening of the new Garrison Club rink at Barriefield, while many of the members were busy in the stores as the first Christmas shopping Saturday was on and they were unable to leave. An innovation and a pleasant one was the rink entered by Joe McKay of Albert College. Joe had three of his boys from the College in competition and they were not disgraced coming out with the prize for the one-game high win. They curled well and will be heard from in future matches at the club. One of the boys, Don Isbister, is a cousin of the famous Bob Isbister of the Hamilton Tiger fame in football in the years gone by.

A rink of Dave Tobe, Abe Tobe, Dave Brown with Mac White as skip was the winner of the grand prize with 63 points, while the two-game winner was a rink of J. B. Dorrant, Lloyd Lantz, Ed Lewis and Murray Jeanson with a total of 34 points. The Albert College rink of Frank Steip, Don Isbister, Ed Laskowski with Joey McKay skip had 19 points for two wins high. There were four rinks tied with four-ender during the day and as two or three had won games the other two skips threw one rock and the rink of Mac White, Dave Tobe, Dave Duffy and Charlie Lovett won the prize.

There will be a one-day mixed spiel next Saturday while on the following Saturday another men's spiel will be held and it is hoped that the members will sign up for this one and make it the biggest before the holiday season.

Strike Action Against GM Is Authorized

TORONTO (CP) — Members of the Toronto and Windsor locals in the United Automobile Workers of CLC Sunday almost unanimously authorized strike action against General Motors Products of Canada Limited.

Returns showed 97.5 per cent of the Windsor membership and 96 per cent in Toronto favoring action to back demands on which agreement has not been reached since negotiations began Sept. 12.

The international union demands for pensions of $200 a month at 60 and a 30-hour week with no gap — estimated at 40 cents an hour before recent United States negotiations — between what is there and in Canada.

Also at stake are full company-paid medical coverage and improved supplementary unemployed benefits. Agreement on non-monetary items was reached, but the company made no offer on the economic issues.

Members of the St. Catharines local also voted last night but returns were not yet available.

VOTE TODAY

Balloting among the Oshawa local's 19,000 membership, will be conducted until late this afternoon.

Each case is scheduled to go before a conciliation board Tuesday but the board's past practice has been to throw the issues back to the parties for negotiation.

The U.S. settlement is expected to set a pattern for UAW's negotiations with the Canadian auto industry with special considerations of Canadian conditions.

The union has contended that the lack in Canada of the U.S.-type social security system justifies higher company-paid pensions.

FINDS SKELETON

FRANKLINVILLE, N.J. (AP) A hunter in woods near his home Saturday came upon a hand - bones coffin holding the skeleton of a man police believe killed himself in weird fashion. A nearly empty can of what appeared to be cyanide rested beside the skeleton. Police said he evidently got in the coffin, closed the lid and drank the poison. He was identified as Richard Walsh, 37, missing since last Jan. 22.

Cheese judges Jack M. Bain, director of milk products for the Ontario Department of Agriculture, and Robert Gillan, a supervisor of grading for the Federal government, check entry card with British Empire Dairy Show secretary, Mrs. Lillian Matthews. Dairy Show being held in conjunction with cheesemakers' convention on Wednesday and Thursday of this week.

Judging of 150 Cheese In Dairy Show Under Way

Judging of over 150 cheese entered in the 34th annual British Empire Dairy Show got underway this morning at the show's new location in the old Dickens' Tea Room on Front Street.

For many years the dairy show has been held in the market room of the city hall but recent city hall renovations forced a change in location.

But indications are as far as the general public is concerned the change in location of the show is all for the better. Show officials feel the show this year will be visited by considerably more people than in other years. To further attract the public frontages to be won at the show and also the championship cheese will be placed on display in the front windows.

Judging of the cheese, including 83 large cheese, 33 stilton and 28 spare cheese is expected to be completed late this evening or tomorrow morning. The prize list will be open to the public Wednesday and Thursday.

The annual cheese show is being held in conjunction with the Central Ontario Cheese Makers' Association annual convention, sessions of which are being held at the Quinte Hotel.

The opening session of the convention will get underway Wednesday afternoon with an address by the Association president Delbert Rowe of Halloway. Addresses of welcome will be heard from county warden Harleigh Hamilton, Mayor A. McLean Haig, and Lee Grills, M.P. for Hastings South.

A panel discussion and question and answer period will be a feature of the convention's sessions at which also high ranking dairy and agricultural officials will speak.

The annual convention will be concluded with the cheese makers' banquet to be held Thursday evening at the Masonic Temple. Rev. A. M. Laverty, chaplain at Queen's University, will be the guest speaker.

British Decision to Release ECM Text Hailed as Victory

OTTAWA (CP)—Britain's decision to give Commonwealth governments copies of its secret pre-negotiation position on Common Market negotiators is being hailed in government circles here as a moral victory for Canada.

It also is taken as further evidence that one of the big rifts between Ottawa and London on the Common Market is rapidly being patched up, at least outwardly.

The announcement in London Saturday came less than a week after Prime Minister Diefenbaker's successful bid to obtain a copy of the secret draft, 10 state-ment by Edward Heath, Britain's lord privy seal, at the opening of Paris talks on the British bid to enter the Common Market.

Mr. Fleming, who returned to Ottawa last Monday night from talks in Paris and London, welcomed the decision.

"It is very gratifying indeed," he said, adding that he was awaiting formal word on when the information will arrive in Ottawa.

YIELDS TO PROTESTS

London reports said Prime Minister Macmillan decided to release the secret document because of the parliamentary storm over persistent reports last week that it had already been "leaked" to other governments.

Canada had originally received a summary of part of the Heath statement. Britain was reported to feel the negotiations are confidential and cannot be disclosed in their entirety.

But Mr. Fleming during his talks in London insisted that Canada and the other Commonwealth nations have a right to be fully informed on the details of Britain's application to enter and have every effect on Commonwealth trade with Britain. "We are not in a position to assess the position the British government without full access to the text", he said in London.

"But when secret documents are disclosed, not to give legitimate news to the public but deliberately to damage international relations, there is nothing to be said for it."

The Financial Times suggest more trouble would arise with Commonwealth governments once they have digested the full text. This could provide the ammunition they need to protest British attempts to draw closer to Europe.

"This serious view of the possible consequences . . . is in line with the importance which the government has attached all along to maintaining the confidential character of the negotiations," the newspaper says.

"To secure Commonwealth acceptance of some final over-all settlement should be a practicable diplomatic proposition."

"But if the representatives of special Commonwealth business interests are going to be kept informed continuously of British proposals which will affect their own particular products, there are going to be continuous protests from Commonwealth capitals and continuous pressure on the British government to admit defeat."

Where Is The B.V.C. This Year?

Christians of Nearly Every Kind, Place Knelt Together

NEW DELHI (AP)—Side by side, Christians of nearly every kind and place knelt Sunday in communion.

Above them was a tall white cross set in the altar in a striking ragging tent with a jasmine tree growing through a hole in the top.

Outside the beggars extended their hands. Bangle and trinket peddlers chattered and bhajans in the morning sunlight.

It was a unique, integrated celebration of the Lord's Supper described as the most denominational and comprehensive in Christian history. It was held as part of the general assembly of the World Council of Churches.

Bowed in common worship were Pentecostals, Presbyterians, Baptists, Old Catholics, Disciples, Copts, Methodists, Episcopalians, Lutherans, Evangelicals, Congregationalists and Orthodox bishops in black-veiled klobuk hats.

Orthodox churchmen generally did not partake of the com. munion. Benches filled in from row and joined in prayers and Hymns.

Strange music came from the Indian instrumental choir, the tinkle of the sitar, the soft string chords of the longnecked vina, the beat of tabla drums, the piping of the bearnit flute.

Above the tent, the organ pealed the silver tone of bells.

It was a curious setting in this land of many divisions, of Hindu seers and Buddhist sages, where the Moslem names of Allah reckoned from the minarets and Siva and Vishnu sit enthroned.

The words of the service came in many languages — in Polish, Czech, Hungarian, Dutch, Finnish, Spanish, Russian, English, Hindustani and a hundred dialects.

More than 2,000 people, including representatives of 198 denominations around the world with more than 300,000,000 members, were massed in the striped and floral painted tent.

The service was conducted according to the Anglican rite of the Church of India, Pakistan, Burma and Ceylon.

TORONTO MAN

Bronx Aug. 9. The .38-calibre bullets had been fired into the back of his skull.

Agnesi, Rokonis and 22 others were indicted last May for federal narcotics law violations. All were freed in bail totalling $305,000.

The government charged that Agnesi, his brother, Vito, 41, and another Toronto man, Joseph Scopelliti, 26, had for 10 years recruited emigrants from Italy for Canada.

Before the migrants left Italy, the charges said, they were given assume trunks with false bottoms containing heroin.

The heroin was passed from the trunks when they landed in Canada and then was smuggled across the border to New York.

At the trial, witnesses also testified that the smuggled narcotics via trunks and suitcases began in New York piers. One witness said Albert Agnesi met directly involved in seeing that the suitcases and trunks were taken to a Brooklyn bakery where the heroin was disposed of.

Sees Trade Rivalry Growing

Viscount Amory of Tiverton, British high commissioner to Canada, spoke to the Canadian Manufacturers' Association Wednesday.

If war is avoided, he forecast five features for this decade of the sixties. One of these was increasing economic rivalry between the communist bloc and the free nations of the world. Another was a further enormous increase in population in the poorer countries of Asia, Africa and South America and an accompanying demand for capital for these countries, "a demand far greater than the industrialized countries are likely to be able to supply."

We in the west are accustomed to think of capital as money, but in the final analysis what these nations will require is not money but capital goods, the machinery which will make it possible for them to produce those things which their people need.

It just so happens that the communist world may find itself ideally equipped to supply this need. For decades now the economic planners in Russia have stressed the development of heavy industry, of the type which produces capital goods. At first these capital goods were used primarily to further enlarge heavy industry but a start has been made on equipping secondary industries, to produce consumer goods. Perhaps not for another ten years towards the end of this decade and in the decade to follow, it would not be unreasonable to suppose that the Russians might discover their heavy industries had a surplus capacity. In this event they could export part of the output to equipping the poorer lands of Asia, Africa and South America.

There is little doubt that they would do so, even if there were little prospect of repayment, if the world political situation were such as would make this help to uncommitted lands embarrassing for the West. It so happens, though, that the lack of consumer goods in the communist lands, which is likely to continue in some form for years, would mean that there would be a demand in Russia for handicrafts, or the products of peasant or home industries. Almost anything the backward lands could produce would be acceptable as payment for capital goods.

The West, of course, also has a tremendous capacity to produce capital goods. The difficulty arises over the question of payment. Private firms could not afford to donate these goods to the poorer lands. Their provision would thus have to be financed by governments, through extended foreign aid programs. Nor would there likely be as ready a market in western lands for any goods the backward lands produce—for the western nations' secondary industries are already well equipped to fill consumer needs.

All of which leads us to ready acceptance of another of Viscount Amory's five predictions, that there are "no confident hopes of governments in general reducing the tax burden of the taxpayers' money than they do at present."

Lots of Company

Municipal elections in both Belleville and Trenton are this year being asked whether they approve of Sunday sports, or, more correctly, if permission should be granted to charge admission to Sunday sport contests. In Belleville the electors will also vote on whether Sunday movies shall be permitted.

A Canadian Press survey indicates that, far from Belleville and Trenton electors being alone in facing votes on these questions, they have a lot of company. In fact, a number of Ontario communities are voting on one or both of these questions that if there were any pronounced tide in favor of easing restrictions on Sunday recreation, Sunday life will be altered throughout a great deal of the province.

Today, along with Belleville, on both Sunday sports and Sunday movies are Barrie, Chatham, Owen Sound, Sarnia, Sudbury, Thorold, and Kenora.

Besides Trenton, communities holding a vote on Sunday sports only are Waterloo and Simcoe.

Voting on Sunday movies, but not on Sunday sport, are Brockville, Fort William, Guelph, Sault Ste. Marie and Wallaceburg. At least one of these communities, Fort William, already permits Sunday sports, for there will be a ballot there on whether stock car racing should be permitted under the existing Sunday sport by-law.

All told, then, there are at least sixteen Ontario municipalities which will vote on some form of question involving less restrictions on Sunday recreation. There are, of course, many other communities which have already, in some form or another, relaxed the once universal restrictions against Sunday movies and Sunday sport to which admission is charged.

Letter To The Editor

Opposes Proposals For 'Open Sunday'

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer

On December 4th the citizens of Belleville will have an opportunity to cast their ballots either for or against commercialized sport and open theatres on Sunday. We are fortunate in the privilege of living in a land where we have freedom to vote, but that freedom is based upon christian principles. To set aside God's commandment, "Remember to keep the Sabbath day holy," and pursue our own pleasure is to ignore the foundation of this freedom. God, not man, appointed one day of the week for rest and worship. It is not just a day of the week. It is an institution ordained and set apart by God for the benefit of all generations. Whether it falls on the first or the seventh day of the week, no change is effected in the purpose and aim of the institution. God ordained it, kept it hallowed, and gave us instructions how to observe it.

The Sabbath was not only a day of rest from toil, but a day of worship. Cessation from work rests the body, but worship rests and invigorates the soul. God, in His infinite wisdom knew that we would need one day in seven free from secular pursuits, that our minds could be directed wholly to spiritual things, to meditate upon His word and to worship Him in the sanctuary.

To desecrate the Sabbath is to violate the plain command of Holy Scripture, and disregard one of God's best gifts to man. If we would have God's blessing we must keep His commands In Revelation, chapter 22, verse 14 we read, "Blessed are they that do His commandments." This includes the preservation of the sanctity of the Lord's Day.

Religion Determines Adoptions Here

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

As a result of a recent decision of the Parry Sound District Court, many local citizens are wondering if the Children's Aid Society of the local Children's Aid Society in connection with the placement of children in Adoption. May I state that it has always been the policy of the local society and will continue to be the policy of the local society to place Protestant children only with Protestant families seeking to adopt and, Roman Catholic children only with Roman Catholic families seeking to adopt. The religion of all children in the care of the society is carefully determined by the court at the time of the commitment of the child to the ward care of the society.

Britons Like Small Apples

Windsor Star

Southwestern Ontario apple growers, investigating new market possibilities in the United Kingdom, have discovered people over there want smaller apples than those popular here. This is the opposite of the trend in the Annapolis Valley where, in former years, the larger and slow were gauged to the overseas market.

The reason why people in the United Kingdom preferred smaller apples is largely economic. They could buy a smaller apple cheaper than a large eating apple. Those who had to watch their pennies could afford it when buying apples.

They then preferred a somewhat harder, crunchier apple than the big juicy ones which become popular here in Canada. They got more chewing for their money.

STRENGTH for the DAY
DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS
OUR NAME ON IT

"Why was I born?"

This was the plaintive cry of a woman recently arrested and charged with a serious crime. She might well ask the question. The pity is that she did not ask it several decades ago.

We can be sure that we are all born with a purpose in view. The Creator does everything according to a pre-arranged plan. We may scatter our energies recklessly and without purpose, but the Grand Architect who started everything at the beginning and sustains it to this very second does not do things that way. He has a purpose in view. How we do we know? Because everything in nature points to this fact, and the revelation of the Bible, the wisdom of the Church, the experience of the race also bear it out. God has a plan for life for the like of even the most insignificant person on the planet.

Can I find the reason for my existence? Of course. This does not mean that we shall know everything. It only means that we shall know enough in life and also among an otherwise dark pathway. If we could all just remember that a good, loving, and all-powerful God put us in the world and put us here for a purpose, it would cause life to take on a new and more glorious aspect. God's purpose will not be carried out unless you and I carry out the little plan which has our name on it.

The collier Scory C. Dargave of Kingston, carrying 1,300 tons of coal, struck a shoal and sank on Friday in the Murray Canal entrance River, six miles west of Brockville. She was a familiar sight in Belleville harbor being the only coaler to make regular trips here. Coming from France a number of years ago, she was of steel construction. She had a carrying capacity of 1,400 tons of coal and was equipped with automatic unloading machinery. Valued at approximately $100,000 she was a total loss as she sank in about 70 feet of water.

The prompt action of the fire department from Moulston View Bombing and Gunnery School saved a large frame house in Prince Edward County from destruction at noon on Friday when fire broke out as the result of overheated stovepipes. Volunteers were soon fighting desperately to get the flames under control when the air-port fire fighting equipment arrived. Damage to the dwelling was held to approximately $500.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Thompson of Trenton have returned home after visiting Harper and Mrs. Glencoe Thompson.

Lieut.-Col. Blake Wells of Ottawa was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Ault, Bridge St. while in the city.

Mrs. Ward Nicolai, R.C.A., Kingston, has spent the week-end in Belleville with his mother and sister.

Striving Of Best Reward

Brantford Expositor

The secret of happiness and joy in life does not always lie in the achievement of success, but often in the striving for it.

So Dean V. W. Bladen of the Faculty of Arts and Science in the University of Toronto told a group of high school graduates at Campbellford the other evening. These words of perception and wisdom are not new to our ears, but they are then remain applicable. So are still the words of the man who said doth not live by bread only" (Deuteronomy viii:3).

But the poet Dean Bladen was making is that endeavor is in itself often a source of satisfaction. In terms of modern tourism, "Getting there is half the fun".

If one wants to philosophize, success itself is a relative thing, depending not only on a definition of terms and of objectives but also on the results and the satisfaction derived therefrom.

Success is not always to be found in terms of acquisition of material fortune. Omar Khayyam, the Persian poet (to paraphrase, Edward FitzGerald) observed that,

The Worldly Hope men set their hearts upon
Turns Ashes—or it prospers and anon,
Like Snow upon the Desert's dusty face,
Lighting a little Hour or two is gone.

That is not to say that success is to be disdained. (It is scorned only by those who have failed to score it!) It can be well worth gaining, but the way to it can be stimulating and satisfying too. Oftentimes anticipation is more enjoyable than realization.

Perhaps in due course we may all of us reach that Hyslan stage of which Rudyard Kipling wrote as follows:

. . . only the Master shall praise us, and only the Master shall blame;
And no one shall work for money and no one shall work for fame,
But each for the joy of the working.

Meanwhile, there are the tares to be met, the groceries to be bought, the bills willing and feel to be paid for, not forgetting the Christmas presents

Censorship Is Worse Than Its Object

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

"Ulysses," by James Joyce happens to be a great book: "Tropic of Cancer," by Henry Miller, happens not to be. But the tasteless policemen and hypocritical judges who are frantically trying to ban the Miller book don't know the difference and don't care.

"Ulysses" was kept out of the U.S. for many years by a similar ruling of the post office department until a federal judge wisely overruled the ban. He pointed out that it is the aspect — the intention — of a book that makes it obscene or not, not its use of dirty words or obscene situations.

Admittedly, the intention of an author are difficult to judge, and the line between fact and censorship is dangerously thin. But a study of books over the years, good ones no matter how "dirty" they may seem, persist. It's the books that are banned, who reecive the government investigating with stub-back rage, they are forgotten as soon as the policy wrest the Government to interfere with the public's reading taste.

All censorship is evil, since the evil it tries to eradicate, it is evil on many counts — not the least of which is its stupidity. Ignorant and angry people who have their own copy-readers be a judge of decency for others.

It rarely happen to think that "Tropic of Cancer" is a very serious book, while "Ulysses" is an enormously gifted author who writes others much better. It is the one of the most influential in the 1920's — and today it is rarely heard of by anyone.

Trying to ban it, as we have seen, only fans the flames of interest. Thousands of people who have heard of Miller who never would have known his name, Many thousands of others who have bought the book simply because it is the current "hot" controversy. This must be vastly annoying to the author, for who had suddenly gone from obscurity to celebrity over a 36-second stretch. He had by no longer takes very seriously.

Actually, we think the great love to the world of letters is every copy of "Tropic of Cancer" now dropped into the ocean. But there would be a tremendous loss to our social values if the Neanderthals in public office were to destroy every copy of it and should not read. Civilization is not preserved by ignorance and worked out by a few of who knew.

A life can be built just like a bridge. But you must first know how of live, How to face the hard knocks, the discouragements and the defeats. Then the bridge builder can build those distinctive that he doesn't expect to fail. Knowledge always shows him a way out.

Immigrant Helps Trade

Stratford Beacon-Herald

A story of Canadian enterprise which has started money rolling in both directions from Soviet Russia is told in the current issue of "Canada Courier," a publication which reports on Canadian export trade.

A new product invented in Canada and made in Canada is intended for use as a weatherproof covering for concrete surfaces, particularly concrete. It is sprayed on, to make a coating about one-tenth of an inch in thickness of paint; laboratory tests indicate that it is almost entirely crucible, and can resist water, alkalis and acids. The firm which makes it in Toronto has been in production for less than two years, but it has already looked abroad for markets, and has an order from a state buying agency in the Soviet Union. This could become big business for Canada, since Russia has an immense building program calling for big concrete structures.

The new product has been brought to commercial form by Wallerville, to protect the property outside surface of grain elevators, and by the Toronto Board of Education, to protect classroom walls.

The inventor, Harry Karsh, came to Canada in 1946 from Yugoslavia. He has a university degree, but worked on a farm for a time after arriving. Then went to University of Toronto and took a second degree, in chemical engineering. Two Canadian hardware store owners read their stores to help finance the new coating developed by the immigrant, and are partners with him in the enterprise.

The moral is obvious. There is no reason why Canada would be given away free to any highway department that would spread it.

bourg in the Common Market. Britain "accepts without qualifications" the treaty objectives laid down in provisions for eliminating internal tariffs, between the partner nations; for the establishment of a common tariff against imports from outside the Market and for common commercial and agricultural policies, Heath said.

"We think it should be possible to deal with our special problems by means of protocols" to the treaty.

WANTS ADJUSTMENTS

He said there was a need for some adjustments" in the Market's common external tariff. If the tariff of the enlarged community was to be interpreted in the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade and to third countries, "it cannot remain at precisely the level of the existing one."

He proposed what he called a "simple solution" — to accept the structure of the present EEC tariff as the basis of the common tariff of the enlarged community." He also suggested a 20-per-cent "linear cut" in the community's present tariff.

Heath said the British "fully share the aims and objectives, political and otherwise, of those who drew up" the July 18 "Rome Declaration" in which six Common Market members pledged they would seek close political unity.

"We shall be anxious, once we are members of the community, to work with you in a positive spirit to reinforce the unity which you have already achieved."

Heath said he believed the Six shared Britain's view of the Commonwealth's value to both Britain and the entire free world. "I should be misleading you if I failed to say how deeply the British feel about this association."

Trade, he continued, was one of the strongest elements in maintaining the Commonwealth association.

It would be tragedy if British entry into the Common Market forced other Commonwealth members to change their whole pattern of trade and, perhaps as a consequence, their political orientation.

Britain, he said, would like to see the less-developed Commonwealth countries and British dependent territories get a chance to associate with the Market on the same terms as those which will be available to the present associated overseas countries and territories.

Grey Cup Game May Interfere With Vote

GLEN ORCHARD, Ont. (CP) will the Grey Cup football game play a part in the struggle for control of this Muskoka community?

The answer is as slippery as wet pigskin although the contest here is not an athletic one.

Next Saturday, while Winnipeg Blue Bombers and Hamilton Tiger-Cats thrash it out on a Toronto field, voters in the united townships of Medora and Wood will elect a new council.

The election is shaping up as a power struggle between summer home owners and the permanent residents of this community, about 150 miles north of Toronto.

The outcome will depend on how many of the 1,500 summer home-hunters can be persuaded to travel here — on Grey Cup Day—to vote.

Three Toronto businessmen are seeking election to the five-man council. They are backed by Medora and Wood Association, formed to protect the interests of the summer residents.

The association has launched an all-out campaign to persuade owners of summer homes to come here and vote.

The association seeks to influence the development of the townships to preserve and enhance the values of its members' properties. They don't want industries, trailer camps, tent colonies or resorts set up among their summer homes.

Association members are not against these projects in the municipalities of the townships but feel defined areas should be set up for them.

The permanent residents are opposed to summer residents taking control of the township council. The Medora and Wood Ratepayers' Association plans to get the permanent residents out to vote.

Winter population of the combined townships is 1,362. The summer population is estimated at 11,000.

In the last election, 626 voters exercised their franchise The summer residents could outvote the locals if they were all to vote. However, they have permanent homes in all parts of Ontario and the United States.

More than 1,200 live in Toronto proper, with another 586 in the metropolitan area. It is estimated that 300 persons who pay taxes in the area live in Hamilton, London, Kitchener, Brantford, Brampton, Orillia, Ottawa, Oshawa and St. Catharines. More than 200 live in the U.S.

Many summer residents built substantial homes, valued at $50,000 to $75,000. Total assessment of properties is about $4,000,000, of which summer residents are assessed about 60 per cent.

Toronto men seeking council seats are William J. Bushnell, a chartered accountant; J. G. Monkman, an investment dealer, and R. C. Dobson, an executive seeking his second term.

Reeve Percy Woods, a 15-year - old retired shoemaker serving his fourth year as head of council, favors two council seats for summer residents. He is opposed to three, which would give them control of the five-man council.

Mr. H. B. Styles, president of the John Inglis Company Ltd., Toronto, who will speak to the Bowmanville District Foremen's Club at the Columbus Hall Tuesday evening on the subject "Trade and Economic Development."

Montreal Bank Deposits Show Large Increase

MONTREAL — Bank of Montreal resources, deposits and loans all reached new highs levels in 1961, according to the bank's 144th annual statement for the year ended October 31, published today.

The statement, covering the most active year's business in the B of M's history, shows resources increasing 13 per cent over 1960 — or nearly half-a-billion dollars — to $3,850 million.

Deposits reached $3,647 million, up 14 per cent from the $3,200 million figure of a year ago, and total loans rose nine per cent to a record $1,984 million.

The year's operations of some 300 offices at home and abroad produced record net earnings of $14,578,827, an increase of 2.5 per cent over 1960, Texas, also at a new high, amounted to $18,043,791, compared with $17,352,044 a year ago.

The bank's 22,000 shareholders are receiving $12,453,750 of this amount, in dividends totalling $2.65 per share — five cents more than in 1960.

under the 1948 Soviet-Finnish mutual assistance pact.

Kekkonen said Sunday night that if Russian leaders could be sure of Finnish neutrality and friendship, it would not be necessary to start military consultations.

Commenting on what the Russians called the postponement of the military consultations, Pravda declared that the Soviet government went along with this but "not because it had believed the assurances of some Scandinavian statesmen who are trying to prove that the German militarist wolf had become a gentle lamb."

Pravda also charged that Chancellor Adenauer's Washington talks with President Kennedy "have shown that those forces which favor stepping up preparations for a new war and which do not seek to eliminate the consequence of the last world war have had the upper hand."

Brazil Renews Diplomatic Relations With Soviet Union

RIO DE JANEIRO AP) — Brazil renewed diplomatic relations with the Soviet Union Thursday in a move apparently intended to demonstrate its freedom from U.S. domination —but it could mean trouble for the wobbly young government of Premier Tancredo Neves.

After a 14-year break, Foreign Minister Francisco Santiago Dantes announced the resumption of formal ties with Russia during a tumultuous session of the Chamber of Deputies in Brasilia. Anti-Communist deputies almost choked him down.

Angry congressmen — some of whom jumped to their feet with boos and shouts of "shame" — contended that the Communists already had a strong enough hold in Brazil without the presence of Soviet diplomats in Rio de Janeiro and the inland capital.

"This government is lighting one candle to God and another to the devil," one deputy shouted.

Neves said that the renewal of relations did not mean that Brazil—which is 95 per cent Roman Catholic—is selling out its democratic Christian ideals.

SAYS NO CONCESSION

There has been no concession on the part of the Brazilian government, said the president who took office Sept. 8 with the promise that he would follow a foreign policy of "pure tradition."

Relating with the Soviet Union have been a hot potato for Brazilian politicians since President Eurico Gaspar Dutra broke with Moscow in 1947 because of Soviet newspaper attacks on him and Brazilian army generals.

President Juscelino Kubitschek toyed with the idea of restoring relations during his five-year, term that ended last January. He finally decided that Brazil should side formally with the West in the cold war, but he did set up commercial relations with the Soviet Union.

Jauio Quadros, who succeeded Kubitschek and then quit in a huff last August, plunging the nation into one of its gravest political crises, set in motion the machinery to exchange envoys with Moscow once more.

Quadros outlined a so-called independent foreign policy which kept Brazil officially in the Western camp but not in tow of any Western power. He talked of recognizing Red China, however, and repeatedly expressed sympathies for the Cuban regime of Fidel Castro.

Is Commercial Sunday Sport Selfish?

Commercial games on Sunday may be fun for you, but they make Sunday just another work day for—players, ticket and program sellers, food and refreshment vendors, newspaper reporters, radio and TV operators, bus drivers, etc. etc.

DOES THIS SEEM FAIR TO YOU?

Playing without Paying

Canadian law does not forbid Sunday sport that is not commercial. If you are so inclined, you may play Sunday baseball, basketball, boating, skating, hockey, tennis, etc. . . .

. . . PROVIDED YOU DO NOT PAY PLAYERS, OR CHARGE SPECTATORS.

No Problems, If No Profits

Commercial Sunday sport seems to suggest one thing. SOMEBODY WANTS TO EXPLOIT THE DAY OF REST FOR HIS OWN GAIN. If there were no profits, there would be no problem.

Protect Your Highest Interests

Avoid commercial Sunday sports. Keep Sunday as a wholesome day of rest and worship.

White Cane Club Meets At Y.M.C.A.

Members and escorts of the White Cane Club met at the YMCA for the November meeting with 27 present. Ted Rowe played the piano accompaniment for the opening song. President Pat Baverstock welcomed everyone, especially the field secretary, Mr. P. I. Timmins, of Kingston, who expressed his delight to be there.

Maude Hollins read the Canadian Council of the Blind commentary.

The birthday song was sung for Gerald Marsolie and James A. Wright. The latter was celebrating his 81st birthday.

Arlie Scott described a guide rail which was presented to the blind bowlers by the Kinette Club of Belleville. This will prove beneficial and is much appreciated.

The flower fund was collected by Laurie Towner.

Clarence Morris read a story in Braille, entitled, "The Old Time General Store," by Hayden Pearson. Store conditions such as existed in 1910, are gone, but it would be most interesting to visit one. There is a similar country store at Upper Canada Village at the St. Lawrence Seaway.

Clarence was thanked by Dick Phillips.

Local talent furnished the entertainment. Ted Rowe and several solos and accompanied himself on the piano. Arlie Scott also favored with a solo and Mr. Timmins played piano selections.

Lunch was served by the Kinettes, who were thanked by Doris Lloyd.

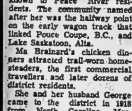
The White Cane Club is always grateful to the Ikons Club for transportation.

Ma Brainard Honored for Handling Mail

BRAINARD, Alta. (CP) — Mrs. Mary (Ma) Brainard, 82, a northwestern Alberta pioneer, has been honored with a certificate from Postmaster-General William Hamilton for 30 years of service in handling the mails.

The award followed closing of the Brainard post office on the east shore of Sinclair Lake, 325 miles northwest of Edmonton, and the retirement of Mrs. Brainard.

It was in another role, however, that Ma Brainard became known to Peace River residents. The community grew up after her was the halfway point on the early wagon track that linked Pouce Coupe, B.C., and Lake Saskatoon, Alta.



Ma Brainard's chicken dinners attracted trail-worn homesteaders, the first commercial travellers and later dozens of district residents.

She and her husband George came to the district in 1918 from North Carolina. Mrs. Brainard still retains her southern drawl and is spry and alert.

Delightful Oriental Fall Tea Sponsored by Eastminster

The chimes of Chinese wind bells welcomed the guests as they entered Eastminster United Church for the annual fall tea held there recently. Oriental decorations of screens, tree, lanterns, bowls and silk shawls at the entrance set the theme for the decorations throughout.

Receiving the guests at the door were Mrs. A. MacDowell, Mrs. G. Meyers, Mrs. J. Williams and Mrs. J. W. Platt.

On the way to the upstairs tea-room, the Christmas card booth, with its variety of gay cards bright Christmas wrappings and novelties reminded everyone of the season fast-approaching. Mrs. T. Riley and Mrs. M. Reid were taking orders for these articles.

Tea was served in the church parlor of the parlors where the tea table with its white linen cloth, oriental arrangement of large yellow and bronze pom-pom mums, tiered orange candles and silver tea service made a delightful place to enjoy a snack. Other attractive tables with white linen cloths each had a Oriental figurine as a centrepiece.

BLUE WILLOW TEA SET

An heirloom Blue Willow platter, arranged on the tea table set the theme for the tea room downstairs. With its blue cloth, oriental flower arrangement of white Shasta mums, blue delphinium forming a background, and one large white candle, the tea table presented a charming picture. Each table with its own blue cloth had a Chinese figurine or miniature garden as centrepiece. On one wall were three panels depicting the story of the willow pattern and on the opposite wall a Chinese shoe and two delicately embroidered silk panels added to the picture.

On the door leading to the other auditorium hung a scroll of Chinese writing, property of the missionary relations committee of the church.

The blue and white theme was carried out in the decorations of the hooks and walls of the room where the bake table and the confectionery table were located.

Mrs. N. Meidrum, Mrs. A. Ferguson, Mrs. D. Hobson and Mrs. L. Horning were responsible for the beautiful decorations. Mrs. M. Lewis was the tea-rooms convener. Receiving the guests in the tea room were Mrs. C. Cox, Mrs. D. Graham, Mrs. G. Hinkinson, Mrs. K. Gunnoe, Mrs. R. Mordoff and Mrs. E. Windover.

The ladies pouring tea were Mrs. C. McIlraith, Mrs. R. Irvine, Mrs. J. Hartt, Mrs. G. Bell, Mrs. F. Clarke, and Mrs. H. Varcoe. Those who helped replenish the food and plates were Mrs. H. Eddy, Mrs. E. Coleman, Mrs. A. G. McAuley, Mrs. J. Locke, Mrs. S. White, Mrs. G. Woods, Mrs. S. Armstrong, Mrs. H. Wood, Mrs. C. Hunt, Mrs. J. Cochrane, Mrs. M. Moffatt, Mrs. J. Barnett, Mrs. L. Kilby, Mrs. J. Dixon and Mrs. J. Holmes.

Helping in the kitchen were: Mrs. L. Uens, Mrs. H. Hovay, Mrs. R. Knowlton, Mrs. R. Hicks, Mrs. D. Nicketts, Mrs. R. Budge, Mrs. W. McConnell, Mrs. K. Holder and Mrs. L. Foley.

SERVING GUESTS

Serving the guests with the dainty sandwiches and small cakes were Mrs. S. Barbour, Mrs. S. Taylor, Mrs. L. Clarke, Mrs. D. Lockyer, Mrs. H. Howse, Mrs. D. Law, Mrs. J. Fleming, Mrs. H. Morphy, Mrs. B. Shaddock, Mrs. J. Henry, Mrs. H. Thompson, Mrs. I. Gibbons, Mrs. V. Harrison, Mrs. R. Diamond, Mrs. J. Sisson, Mrs. M. Dale, Mrs. R. Monroe and Mrs. D. Graham.

At the back of the tea room, the C.O.I.T. girls, in their white middies and dark shirts, sold a variety of candies, and the crafters calendars under the supervision of Miss Galla Henderson and Mrs. A. McDowell.

Nearby were the Explorer girls selling used books, helped by their leaders, Mrs. J. Adamson and Mrs. G. Edwards.

Mrs. A. Jones, Mrs. M. Mason and Mrs. W. H. Clarke sold articles from a miscellaneous table. Here were aprons of all kinds, dolls' clothes, mitts and knitted goods for children and tiny felt baby shoes.

ENTICING HOME BAKING

The home baking table was a busy place with an enticing assortment of goodies. There were tempting cookies and squares in all shapes and sizes; delicious cakes, tarts, muffins, doughnuts and cupcakes; various tins of loaf cake; home-made bread; buns and coffee cakes. Pound moulds — watering pics of all kinds.

Convening this table were Mrs. M. D. McDonald and Mrs. C. Leppan, who had as their assistants, Mrs. C. Munro, Mrs. C. Bonnette, Mrs. F. French; Mrs. W. Fairborn, Mrs A. Duffy, Mrs. R. Bray, Mrs. J. Field, Mrs. J. Lorenz, Mrs. N. Henderson, Mrs. R. Dyer, Mrs. C. Wannamaker, Mrs. M. Dales and Mrs. A. Hotchkiss.

The section of the delicatessen table was laden with jars of pickles, sauces of every kind, jams, jellies, conserves and preserves. Looking forward to Christmas ladies had made cranberry relishes and jellies home-made mincemeat and Christmas puddings. For supper that night the many customers were buying home-made chili con carne, casserole dishes, salmon loaves, pork and beans, and all kinds of individual meat and chicken pies.

Mrs. R. Ellis and Mrs. K. Hawkes convened this table assisted by Mrs. C. Lovett, Mrs. R. Harden, Mrs. R. Reed, Mrs. G. Lowe-Johnson, Mrs. J. Dodge, Mrs. N. Gerow and Mrs. W. McMillan.

Receiving guests at the entrance were: Mrs. W. Hutchinson, Mrs. D. Boyd, Mrs. L. Howard and Mrs. R. Bagnall.

The conveners for this most successful tea were: Mrs. L. D. Read, Mrs. S. Howe and Mrs. N. Britton.

The December meeting will be a supper meeting to be held at E. Gowthorpe's home on December 18th at 6.30 p.m. Mrs. Selden Homan will be in charge of supper and Mrs. Patterson of the program. White gifts for retarded children are to be brought.

Mrs. S. Homan was named chairman of Farm Radio Forum.

Mrs. Homan reporting on Citizenship spoke on the New Canadians in the community and how one can help them with language difficulties.

Mrs. Brintnell gave an amusing, yet interesting, account of provincial Canada.

Ruth Allison, home economics and health committee, was in charge of the program. She opened with a sing-song followed by a humorous reading by Elsie Whitmore.

GUEST SPEAKER

The guest speaker of the evening (Miss Dorothy Batchelor) Mrs. D. McKinnon, was introduced by Mrs. Allison. Since 1951 Miss Batchelor has been Home Economics Director of Poultry Products Institute of Canada. Miss Batchelor said that a homemaker plays one of the most important roles in the world today. Preparing food is a real art. She said that with the eyes, to make food look attractive. Breakfast is most essential to everyone. Use imagination at meal time. Imagination can take boredom out of anything one does. These are a few thoughts left with W.I. members and friends. A reading by Ruth Brintnell concluded the program.

CHURCHES BAR NEGROES

AUGUSTUS, Ga. (AP) — Two Negro students, one a ordained Baptist minister, tried unsuccessfully to worship Sunday in two Augusta white churches. Rev. Rowser Greene Jr., 22, and Paul Thompkins, 22, students at Paine College, first tried to enter the First Baptist Church. An usher denied them admittance, and they left without argument. Crossing the street, Green and Thompkins sought to enter St. John's Methodist Church. Again they were rebuffed.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Bertha Y. — I'm a newly-wed wife, just a housekeeper without wages. Help!

Chris Y. — She can't bear to see me resting, wants to talk.

Bertha Y. — Marriage, what a laugh! We are told, don't live alone. Marry and have companionable. Where is it?

I'm alone an average of ten hours a day. Chris comes home. Yes, he's tired from his job, but also from talking with others, all day. I just see him during the few minutes it takes him to eat. Then comes TV, read, have companionship, of a sort. radio, doze, sleep and, oh yes, the odds now much more alone she can be. Many a single, divorced, deserted, bereaved woman can tell her! She most realize that companionship to me. He doesn't talk, won't take many forms, and often go shopping, won't drive me the best ones are silent. Why anywhere. I can see why others look to other men. When Chris comes home he offers no affection, I'm tireless. But I pretend, to avoid an argument. So, this is marriage?

* * *

Chris Y. — Look we've been married seven years and we're in our 40's. We're not college for a pal. That's what she seeks Kids or the young lovey-dovey's who much it up. What's eating Bertha? We're a settled couple, at least I am. And it ought to be, too.

I drive a bread truck and it's rough. Talk, talk, talk in between a few dozen short words. Then when I get home, she wants to hand me a few more hours of talk, talk, talk. Oh or no, it has all day for that. There are neighbors and housewives and the good old dial tone to help her out. Why does she save it all up for me?

If she keeps on handing me the long face, I'll be home even less. I'll either work overtime, or go to the movies. I'm after peace and quiet. That's something Bertha hates.

* * *

The Council: Marriage, it appears to Bertha, is what makes two people who were very close here to each other wind up at opposite poles. But it isn't marriage that does that. It's carelessness.

Certainly being very clipped out with the best of intentions. But somewhere along the line she stopped being and began sulking over what they weren't getting. When this happens with the young lovey-dovey Chris refers to, they often run home to mother. But Chris rose to his scratcher, and Bertha, to self-pity and The Council.

So we start with her. She does need companionship, of a sort. She has how much more alone

Similarly, we urge Chris to be a little more in tune with Bertha's normal urge to have companionship, of a sort. That's what she seeks in a husband, not just a meal ticket and a boarder! Being Bertha! We're a settled couple, noticed is what counts with her. Then all day long she's not a loud as ear to others. But she's not. Chris needs that, too. Once in a while, give an ear to Bertha's ideas, reports, accounts, suggestions ad requests. And, whether you see the connection or not, a date in the car or a walk along the avenue would have a good effect on her hormones. She'd feel present able, attractive and desirable again!

You'd be surprised, Chris, at the number of love-downs in their 40's and more who still mush it up. It's not a matter of less affection Bertha, or more from you. Rather it's a matter of the right talk — work, or thanks, words of praise. Try more of that, and Bertha won't have to "pretend."

Tiffany's On Table Manners

By MARILYN HOFFMAN
Of the Christian Science Monitor

Some fine points of British and European table manners have gained a strong advocate in Tiffany's, the world-famous New York store, which contends that it has a responsibility to set and uphold social standards.

At breakfast at Tiffany's this past week — as usual, in this case, at the Fifth Avenue store and not a film at the local movie house — Walter Hoving, the firm's President, introduced his new little book "Tiffany's Table Manners for Teen-Agers." (New York: Ives Washburn, Inc. $3.)

In this small volume, with its saucy drawings by artist Joe Eula, Author Hoving wades into the currently popular American etiquette of eating with a constant exchange of fork and knife, cutting one bite at a time, and placing knife back on edge of plate before proceeding.

Although Britons and Europeans have for years looked upon this method as inefficient and a waste of motion, Mr. Hoving now boosts agreement by stating, "This constant shifting looks artifical and awkward."

'DON'T SHIFT FORK'

In his book he states tersely, "After cutting the meat, never place the knife across the corner of the plate. Don't keep shifting the fork from the left to the right hand." He advocates that the diner keep his utensils firmly in his hands, knife in right hand, fork in left hand, resting the knife inward across centre of the plate only when he wishes to eat vegetables with the right hand.

Further supporting the British method he states, "A small amount of potatoes and vegetables may be placed on the prongs (prongs turned down, of course), never on the top of the fork with the meat."

Although it is Mr. Hoving's contention that good manners must not be stilted or self-conscious, and it is his aim only to make socially confident and gracious dinner guests out of the young people he addresses, some of his rules already are stirring controversy.

AIMED AT ADULTS, TOO

He says, for instance, that "you don't have to wait for your hostess to 'start eating' . . ." that eating ears of fresh corn with the fingers fastened in them looks "precious," that eating chicken with the fingers is allowable only on picnics, and that the only proper "finish" position for utensils is with fork placed prongs down across middle of plate, with tip of knife facing fork.

The sauve and urbane Mr. Hoving doesn't appear disturbed. "Tiffany's must take a stand on things. Our interest in attractive tables set with good china, glass, and silverware makes us equally aware of the importance of good table manners. Our taste is Tiffany taste.

"There are other systems of manners and we don't quarrel with them. But we think the Tiffany system is attractive, practical, and, above all, natural."

Although his book appeals to teen-agers with a charming impertinency it is serious in its intent and directed at adults as well as youngsters.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

THE HUMAN FLY IN THE SOUP

Ever since man discovered that heat had a beneficial effect on some raw food, he's been a bore about cooking.

The first recorded use of this famous chefs were — and are — men. Brr Escoffier, Lucullus and the others were professional. It's the amateur male chef that makes the average housewife cringe at the drop of a basting spoon.

There's something about a man who has cooked beyond the egg-frying stage that makes him want to talk about it and talk about it and talk about it. This, of course, is just finger-pearling if he's talking to another amateur chef, because there's nothing more thrilling to an up-and-coming Diet than to meet and compare recipes with another of his breed.

It's when he crosses the sex line and starts spouting off to his hostess about the latest in gracious, soupless and the best way to bone a breast of chicken that he's apt to get a rise out of her — like a souffle. What's more, he usually announces his recently-acquired gastronomic knowledge with the air of a Columbus who has discovered a brave new world — or, as we say today, a New Frontier.

The typical amateur chef is the man who is restrained about his cooking ability and talks about it as sparingly as he seasons a lamb roast.

No hostess struggling with dinner hamburgers wants to hear about a Lobster Ca Ca Rouge or a Bavarian Cream Truffe or some other culinary triumph he gourmet whipped up on a two burner stove in the closet of his apartment after putting in twelve hours at the office.

Nor does she want to be questioned searchingly about the ingredients and measurements of the dinner entree, especially when she might have skimped a bit on the wills wine and garnished it with slices of black olive instead of truffles.

The fact is that a little cooking knowledge can be turned in to a social asset. It's much better manners to enjoy a dish instead of dissecting it, and to praise the cook rather than try to trump her at her own game.

Any hostess appreciates compliments on her main dish, and she appreciates it all the more if the guest knows what he's talking about.

Steamed Christmas Pudding No. One

By Mary Moore

November finds the Moore Kitchen awash with Christmas baking. Ready and waiting for all callers to taste are Christmas cakes and cookies. Next puddings are getting up steam.

All Canadian families are zealous over seeing plum pudding for dessert for Christmas dinner.

Yet there are those who regard this Christmas dessert as incomplete without it.

So I have struck a happy medium, and made a light-colored, light-textured pudding that may be made in advance or on Christmas day. It has the advantage of being small to serve to parties of six. However, you can double the recipe if you have twelve people coming and want to surprise them with a different pudding this year.

GOLDEN STEAMED PUDDING:

The outstanding ingredients in this are almonds, canned pumpkin and ginger. Double these amounts to serve 12.

¼ cup shortening, 2 tablespoons granulated sugar, ½ cup brown sugar, 1 egg, 1 cup sifted all-purpose flour, ¾ teaspoon baking powder, ¾ teaspoon soda, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon ginger, ½ teaspoon nutmeg, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, 6 tablespoons canned pumpkin, 2 tablespoons sour cream, ½ cup chopped unblanched almonds, 16 whole blanched almonds.

Cream the shortening, then add the sugars and cream until light, then add egg and beat until lighter. Sift together the dry ingredients which are the flour, baking powder, salt, soda, ginger, nutmeg and cinnamon. Add the dry ingredients, alternately with the pumpkin and sour cream, to the creamed mixture stirring until blended. Add finely chopped unblanched almonds and mix again. Now I used one of those one-pint (2½-cup) melon-shaped moulds for this because I wanted to decorate the bottom with whole blanched almonds. Butter your mould generously with hard butter. Arrange 4 rows of blanched almonds in the centre bottom. They have little will hold them in place. Carefully spoon in the batter without disturbing the nuts. Press down with back of wooden spoon to fill all crevices and corners. There should be at least 1-2" space left to allow pudding to rise. (If you have a large mould, add extra cake excess in an individual custard cup for experimental tasting.) Cover tightly with lid or foil or 2 thicknesses of heavy wax or brown paper, tied securely. Add 1" water to steamer or deep kettle, lower pudding mould, and cover. Steam gently 2 hours, adding more hot water if needed. Let pudding stand 5 minutes at room temperature before turning out carefully on serving plate. Serve with Hard Sauce: (Clip this for it may be used with tomorrow's Traditional Steamed Pudding). One-half cup butter or margarine, 2 cups sifted icing sugar, 2 teaspoons rum flavoring or almond flavoring or vanilla. Thoroughly cream butter and sugar; add flavoring and beat well. Pile on serving dish, score top with fork and sprinkle with nutmeg. Chill.

NOTE:

If pudding is made in advance remove from mould to store, well wrapped. To reheat replace in mould, cover and steam for 1 hour before serving.

Tomorrow: I will give Traditional Steamed Pudding.

"You mean...my fifty dollars means that much...?"

Yes, Miss Jennifer Johnson, we do.

Your deposit of $60 . . . and the deposits of three million other Canadians add up to well-over three billion dollars at the Bank of Montreal.

And here's why it's important:

This "three-billion-odd" doesn't stay locked up in a bank vault.

This money, including your fifty dollars, works steadily—day in, day out—in the form of loans, which help Canadians get what they want in the way of material things.

This money fills a thousand-and-one business and personal purposes. It goes to farmers, fishermen, oilmen, miners, lumbermen . . . it goes to businesses large and small . . . it goes to everyday citizens.

This money builds houses . . . buys cars, trucks, tractors . . . finances school and university educations, and all sorts of family needs . . . it goes to community organizations of many kinds, and to provincial and municipal governments . . . it works for Canadians in every walk of life.

When you save money at the B of M, you not only keep it safe and earning interest for you, but you make a sound investment for yourself in Canada's growth now and in the years ahead.

Whether you want to save money or borrow is for some useful purpose, you'll like doing business at the B of M. So, if it's about money, see Canada's first bank first!

REACH RECORD LEVELS — Tourists visiting Canada this year spent more than ever before. Levels of both Canadian spending abroad and spending by visitors to Canada were expected to exceed those of last year when the totals reached $430,000,000 and $627,000,000 respectively. Graph shows trend in tourist spending since 1945. (CP Newsmap).

Family Camping-Touring Holiday in Bush Helps to Make Record Tourist Year

By RON LESEL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A fast-spreading North American custom—the family camping-touring holiday in the bush—has helped make 1961 a record year for the Canadian tourist industry.

A cross-Canada survey by The Canadian Press indicated that more Americans visited Canada, more Canadians toured other provinces and more money was spent by tourists than ever before.

Statistics compiled by the 10 provincial governments add up to an estimated $1,400,000,000 spent by tourists.

Leading the army of vacationers this year were an estimated 1,000,000 or more campers with tent kits or small trailers.

The federal and provincial governments rushed construction of big, well-equipped camping sites but still could not cope with the influx.

Tourist officials predict confidently that the return-to-nature trend will continue to grow next year, much to the discomfiture of tourist resort operators.

"The figures for this year would have been even higher with better weather," says Alan Field, director of the Canadian Government Travel Bureau.

Officials say four factors more than offset the effects of generally wet and chilly weather during the spring and early summer:

1. The growing, interest in camping. Camping grounds in the 18 national parks alone accommodated 478,556 persons, 94,413 more than in 1960. Provincial statistics are incomplete but they indicate that even more campers used provincial sites.

2. The three-per-cent discount on the Canadian dollar in effect since mid-June, believed to have encouraged American tourists to stay in Canada longer.

3. An improved road system. The Trans - Canada Highway was nearing completion and good roads were pushed into scenic areas.

4. More active promotion and publicity, particularly by regional groups getting financial aid from provincial governments.

The officials get an opportunity to review their activities and plan for 1962 at the annual federal-provincial tourist conference in Ottawa Nov. 27-28.

They report a trend away from long fishing and hunting trips by groups of men and a corresponding increase in family excursions into the great outdoors.

In five national parks and many provincial parks, tourists with trailers could for $1.50 a day get most conveniences of a modern home—hot and cold running water, electric power, sewage disposal, public showers and toilets. Tenters could get some of these services for $2 to $3 a week.

Across Canada, eight provinces—all but Quebec and Alberta—reported all-time peaks in the number of visitors from the United States and other parts of this country as well as record spending.

The average stay by tourists ranged from four days in British Columbia to 19 days in Nova Scotia.

Latest available figures from the Dominion Bureau of Statistics show that by mid-year more Americans than ever before entered Canada. They were spending at a higher rate than in 1960 when they left about $373,000,000 behind. Car arrivals ran 7.2 per cent ahead of last year's pace.

In the first half of 1961, foreign tourists — mostly Americans—spent an estimated $140,000,000. This was $13,000,000 more than in the corresponding period in 1960. The biggest tourist months are in the third quarter, for which statistics are not yet available.

Canadians going abroad lacked only 7 to the U.S. continued to spend more than visitors to Canada, however. They spent $290,000,000 outside the country in the first six months, $12,000,000 more than a year earlier.

American tourists outnumbered Canadian visitors in B.C., Manitoba and New Brunswick. The opposite was true in Alberta, Saskatchewan, Ontario, Quebec, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island.

No breakdown is kept by Quebec province on the tourist's money go? An Ontario government study showed that the average couple spends $30 a day. Of this total, $10 was distributed this way: 32 cents for food and beverages, 23 cents for lodging, 16 cents for gas and oil, 12 cents for merchandise, two cents for souvenirs and handicrafts, and 10 cents for miscellaneous items.

What does the tourist buy? The Ontario government study showed that the average couple spends $30 a day. Of this total, $10 was distributed this way: 32 cents for food and beverages, 23 cents for lodging, 16 cents for gas and oil, 12 cents for merchandise, two cents for souvenirs and handicrafts, and 10 cents for miscellaneous items.

What does the tourist buy? The Canadian tourist trade and conventions bureau reports that the most common-sold purchases by tourists were china, woollen goods, clothing and liquor.

This was the picture across the country:

Newfoundland: Value of tourist trade estimated at $17,500,000, up $1,000,000 from 1960, with many more Canadian visitors and about the same number of U.S. tourists as last year.

Prince Edward Island: Number of tourists and spending up 10 per cent from 1960 when 208,507 spent $7,000,530.

Nova Scotia: In the June-September period alone 683,897 tourists—68 per cent Canadians and 32 per cent Americans—were counted, compared with 586,113 in the same period last year. Canadians spent $10,494,000, Americans $26,865,000.

New Brunswick: Number of visitors estimated at 1,500,000 up 100,000, with spending up to about 15 per cent were Americans.

Quebec: Tourists numbered about 5,000,000 an estimated 3,500,000 visiting Roman Catholic shrines. Montreal alone had 2,500,000 visitors who spent $140,000,000, with the St. Lawrence Seaway a major attraction. The province will launch a big camping site development program next year.

Ontario: An estimated 20,000,000 American and European visitors spent $800,000,000 while Canadian tourists laid out $400,000,000. The province will spend $60,000 on advertising next year, 60 per cent of it in the U.S.

Manitoba: Eight per cent more tourists at 1,300,000, including 500,000 from the U.S., spent $37,750,000, up -1,500,000.

Saskatchewan: Estimated 400,000 Canadian tourists spent $7,000,000 and 250,000 Americans spent $5,000,000. As many as 3,000 campers at a time stayed in Prince Albert National Park.

Alberta: Camping up 50 per cent with 2,530,000 entering six national parks, an increase of 234,000. More than 13,000 U.S. cars entered the province.

British Columbia: Fine weather and stepped-up promotion price credited with stimulating a 15-per-cent jump in tourists, 1,542,000 of whom, including 1,130,000 Americans, spent $115,000,000. The province spent $300,000 on promotion and opened a British Columbia House in San Francisco in August.

MOSCOW (AP)—Pictures and busts of Stalin at such places as Moscow University and the Moscow radio station are being quietly discarded since the late dictator's body was removed from the Lenin tomb. A Stalin picture, seven feet by five feet, which was alongside Lenin's portrait at the big Gorky Street post office has been replaced by a Khrushchev portrait of the same size.

Successful Living

Husband Is Chronic Liar

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS:—My husband is a chronic liar.

He has about little things that should make no difference and exaggerates to a point where I don't know where the truth ends and the exaggeration starts.

When I know for sure that the truth has been stretched too far I usually let him know by saying, "Oh come, now, it wasn't that much," and then he comes closer to the truth on his next try.

I know this sounds funny. He is my husband but not my friend! He will never stick up for me and he will never take the blame for anything. When something goes wrong it is always my fault.

Can you help me? It has now come to the point where I am sure everyone can see through him, including his boss and foreman.—STAMPEDED.

DEAR STAMPEDED:—Lies are something to hide behind. But it is a false shelter?

Stretching the truth shows insecurity. Your checking up seems to him to belittle him. Much better for you to show your confidence in him; where you can, praise him. Then he relaxes. Seem to believe what he tells you; this ought to make him feel some guilt and to correct himself.

If he is an older person, this habit of lying may have become second nature and little can be done.

He blames you for everything. Have you given him the impression of being omnipotent; of knowing better about things than he does?

This could be your unconscious reaction. To him, you may be overbearing. Draw him out and encourage his good points. Keep it up. Then see if anything happens about the lying.

(Doris Clark, Master of Social Work, is a graduate of McGill, Toronto and McMaster universities, and has had broad experience in social work. If you would like help with your problems, write to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.)

PICTON

All Councils In P.E. County Are Acclaimed

PICTON—For the first time in many years, all municipal councils in Prince Edward County have been returned by acclamation. There were no nominations in Picton or North Marysburgh townships as councils were elected last year for two-year terms.

There are several changes in council. In Hallowell township, Reeve Gordon Parks retired with Deputy Reeve John Fox becoming reeve and councillor Delmar Huff stepping up to Deputy Reeve.

In Hillier township, Reeve Kenneth Wood retired and is succeeded by a former Reeve, John Taylor.

Thus County Council will be composed of the same members with two changes.

Candidates had up to Saturday night to qualify with the following results:

Athol Township - Reeve, Gordon Demore; councillors, Keith Brumwell, Keith Perry, William Main, George Wilkinson.

Hallowell Township - Reeve, John Fox; Deputy Reeve, Delmar Huff; councillors, Allan MacDonald, Marcus Pope, Elwood Sharpe.

Sophiasburgh Township - Reeve, Lorne Young; councillors, Don Ketchapaw, William Osborne, William Joune, Laurel Williams; area school trustees, John A. Sprague, John Hugkisson, Elberne Capson.

South Marysburgh Township - Reeve, Donald Bond; councillors, Sidney Drury, Harold Rand, Walter Whatman, Cecil Hicks; area school trustees, Raymond Lancaster, Harold Miller.

Wellington village - Reeve, A. Clare Platt; councillors, Jack Ogilvy, William Greer, Wilfred Burrus, Robert Boyer; Public Utilities commissioner, W. A. Davern.

Hillier township Reeve, John Taylor; councillors, McRae Danford, Ross Burris, Clifford Carley.

All nomination meetings were reported as very quiet. Al Wellington, where there had been controversy over installation of a waterworks system, there was no meeting after nominations closed though Clerk James Clemiance stated a chairman could be named if it was desired to hold a ratepayers' meeting. The only nominees were all members of this year's council.

Santa Will Travel Modern Way, Arrive by Helicopter

PICTON — Santa will travel the modern way when he arrives in Picton on Saturday, Dec. 2, at one o'clock. He will arrive by helicopter. Treats will be given the thousands of children expected and they will later enjoy free skating at the County Centre.

TEN YEARS

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Bonhan, Bloomfield, quietly marked their Golden Wedding anniversary on Wednesday, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Graham, Wellington marked their 40th anniversary on Friday. Other anniversaries marked this week, Rev. and Mrs. Charles Rutley, Picton, was 30 years; Mr. and Mrs. Marston Fox, Picton was 25 years; Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Morden, Picton, 44 years; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Morton of Wellington, 45 years.

NO ELECTION

Picton elected its council last year for a two-year term and therefore has no nomination or election this year.

HOTHOUSE SALE

Demorestville hall was filled to capacity Saturday night when Ameliasburg Softball League held an auction sale. Funds are to be used to erect lights and a bleacher at the softball diamond there.

The Retail Brewers' store moved from the Ross street location which it has occupied for 25 years. It opened Monday in a new and modern store on Main street south. The warehouse has a capacity of 3,240 cases. A large lot will eliminate the problem of parking which has been experienced in the centre of the town location.

NIGHT CLASSES

Night school classes are being held at Prince Edward Collegiate. There are 120 enrolled in such courses for art, small business administration, sewing, typing, woodworking, men's and women's physical education.

BAND CONCERT

Salvation Army bands from Belleville and Kingston presented a program in Queen Elizabeth school Saturday night. Guest speaker was Brigadier Arnold Brown of Toronto. Capt. H. W. Beckett was in charge of the enjoyable program.

RAIN WELCOME

Heavy rains during the week were welcomed throughout the County. Many farmers have had to draw water for the past several months as wells and cisterns have been low.

ORGANIZE LEAGUE

Prince Edward County Hockey League has been reorganized with Herb Bodder as president. Teams have been entered by Wellington, Consumers' Gas, Lake Ontario Portland Cement and Canadian Tire. Double headers are to be played at the County Centre each Tuesday night, starting Dec. 5.

LINERS HOSTS

LONDON (CP) — Ten ocean liners, including the Russian liner Baltika, will be open to the public at various British seaports next month. It's part of "Ocean Travel Fortnight."

Brewers' Retail Moves Into New Premises

PICTON—After 25 years in its Ross Street location, Brewers' Warehousing Co. in part Limited moved into new, modern premises at Main and Spencer Streets, Picton, today. The new Brewers' Retail store has been specially designed for improved service to customers.

Brewers' Retail buff brick exteriors along with red, white and black bulls-eye identification markers have become familiar landmarks to thousands of Canadians in the Province of Ontario where Brewers' Retail operates.

A large refrigerated area installed directly behind the sales area ensures that all brewers' products will be properly chilled before being sold over the counter to customers.

In determining the location of the outlet in Picton, prime consideration was given to provision for adequate off-street parking.

Store customers will find parking no problem at the new store as they drive on to a spacious parking lot with space for approximately 22 cars.

Manager of the new store is Mr. F. L. Calhaem. The Picton store is a unit of Belleville Stores Group in charge of C. Bonnastis, District manager is W. J. Riddell, Ottawa.

Store hours will remain the same, 10:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m., Monday to Saturday, and open to 9:00 p.m. on Fridays.

Three Perish In Soo Blaze, All Asphyxiated

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) — A six-year-old girl died with her mother and grandmother early Sunday when she returned to the smoke-filled home from which her father had just carried her.

The body of Beverly Ann Pigeau was found beside the bed of her mother, Mrs. Lorna Pigeau, 30. Her son and Mrs. Lorna Pigeau, 17, all died of asphyxiation. The fire destroyed the interior of their semi-detached home.

Injured in the blaze were Mrs. Pigeau's husband, Alfred, a second daughter, Mrs. Teresa Henderson, and her two sons, James, 5, and Terry, 3.

Mrs. Henderson said she was awakened by Terry's screaming. She aroused the house and Mr. Pigeau took Beverly Ann downstairs to call the fire department.

During the excitement that followed the girl broke away and returned upstairs. The three victims were pronounced dead on arrival at hospital.

Mr. Pigeau, Mrs. Henderson and James were discharged from hospital following treatment of minor burns, but Terry was admitted suffering severe burns to his face, hands and back.

Cause of the fire was unknown.

December 1-7 Designated As Safe-Driving Week

By JACK VAN DUSEN

OTTAWA (CP)—On the basis of normal experience, it could be expected that at least 1,000 people will be killed and 200 injured in 896 traffic accidents each day in the first week of December.

But Dec. 1-7 has been designated as Safe-Driving Week in Canada.

The sponsoring Canadian Highway Safety Council hopes the toll will be substantially lower because of a wide publicity campaign and concerted safety efforts by the councils, police forces, municipalities and provinces during the week.

"No road death would be possible if every motorist and pedestrian drove and walked as he knows he should," says W. Arch Bryce, the council's executive director.

"Unfortunately, human nature is predictable to the degree that we must expect 28 traffic deaths during Safe-Driving Week."

At that rate, the cost in hospital expenses, lost work hours and damages will total $2,800,000.

There were 87 deaths in the week last year and 83 in the previous year.

Of the 5,160,000 persons who drove Canada's 3,250,000 vehicles last year, 300,000 were involved in accidents or brushes with the law.

With such grim statistics as these, Canadians will be urged on radio, television, through newspapers, in the classroom and from the pulpit to take extra precautions during the annual Christmas season safety drive.

Mr. Bryce says Canadians spend a lot of time worrying about the havoc that a nuclear bomb could cause.

"They ignore the lives that are being lost right at my front door—and yours—every day of the week."

The 60-year-old native of Toronto, who has spent many years trying to save the lives of others through traffic safety, says "sometimes we get discouraged at the public apathy."

RCMP Commissioner C. W. Harrison, endorsing the week, writes that "during the usual hustle and bustle associated with Christmas and New Year's festivities, there are many distractions which contribute to inattention on the part of both drivers and pedestrians—often resulting in accidents."

The most serious menace is "the drinking driver and the drinking pedestrian."

He warns that all law enforcement agencies will be "on the alert for these offenders."

Prime Minister Diefenbaker has urged Canadians to "develop habits of utmost caution and vigilance, not only during Safe-Driving Week, but during every day and every week of the year."

Last year 90,152 persons were injured and 3,273 were killed in accidents that cost $13,831,000.

Features of the new Ford car...

NEW SIZE—RIGHT BETWEEN A BIG CAR AND A COMPACT...
The new Ford Fairlane offers the room, the ride, the performance and the economy of a fine car. It brings you automotive advances you could not buy two years ago in any car at any price... yet it is priced right down among the compacts!

SO WELL BUILT YOU CAN FEEL IT...
Solid single-unit construction brings you a new level of quiet and quality in the new Fairlane. A new concept in the highest standards of body craftsmanship result in freedom from noise, vibration and harshness.

NEW V-8 ENGINE...
Ford has developed a completely new V-8 engine that saves the strength of iron with the lightness of aluminum. As a result, the Challenger V-8 brings you responsive power with smoother, quieter, more economical performance. A new Fairlane Six will deliver substantially better mileage than any other in its class and it is actually more economical than many of the compacts!

ROOMY AND COMFORTABLE FULL-SIZE INTERIORS...
Inside, Fairlane is not a compact. It boasts full-size leg-car roominess for six passengers, with a wide selection of luxurious interiors to choose from. Posture-perfect front seats are generously foam padded. In fact, there's a remarkable standard of built-for-people comfort everywhere.

TWICE A YEAR MAINTENANCE!
Spring and fall—that's all for the average driver! Ford's famous built-to-take-care-of-itself features make it possible—features that eliminate many normal service routines. You go up to 30,000 miles between chassis lubrications . . . up to 6,000 miles between oil changes. There's a new 30,000 mile or two-year radiator coolant. Brakes adjust themselves—automatically, for the life of the linings. Mufflers are double-wrapped and aluminized to last three times as long as ordinary mufflers. All vital underbody parts are specially processed to resist rust and corrosion —even the body panels beneath the doors are galvanized. Its Diamond-hstre finish never needs waxing. Ford Dealers give a 12 months or 12,000 mile warranty, whichever comes first.

SO WELL BUILT YOU CAN FEEL IT!

Ti-Cats Meet Bombers For Grey Cup

JUST INCHES SHORT — Hamilton's Ron Howell reaches for the ball as Winnipeg Bomber Art Perry knocks it out of his hands in the second quarter of the Eastern Football Conference final between Toronto and Tiger-Cats in Hamilton Saturday. Argos were ahead in the two-game series by 18 points after winning the opener 25-7 in Toronto. (CP Wirephoto).

A HAPPY LOT—Weary but jubilant players of the Eastern Conference champion Hamilton Tiger-Cats get together for photographers in the dressing room after upsetting the Toronto Argonauts 48-3 in Hamilton Saturday in the second game of a two-game total-points conference series. The game went to two 10-minute overtime halves. Argos won the first game 25-7 in Toronto last weekend. (CP Wirephoto).

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The Hamilton Tiger Cats are back in their "jungle" licking their scratches and readying for the powerful Blue Bombers and the Grey Cup classic next Saturday.

And on their performance Saturday against the favored Argonauts of Toronto there isn't a chink, child or a pooch in Hamilton that gives the Bombers a chance against the Bengals.

The Tigers went into the game 18 points down after the shellacking at the hands of Argonauts a week ago. Toronto fans and Argo fans out where the corn grows green were violating an Argos-Bombers cup battle and the accompanying clambake in Toronto next Saturday. They'll get the clambake all right but the "clams" will be wearing the stripes of the Tigers and the colors of the Bombers.

The Tigers settling for nothing except victory, played magnificent football both on defence and offence. They overcame that 18-point lead and went on to win in a furious offensive that the experts rate one of the greatest comebacks in the history of Canadian football.

Argo fans will argue their favorites tossed the victory away in the final moments of regulation time. The video was anything but good on the family eagle lantern and the audio wasn't much better. However, as a Toronto writer puts it, "with 91 seconds remaining the Argos intercepted a Tigercat pass and returned it to the Tiger 26-yard line."

"Argos heavy thinkers elected to run plays to kill time rather than quick-kick on first or second down for the almost-certain go-ahead point, then take their chances against Hamilton scoring in the final minute."

The Tigers met strategy with better strategy and Faloney intercepted an Argo toss and behind illegal blocking ran 110 yards for a touchdown. It was called back but time had run out.

Then came the overtime and a determined Hamilton crew practically touch-downed the Argonauts off the field.

Now comes the big one. The East against the West. The Blue Bombers and Winnipeg against the yellow-and-black Tiger Cats of Hamilton.

On the Tigers' magnificent display against Argos Saturday it is likely the East will be favored to take the mug and the gravy. The Blue Bombers' coach says it makes no difference to him or the club whether the colors facing them are yellow and black or double blue. Since the Tigers won it may call for a slight change in plays or strategy. The Bombers' confidence remains unshaken.

I think the Tigers will park the time-honored mug on a Bengal mantel somewhere in Hamilton but the big winners will be the Toronto hotels, motels, inns, taverns, bistros, restaurants and if loser are enough left on Monday to get around to it, Floyd Patterson.

FISH AND GAME MEETING

Like tall tales, or short ones? Be around when the Belleville and District Fish and Game Club holds its November meeting at the Club Canara tomorrow night starting eight o'clock. The hunters have been invited to relate their stories while seeking the trophies of the hunt and it is quite likely those whose imaginations are much better than their shooting ability, will be with us in some numbers.

There will be films on hunting and fishing, courtesy of Carlings Breweries through Elmer Hardy, the usual draw and door prizes, and an all-round interesting evening.

Crush Argos In Overtime

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Sports Editor

HAMILTON (CP) — Shortly before the clock ticked to a merciful end after 80 minutes of bristling, heart - thumping football Saturday afternoon, Toronto Argonaut quarterback Tobin Rote walked slowly to the bench and said: "They are coming straight up the middle; I've got to get out most of the time to keep alive."

"They" were the Hamilton Tiger - Cats, who sharpened their teeth on Argonaut hides all over Civic Stadium to demolish the Argos 48-3 and advance into the East-West Grey Cup final against Winnipeg Blue Bombers at Toronto this Saturday.

It took the Ticats 20 minutes of overtime to do it in this second game of the total - point Eastern Conference final. And those two 10 - minute halves marked the final crushing of the Argos, who finished the regular season in third place.

A week earlier in Toronto, the Argonauts had twisted the Ticat tail by thumping league's first - place Rainbers 25-7. The Tiger-Cats wiped that out with a 20-2 margin at the end of regulation play, piled up another 28 points in overtime and took the series by a resounding 36-27 count.

BOTH BLUNDERED

Much of the drama and suspense was packed into the final 103 seconds of regulation play, during which the Tiger - Cats, then the Argonauts, made what blind-sight experts term weird calls.

Many of the small 23,000 crowd—4,000 below capacity — were fitting Tiger-Cat quarterback Bernie Faloney for goat's horns when his first-down pass from his Hamilton 25-yard line was intercepted by defensive ace Hamilton 44. At that point the round was knotted up at 21-21.

Wallace rambled to the Ticat 21, a perfect spot for pro kicker Dave Mann to boot one into the end-zone seats and almost certainly send the Argonauts into the cup classic. This was the time for a quick kick with Hamilton's defensive halves planted up close to the line.

But Argo strategy was to run out time with line plays and kick on third down. Coach Jim Trimble of the Tiger-Cats countered by sending three men into the end zone—better-than-average punters Faloney and Don Sutherin and speedster Ron Howell.

PUNTS EXCHANGED

Trimble's instructions were to kick the ball right back. It went to Sutherin about five yards behind the goal line and he got it away, back to Mann on the Hamilton 40. Mann gave it a quick boot, this time to Faloney on the Argo 45 and he did some razzle - dazzle running 107 yards down the sidelines for what appeared to be a touchdown.

But the dazzling play was pulled back by a flag at the Hamilton 46-yard line. It was signalled as clipping but referee Seymour Wilson later explained that the infraction was blocking, which is illegal on punt runbacks.

There wasn't time for another play. The game went into overtime and the Argonauts collapsed.

They were fortunate to hold the Tiger-Cats to 20 points in the opening 40 minutes. They had penetrated Ticat territory only six times in that period—the deepest to the 27-yard line in the dying seconds—and Rote was hounded unmercifully by the Tiger-Cat front wall and linebackers Zeno Karcz and Grant McKee.

GIVEN NO CHANCE

Rote had been successful in the opening game of the series with variations of the short punt formation. Then, he had time to spot any one of six eligible receivers and hit them with regularity but Saturday the blitz was on. He completed only 21 of 44 passes for 114 yards and much of the afternoon was on his back gazing up at Ticat tacklers.

His ball carriers netted only 61 yards for a total air-ground gain of 175 against an even 700 yards.

Jackie Parker, who pitched five touchdown passes, clicked on 22 of 37 attempts for 228 yards and Gerry McDougall roared for 151 of Hamilton's 372 yards along the ground.

The Tiger-Cats made 30 first downs against 13 for the Argonauts.

ARGO DEFENCE HOLDS

The Tiger-Cats started hammering early but could score only three points in the first half—a single by Sutherin and a two-point safety touch when Argo Ron Morris intercepted a Faloney pass just outside the goal line and was pushed into the end zone.

The Argonauts battled gamely but their defence started to show cracks in the second half. Then Hamilton scored two touchdowns and a 13-yard field goal for Sutherin.

Sutherin's placement, at 4:19 of the fourth quarter, put Hamilton ahead 27-26 on the round but Mann kicked two singles to put the game into overtime.

Faloney tossed two touchdown passes to Tommy Henley and one each to Ralph Goldenberg, Paul Dekker and McDougall. Carver Shannon, a Winnipeg castoff, scored the other on a 14-yard running play, the final points of the game.

Mann, a tremendous power on defence, made the convert good on all six touchdowns.

Eagles Rout Cowboys

Giants Clobber Browns

NEW YORK (CP) — New York Giants belt on to their one-game lead in the Eastern Division in the National Football League Sunday with a strong 37-21 win over Cleveland Browns.

The defeat knocked the Browns out of their second-place tie with Philadelphia Eagles in the division and virtually eliminated them from the division race.

The Eagles, led by quarterback Sonny Jurgensen, routed Dallas Cowboys 35-13 for their eighth victory against three losses.

In the Western Division San Francisco 49ers jumped a notch from last week into a second - place tie with Detroit Lions by easily defeating Minnesota Vikings 38-28.

Green Bay Packers, leaders of the division, beat the Lions last Thursday 17-9 to hold on to their commanding lead. The Packers, with a 9-2 record, are 2½ games ahead of Detroit and San Francisco.

The game went to two 10-minute overtime halves. Argos won the first game 25-7 in Toronto last weekend.

REDSKINS LOSE AGAIN

In other NFL action, a last-minute field goal gave Pittsburgh Steelers a 30-27 decision over St. Louis Cardinals; Chicago Bears came from behind to defeat Los Angeles Rams 28-24; and Baltimore Colts beat Washington Redskins their ninth loss of the season 27-6. Washington has one tie and no wins for the year.

Strathroy on Top

Senior Race Tightens

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The scramble for top spot in the Ontario Hockey Association's senior series, which last week broadened to three teams, may soon have two more in Woodstock Athletics and Waterloo Tigers.

A week ago Strathroy Rockets and Windsor Bulldogs appeared to be in a class of their own atop the league, but Galt Terriers sprang into contention, a couple of midweek wins moving them into second place, a point ahead of Windsor and two behind Strathroy.

Five games over the weekend, three Saturday and two Sunday, left Strathroy on top, two points ahead of Windsor and three ahead of Galt. But win by Woodstock and Waterloo had narrowed the gap between third and fourth place to six points.

Waterloo climbed into fifth place, two points behind Woodstock, with two wins, 3-2 over Sarnia Saturday and 8-3 over Stratford Sunday. Woodstock edged Galt 6-5 Saturday, ending the Terriers' five-game winning streak.

In the other two games, Strathroy beat Chatham Maroons 5-3 at home Saturday only to end up on the short end of the same score Sunday at Windsor.

Canadiens Win, Tie

Leafs Win Pair, Share League Lead

By LAURENTZ CHIARENZO
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Dave Keon and Bob Nevin don't appear to be having any trouble substituting for specialist second - year winglery known as Frank Mahovlich.

They're producing for Toronto Maple Leafs this season just as they did in 1960-61 when they ranked as the National Hockey League's top rookies.

Both played prominent roles during the weekend as Maple Leafs won twice to grab a share of first place in the NHL standings.

Keon and his linemates—George Armstrong and Dick Duff — were standouts Saturday night when Maple Leafs routed New York Rangers 6-0 at Toronto. Keon and Armstrong each scored twice and Duff once. Keon and Duff picked up two assists and Armstrong one.

DOES FIRST GOAL

Sunday night at Boston, Nevin scored the first goal and set up another shortly after for Frank Mahovlich and Leafs eventually locked back as they downed the celtics at Gardens 4-1.

Montreal Canadiens tied with Leafs for top spot, also went undefeated during the weekend. Saturday night on home ice, the Habs had to smith all-round finesse for the Bruins as they skated to a 3-0 triumph. Canadiens, however, had to settle for a 2-2 draw at New York Sunday night.

In the weekend's only other game, Chicago Black Hawks got special assistance gratuitously from Glenn Hall in whipping Detroit RED Wings 4-1 Sunday night.

The Leafs got controversial billing for their fifth place because they have one more win than Canadiens. Montreal has 27 points on 13 victories, six losses and seven ties while Toronto's 27 points are made up of 11 victories, five defeats and five ties.

Leafs have been in the top two weekend games, dropping to fourth only briefly to the Habs behind Canadiens and Leafs. Chicago Black Hawks fourth with 26 points while Detroit has 25 and Boston 19.

SMARTEST PLAYERS

Keon and Nevin, both 20-goal scorers in their freshman years are "smarter players than they were last season" according to Punch Imlach, Toronto's assistant manager-coach.

"That sophomore jinx doesn't mean a thing anymore" added Clancy. "Keon and Nevin have more confidence this year because they know what they can do in this league."

Toronto was in complete command of its game against New York Sunday night after scoring 13:02 of the second period. Eddie Shack got the first goal, Armstrong the second and Keon took over and kept New York goalie Gump Worsley busy shooting the rest of the way.

Veteran Johnny Bower of the Leafs was the last year won the Vezina Trophy — awarded annually to the goalie who gives the most games for the team and allows the fewest goals. He had to make 22 stops for his 16th NHL shutout and first of the season. Bower played his last leg in this season's Vezina race, blanking Rangers on a total of 2:37 of the first period. About nine minutes later he stole the puck from Boston defenceman Pat Stapleton and passed to Medvedvich who scored what proved to be the winning goal from 10 feet out.

It was Mahovlich's 16th goal in a season that has been a nightmare for the big Maple Leaf in the leagues. Big M has 10 goals.

Defenceman Bobby Baun and forward Ron Stewart got the other Toronto markers in the third period, both on unassisted efforts. Baun stole the puck in the Boston end and scored at 6:16. Stewart poked one into an empty Boston net after goalie Don Head had been removed for a sixth attacker in the game's final minutes.

Bower was deprived of a second shutout in as many nights when Jean McKenzy, Bruins' top scorer, got a power - play goal at 16:41 of the middle period.

Boston was lucky it didn't get worse beating at Montreal Saturday. Canadiens controlled the play from start and only erratic shooting, at times, and Head's fine work kept the score down.

Marcel Bonin got two of the Montreal goals, both in the second period. Claude Provost, the other figure from Bonin (Boom Boom) Beliveau and Richard Duff, was Billy Hicke in the third. Claude Provost, the league's second highest point - getter, drew three assists.

MAKES 36 SAVES

Montreal goaltender Jacques Plante made 36 saves — most of them easy — for his fifth shutout this season. It also was Montreal's 50th shutout in 440 NHL games.

At New York, Canadiens got their two goals in less than two minutes during the second period. Ralph Backstrom and Dick Moore were the scorers.

The 15 ran Montreal's unbeaten streak to five games—two wins and three draws. Rangers had a seven - game unbeaten string snapped at Toronto Saturday.

The Hawks, winning only their fifth game in 19 starts, got a goal from defenceman Pierre Pilote in the 12th, another from Bobby Hull in the second and singles from Ron Murphy and Bronco Horvath in the third. Norm Ullman got Detroit's lone tally in the fifth.

Detroit's Gordie Howe was playing in a record - breaking 1,249th consecutive NHL game but an unusual fine effort for the Wings left Hall idol him scoreless.

The record Howe snapped was set two years ago by retired Maurice Richard. Howe, a man who wound up a 15 - year career with 545 goals.

Hall turned in one of his best performances of the season for the Hawks, who had lost 10 during the second period. Wings kept the puck in the Chicago zone for almost two minutes with Ullman getting three good shots at the Chicago goal. Hall got the rapid succession. In all, Hall kept Detroit shots.

There are no games in the league until Wednesday night when Montreal is at Toronto and Boston at Chicago.

The Leafs-Canadiens play another game at Montreal Thursday night. Boston also will be at Detroit Thursday night.

Baby Habs Clip Wings Win String

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hamilton Red Wings' unbeaten streak had to end some time, but Sport a furious third-period assault by a Detroit bunch of Baby Habs to go to it.

Andre Boudrias was the chief executioner. He fired four of the six goals in the final 20 minutes that gave the junior Canadiens a 6-3 victory at Montreal last night and dealt the Red Wings their first loss in 13 Ontario Hockey Association Junior A games this season.

The Canadiens, who have a streak of their own going, solidified their hold on second place with their seventh straight win. They now have 16 points in 12 games, six ahead of St. Catherines Teepees but still 10 behind the Wings who have been tied twice.

The Wings collected their first home win Saturday, a 4-1 decision over Niagara Falls Flyers to move all alone into third place.

START SLOWLY

The Canadiens were outplayed in the first two periods but came on strong super Hamilton goalie Bud Dixon with 17 shots in the second period of the game. In addition to Boudrias, Montreal scorers were Yvan Cournoyer, Johnny Taylor and Bill Inglis.

Pitt Martin, Lowel MacDonald and John Crofton scored for Hamilton.

At St. Catharines, Rick Laschovich of the Teepees and Glen Slater traded goals in the first period. Phil Esposito's goal in the second, his 14th in 13 games was the winner and Bill Ives and Ray Cullen put it away in the third.

NAME RALLY ORGANIZER

TORONTO (CP) — Manny Gean, president of the Canadian Automobile Sports Club, has named organizer for the second annual running of the Trans-Canada rally Sunday. Doug Wilson, manager of the rally this spring, has been reappointed.

N.H.L. Stars

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

George Armstrong and Ike Keon of Toronto each scored twice Saturday night to help the Maple Leafs to a 6-0 rout of New York Rangers.

Marcel Bonin of Montreal whose two second period goals Saturday night sparked the Canadiens to a 3-0 win over Boston Bruins.

Dickie Moore of Montreal who scored the first goal and set up Frank Mahovlich for the second as the Maple Leafs downed Boston 4-1 Sunday night.

Doug Prentice of New York whose goal midway through the second period brought Rangers a 2-2 tie with Montreal Sunday night.

Defenceman Pierre Pilote of Chicago, who scored his team's first goal and set up another in a 4-1 triumph over Detroit Red Wings Sunday night.

Cats, Argos All Save To Bombers

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg Blue Bombers braved 30-degree weather Sunday night as they bundled down to the serious business of preparing for the Grey Cup.

The Western champions ended a three-day holiday with a meeting followed by a brisk one-hour practice.

This is the pattern the club expects to follow today and Tuesday before taking off Wednesday morning for Toronto and their date Saturday with Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

Coach Bud Grant was neither excited nor disappointed about Hamilton's 48-2 comeback victory over Toronto Argonauts Saturday.

"It makes no difference to us who we play," he said. "It will make a difference in our plans, but we have no preferences."

Pro Soccer League May Expand

TORONTO (CP) — Expansion of the Eastern Canada Professional Soccer League to include Vancouver and Edmonton teams drew a step nearer during the weekend.

President Harold Ballard of Toronto announced at the league's first annual meeting Saturday that the two proposed Western entries have indicated their interest in competing in the league on a full-schedule basis.

Present teams are Montreal Canalla, winner of the league playoff and the President's Cup; Toronto City, Toronto Italia and Hamilton Steelers.

Further expansion is a possibility, Ottawa and a second Montreal team also may be considered. The meeting was told that Chicago and Detroit promoters also have shown interest.

The Big Seven

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The only noticeable change in the National Hockey League's list of top scorers after weekend play was a negative one—Gordie Howe dropped out.

Howe, who played his 1,000th NHL game Sunday when Detroit lost to Chicago 4-1, played two points in two periods.

Andy Bathgate of New York Rangers, leading the league at the start of the week, was leading it at the end with a total of 25 points, on 10 goals and a gate was six points ahead of Montreal's Claude Provost when the week began, but Provost cut the margin to three.

The leaders:

	G	A	Pts.
Bathgate, New York	10	25	35
Provost, Montreal	18	14	32
Geoffrion, Montreal	9	15	24
Ingarfield, New York	11	11	22

Where Is The B.V.C. This Year?

Rollins Win, Joyces, TV's Tie 2-2

Booth TV's and Joyce Real Estate battled to a 2-2 deadlock in one of two hard-fought Industrial Hockey League games played at Memorial Arena last night.

In the other game, Rollins Construction used a four-goal explosion in the last six minutes of the game to pull out a 6-2 victory over a much improved Vegden Mills team.

Joyces held a 1-0 lead at half time in their game, the best of the year in the league to date, but Booth's fought back to tie it 1-1. Again Joyces went ahead 2-1 but the TV's Doug Murray completed a pretty rush on a play with Ab Wright, beating the Bob Green with a backhand shot to pull out the solo in points. Joyces had two men in the penalty box and the TV's has one at the time.

Ralph Plane caught Green moving the other way for Booth's first goal, Frank Cris and Ralph Boomhower drawing the assists. Bert Faulkner scored Joyces' initial goal, completing a pretty pass play with Bill Vesterfelt and Jim Sheridan. Wayne Fox pushed home their second goal from a goal-crease scramble.

Both Green and Claude Carr in the TV nets came up with key saves on closein chances time and again in the evenly played contest.

Rollins and Vegden Mills were tied 1-1 at half time in their battle. Rollins took the lead again 2-1 but Archer, Bowl, Moore & Co. marksman on both Vegden scoring plays tied it up at the end of the second half. Three quick ones by Brown, Waite and J. Lee in a matter of two minutes, broke the game open for the winners.

"Wiener" Brown, who scored three of the Rollins goals, added his final with less than a minute left to play. Brown also had an assist. Gordon Hughes scored once and drew 3 helpers. Jack Lucas and Wayne Waite had a goal and assist each. Doug Lucas two assists and Duke Brown one.

Besides Archer's two goals, Lee and Richards each picked up an assist for the losers.

Referees Vern Goyer and Tim Williams handed out five minor penalties in this game, four to Rollins, Joyces drew eight and Booth's six in the opener.

Following is the league standing, including all games to date:

	W	L	T	Pts.
Joyce R. Z.	2	0	1	5
Rollins	2	0	1	5
Booth TV's	1	1	1	3

U.S. College Football

NEW YORK (AP) — The post - season bowl games picture cleared up considerably Saturday as the next - to - last big weekend of the U.S. college football season wound up to be the most hectic of the fall.

The University of California at Los Angeles won the host's spot in the Rose Bowl and more or less locked up the Big Seven Conference's No. 1 berth. Arkansas, Southwest Conference champion, drew Georgia Tech in the Sugar Bowl. Texas Christian, Southwest runner-up, was tapped for the Orange Bowl. Arkansas rallied down a place in the Sugar Bowl, where it will meet Georgia Tech in a game of two major football powers. Texas Christian, enhanced their chances for bowl trips with key victories, more or less cinching a berth in the Southwest Conference.

FAVORITES LOSE

Among those toppled out of bowl consideration were third-ranked Mississippi, stunned by Wisconsin 23-21, and Maryland, shellacked by Virginia 35-15. Maryland was also knocked out of the Liberty Bowl picture by Missouri 10-7.

Most bowl bids were given, but the probably bowl lineups shape up as follows:

JAN. 1

Rose Bowl at Pasadena, Calif. up — Southern California (7-3) vs. Ohio State (4-0-1).

Sugar Bowl at New Orleans — Arkansas (8-2) vs. Georgia Tech (5-2)

Cotton Bowl at Dallas—Texas (9-1) vs. Mississippi (8-1)

Orange Bowl at Miami—Colorado, (8-3) vs. Louisiana State (9-1)

DEC. 30

Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla. — Georgia Tech (6-3) vs.

St. F.X. Wins Over McMaster

HALIFAX (CP)—St. Francis Xavier University X-Men won the Atlantic Bowl for the third year in a row with a 14-0 victory over the tough McMaster University Marauders Saturday before a rain - drenched crowd of 3,400.

The X - Men, most successful team in Maritime football history, struck for two Flyers during a downpour in the second quarter and by heavy fog in the third. But it was their brutal tackling that clipped the Marauders in the third quarter of the Maritimers' version of the Grey Cup.

Both teams suffered from the loose footing. St. Francis Xavier failed to put its offence going most of the time. McMaster's passing attack fizzled in the rain.

Ralph (Woody) Hayes scored one touchdown for the X-Men and Bill Crean took a pass from quarterback Joey Simpson for the other. Bill Gigayre kicked a single and Paul McFarlane booked a convert.

Why can non-drinkers enjoy lower auto insurance rates?

AUTO insurance rates can be lower for non-drinkers because:

"Though the public is unaware of it, the 'had-been-drinking' driver is involved in more than half of all U.S. traffic deaths today . . . Grim confirmation comes from autopsies promptly performed on drivers killed in accidents."

Insurance Companies Report Bulletin.

Insurance companies must pay for these accidents involving drinking drivers from the premiums of all motorists.

There was nothing the non-drinking motorist in Ontario could do about these high premiums until four years ago when the Abstainers' Insurance Company was formed to insure non-drinking motorists in the province.

Thousands of motorists quickly took advantage of the low rates offered by this newly formed company. Their confidence was quickly justified. On February 26th the Toronto Globe & Mail reported:

"A company launched four years ago to focus attention on drivers who drink by providing automobile insurance at low cost to those who don't, declared its first dividend here Saturday.

"Abstainers' Insurance Company, whose rates for automobile insurance run from 10 to 15 per cent below the average tariff and non-tariff groups of companies in Ontario, will pay dividends on its preferred shares.

"The company reports it has an accident loss ratio of 51 per cent of premiums collected, about 9 per cent below that of the industry. With about five thousand policyholders on the books, the company has moved to reduce insurance rates for drivers under 25 years of age.

"Mr. Mills said that the company has had urgent requests from British Columbia and Manitoba to operate in those provinces, but does not wish to expand out of Ontario at present."

Adequate capital and extensive reinsurance agreements enable the company to meet any obligation promptly.

Immediate services of established independant adjusters are available to policyholders motoring anywhere in Canada or the U.S.A.

If you are a non-drinker, here is your opportunity to: (1) Get low cost protection. (2) Advance the idea of abstinence. (3) Help establish 'driving-drinking' facts. (4) Make drivers who drink pay for their own accidents.

Roaring Twenties in Chicago Re-created in Musical Film

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Chicago Style they called it, meaning the kind of music that blew out of the Windy City in the roaring days of the 1920s.

Sunday night's NBC's Show of the Week did a good job of showing what the word "Jazz" used to mean.

They assembled a lot of old time musicians — instrumentalists and singers — to re-create the roaring twenties in Chicago.

When they couldn't produce the artists, they turned to old film.

The film clips were more in the mood and certainly more kind than the live-on-tape reconstruction of Chicago - style music making. There was a lot with Bessie Smith, with a voice like a cello, singing a blues song. Mamie Smith shouting a comedy song and a slim young trumpet player with a large white-toothed grin named Louis Armstrong.

But when the musicians were reassembled to relive the old days, we saw a number of middle-aged, portly men and women, some with hair powdered with snow, others bald. The lapse had touched us as they sat but they shoulders have tried to dance.

Larry Moore was guide on the trip backwards four decades.

Ernie Kovacs may not always be on target with his humor, but you've got to give him credit. He'd rather die than be caught telling blues "something must have happened to me on the way to the studio" jokes.

Friday night, Kovacs was on the ABC screen for 30 minutes — entertaining plus scheduled big commercials — and never told a joke. As a matter of fact, he didn't speak a word and neither did anyone else. But there were plenty of gags—ranging from agineative ones — and lots of sound effects and music.

Minor Hockey

Goals came fast and often at Memorial Arena Saturday as high scores featured most of the games in the BMHA's peewee and bantam series.

In bantam play, the Browns whipped the Rangers 8-1. H. Townsend scored three goals and added an assist, G. Moore and D. Smith each had two goals and an assist while M. Fahey and J. McCreary also scored. Morgan and R. Hayes had assists. B. Fullerton potted the Ranger goal.

Maple Leafs topped the Macs 8-2 with J. Blakely and R. Brooks scoring two goals apiece. J. Parks, B. Tomaso, G. Lucas and S. Glancey also scored. T. Bongard drew two helpers with one each for Lucas, Blakely and Tomaso. M. Cook and L. Polliti trapped the Mac goals, aided by B. Forgie and B. Richardson.

B. Hunter led the Red Wings to a 5-2 win over the Black Hawks. Hunter scored three goals and assisted on another. D. Hunter got one and one, J. Smith a goal, D. Whitehead and J. Poulton an assist each. D. Whitehead and J. Cole were the Hawk marksmen, assists going to A. Alcock, L. Lovett, A. Picard and J. Murphy.

The Barons defeated the Canadiens 5-3 with W. Hodgart scoring twice and helping on another. J. Ling had a goal, assist and one and one. D. Middleton added a goal, assist and one, J. Smith a goal, D. Whitehead and J. Poulton an assist each. D. Whitehead and J. Cole were the Hawk marksmen, assists going to A. Alcock, L. Lovett, A. Picard and J. Murphy.

The Barons defeated the Canadiens 5-3 with W. Hodgart scoring twice and helping on another. J. Ling had a goal, assist and one and one. D. Middleton added a goal, assist and one and one. D. Peoples assisting.

Turning to the peewee league, the Black Hawks downed the Red Wings 5-3 with A. Slapkauskas scoring three goals. M. Rivers, D. Hehn and D. Rue also had Hawk goals. R. Fuller, P. Hunter and J. Bankey earned assists. L. Moore potted two Wing goals and T. Schiller one.

The Maple Leafs blanked the Macs 3-0 with D. Brown and A. Bradley each had two goals and an assist. P. Bishop, T. Shaw, C. Love and R. Reesor also scored. Shaw had two assists, P. Gorge, Reeves, D. Young and P. Barrett one apiece.

F. Goodfellow scored five goals to spark second-place Canadians over the Rangers 8-3. D. Lambert had two goals and an assist, while J. Phillips and W. Hay a goal each. T. Beresford two helpers and J. Lumsden one. J. Scott had two Ranger goals, Clancy one, D. Abernethie and D. Case one assist each.

Barons shutout the Canadiens 6-0 on a pair of P. Schenking goal. C. Scott scored two goals, D. Clements, D. Lambert and T. Drumm the others. T. Doran and J. Holgate drew single assists.

Quinte outlasted the Bruins 5-3 in a free-scoring affair. S. Lee mastered her Quinte with four goals while P. Lloyd had two, B. Gardner and W. Muir one each. F. Taylor helped on two goals, Muir on one. R. Day triggered two Bruin markers with J. Lucas, C. Salisbury, T. Sullivan and S. Sharpe sharing the others. Lucas and Sullivan had assists.

Bahama Wins Over Salim

NEW YORK (AP)—Yama Bahama, 160, the clever counter-puncher from Bimini, got off to a fast start Saturday night and gained a split decision over favored Farid Salim 161, of Argentina in a televised 10-rounder at-Madison Square Garden.

The 28-year-old Bahama, circling and bobbing, piled up points with effective left jabs and hooks and then withstood the Argentine middleweight champion's rally in the last three rounds.

The victory was Bahama's third straight and the defeat snapped Salim's amazing streak at seven. Salim was an 11-to-5 favorite.

Second Hat Trick For Gamble

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Dick Gamble, exploding for his second three-goal performance in three nights, has powered Rochester Americans to a 5-2 win and lead in the American Hockey League's Western Division.

The 33-year-old veteran left winger, who scored 43 goals with Buffalo Bisons last season, had only seven goals going into his big weekend, but produced six goals and two assists in three engagements.

Gamble, who had scored three goals against Quebec Aces Friday night, got another three Sunday night, blasting in the winner one minute 42 seconds from the end of the game and beating Providence Reds 4-3 before 4,911 fans. The win gave Rochester a four-point lead over Cleveland Barons in the decision race.

HORNETS LOSE

Providence Hornets Norm Corcoran also fired three goals Sunday, but the Pittsburg Hornets lost 5-3 to Quebec Aces.

There were three three-goal performances Saturday night as the Americans were clobbered 10-2 by Spr ir gfield Indians, Providence edged Cleveland 4-3 and Hershey belted Buffalo 9-2.

In Providence, the Americans trailed 3-2 with less than five minutes remaining in regulation time. Alex Faulkner tied it 3-3 at 15:10 on a pass from Gamble. Charlie Burtett scored twice for Providence. Larry Cahan got the other goal.

Michel Harvey led the Aces at Quebec with two goals. Singles went to Jean - Marie Ouvrette, Michel Labadie and Jean Cusson.

Jimmy Anderson paced the Indians Saturday with three goals. Gilles Cloutier and Floyd Smith each got two. Noel Price, Ab Demarco, Dave Creighton, Bob Kabel, Bill McCreary and Brian Kilrea contributed singles. Hershey tied the league record with six assists in one hockey game. Gerry Ehman scored the lone Rochester goal.

Western Hockey

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

In a space of 37 seconds, Moose Jaw Canucks turned a apparent defeat into victory for the last-place Los Angeles Blades Sunday night.

The Blades were heading for their 10th loss in 12 games in the Western Hockey League's 1961-62 campaign when Bellaire scored two goals late goals against San Francisco Seals.

The pacer, setting Portland Buckaroos, defending league champions, beat Calgary Stampeders, 3-1.

In Saturday action, the Seals edged the Blades 4-3, the Buckaroos beat Seattle Totems 4-2 and Edmonton Eskimos blasted Edmonton Flyers 7-2. Edmonton tops the Northern Division.

Ed Fanaga also scored twice for the Blades against Vancouver Canucks in a game that added a single. Duke Edmundson was a two-goal man for the Seals, with singles contributed by Bob Solinger and Nick Mickoski.

The forward line of Gene Achtymichuk, Tommy McVie and Bill Sanders accounted for the Bucks' first three goals against Calgary. Each man scored once. Doug MacAulay rounded out the scoring for the Bucks' fifth goal with Irvin Wayne North scored for Calgary.

Brewer Wins Golf Title At Mobile

MOBILE, Ala. (AP)—"I knew I had to do it," Gay Brewer Jr. grinned Sunday after sinking a 15-foot birdie putt on the 18th hole to win the Mobile municipal golf tournament by one stroke in a tension-packed finish.

The 28-year-old Brewer said he had been keeping up "here what the scores were."

He referred to the fact that Johnny Pott finished ahead of him with a fine six-under-par 66 after starting the round a stroke back. Brewer was down under par going into the par four, 420-yard 18th, and needed a birdie to take the match.

The 28-year-old Crystal River, Fla., pro dropped his approach shot on the downhill side of the green 15 feet from the pin. He addressed the ball briefly and then rolled it into the cup for a closing 68.

This gave him a card of 69-66-74-68—277 for 72 holes over the course where par is 36-36—72.

Pott had a 70-69-71-66—276 to take second place and $1,500. He also came in second last year.

George Knudson of Toronto, took fifth place money of $1,000 with rounds of 70-70-72-71—283.

Bob Panasiuk of Windsor picked up $165 for a tie for 20th place. Al Johnston of Montreal finished out of the money.

'Gladys' Talks Too Much About Real Estate, Stocks

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Cara Williams is an actress who talks a mile a minute, usually about things she isn't supposed to talk about.

Cara is the Gladys of the CBS-TV show, Pete and Gladys. As co-star of a $1,000,000 enterprise, she is not supposed to discuss things publicly that might destroy illusions and endanger the investment. So Jack keep telling her.

"About your real estate," he began.

"It's a going great," she said, grabbing the ball and running. "Don't let any actor tell you TV is for the birds; it's great. Because of TV, I've been able to make investments for the first time in my life.

"Got four houses now. Two of them I bought, I live in one and I'm fixing the other one up; that's my hobby—interior decorating. I buy these old houses, get them looking good and the I sell them.

"But gee, real estate is one of the things CBS doesn't want me to talk about."

"What about stocks?

"Doing fine there," she said. "That I can't figure," she added. "They're both redheads but otherwise we're not a bit alike. I Love Lucy was three-camera film show, which Lucille played to both the studio and live audience. Our comedy had to be broad. Ours is a one-camera filmed show, which asks for subtlety."

Cara is making a name for herself as a comedienne, despite occasional comparison to Lucille Ball.

"Why, I think Lucy's wonderful. She's got both redheads but otherwise we're not a bit alike. I Love Lucy was three-camera film show, which Lucille played to both the studio and live audience. Our comedy had to be broad. Ours is a one-camera filmed show, which asks for subtlety."

Shorten Olympics Program

MONTREAL (CP) — The Canadian Olympic Association has provisionally decided to trim the national team for the 1964 games, abandoning basketball, gymnastics, cycling and fencing.

The reason was partly financial but perhaps a more significant factor was Canada's apparent dearth of world - class competitors, athletes able to hold their own in fast company.

The cuts were made on a provisional basis Saturday at a five - hour meeting of the COA board of directors.

Thirty delegates, a cross-section of amateur sport, approved the reduction reluctantly. But a compromise amend m e n t making everything tentative smoothed out most of the ruffled feelings.

It was agreed that the issues would be reviewed to consider performances by Canadian athletes in international competitions between now and the games.

As it stands, the projected national team comprises 121 athletes plus 22 officials and coaches. Canada sent 140 competitors and 41 officials and coaches to the 1960 games.

Wolves Whip Beavers

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The fourth - place Sudbury Wolves of the Eastern Professional Hockey League left the first-place Kitchener - Waterloo Beavers moaning and groaning their skates over the weekend.

The Wolves pounced on the Beavers at Kitchener Saturday night to hand them a 3-2 loss in their first in seven games.

The defeat left Kitchener still sitting firmly on top of the league with 27 points, but Kingston Frontenacs, with a 2-1 win over the last-place Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds in Kingston Saturday, are only five points behind the league leaders.

In Sunday action, Hull - Ottawa Canadiens downed the Peterborough 6-4 at home to keep third place and North Bay Trappers Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds 3-3 loss to hold onto fifth.

Dennis Hopson of the Sudbury pack with two goals in Saturday night's upset at Kitchener. Jokers. Ken Broderick and Jerry Foley came through with the others. Dave Balon, Bob Cunningham and Sandy McGregor counted for the Beavers.

Canada Outdoors

By CHARLES GEREIN

WINNIPEG (CP)—Manitoba hunters have an extra reason to reflect on the game laws these days as they line up their sights on a deer—or possibly all the animal stares back with an unusually sharp glint in its eye.

It is the result of the start of the conservation officer whose exasperation with "nightlights" led him to an ingenious, if procedurally illegal, method of embarrassing hunters via the effective practice of stalking their prey at night.

It was Sunday night, the eve of the Nov. 6 deer season opener in the Riding Mountain forest reserve in southeastern Manitoba, when the conservation officer put in his action.

He set up a borrowed stuffed deer with reflectors for eyes as a decoy. It was placed in the brush alongside a road near Onah, 90 miles west of Winnipeg, after dark. The officer waited.

BAGGED HUNTERS

Soon, the bright-eyed deer-decoy was bagged—unfortunately — of the 1961 hunting season. A car drew up and caught the flash of the reflectors in its headlights.

With lights trained on the deer, the occupants got out and opened fire. Out came the officer and arrested the hunters at the time the shooting subsided at 1:30 a.m., two other autos and their occupants had been caught in swoops by the decoy.

The hunters had shown intent to break four regulations by shooting out of season, shooting on a Sunday, and using lights for night hunting.

All guns and cars were confiscated.

Mines and Resources Minister C. H. Whitney expressed sympathy for the conservation officer in his efforts to stop "the nefarious practice of nightlighting."

"I can well understand his exasperation and sympathize with his efforts to stamp out nightlighting. But much as I would like to see nightlighters brought to court, it is my opinion that we must exercise proper procedures to do so."

NO CHARGES

No charges were laid Game director G. W. Malaher said the case have been returned but he is still awaiting the attorney-general's decision on the guns.

And if it was any consolation, not one of the shots fired at the decoy deer that Sunday night hit its mark.

Astrological Forecast

Tuesday, November 28,
By CARROLL RIGHTER

General Tendencies: Since you will feel like getting a great deal accomplished today and tonight, it is obvious that you should know that you can get yourself in quite a pickle if you put on an inspector-or eggs-ave fashion. Make sure you show consideration for the viewpoints of others and you can save yourself many headaches and get lots well done.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Wanting to enjoy yourself is fine today, provided you first get important work out of the way quickly and efficiently. Then consider only what costs very little and plan entertainment early — call friends you want to be with.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Give as much time and energy as you can now to home affairs and be sure to establish far more harmonious relations in that vital sphere of your life. Remember that nowhere does the church have more grace or weight than with kin.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Improve others with how careful a driver you are and also how diplomatic you can be without losing any of your individuality. Also, take time with regard to what you want to see and be sure they are accurate. Grow.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Take care that you do not start overuse worrying about your financial affairs and lose the fine opportunities to expand in the business world. Tighten up where amusement is concerned and lower where sea will not seem so big, too.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — A day to put that fine personality to work for you so that you make a bigger success of business and artistic affairs. Then step out in the evening and wow'em socially. Be sure you dress elegantly and in good taste.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — Now is the time to study that which is puzzling or not in order and see to it that all is adjusted properly. You will get the support from others that you need to realize your fondest aims — sow your gratitude. Be kind.

Libra (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) — Nice day to get together with comrades and work together toward mutual social or business aims. This will also help you to avoid making any unwise investments you will regret later.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22) — Should you carry through all the ideas of higher-ups who know whereof they speak. Also, be sure you adhere to all laws and regulations that pertain to you, though you may feel cut of sorts and want to renege. Be stable.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21) — Carry through with new ideas and plans efficiently and positively instead of stewing over the past, which is dead and gone. Remember that the future is yours to make it what you will. Get on the beam — be happy.

Capricorn (Dec. 2 2to Jan. 20) — Insuring present security requires only that you see that your obligations are met, your bookkeeping records are in order, and understanding reached with loved one. P.M. Sidestep that someone who has a penchant for troublemaking.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Remember that your associates are your best friends and be sure to listen to their ideas and advice instead of falling all over lesser personnel whose ideas are hardly to your best interests. Don't let them belittle you.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — This can be a bright day for you. If you will only apply yourself and get all chores out of the way quickly and efficiently. Forget about going off to new places just be sure you come through with any promises you have made. Be true.

If your child is born today . . . he, or she, will be one of those wonderful people who will be most capable in almost anything that is tackled, so be very sure you give your propositions the advantage of a formal education, the finest that money can buy. The extent of the success in his chart is commonsource to the knowledge that is retained from serious study. The big politics (figure is here.

SOLD OUT!!

Well almost. We are short of listings. Are policy is to sell our listings, give individual service and sell them. We believe that we consistently have the finest clientele to find re-sale homes in the city. This is due to the fact that we are not in the building business, but deal exclusively in home sales. This is probably the reason more people place their properties with us, because of knowing they will receive all of our attention. For preferred attention ask for Doug. Stork. Charge France Plotted Murder Of UAR's Nasser

By NOEL HUDSON

CAIRO Reuters—Diplomats today awaited the next move by the United Arab Republic following its accusation that France planned an assassination attempt against President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

The government Sunday night issued a statement saying nine persons — including four members of an official French mission — were arrested at dawn Saturday on charges of plotting to murder the U.A.R. and assassinate Nasser.

The statement said the French government "drew up a plan to carry out an attempt to assassinate President Nasser." It said France sent an intelligence officer — a well-known expert at assassination" — to Egypt "under the screen of attending the recent Arab petroleum congress at Alexandria." Cairo newspapers carried photostat copies of what was described as a confession by one of the four French officials, a man named Bellifemine, alleging that they were studying the possibility of an Israeli attack against the UAR to facilitate a coup.

The officials were members of a French military mission to the UAR to deal with French assets in Egypt.

Diplomatic relations between the two countries were broken out at the time of the Anglo-French-Israeli invasion and the Swiss Embassy has since represented France here.

ASKS INTERVENE

The French foreign ministry, informed of the arrests through the Swiss embassy, summoned in Paris that it had asked the Swiss foreign office to intervene immediately to get the four officials released.

The statement said the officials were sent to Egypt "following an agreement with the UAR for the modernization of an international convention signed by the UAR government had formally recognized their judicial immunity.

The UAR statement identified the other arrested persons as a French lawyer, a Greek businessman and an Italian journalist and two women.

It said the mission set up a "network of spying" and was receiving money from the country through printed pamphlets, using machines owned by the French embassy.

Investigations of the plot were started 18 months ago and were continuing, the statement said.

Teamsters Set Up Picket Lines In Dispute

TORONTO (CP)— Local 880 of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters Inc. Sunday set up picket lines around the Toronto-area car-hauling firms in a dispute with the carriers over contract terms and wages offered by the employers.

The local represents some 800 drivers employed at car-hauling firms in Oshawa, Oakville, Toronto and Weston.

The companies, which negotiate through the transport industry's motor transport industrial relations bureau, have offered a two-year contract with an hour as part of a three year agreement, and have agreed to double the $8 a month now paid into the Ontario Teamsters' welfare fund.

The firms also propose to pay $11 a month per employee to the trust fund into a fund that would form the basis of a pension fund to be negotiated as part of the next contract.

However, the employers have demanded that the Teamsters' welfare fund be abolished in favor of a fund administered by a seven-man board, four of whom would represent the employers.

Sydney McArte, Local 800 business representative in announcing the strike said the employers had thrown the gauntlet by demanding the Teamsters up their welfare plan.

Union demands include a 25-cent increase in the basic hourly wage of $1.75. Talks between the two parties broke down Saturday.

In a letter to employees the firms said the Teamsters' welfare plan had run into difficulties because of internal differences within the union.

Weekend Talks With de Gaulle Quite Friendly

LONDON (AP) — Weekend talks between President de Gaulle and Prime Minister Macmillan apparently over but they did not stimulate the French leader's opposition to Western negotiations on Berlin with the Soviet Union.

No communique was issued after each visit but this was the impression they filtered from the prime minister's country estate where the two leaders met. De Gaulle had nothing to say to reporters when he returned to Paris.

John Russell, Bitchford foreign office spokesman, said the talks were friendly but "on pattern" as in any case, not conclusive.

It was learned that there had been a thorough examination of the Berlin problem and of British application to join the European Common Market.

De Gaulle was expected to receive his final decision on East-West negotiations until he discusses with Chancellor Adenauer the West German government's attitude toward a new Western approach to the Russians.

Adenauer, if he is sufficiently recovered from grippe, will meet with De Gaulle in Paris Thursday.

Mental Patient Murders Family That Aided Him

MINEOLA, N.Y. (AP) — Forty detectives have been assigned to track down an escaped mental patient accused of massacring the family of a Hempstead, N.Y., man who helped him come to the United States a year ago.

Found in a first-degree murder warrant was Mate Mike Ivanov, 38.

"Irrefutable evidence placed Ivanov in the home of Peter Gregov at the time of the five slayings Saturday, Stuyvesant Cottrell, Nassau County chief of detectives, reported.

The killer methodically stalked and slashed to death Gregov, 39; Mrs. Gregov, 35; and their three sons then neatly covered the bodies — Gregov's with a rug, the others with blankets and sheets.

Mother's and sons' hands were bound behind their backs.

Also slain—by 17 stab wounds—was the Gregor's pet dog.

STRUCK MANY TIMES

The slayer struck from the front and back, plunging the weapon 60 to 70 times into each victim, Mate Ivanov, a "deep, penetrating wounds" five or six inches deep, said Dr. Leslie Lukash, county medical examiner.

Gregov was a waiter, holding down two jobs—one in a night club as head waiter, the other in a restaurant.

Gregov came to the United States seven years ago from Yugoslavia. In 1958, he helped bring Ivanov here. Last year, he helped another brother-in-law get his wife and her husband, Ivanov, come over.

Neighbors said Gregov ordered his home in the Ivanovs and they lived there for several weeks after their arrival.

But domestic difficulties developed in the Ivanov family when Ivanov refused his sister to take her troubles to domestic relations court, she said. That led to Ivanov's committal on June 12 to state hospital. He escaped Nov. 12.

Spiritual Leader of Fourth Of All Christendom Predicts Church Unity Will Be Won

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

ISTANBUL (AP) — The spiritual leader of a fourth of all Christendom, Patriarch Athenagoras [predicts that the world's long-separated churches will achieve unity, probably in this century.

"We cannot fix the time," he said. "Perhaps it will be 50 years, perhaps 15.

"But it is coming — by the force of destiny, by force of the spirit of the gospel, by force of the blood of Christ."

The patriarch, Primate of all Eastern Orthodoxy, said that amid dangers confronting Christianity and all mankind, it is imperative that churches form a united front to meet the challenges.

"It is suicide to be divided," he told this reporter in a private audience.

ON ROAD TO UNITY

He said Orthodoxy and Protestantism already are on the road to unity. He predicted the Roman Catholic Church, now taking an increasing interest in the movement, eventually will participate directly.

The 78 - year - old patriarch, "first among equals" of bishops of 250,000,000 Orthodox Christians, expressed willingness to exchange visits with Pope John, head of the 500,000,000 Roman Catholics.

"I would like to visit him on condition that he would return the visit," the bearded patriarch said.

Recently the Pope and the patriarch have exchanged envoys and messages, the first such contacts in 10 centuries of division. They also have sent each other small tokens of esteem.

However the patriarch emphasized that unity efforts must not be bilateral, but must also include the 175,000,000 Protestants as in the current joint Protestant - Orthodox activities.

"We will not part with our Protestant brother," he said.

IMPOSING FIGURE

The patriarch, a benign, genial prelate and an imposing figure in his grey beard and flowing black robes, said that divided churches could do little to serve a wavering civilization.

"We cannot preach peace when there is no peace among ourselves," he said. "We cannot preach charity when we have no such thing among ourselves."

Point Anne

POINT ANNE—Mr. and Mrs. Joe DeRushie and family of Woodstock have returned home after visiting with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Stewart DeRushie and other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Dailey Cummings and Mrs. Reggie Cox spent Saturday afternoon and tea hour with Mrs. Annah Akey at Cannifton. Mrs. Cox remained for a few days.

Mrs. Charles Sedore has returned home after spending a week with her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Harold MacDonald, in Belleville.

Mrs. Peter Green Sr., Mr. Murney Green Sr. and Mr. and Mrs. Gorden Chisholm attended the Bugman-Bleday wedding held at Buffalo, N.Y., on Saturday.

The weekly euchre club was held at the home of Mrs. Floyd Henderson. Winners were: Mrs. Pearl Genereaux and Mrs. Helen Whalen; low — Mrs. Edna Bradshaw. After euchre the hostess served refreshments and a pleasant evening was spent.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Akey of Cannifton had tea on Monday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Milton Akey and family.

Sympathy is extended to the families of Mrs. Dan MacDonald and Mr. and Mrs. Basil McKendrick in the passing of their sister-in-law, Mrs. Lewis Spencer, in Hamilton; also to Mrs. Patrick Bennett and Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Bennett in the loss of a husband and son, who died suddenly as the result of a car accident, and also to Mr. and Mrs. Don Cox, on the death of their grandmother, Mrs. Shier who died recently at Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Les Bradshaw and Stevie had tea with Mr. and Mrs. Percy Akey on Sunday evening.

Mr. Fred MacDonald is a patient in the Belleville General Hospital. His many friends wish him a speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Akey called on Mr. George MacDonald in the Kingston General Hospital and report that he is improving nicely.

UN Backs Afro-Asian Move To Speed Colonialism's End

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — The UN General Assembly Monday night gave overwhelming endorsement to an Afro-Asian resolution creating a 17-member committee to make recommendations for speeding an end to colonialism.

The vote was 97 to 0. Canada supported the resolution as did the United States which split with its major Western allies Britain, France, Spain and South Africa abstained. Honduras was absent and Portugal — a chief target of the resolution — was listed as not participating.

The assembly rejected a Soviet proposal to have the assembly declare 1962 "the year for the elimination of colonialism." The vote was 18 in favor, 46 opposed and 36 abstentions.

Thus for the second straight year the assembly refused to let Russia take the leadership away from the newly independent countries of Asia and Africa in their drive against colonialism.

Last year the United States abstained on an Afro-Asian resolution urging a speedy end to colonialism. Some members of the U.S. delegation made it plain at the time they personally opposed the abstention but cast on orders of the Eisenhower administration then in office.

The new resolution, carrying last year's action a step forward, called on assembly president Mongi Slim of Tunisia to name the 17-nation committee. It will report back to the 1962 assembly with its suggestions and recommendations.

Ambassador A. J. Brooks, vice-chairman of the Canadian delegation, told the assembly parts of the resolution "could have been more happily worded." Nevertheless, he said, Canada would vote for it as it had voted for the colonial declaration passed at the last session.

Meanwhile the Security Council was expected to put the Indo-Cuba dispute on its debate on Cuba's charges the United States threatens to invade the Dominican Republic.

Delegates said Cuba would have trouble keeping the issue before the council any longer since its only support has come from the Soviet Union and even that has been perfunctory.

Transport Report to Make Revolutionary Suggestions

OTTAWA (CP) — Some farreaching — even revolutionary — proposals for Canada's troubled transport system are expected to be made soon before the federal cabinet.

The new thinking, heralding some touchy political problems for the government, will be spelled out in the recommendations of the report of the MacPherson royal commission on transportation, due to be tabled in the early next month to Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

Transport circles expect the report to lay out a detailed blueprint for Canada's future transportation system, that will conform to the government with some fundamental decisions.

With the second report expected anytime now, the transport industry is digging deeply into the commission's public hearings for clues on the key proposals it will make.

In its first report, made public last April, the commission hammered out its general attitude on transportation, which, in effect, said that transportation is a fact of life now for the railways and other forms of transport.

Based on the findings in the first volume, the report in the second volume will probably propose:

1. A new national transport policy aimed at letting competition prevail in public interest, action sought to do in the past.

2. A minimum of regulation.

Kingston Newsmen Ejected From 'Pen' Guard Meeting

KINGSTON (CP)—Guards at Kingston penitentiary said Monday night a meeting of the Civil Service Association of Canada that convicts in the institution be given a chance to air complaints was ended at one point where "it is surprising they even let guards into the penitentiary."

The statement, made in a petition discussing conditions in the penitentiary, was read aloud to Kingston newspaper reporters who had attended a meeting and were subsequently ejected from the meeting.

It referred to a lack of discipline and said a guard was beaten at its "lowest ebb" at the penitentiary. Another guard, Ernest Wentworth was stabbed to death in a cell block.

"The plan is practically run by the inmates," said one of the guards who presented the petition.

One reporter was beaten and another was manhandled when their presence at the meeting in the mess hall was noted.

Reporter George McBurnie of the Kingston Whig - Standard said he was punched and had his pen broken and his notes scattered.

After a business discussion, the guards started to read a petition addressed to Allen J. Mac Leod, commissioner of penitentiaries, and Gordon MacLean, warden of Kingston penitentiary.

McBurnie, who had entered earlier and taken a seat at the rear of the hall, said that at this point he was recognized as a newspaper reporter from the front of the hall along with Charlie Yellowlees, district director of radio station CKLC.

Big Jet Bomber Crashes, Burns

PLATTSBURGH, N.Y. (AP) — A $2,000,000 B-47 jet bomber crashed, burned and exploded near Plattsburgh air force base Monday night, killing three airmen.

A fourth crew member escaped.

A second six-engined jet landed at the base moments later with two engines disabled.

Neither plane carried nuclear weapons or other armament.

Steelworkers Get Contract With Steel Co.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP)—The United Steelworkers of America (CLC) and Algoma Steel Corp. Ltd. here Monday reached a new agreement Monday after 12 days of direct negotiations with a conciliation board.

Terms of the agreement were withheld pending ratification by members of Local 2251, expected Wednesday.

Conciliation board hearings opened Nov. 7 and lasted nine days. The union demanded job, wage increases, fringe benefits, amounts stated, plus better allround fringe benefits.

The board's recommended supplementary insurance, improvements in the pension agreement, extension to the welfare plan, more financial assistance for the union medical centre—and vacations with pay.

The company said its employees already the best paid in Canada.

The hearing adjourned for one week, during which time the union and the company continued negotiations on their own. It resumed Monday morning.

Chairman W. H. Dickie of Toronto announced Monday that the agreement had been reached.

At the Steel Company of Canada in Hamilton, conciliation proceedings started over a month ago were adjourned in the hope a settlement at Algoma would point the way to a similar solution at Stelco.

FRONDIZI WILL ASK CANADA TO JOIN OAS

Argentina Pres. Visits Canada

OTTAWA (CP) — President Arturo Frondizi of Argentina placed an early meeting with Prime Minister Diefenbaker today as he got down to the business of his four-day state visit to Canada.

He arrived here Monday night more than 3½ hours late — and was warmly greeted at Uplands Airport by Governor-General Vanier and Mr. Diefenbaker. Later the tall, wiry president was guest of honor at a state dinner and reception at government house.

First item on today's busy schedule was a conference between Mr. Frondizi and Mr. Diefenbaker in the Prime Minister's office in the East Block.

Reports circulated Monday night that Mr. Frondizi would take advantage of the opportunity to urge on the Prime Minister that Canada accept membership in the Organization of American States.

Canada has had the question of joining the inter - American association under consideration for some time. Last week, Argentina Foreign Minister Angel Ruffo told reporters, Mr. Frondizi would discuss the matter with Mr. Diefenbaker but expressed doubt that he would press for Canadian membership.

STOPPED TO REFUEL

Mr. Frondizi's brief refuelling stop in New York accounted for the delay in the arrival of Argentine Airlines Comet jet carrying Mr. Frondizi from Buenos Aires and Trinidad.

Gen. Vanier, welcoming the president, said his presence is an indication that "the way lies open" to closer and more fruitful collaboration between Canada and the South American republic.

We greet in you not only a great democratic leader but the head of a peace-loving nation," the Governor-General said.

Mr. Diefenbaker noted it was the first visit to Canada by an Argentine chief of state, adding: "This is an historic occasion for Canada as a whole."

In reply, President Frondizi said: "Your presence in Ottawa is an indication of the growing interest with which Latin American countries follow the spectacular development of the Canadian nation."

Mr. Frondizi leaves Ottawa Wednesday for a one-day visit to Toronto.

Body of Woman Found in Truck

SUDBURY (CP) — The partly-clothed body of Mrs. Margaret Elliot, 36, was found in the cab of a truck here Monday on a sideroad near her home at Naughton.

The cause of the Indian woman's death was not immediately known but police believed her body had been in the truck for at least 12 hours. They said she lived at 14 Whitefish.

The truck was found by John Kroll of nearby Creighton Mine. Naughton — is 10 miles north of this Northern Ontario mining city.

Nuclear Test Ban Parley Termed Pure Propaganda

Russian Treaty Draft Seen Killing Any Hope

GENEVA (AP)—Britain, the United States and Russia today began another round of talks on a nuclear test ban that appears doomed to failure from the start.

High Western sources said at Kent and Washington farther away from a treaty for a complete ban on nuclear testing than at any time since they first began negotiating Oct. 31, 1958.

The talks were resumed in response to the demand of an overwhelming majority of the UN General Assembly. They had been broken off by Russia's unilateral resumption of nuclear testing last September.

On the eve of the new session, the Russians published a new treaty draft which, in the view of Western officials, sounded the death knell to any hopes for a treaty at this time.

NO CONTROL MACHINERY

The Russians in effect ruled out any realistic prospect of an effective international inspection system to prevent secret nuclear explosions in space, on the West says, any nuclear test ban is unacceptable because there would be no assurance against cheating.

The Soviet draft also sought to prevent the United States from continuing underground nuclear tests it considers necessary to the start of the recent Soviet series—or of matching Soviet advances in nuclear weapons with its own tests in the atmosphere. Britain and the United States were considered certain to reject the Soviet move.

Despite the lack of any prospect for progress, both Soviet and Western spokesmen again repeatedly were prepared to go on talking indefinitely—here or in some other capital—rather than be accused of refusing to negotiate.

The Soviet draft also renewed Russian demands to merge the test ban talks with general disarmament negotiations, and the high Western official said Russia and the United States probably would eventually have to accede to the Soviet insistence on this.

Trade Blocs Worry Hees

GENEVA (Reuters) — Trade Minister George Hees of Canada expressed deep concern Monday over the threat posed to world trade by emerging trade blocs. Hees told the opening session of a four-day meeting of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade that Canada is "particularly concerned" that the blocs might create new trade restrictions.

But, he said, Canada was grateful for the "liberal attitude" of so-called "trade proposals under consideration by the European Economic Community.

PARTICIPANTS IN HOTEL STRIKE UNDER ATTACK

Should End Dispute Says PC Member

TORONTO (CP)—The management of the Royal York Hotel and its striking employees came under heavy attack Monday from a Progressive Conservative member of the legislature.

Allan F. Lawrence, member for Toronto St. George, said people in this time of crisis from both sides should be compelled to end the strike, now in its eighth month.

Terming the management's attitude "as bad as that of the strike leaders' tactics "idiotic", Mr. Lawrence said his purpose in speaking of the strike was to call "a pox on both their houses".

He made the remarks in the legislature while moving adoption of the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne.

He urged that there be a permanent rate of population growth in Ontario, and called for new methods of adapting to Ontario's growing urbanization; suggested a constitutional conference to designate municipal responsibilities and financial responsibilities, and indicated the need for a possible change in provincial corporation tax in the face of intensified European competition.

SYMPATHY FOR STRIKERS

But his most biting comments were reserved for the Hotel strike.

"I wish to go on record as being in sympathy with the position of the strikers, particularly the waitresses, in the labor security issue which I understand is, and is even more or more the main issue in the dispute," he said.

However, he couldn't understand why the Hotel and Club Employees' Union had called their strike at the height of the unemployment period when there was little work to be benefitted.

The strike against the hotel, which is operated by the Canadian Pacific Railways, should have been called in August, not in April, he said.

Perhaps merely waiting for both sides to get together voluntarily is the best policy, although regrettably, because the public now is being hurt more than the p a r t i c i p a n t s, compulsion is necessary."

Mr. Lawrence made his motion in reply to the throne speech, Maurice Hamilton, Progressive Con-

Chimp Ham's Second Venture Into Space Designed to Pave Way for U.S. Astronaut

CAPE CANAVERAL (AP) — Scientists after dawn Wednesday plan to put another chimpanzee into orbit around the globe to enter a rocket for a whirlwind ride through space—three times around the world.

If all goes well, a U.S. astronaut will ride another Atlas rocket into space for another 4½-hour ring around the globe perhaps before Christmas, perhaps after New Year's Day.

The chimp, locked inside a Mercury space capsule, is expected to return to earth by capsule parachute after rockets have slowed his 17,400-mile-an-hour pace.

From five original chimps trained for the flight, three finalists were selected—and one of these was Ham, the only one with flight experience. It was Ham, wearing a diaper, who rode a Redstone rocket 100 miles into space last January 31 to pave the way for the first U.S. astronauts, Alan Shepard and Virgil Grissom.

Results of the coming orbital flights by the chimp and an astronaut will determine the pace and direction of future U.S. space efforts.

BROADWAY STAR WEDS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A pocket-sized Broadway personality and a judge combined to get actor Jan Gazzara, 31, and actress Eileen Heckart, 38, married. Gazzara, known for performances on Broadway in Cat on a Hot Tin Roof, and A Hatful of Rain, said he and Miss Rule were married Saturday in San Fernando at the home of Judge Leland Lazarus. They couldn't find any courts open. A policeman directed them to a bail bondsman, who in turn led them to Judge Lazarus.

Canadian Govt. Tactics Called Discreditable

LONDON (CP)—The Guardian of Manchester in an editorial today contends the Canadian government "brings discredit on itself" as a result of its decision to make a public showing of the "secret speech" made to the Commons Marbes Oct. 30.

"That it (Canada) lacks enthusiasm for British entry into the Common Market is well known. Even so discreet a man as (Finance Minister) Fleming has said that Canada wants no change in the existing pattern of trade.

"But to try to undermine Britain's negotiating position is inexcusable. From now onwards Canadian views should be heard as fully as before but hereafter less."

Two Conservative newspapers —The Daily Telegraph and The Daily Mail—call the weekend sequence of events a "leak in a tea-cup."

The Mail argues that the text of Heath's speech shows that Britain was determined to protect Commonwealth interests.

"We hope that Mr. Fleming of Canada is satisfied. It is not pleasant when Peyton Place Victoria can express a more sponsored view in British good fortune than the Canadian finance minister."

JAGAN MAN OUSTED

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (CP)—Premier Cheddi Jagan's ruling People's Progressive Party lost one of its seats in the 35-seat legislative assembly Monday when Mr. Justice Aubrey Fraser of British Guiana Supreme Court ordered a new election in Mourant constituency. Hamilton Greene, candidate for the opposition's People's National Congress, had brought a petition charging "corrupt practices."

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: Today will be possibly the coldest so far this season in Ontario with variable cloud cover and a few snowflurries continuing in many areas. A moderating trend is indicated for Wednesday. However, even colder arctic air is already on the move out of the far north and is expected to invade northwestern Ontario late Wednesday.

France Virtually Paralyzed As 500,000 Workers Take Day Off

PARIS (Reuters) — France was virtually paralyzed Monday as some 500,000 rail, gas, electricity and other workers began a 24-hour strike to back pay claims.

Power dwindled. Factories, shops and offices closed. Much transportation ground to a halt.

Electricity workers cut off power supplies throughout the country and announced it would not be restored until 5 p.m.

The Paris metro subway, deprived of current, came to a halt.

Suburban rail services were at a virtual standstill and only 33 of the capital's 1,073 buses took the road.

outgoing flights because its ground staff joined the strikers. Parisians were told to find other and traffic lights extinguished. They dressed by candlelight and cooked breakfast on flickering gas flames at less than half-pressure.

Most shops and offices—staffed by workers treated in the suburbs—made no attempt to open.

Streets were half - deserted. Garbage cans were left uncollected by striking municipal workers.

Others joining the strike were hairdressers and employees of the French Atomic Energy Commission.

The 350,000 railwaymen—excluding main-line engineers—began their 24-hour strike at 4 a.m. local time. The 110,000 gas and power workers started their 11-hour stoppage on scheduled two hours later.

2,000 Spoiled Ballots Will Be Examined

TORONTO (CP) — The writs have called for a judicial examination of about 2,000 spoiled ballots in a liquor referendum Saturday in suburban Etobicoke which apparently approved drinking lounges but not cocktail bars.

One group has called for a new vote, claiming a township notice on polling hours was misleading.

Official figures showed 63,61 per cent of the 39,640 voters favored dining lounges but only 50.6 % wanted cocktail bars. Officials said the official result may not be known for a month.

A 60-per-cent vote is required for approval of such issue.

There were claims from some residents Monday that many voters arrived at the polling at their "lowest ebb" at the penitentiary, expecting them to be open until 10 p.m. as was the case with the advance polls.

Clive Stanley, chairman of the vote, estimated that about 45 per cent of the 90,000 eligible voters turned out.

GUESTS OF HONOR

MONTREAL (CP)—France's ambassador to Canada, Francis Rignoton Wing - Tandeau said he was punched and had his pen broken and his notes scattered.

After a business discussion, the guards started to read a petition addressed to Allen J. Mac Leod, commissioner of penitentiaries, and Gordon MacLean, warden of Kingston penitentiary.

McBurnie, who had entered earlier and taken a seat at the rear of the hall, said that at this point he was recognized as a newspaper reporter from the front of the hall along with Charlie Yellowlees, district director of radio station CKLC.

Big Jet Bomber Crashes, Burns

PLATTSBURGH, N.Y. (AP) A $2,000,000 B-47 jet bomber crashed, burned and exploded near Plattsburgh air force base Monday night, killing three airmen.

A fourth crew member escaped.

A second six-engined jet landed at the base moments later with two engines disabled.

Neither plane carried nuclear weapons or other armament.

Floating Patients on Air May Speed Healing of Severe Body Burns

LONDON (AP) — Doctors have made a pig fly in the interests of medical science.

They did it by pioneering the principle of the Hovercraft and floating the pigs on a cushion of air.

Doctors hope the idea will speed up the treatment of patients with severe body burns or spinal paralysis who should avoid contact with beds. It could also prevent bed sores.

Researches which have been going on at the department of biomechanics and surgical materials at Stanmore Hospital, Middlesex, were outlined today in the medical journal, The Lancet.

In early experiments the doctors succeeded only in bouncing a man up and down on an air bed. They then installed with engineers developing a Hovercraft a machine which rides along a few inches above the surface on a cushion created by a downward jet.

Using 13 specially designed jets, the doctors then applied the principle to a pig it worked. One anesthetized pig was kept floating in the air for an hour.

A small child wound on the animal dried up in the air, the Lancet reported. Normally it would have taken 24 hours.

REALTORS TO HOLD KINGSTON COURSE

Next week local real estate men will have the opportunity of attending the first real estate course to be given in eastern Ontario by the Ontario Association of Real Estate Boards. The course, which will run for four-and-a-half days commencing next Monday, will be given in Kingston by Mr. S. D. H. Reid, director of education for the Toronto Real Estate Board.

Mr. Reid has conducted this course for the past two years for Toronto real estate people. The course covers such subjects as mental attitude, qualifying purchasers, servicing the vendor, getting listings, the photo co-op, the Real Estate Act, and many other aspects of real estate work.

Successful candidates will receive certificates from the Ontario Association of Real Estate Boards. Kingston Real Estate Board is sponsoring the course.

AWARDS NIGHT FOR 4-H CLUBS WILL BE HELD

The annual awards night for Hastings county 4-H club members is scheduled for Friday night, December 1st, at the Madoc high school auditorium. Prize monies, trophies and special awards won during the year will be presented to qualifying club members.

ACCUSED GIVEN THREE MONTHS FOR SHOP LIFTING

During the Christmas season when stocks on the merchants' shelves and counters are stacked high, the art of shop lifting becomes a menace and requires the vigilance of every member of the staff. The law takes a serious view of these incidents and heavy penalties will be given for anyone caught in the act.

This morning in police court, Orval McDonald appeared on a charge of shop lifting a sweater valued at $10 from a local store.

Magistrate T. W. Mitchell gave the accused three months in jail and he was placed on probation to the officer. A warning was issued that similar heavy penalties would be enacted if this form of crime continued in the city and district.

EARLY CURRENCY

The first paper money in Canada was issued in 1685 when there was a shortage of coin.

Obituaries

GEORGE AMOS BRANT
Shannonville

The funeral service of George Amos Brant was held Monday afternoon, at Christ Church, Tyendinaga Reserve. The Reverend J. V. Sweetman officiated and interment was at Christ Church Cemetery.

Bearers were John R. Brant, Freeman Maracle, Clifford Maracle, Melville Hill, Everett John and Percy Howard.

Mr. Brant died at the Belleville General Hospital on Friday, November 24th, following a short illness. He was in his 79th year.

Born in Deseronto, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Amos Brant, he was educated in that area and worked in the United States for a number of years before taking up residence in Shannonville, where he worked as a carpenter. Interested in the affairs of his community, he was a councillor for the Tyendinaga Reserve and a member of Christ Church.

He married the former Bertha Smart, who predeceased him in 1956. He is survived by three sons, Eugene and Francis of Rochester, N.Y., and Walter of Shannonville; one daughter, Marguerite; a brother, Herbert Brant of Deseronto; and a sister, Mrs. Priscilla Maracle of Belleville.

Arrangements were under the direction of the White and Morris Funeral Home, Deseronto.

MRS. JOHN LLOYD

In failing health for some time, Mrs. Mary Ida Lloyd, 35 Cannifton Road, died in the Belleville General Hospital on Monday afternoon.

She was born at Gilead, 86 years ago, being the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Frederick and had been a resident of this community for the past 60 years. She was well known and highly respected.

An adherent of the Alliance Tabernacle, she is survived by two sons, John and Percy Lloyd of the home; one daughter, Mrs. Helen Smith of Belleville; also seven grandchildren and 11 great grandchildren. She was the last of her family.

Rooming at the Thompson C. Thompson Funeral Chapel, 36 Everett Street, The funeral announcement will appear elsewhere in this edition.

MRS. MARY ETHEL FREDERICK

The funeral of Mrs. Mary Ethel Frederick was held from the John B. Bush Funeral Home on Monday afternoon. Rev. Edith Mainprize conducted the service in the chapel and also officiated at the graveside rites at Belleville Cemetery.

The bearers were Fred Reid, Harold Wright, Vincent Baker, Kenneth Hardon, Donald Byers and John Nelson.

Members of the Senior Citizens Branch, the Wesleyan W.A. and the Avondale W.A. were in attendance to pay tribute to her memory. Mrs. Frederick had been a resident of the community practically all of her life.

TRUMAN ASHTON SILLS

The funeral of Truman Ashton Sills was held from the John R. Bush Funeral Home on Monday afternoon. Mr. Lawrence M. Neddow, assisted by Rev. W. R. Farrow conducted the services in the chapel and also the committal rites at Mountain View Cemetery.

The bearers were Harmon Montgomery, Thomas Walker, Truman Ferguson, Gerald Fritz, Harry Bladee and Earl Woods.

Ratepayers Hear Reports On Council, Schools, PUC; Candidates Express Views

TRENTON—Last night's dilapidated meeting in the auditorium of Trenton High School was poorly attended. The meeting was conducted by clerk-comptroller, O. W. Lacey, and Mayor D. James MacDonald said that while 1961 had not been a spectacular year for Trenton, it had been one of steady progress.

The year had seen the town's population rise to an all-time high of 12,800 persons; assessment on industry had increased to 14 million dollars; the five year capital budget plan for the town had been approved in principle by the Ontario Municipal Board; Division Street had been finished except for an additional layer of asphalt which will be put on the next spring; the subsidized ambulance service had proven to be satisfactory; planning program of improved street lighting had been undertaken; the town had gained one new industry and the police station renovations had just been completed.

Mayor MacDonald defended council's decision to levy a supplementary tax to complete the Division Street reconstruction program, saying that the taxpayer had got value for his money.

Commenting on Trenton's present financial position, the mayor said that at the beginning of 1961 the town's debenture debt stood at more than $1 million and he pointed out that this had been reduced by $150,000 during the year. He said that $50,000 had also been added to its debt this year, and that financially, the town was in a sound position.

Looking forward, the mayor said that the Department of Highways, on the recommendation of council and the strength of a recent traffic survey, will take immediate steps to provide the town with a new bridge.

BACKS SUNDAY SPORTS

Mayor MacDonald then commended a "yes" vote on the question of Sunday sports.

"The vote there seemed to be well - organized opposition to Sunday sports, while it would have but be impressed by the fact that all the town's dentists supported it, while it would have the effect of reducing their practice.

Mr. MacDonald then recommended a "yes" vote on the subject of an east-side fire hall.

ELECTRIC LIGHTS

Councillor Ross Buret, last year's chairman of the protection to persons and property committee on council, discussed recent improvements in the fire department's first aid renovations to the police station. Councillor Buret, who is now a police at last year's election, has one more year of his two-year term to run.

Councillor D. R. Fraser who resigned from council last month with one year of his term to run, came out strongly in favor of fluoridation. Councillor Fraser, this year's chairman of the Court of Revision, said that he deplored the attempts of some candidates for 1962 council to leave the impression that by implication that any council had treated the east side of the town like a poor relation. He said that in 1961, many improvement programs had been carried out on the east side.

Councillor C. V. Graham, who is seeking a 14th term on council this year, reported on continued progress in protective service committee activities last year. He said that the Trenton Community Caravan, which has shown a profit this year for the first time since its erection, was now a "community centre in its true form sense." Councillor Graham also reported on the activities of the 1961 traffic committee.

Councillor Vega Lange, who is not seeking re-election to council this year, reported on accomplishments of the public works department. He said that the reconstruction of Division Street had taught him that it was a mistake to under-budget for a job. Councillor Lange also expressed on the town's street improvement program, sewer and curbing. He said that the five year capital budgeting plan, which he had supported, would allow the town to progress in an orderly fashion.

TOO OLD AT 56

Councillor N. J. McNair told the assembly that he thought a man in his 53rd year had no business sitting on council. Mr. McNair was nominated to run for 1962 council, but did not qualify.

"As for the Sunday sports question," said the councillor, "I'm going to vote against it. I don't know anything about fluoridation, but then neither does anyone else. As far as the east side fire hall goes, we've got along without it for the past 50 years. These questions are in the hands of the ratepayers now."

Councillor Lloyd Worrall, 1961 chairman of the industrial and economic development committee of council, which was formed at the beginning of the year, said that "what was good enough for Trenton 20 years ago, is not good enough for Trenton in a competitive position today."

Councillor Worrall said that voters who supported candidates who promised "to reduce taxes at any cost" were deluding themselves.

CANDIDATES SPEAK

Following are quotations from remarks by candidates for council:

Ronald Birkett: "I believe that Trenton has great possibilities. I have retired and plan to have no business interests to interfere with my duties as councillor.

Elmer Boulter: "I would like to see a large farmers' market and better relations with the surrounding counties. I have a waterfront that would attract yachtsmen."

Jim Brown: "I'm behind an east-side fire hall 100 percent. I favor fluoridation. I favor paths on the east side. We also need sewers. Necessary improvements should be completed evenly, no matter where you live."

James Day: "Why talk about annexation when we've got lots of beautiful land in town? Open up the poorer sections in town. Then annexation could come in an orderly fashion and in agreement with our neighbors in the area to be annexed."

James Duncan: "I've had 30 years experience in contracting and engineering. With these I can express my opinions if elected to council."

Duncan McDonald: "I have always been very interested in the affairs of the town and I would like to serve on town council."

URGES ECONOMY

Dan Senik: "Whether we like it or not, taxes are here to stay, but I advocate a more economical use of taxes. As chairman of the community gardens committee, I have watched the stigma of the "white elephant" from the beginning."

Ed. Todd: "I think that good municipal government should be made up of a cross section of people from all walks of life. If I'm a strong, fair-minded man elected council and I would try to maintain the tax level at its present rate".

Alfred Vaughan: "I'm for fluoridation, but not on the east end of the river. If the town can provide services to annexed areas, why not in the town itself? We have a street sweeper and no sidewalks for our children".

Douglas Whitley: "I would advocate single man committee with civic minded citizens being called upon to sit on council committees. With four years' experience as a member of the board of education, I could act as a liaison between the board and the council."

R. J. "Dick" Whitley: "If elected to council, I will be there for the benefit of the ratepayer and when I say "ratepayer" I mean every person who is a "rentpayer", who is also a taxpayer, indirectly."

C. W. Graham, also a candidate for re-election to council, urged the ratepayers to consider his record as an experienced councillor.

SCHOOL REPORT

Chairman L. G. Phinney and members of the Trenton board of education, T. S. Ketcheson, Paul Tripp, George Greer, Ronald Rowe, Mrs. Gabrielle Griffiths, reported on progress.

Mr. Phinney commended the members of the board and the school secretary staff for their excellent work in dealing with problems affecting education in the town's schools last year.

T. S. Ketcheson, board chairman of utilities, said the assembly of the 1961-62 school expansion program. He said that the addition to Queen Elizabeth school had been financed by debenture issues, and by retaining debenture charges.

Paul Tripp, who resigned from the board last month, with one year of his term of office to run, reported on the 1961 activity of the maintenance committee, which he chairs.

George Greer, 1961 chairman of the laundry committee, explained the fact that so few citizens had offered themselves as candidates for the board, the 1962 board members had been acclaimed.

Mr. Greer said that the board should end 1961 operations with a "tight budget" but he warned that school expansion must be made in conformity to plan the school budget carefully.

Rev. Ronald Reid, chairman of management, said that "it is the ambition of every boy in the world to sit on the board, but that he had enjoyed his year on the board and would continue to serve "without bias."

Mrs. Griffiths, chairman of supply, said that while her first term had been spent in learning the mechanics of board management, she would devote some time next year to academic study of new ways to assure every Trenton child of an adequate education.

PUC REPORT

Clifford A. Baker, 1961 chairman of the Trenton Public Utilities Commission, acclaimed to the commission for another term, said that he would like to express his appreciation for a "vote of confidence in the commission."

The commission chairman told the assembly that the commission had enjoyed good relations with its employees' union members (this union was formed this year).

In reference to the Sidney St. well, Mr. Baker said that vast Trenton residents possessed much superior drinking water now due to that well by east side residents. He said that a new substation would be built on the east side in the near future and that low voltage problems would be overcome.

NAMED DIRECTOR

Douglas Whitley of Trenton, 1960 president of the Trenton Chamber of Commerce, was acclaimed today that he been appointed a director of the Ontario Chamber.

Mr. Whitley was primarily instrumental in the re-forming of the Trenton chamber early in 1960.

Carl Bateman Again Reeve Of Stirling

STIRLING — Reeve Carl E. Bateman was acclaimed reeve of Stirling for another year at the recent nominations for municipal office held here. No position was contested in any of the available offices.

Councillors for 1962 will be Robert Allen, James Chambers, George Noble and Graham Mosck. Mr. Mosck will be the one new face in council. He previously served on the school board.

Re-elected to the school board were Mrs. Robert Lacey and Robert Cook. Alan Milnre is the new member of the board, having taken Mr. Mosck's place.

Mr. Bruce Glendinning withdrew as a contestant for the public utilities commission post and Robert Hatton was acclaimed chairman.

Couple Admit Spying for United States

KIEV, Soviet Union (AP)—A former member of Nazi German's Waffen SS and his wife today pleaded guilty here today to charges of spying for the United States.

Adolf Werner, 51, of Karlsruhe, West Germany, acknowledged his guilt but said he had actually done almost nothing for the Americans. He attempted to portray the American as the villain of the piece as an affable.

"The Americans," he told the court, "are too cowardly to carry out such a deed themselves."

He said they preferred to send Germans to the Soviet Union rather than endanger themselves.

Werner, who was a staff sergeant with the Waffen SS—the front-line military organization of the Nazi-Elite Guard—was head of the shoe department in a Karlsruhe department store before his arrest near Kiev last June.

DEFENDS WIFE

He and his 45-year-old wife came to the Soviet Union as tourists.

Werner said she thought he was working for a U.S. publishing company which wanted him to do illustrated magazine articles on the Soviet Union.

Werner said that his simple thought he was working for such a company but acknowledged that he suspected the man who made contact with him in Karlsruhe was actually an espionage agent. He identified the man only by nickname.

Werner said Johnson paid him 2,000 marks ($700) and he suspected the same sum when he returned to Germany. He said Johnson asked him not only to produce illustrated magazine articles but also to use his time many months to observe military objectives, such as military trucks, barracks and sky bases.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—The stock market was strongly biased during moderately heavy morning trading today.

National Steel Car recorded the largest individual rise, 3¾ to 30, on news that Dominion Foundries and Steel will shortly make an offer to purchase all shares.

Utilities, banks and financial industrial issues, and oils all assisted in the general industrial upward swing, with widespread fractional gains predominant.

Trans Mountain Pipe Line reached a new high of 32 with a rise of ¼.

Speculators were dull with Lake Dufault down ½ to 11¾ and Mt. Wright, Canadian Dyno and Murray Mining all showing a low range.

On index, industrials rose .44 to 203.90, base metals .33 to 210.96, their highest point since May, 1957, and western oils .29 to 111.33, their highest point since Jan. 1958. Golds fell .94 to 99.94, and the 11 a.m. volume was 1,264,000 shares compared with 1,792,000 at the same time Monday.

The senior base metals list was up.

Gold trading, was light.

Western oil trade was weak Monday industrials registered their first advance in nine trading sessions.

Strength in banks and steels accounted for most of the advance. Other groups showed widespread gains.

The speculative market came back at the close after being quiet most of the day.

On index, industrials gained 1.05 at 203.46, golds 2.8 at 97.40, and base metals .12 at 210.65. Western oils dipped .03 at 111.94.

Algoma passed steels, with a 200,000 gain. Bank of Montreal moved ahead 1¼.

Among specialties Lake Dufault rose 1¼ at 12¾ on 133,300 shares. Canadian Dyno was ahead almost 4 at 32.25 and Jac 17 cents at 21.02. Wiltsey-Coghlan lost six cents at 44.

Senior base metals were mixed. International Nickel climbed 1⅞ at 87¾, while Falconbridge dropped 1¼ at 70.75.

Silver Standard Porcupine led gold shield with a gain of ¼. Kerr-Addison was up 25 cents at 16.75.

Western oils were down as Home A and Pacific Petroleum each dropped ⅛.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream prices and prices of eggs were reported unchanged today.

The egg market was steady on large and steady on other grades with offerings in excess of a light demand.

Country dealers are quoted by the federal department of agriculture on Canada grade eggs: Extra large, 70; fancy, 68; large, 64; medium, 58; pullets, 52; undergrade, 52; cooking, 52; checks, 52.

Butter prices: Canada first grade: Prints, delivered, 64; 84; non-tenderable 62¾-65¾. Tight: trading: western 62½ (nominal).

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP)—The U.S. dollar was firm today, but unionmembers note that according to "Research Associates" more attractive rates are now available on agement rights clauses than any other clauses in work agreement.

"Costs of arbitration cases don't mean a thing to management making profits of over six million dollars a year, but they do mean something to a small, local union getting its money out from dues paying members," Mr. Burshaw said.

Mr. Burshaw called the request by the management rights clause to make and alter rules and regulations observed by the employees to be the most dangerous of all. All rules should be subject to negotiations," he said.

WAGES COMPARED

The local union president compared wage rates at Point Anne with those paid by other cement companies. The basic rate at Point Anne was $1.91 with a top rate of $2.51.

He said this may seem high compared with other rates in the district, but was low compared with other cement companies. He said base rates in other companies ranged from $1.96 to $2.02, while the top rate ranged up to $3.06.

Neither was Canada Cement Company a program of paid vacations as a good in many instances certain other cement companies.

The union admits that the company's non-contributory pension plan is a good one, but it is not part of the agreement.

Mr. Burshaw said the union's contention was that the pension plan should be part of the work agreement.

Certain other cement companies pe. a higher shift premium than does Canada Cement, it is alleged.

Mr. Burshaw said the company wa. not claiming inability to pay increased wages. Nor should it, he said. Last year the plant made a profit of just over six million dollars and had assets of over 100 million dollars.

"We are not asking for the moon," he said. "But we do feel we have the right to share the benefits such as a supplemental unemployment benefit now enjoyed by the workers in the four smaller cement companies in Canada."

Management Rights Clause, Not Wages, Is Main Issue In Strike at Point Anne

With the walkout of Canada Cement Company employees at Point Anne and at other plants in Ontario and Quebec now well into its second week, members of the United Cement, Lime and Gypsum Workers International Union are still in disagreement with the company offer for a new work contract.

At the plant workers are solidly with the company offer of an over-all ten cents per hour wage increase but they disagree strongly with a company request for a management rights clause which union spokesmen say would put them "in a legal straight jacket" if it went into the agreement as is.

They also disagree with the company contention that its offer is a good one and claim that wages at Canada Cement are higher than at competitors' plants and that their vacations are too as good as at some cement plants.

They feel they are entitled to a supplemental unemployment benefits plan and contend workers' pensions, therefore, should not be expected to work for less than that received by workers at other companies.

Some of the items included by the company in its 58 1/2 cents worth of fringe benefits, namely workmen's compensation and unemployment insurance, are stated to be required by law and according to union members should not be classed as fringe benefits.

LETTER LISTED

Donald G. Burshaw, president of Local 219 at Point Anne noted yesterday that company employees had received a letter from T. W. Hamilton, vice-president and general manager of Canada Cement Company urging acceptance of the company offer.

He said the letter stated company plants now out on strike would remain closed until they were re-occupied by men under the company offer. Union members wishing to re-open negotiations were advised to contact local union officials.

This, in fact, Mr. Burshaw stated, was an effort to defeat the national union and have the strike at the different plants settled with local unions.

Mr. Burshaw said union members were quite willing to accept the two per cent wage increases offered by the company, providing the increase was retroactive to June 30th, the date of the contract, instead of September 1st of this year.

The local union president agreed that the main issue in the management rights clause sought by the company would not be harmful as it was a matter of right of management to run their operation.

FEAR STRAIGHT JACKET

"But if that clause is placed in the agreement as it is, it would put our union in a legal straight jacket," he said.

For example the present agreement gives each company employee the right to bid on job vacancies and new jobs, thus giving all workers the opportunity to raise their standard within the plant workforce.

One of the terms of the proposed management rights clause would give management the right to promote.

"What good would job bids be if the company had the right to promote?" asked Mr. Burshaw.

Under the proposed management rights clause employees would have the right to lodge grievances, but union members note that according to "Research Associates" more attractive rates are now available on agement rights clauses than any other clauses in work agreement.

"Costs of arbitration cases don't mean a thing to management making profits of over six million dollars a year, but they do mean something to a small, local union getting its money out from dues paying members," Mr. Burshaw said.

Mr. Burshaw called the request by the management rights clause to make and alter rules and regulations observed by the employees to be the most dangerous of all. All rules should be subject to negotiations," he said.

Cement Workers At Winnipeg Still on Jobs

MONTREAL (CP) — Workers in Winnipeg postponed a decision Monday on their scheduled strike against the Canadian Cement plant, but four of the company's plants in other cities were being closed by the walkout that began Nov. 16.

The United union spokesmen said no further negotiations on a New York contract are in sight. The old contract expired June 30.

The last meeting between the company and officials of the United Cement, Lime and Gypsum Workers International Union (CLC) took place Nov. 18.

The company has offered a 10-cent hourly wage increase, five cents the first year and five the second in a two-year contract, but was rejected union demands for fringe benefits amounting to 7½ cents an hour. The present basic wage is $1.91.

Closed by the dispute are plants in Fort Whyte, Manitoba, Woodstock and Montreal.

Workers at Hull, Que., have voted to strike but have not set a date.

New Hospital Visiting Hours Start on Friday

The new schedule of extended visiting hours at the Belleville General Hospital will go into effect on Friday, December 1st. It was noted at the monthly meeting of the hospital board of governors held last week. The new visiting hours were agreed on at the October board meeting.

Visiting hours for the medical floors will be from 2 p.m. until 3 p.m. and from 7 until 8 in the evening.

Five student doctors will be employed at the hospital for the period during the summer of 1964. This is one more than worked at the hospital this year.

Hospital board chairman J. N. Yarrow told the board that the hospital was pleased with the four undergraduates at the hospital during the past summer and said the student appeared to be happy in Belleville. They were paid $150 per month.

The hospital board was notified that the hospital had been left $1,000 in money by Ethel Mae Lynch. There was no mention of the amount of the bequest.

Negotiations are being carried on between the board and representatives of the Building Service Employees International Union with a view to a new work agreement between members of Local 183 and the hospital.

Hospital statistics for the first 10 days of October this year were presented, these showing that the average length of stay for patients in the hospital had increased. Board members directed a letter be sent to the medical staff congratulating it on the shorter average patient stay.

FINE LINGUIST

MONTREAL (CP)—An attractive Beaconsfield bartender who speaks seven languages was the centre of attention among nine delegates at the International Civil Aviation Organization's training program here. "We get five or six years of Danish, about two years of English and one or three German" he explained Sonia Deigo. French is required for employment as necessary courses students plan to enter.

Kiwanis Ladies' Night Enjoyed, Awards Given

Close to 150 persons attended the annual president's banquet and ladies' night held by the Kiwanis Club of Belleville and District evening at the Columbus Hall.

Those present saw club president Bob Brain award a "Kiwanis Key" to the "appreciation roses" to as many members of the club, whose activities within the club and its projects have been especially outstanding during the course of the current club year. Kiwanians on the parts, Ron Keel, Will Mills, Hal Floyd, Jack Crawford, Jack Greatrone, Dave Deacon, Les McKee, Don McDonald, Don Finkle, Gerry Wilson and Bob Brain were so recognized.

During his address, Dr. Brain recounted the 14 goals which the club undertook to accomplish during the year. All of these, he noted, have been accomplished. Amongst these projects were the reorganization and sponsorship of the Belleville Scout Troop and Cub Pack; the innovation of a Kiwanis Key Club; the local secondary schools; sponsoring a four-year old Korean boy under the Foster Parents Plan, and the introduction of a Kiwanis Public Relations and "Citizenship Quotient" program to this community.

The club is also sponsors a number of annual prizes at local secondary schools, the "Elmer the Safety Elephant" program in local elementary schools and sponsorship of the Ontario School for the Deaf, and annual sponsorship of the 4-H Calf Clubs of Hastings and Prince Edward counties, it was noted.

Dr. Brain thanked his executive fellow-officers and members for their whole-hearted support during the year and commended them on the fine record for president-designate George Sayers.

District Lt.-Governor Al Weaver of Trenton was present for the occasion and extended his congratulations to the club members and to next year's work.

It was noted that the club is one of the top clubs in the Ontario - Quebec - Maritime district.

The evening's program, which was organized by Kiwanians Frank Domenico, Don Rose and Bill Slade, also featured professional entertainment and dancing.

repvative member for Renfrew North, challenged Opposition Leader John Wintermeyer to explain how the Liberals would pay for their education proposals.

"He (Mr. Winstermeyer) proposes to have the province take over all or nearly all of the costs of primary and secondary education," he said.

"This would mean, of course, abolition of local school boards or reducing them to a state of helplessness, for if he is going to pay the piper you may be sure that he or his bureaucracy will call the tune."

In other legislature business, the Ontario Liquor Control Board reported more than 100,000,000 gallons of liquor were sold in the year ending last March 31, boosting the board's profits to an all-time high of $90,615,146.

Earlier, Premier Robarts took considerable pleasure in twitting the Liberals, for their strong objections to early discussion of departmental estimates. The opposition protests brought a formal division.

The vote overwhelmingly endorsed early discussion of the estimates—by 79 to 19 in favour. But Premier Robarts, minutes before all members had closed in the Liberal benches, and told the house "no estimates will be called" until a later date.

Later he said: "I was just letting the Liberals have their say making such a fuss about it. I would still call the estimates tomorrow but I won't."

Budapest Board Requests Picture Of Four Calves

The fame of the part Holstein cow owned by Mr. George Goodfellow of R.R.1, Stirling, didn't last spring gave birth to quadruple calves is continuing to spread.

Recently Mr. Goodfellow received a letter from the curator of a museum in the city of Budapest, Hungary, requesting a picture of the cow and quadruplet calves to hang in the museum in that city. Mr. Goodfellow has been happy to comply.

Mr. Goodfellow's part Holstein cow not only gave birth to quadruplet calves last year but in the past four years had mothered an even dozen calves. In October the Goodfellow quadruplet calves were seen by thousands of people at the annual International Plowing Match north of Belleville. The calves were also exhibited at one of the Hastings County exhibit at the match.

Quadruplet calves are an almost unheard of rarity in the cattle world.

Frank Rabel Elected Reeve Of Frankford

FRANKFORD — At last night's nomination proceedings in Frankford, Councillor Frank Rabel was acclaimed for 1962. W. Ross Thompson was nominated, but declined.

Councillors Carman Mikel, Ray McCann, P. R. Campbell, and L. N. Reid were also acclaimed.

Frank Cleveland was also nominated for councillor, but declined. George Montgomery was the only nominee for hydro commissioner and was acclaimed.

Carl Gasher, Harold Vosburg and Harry Chard were nominated as school trustees but as only three seats was also nominated and was unavailable for acceptance, further action will necessary on the nomination.

Thomas S. Aicken, Belton, Wins Grand Championship British Empire Dairy Show

Many times winner of the annual cheese show at Belleville, Thomas S. Aicken of Belton on Middlesex county has again won the grand championship at the British Empire Dairy Show.

Judging of the cheese show is expected to be completed today with the show being open to the public Wednesday and Thursday.

In taking top honors at the dairy show Aicken, which over 150 cheese were exhibited, Mr. Aicken had a total score of 98.40 with 43.40 points for flavor. He wins the T. Eaton Company special prize of silver tray and tea set as well as a number of other special awards.

Reserve champion cheese was a Quinte district cheese maker showing for the first time. He is Glen Anderson, of R.R. 3, Campbellford, who tied with Harold Wickwire of Monckland with a total of 96.30 points.

Mr. Anderson scored the highest points of the show in flavor, his cheese scoring over 45.45, actually higher than that of the grand championship cheese shown by Mr. Aicken.

Five of the open classes were judged Wednesday with the remaining classes of the show to be scored today.

Wednesday afternoon the Central Ontario Cheese Makers' Association held its annual meeting, at which the convention which will be concluded Thursday evening with the annual cheese makers' banquet.

Members Ready For Bun Feed At Debating Club

The municipal political pot has not begun to boil as yet but on Wednesday night it will get a little hotter, when the candidates seeking civic offices will face the members of the Wharf Street Debating Club at their annual Bun Feed. This meeting has become an institution in the city and "Senator" Rollins, who is president of the club, since the death of Herb Collins, will keep the meeting moving at a lively rate. The candidates will give an account of their stewardship if they are seeking re-election and the remaining will make promises on what they will do if elected.

There will be wise cracks galore, some of them in fun and others in earnest, but all will be forgiven when the meeting is over and the guests and visitors sit down or stand up to enjoy their hot dogs and cokes. The members would like to see the hall filled to capacity as the treasury is a little empty and the bucks will help, but come and enjoy a social evening.

Occupational Therapy Now Important Hospital Feature

One of the more recently established departments at the Belleville General Hospital — that of occupational therapy — is developing into an important service for Belleville district patients.

At the last meeting of the hospital board executive committee meeting the new therapist, Mrs. Joan Rickards, was introduced to the board by the hospital superintendent and explained briefly the functions of her department.

She outlined the meaning of an occupational therapy department, stating that it was treatment by activity with four main divisions. 1. to help permanently disabled persons to become independent; 2. planned activity to increase strength of movement or joint mobility; 3. planned courser to build up the patient's physical resistance and so cut down on the convalescence period and 4. supportive or diversion therapy.

Mrs. Rickards stated the basic aim of the department was remedial, not diversion of patients. During her talk she demonstrated a device used to assist patients in writing.

Real Estate as an Investment

"Ninety per cent of all millionaires become so through owning real estate. More money has been made in real estate than in all industrial investments combined. The wise young man or wage earner of today invests his money in real estate."

This quotation, by a famous multi-millionaire and industrialist, appeared in a Toronto newspaper—as an advertisement by realtors.

There are several things wrong with this.

In the first place, it is essentially a misquotation, though the words be exact, because it was said about another time and another place. The words are Andrew Carnegie's. What was true when he uttered them is not necessarily true today—Carnegie was speaking when industrial development was practically in its infancy.

Secondly, even if the remark had been made yesterday and was true today, it would not necessarily follow that past experiences would be duplicated in the coming years.

The quotation, though, will serve a useful purpose if its obvious lack of any connection with today's situation causes us to re-examine traditional attitudes towards real estate and its ownership.

The average man who invests in real estate does so by purchasing a home for himself and his family. Home ownership has boomed in the post-war years, thanks to the National Housing Act and the system of long-term mortgages.

It is just as desirable for a family to own its own home today as it ever was—but at the same time the financial benefits of ownership have perhaps been over-estimated by realtors. A little work with pencil and paper will convince many a home owner that he does not save nearly as big a sum as he believed by buying, instead of renting, housing accommodations for himself and his family. There are, however, other advantages besides monetary ones to home ownership and, taking into consideration all factors, under most circumstances a young man is well advised to buy his own home.

Since the war, substantial paper profits have been made by most people who have bought and then sold a home or homes. In most cases, though, these profits have not been realized in cash. One house being sold, another has had to be purchased to replace it and the higher prices for homes have thus failed to bring cash returns.

In the U.S., where capital gains are subject to income tax, we would imagine that some families, moved from one city to another at intervals of two or three years, have suffered financial losses. In Canada, where capital gains are not taxed, there has been able to break even, or come close to it after meeting realtors' commissions and moving costs.

The future, though, may hold in store some unpleasant surprises. Besides present benefits, one of the big advantages of home owning has always been considered to be the fact that sale of the property would provide a nest-egg during retirement years. However, the continual erection of new homes, sold with very low down payments, is making it increasingly difficult for the owner of long standing to get their money out of a house when they want to sell it. This trend is probably only just starting; in the years ahead more and more people are going to find themselves faced with this problem. Perhaps this will result in used houses, like used cars, selling at considerably less than new houses of a comparable type; or perhaps the government will eventually be persuaded to extend National Housing Act loans to resales.

Meanwhile, however, caution is in order before regarding investment in a home as a liquid asset, easily realized in cash when retirement age is reached.

As for millions being made out of real estate, this is still being done, but the millionaires are more likely to be speculators in undeveloped land than investors in built-up areas.

The degree to which Russian scientists are under central direction may give them a temporary advantage in applied science, but in the long run . . . it is hard to match the results of the enthusiasm of the creative mind working of its own direction.—Dr. Detlev W. Bronk, president of the U.S. National Academy of Sciences.

Dancing in all its forms cannot be excluded from the curriculum of all noble education: dancing with the feet, with ideas, with words, and, need I add that one must also be able to dance with the pen?—Friedrich Wilhelm Nietzsche.

Letters To The Editor

Bouquet!

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer:

It was my pleasure to be in Belleville during two recent weekends, and having lived in that city for some years and taught in the Collegiate from 1933 to 1939, I read your issues with great interest.

I was particularly impressed with the wholehearted co-operation and support which your paper gave to the recording of the many Remembrance Day observances held in and around the community.

May I say, on behalf of the over 80,000 veterans in Ontario, who are members of the Royal Canadian Legion, a very sincere and heartfelt "thank you."

So often we find mediums such as yours, so engrossed in world affairs and advertising profits, that items, such as you gave such full and comprehensive recognition to, are completely overlooked or merely mentioned.

It will be my pleasure to bring this fact to the attention of the Provincial Executive when the administrative committee meets in Toronto on Saturday next.

Thanking you for your obvious recognition of 44-your normal responsibilities as a publisher, to the people whose lives and well-being are influenced by your paper.

George Laughlin,
Honorary Treasurer,
Ontario Command,
Royal Canadian Legion.

One Law for Rich, Another for Poor

Editor
Ontario Intelligencer

To those persons, whom fortune has seen fit to shine sweetly upon, who feel that they can spend the long summer Sunday evenings in their high-powered motor boats or lounging on the porch of their summer cottage, the Sunday Movie issue is of little importance. These same people are able to spend their evenings at the Quinte Sailing Club or at the Quinte Hunting Club or other form of entertainment that can be afforded by the fortunate few.

What then is the lot of the less fortunate who spend the Sunday evening in a 2 or 3 room walk-up apartment? Is he to be denied the privileges of pursuing the entertainment or relaxation he can afford, namely a Sunday evening movie? It has been voiced around that the idea against Sunday movies or sports is that it requires persons in this line of employment to work on Sunday. By the same token then, shall we call down the restaurants, hotels, service stations, tourist house operators, curling club owners, etc., to close also on Sunday?

The other section strongly opposed to Sunday movies is the church group, be they protestant or R.C. Does anyone in a truly free state feel he should dictate how we spend our leisure time? Wherein lies the difference whether we attend a movie through the medium of the theatre or TV screen? Do those opposed to religion hold that through observance of closed Sundays, we are better Christians, (and the entire population is not Christian) than those of countries where movie areas in the U.S.A. or U.K., who have Sunday movies for years?

In closing, may I say I feel it is high time we lived up to the policy of a small town, keep up with the times, and encouraged sports for all. Vote "Yes" on the issue of Sunday movies.

However, if conscience moves you to vote "No" — at least don't be a hypocrite, stay away from the curling rink and golf course.

Brem gun carriers, one of the most important mechanized pieces of military equipment, attracted a lot of public attention here on Saturday when they were displayed on exhibition at various intersections of the city. The vehicles which carry the most modern weapons in matches were examined and inspected by a large crowd, while the working parts were described by non-commissioned officers in charge.

Fully 2,500 people were interested spectators on Saturday night as firemen fought a spectacular blaze that destroyed a frame warehouse on Pinnacle Street south of the Jewish Synagogue. Stored inventories and other articles were destroyed in the fire, with the loss estimated at more than six hundred dollars as over six hundred dollars. Faulty electric wiring is blamed by firemen as the cause of the blaze which, because of considerable headway before the alarm was given.

Oshawa Times

Mr. Frost was barely out of the premier's office before he was bitterly criticized for "lack of neutrality" in the Royal York Hotel strike. By some pretty devious and illogical logic it was proved that Mr. Frost's professions of neutrality in the dispute was discredited by his moving out of the hotel, where he had set a suite for a number of years.

It was a most unfair attack, based largely on the fact that Mr. Frost's personal efforts to bring about a settlement of the dispute. As it happened, he did not succeed in his mediation, but that fact hardly proves his failure

Board Undecided Whether To Build Hospital Addition Or Construct on New Site

Members of the Belleville General Hospital Board of Governors are still on the fence.

Despite long hours of discussion on how best to fill the drastic need for more hospital accommodation they are still unable to decide whether to add to the present hospital or build on a new site.

One thought is that the board should proceed with plans for a 80-bed addition tentatively agreed on some months ago. The other is that immediate plans should be made for construction of a second hospital on another site.

Adding ammunition for those favoring the latter course is a survey of hospital requirements which indicates the proposed 60 bed addition would fall far short of even taking care of present needs.

336 BEDS REQUIRED

The survey shows the present requirement for hospital accommodation in the area served by Belleville is 380 beds while the number of beds available is but 220.

The same survey shows the hospital requirement five years from now — in 1966 will be 410 beds.

Recommended occupancy of a hospital to allow for emergencies is 86 per cent. The Belleville hospital has an occupancy of 115 percent or 30 percent over that recommended with beds crowded into corridors and other places in an effort to reduce the long waiting list.

In an attempt to resolve the hospital accommodation problem, local board members last week discussed the matter long into overtime without coming to a decision. A special meeting to again discuss the matter will be held in two weeks time.

Hospital board chairman J. N. Vanover said there was a need for another hospital but the big problem was one of financing.

FALLS FAR SHORT

"As it looks now the addition we had previously planned would fall far short of filling our present hospital needs and would provide nothing for the future," Mr. Vanover said. He suggested that expansion at the present hospital now reached its limit.

Estimated cost of the 60-bed hospital addition proposed some months ago was in the neighborhood of $1,000,000. The reason for the 60-bed limitation was because the maximum sized addition which could be handled by the present hospital services.

Also tying in present services with any addition constructed would prove costly, it is stated.

Britain Seeks to Safeguard Producers of Raw Materials

By ALAN DONNELLY

OTTAWA (CP)—Britain's approach to commonwealth in the European Common Market may bring hope to Canadian farmers and some products of raw materials, but the outlook appears to be hopeless to Canadian manufacturers.

This became apparent with publication today of the Macmillan secret speech by Britain's lord privy seal. Delivered to the Paris Oct. 10 in opening negotiations for Britain's application to join the six-nation European trade bloc.

Prime Minister Pearson's office said the minister would not be available for comment on the speech, which sets out in general the terms Britain will seek to maintain commonwealth trade interests in the British market when Britain joins the European Six.

An official text of the Heath statement, given to Commonwealth governments and to Canadian officials before it reached the government here in London, it is not being made public.

However, press reports from Brussels said Mr. Heath indicated Mr. Heath took a stronger stand for agricultural products and industrial raw materials than on manufactured goods.

MUST PROTECT FARMERS

A Reuters agency report quoted him as saying agreed arrangements must be made to protect the traditional markets of Canada, Australia and New Zealand, that there should be no tariff on woodpulp, newsprint, zinc and lead.

But Mr. Heath said Britain recognized that continued tariff-free treatment for manufactured goods might not be compatible with the development of the Common Market.

Britain's imports of agricultural products to Britain last year totalled across $303,600,000 —about one-third of all exports to that market. A total of $158,000,000 worth of wheat and flour which entered duty - free, compared with tariffs of 20 and 30 per cent proposed by the Common Market.

Somewhat the same situation applies to aluminum, woodpulp, newsprint, zinc and lead and lumber. All now enter Britain duty free, the European Six propose eventual common tariffs ranging from 3½ per cent on zinc to 10 per cent on aluminum. Canadian sales of these products to Britain last year reached nearly $300,000,000. But sales of them to Common Market countries totalled only $75,000,000.

British adoption of Common Market tariffs on manufactured goods, if this comes about, is seen as a potentially damaging to a great many Canadian manufacturers.

TRANSPORT

almost de-regulation — designed chiefly to protect shippers who do not reap the benefits of competition, with whatever controls that are retained bearing in a reasonably equitable fashion on all carriers.

2. A fresh formula for interstate railway revenue needs, scrapping the present practice of across-the-board freight rate increases that always provoked provincial protest.

4. A national transport tribunal to co-ordinate research and planning as they affect all forms of transport.

5. A fresh look at federal subsidy policies that use the railways as a means of aiding specific regions or shippers, with all carriers being made eligible for whatever subsidies that are continued.

The second volume will also reveal the mechanics behind the initial recommendations for a system of shrinking subsidies to help the railways get rid of unprofitable passenger trains and uneconomic branch lines.

By stripping away the costly frills and by tying freight rates to costs rather than value of service, the railways should be flexible and fighting fit for what the commission calls the "era of competitive co - existence" in transport.

Such a streamlining process for the railways would bear heavily on their work force, already facing layoffs through the introduction of automation and technological devices.

Chester Bowles Accepts Role of Special Adviser

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chester Bowles, replaced as the No. 2 man in the state department, has accepted a diplomatic post especially tailored for him.

He becomes President Kennedy's special representative and adviser on African, Asian and Latin American affairs, with special emphasis on the problems of new and developing countries.

The announcement late Monday from the White House that Bowles had accepted the new duties came after a round of called reports that Bowles would get a rather big promotion as undersecretary of state in a presidential shake-up of foreign policy command.

White House Press Secretary Pierre Salinger said Bowles will report directly to Kennedy and to Dean Rusk, secretary of state on long-range planning and policy. He will be in charge of the improvement of our operation and presentation in the countries involved."

PRESENT DUTIES

Bowles had indicated he preferred dealing with policy and foreign affairs rather than with the routine day-to-day chores of running the state department which more or less was a big segment as undersecretary.

Kennedy is delighted to have Mr. Bowles devoting his talents and attention to these new and greater responsibilities at a time he considers second to none in importance." Salinger said.

New Proposal by Russia Merely Masquerade of Words

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

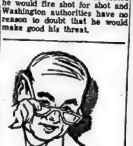
On the heart of Russia's initial proposal, the new round of nuclear test ban treaty talks in Geneva today turn like another farce with little hope of East and West reaching agreement on a permanent ban guarded by international inspection and control.

The pact proposed by Russia on the eve of the resumed Geneva negotiations appears to be merely a masquerade of words to hide the intention of seeking another lengthy unpolluted moratorium on nuclear explosions. The last such moratorium instituted in 1958 was breached by Russia last September with the sudden detonation of the most powerful atmospheric explosions in history.

USE OWN SYSTEMS

Now the Soviet Union proposes that instead of setting up an immediate international inspection - and - control network to watch for possible violations, each nuclear country would use its own detection system until some long-range disarmament deal could be worked out based on international controls.

For the United States this would mean a continuing for some indefinite time to rely on the methods proposed to reject the Soviet explosions during the last series of tests. There would be no opportunity for on-the-spot verification by an international team to confirm suspicious tremors or explosions. Russia maintains the Western powers merely want this right to inspect Russian territory for the purpose of spying.



The initial Russian proposal in all likelihood would be rejected by Britain and the United States although the extra plan at the moment is merely to express disappointment and ask for further clarification.

KEEP TALKING

The Western aim is to keep the Russians at the conference table even if little progress is made. The American strategy is based on the premise that if there no harm to talk and that in the process some change in the Russian attitude might be detected.

In any case the Geneva conversation is not expected to give the American plans for continue underground tests and programs for atmospheric shots should President Kennedy decide these are necessary.

While Kennedy has ordered preparations for atmospheric shots there is now no doubt whether he actually will give the go-ahead order — at least during the early stages of the Geneva negotiations Soviet Premier Khrushchev has stated he would fire shot for shot and Washington authorities have no reason to doubt that he would make good his threat.

who had just entered the building.

After a vote of members, they were ordered to leave. McBurnie said the executive apologized for the roughing-up incident.

Before he left, McBurnie said, he heard the petition read. It declared the morale of staff members was at "its lowest ebb" in Kingston penitentiary where guard William C. Wentworth, 42, was stabbed to death Sunday in a prison dormitory.

The petition referred to one point to a lack of discipline among inmates and said they had become insolent to the point where "it is surprising they even let guards into the penitentiary."

In a telephone interview later from Ottawa, Comissioner Mitchell said he regretted the incident. Asked for comment on the petition, he added:

"I feel if the officers want to send a petition we will get it in due course. It was only 10 days ago I was in Kingston on their invitation and talked to 130 of them. There was no indication that they felt this way. I will be surprised if the situation has deteriorated to this extent."

Boy Arrested In Stolen Car

ORILLIA (CP) — A 14-year-old boy was arrested Monday night after Provincial Police chased a stolen convertible car at speeds up to 105 miles an hour south of here.

Police said the boy pulled out and cut them off when they attempted to force alongside and took off without paying.

It was not until the car's engine failed that they were able to overtake. A 13-year-old Orillia boy was a passenger in the car.

Police said the boy told them they were going to Sault Ste. Marie to leave the car and cross into the United States.

A gas station operator called the police when the boy pulled in to buy a tankful of gas and left without paying.

An Invitation and A Challenge

To everyone considering the purchase of a new car of any make. Compare the LARK with any other car at any price and you will find it offers the most satisfying basic value of all.

RAMBLER?

Measure the LARK 2-door against the comparable Rambler Classic 2-door Club Sedan and discover LARK gives you a 1" longer wheelbase, more interior room, choice of a 6 or V-8 instead of only a 6, a 112 to 195 horsepower range rather than 90 to 138. Plus padded instrument panel and dual headlights at no extra charge. These are just a sample of the many LARK advantages over Rambler, and LARK prices start $147 less.

TEMPEST?

Why settle for a 4-cylinder Tempest engine when LARK gives you a choice of 6 or V-8, with high gas economy and horsepower up to 195? Why be content with Tempest's 2" less headroom, nearly 5¼" more 6-door sedan rear legroom? Just a sample of LARK's big lead over Tempest—at prices starting $560 less.

FALCON?

Check the Falcon vs. the LARK and you'll find Falcon's wheelbase is 3½" shorter, it's a narrower car, with less headroom, legroom, hiproom. Falcon has only 85 to 101 hp instead of LARK's 112 to 195; Falcon doesn't offer 3-speed Automatic transmission or dual headlights. Just a sample of the LARK's superiority over the Falcon—yet LARK prices start $37 less.

CORVAIR?

Why step down into Corvair's deep floor wells when the LARK has high floors flush with doorsill, up to inches more legroom; bigger, wider doors to step through? Corvair's extra price 101 hp engine is smaller than LARK's smallest 112 hp; and Corvair doesn't offer LARK's power options and 3-speed Automatic Transmission at any price. Just a sample of how LARK outvalues Corvair—at prices starting $37 lower.

COMET?

What use is Comet's 1" longer wheelbase, 7" longer length, when LARK gives you more room in all-interior dimensions —5" in rear 4-door sedan legroom alone! LARK offers up to 100% more horsepower, larger standard brakes, and full power options that Comet hasn't got. Just a sample of LARK's continuing superiority over Comet —and LARK prices begin $135 less than Comet.

F-85?

Why pay prices for F-85 starting $256 higher for LARK's when you'll find 2" extra front and rear hiproom and up to 9½" extra legroom in the LARK, plus more top horsepower available, much more braking area? Just a sample of the way the LARK outdistances F-85—at far lower prices.

BUICK SPECIAL?

Why pay a $722 premium for the Buick Special when a LARK is bigger in every important way—bigger in every interior dimension, in braking power (172² vs. 129²), in optional available top horsepower (195 vs. 185), in wheel size (15" vs. 14")? Just a sample of the many big ways LARK's a better buy for far less money.

CHEVY II & ACADIAN?

Why compromise with a Chevy II or Acadian when LARK offers you the choice of a 6 or V-8 cylinder instead of a 4 or 6, more room in every dimension, and the riding comfort of multi-leaf springs and full coil spring seats unavailable in Chevy II and Acadian? Just some examples of LARK's ability to outvalue the Chevy II and Acadian. LARK prices start at $37 below the 4 cylinder Chevy II and $62 below the 4 cylinder Acadian.

FAIRLANE & METEOR?

Why buy a Fairlane or Meteor that's 9" longer than a LARK, when it's narrower inside and has less legroom and headroom, smaller 13" or 14" wheels, a smaller 6-cylinder engine, a smaller V-8, smaller choice of models and options? Just a limited list of the ways LARK beats the Fairlane and Meteor—at prices starting $185 under the Fairlane, and $299 under the Meteor.

PLYMOUTH & DODGE?

Why pay full big car prices for Plymouth and Dodge when LARK gives you inches more headroom and legroom both front and rear—far more legroom in the 4-door sedan? With full V-8 power and Automatic transmission the luxuriously carpeted and upholstered LARK Regal 4-door sedan yours for less than a stick shift Plymouth Valiant 2-door Six. Just another example of the LARK's ability to give you more big car comfort than the bigger cars themselves—for less money.

VALIANT?

Why let Valiant's mere $36 lower base price deceive you? In hundreds of dollars in additional car value you get in the LARK! Compare LARK's 112 to 195 hp range to Valiant's 101 to 145; LARK's 4-door with a 6½" longer wheelbase; LARK's many inches of added room in every interior dimension. LARK's higher, wider doors, flush floors, and safety padding at no additional cost. Just a sample of LARK's many big advantages over Valiant.

Thomasburg WA Names 1961-2 Officers

Last Wednesday the junior room pupils, teachers, friends and 19 members enjoyed a potluck dinner held in the church vestry.

The roll call was answered by each member giving 15 cents for Christmas cards for the sick.

The devotional and program period was conducted by Mrs. G. Dyson. The Scripture lesson taken from Peter 5, was read by Mrs. Doughty.

An invocation was read by Mrs. Dyson and "Our Willing Service" by Mrs. F. Brough.

Birthday money was received and "Happy Birthday" was sung to four members.

The correspondence was read by the secretary and the treasurer gave a full report of the year's work. The sick and flower committee also gave a full report.

It was decided to give the C.G.I.T. girls $25, and the Explorer group $15, to help out in the work they are doing.

The Christmas meeting will be held in the parsonage on December 13th.

Roll call will be an exchange of gifts, also a piece of Christmas cake with a verse enclosed.

Two readings by Mrs. G. Dyson entitled "The Last Sheep" and "The Hat". A vocal solo, "In The Garden" was beautifully rendered by Mrs. Dyson. A contest on the word "Repentance" was much enjoyed.

NEW OFFICERS

The installment of the new officers for 1962 will take place at West Huntingdon on December 28th as follows: honorary president — Mrs. G. Dyson; president — Mrs. H. K. Morton; 1st vice-president — Mrs. G. Bolderick; 2nd vice-president — Mrs. Morton; secretary — Mrs. H. Morton; treasurer — Mrs. H. Hohns; sick-flower committee — Mrs. F. Brough and Mrs. F. Preston; organist — Mrs. R. Wilson; press reporter — Mrs. J. Arbuckle.

Girl Guides Assoc. Names 1961-2 Officers

MARMORA—The annual meeting of the Girl Guides Association was held at the home of Mrs. H. G. Parkin, on Wednesday afternoon with a good attendance.

Mrs. A. M. Jones opened the meeting and welcomed the district convener, Mrs. Charles Johnson of Madoc, and all present.

The following were elected to office: president, Mrs. G. Howden; secretary - treasurer, Mrs. H. G. Parkin; badge convener, Mrs. A. Stark; uniform convener, Mrs. Cecil Neal; camp representative, Mrs. C. Shannon; transportation convener, Mrs. R. C. Shatford; press reporter, Mrs. S. Demorest.

Mrs. Johnson brought encouragement to the group and hoped the Marmora Girls' Association would stand behind the girls.

After the meeting closed Mrs. Parkin served lunch and coffee.

Bemersyde to Form Library in Nigeria

CAMPBELLFORD — The monthly meeting of Bemersyde Chapter, I.O.D.E. was held at the home of Mrs. Edie Johnston with 43 members present and the Regent, Mrs. G. Vies in the chair.

The meeting was opened in the usual manner followed by reports by the secretary, treasurer and group conveners.

Mrs. F. Scott reported that there were two members who were ill and would be pleased to receive visitors.

Mrs. L. Fox read a letter concerning the large number of parcels that have been sent overseas by the I.O.D.E. Chapters in Canada during the past few years.

Mrs. W. Kingston reported that a Bible had been purchased for the High School auditorium and would be suitably inscribed by Miss Kathleen Ferris before the presentation by the Regent, Mrs. Vies.

COUNTERACT COMMUNISM

Mrs. M. Locke read a letter from the National Convener of the Democratic Action Committee which told of the necessity for the I.O.D.E. Chapters to counteract the force of Communism by increasing aid to foreign students of the Communist and by integrating the citizens of their own country as dissention will weaken the force of peace.

Commonwealth relations convener, Mrs. D. Cornwell, told of meeting a Nigerian student at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Dawson of Ivern. She spoke of the geographical, economic and political points of Nigeria, as shown by this young man who is on a fellowship at the University of Toronto, to write his Phd. in History. He has two other educational degrees one from a Nigerian University and the other from the University of B.C.

Mrs. Vice reported that 15 members had attended the regional dinner held in Picton, recently, and had been well entertained.

During the business part of the meeting, it was decided to follow the disbursement of funds in the same manner as in the past, and to send money for a library to be started in a school in the British West Indies. Also, toys are to be purchased for the Merryvale school and Christmas boxes are to be made up for shut-ins and distributed the week before the holiday season begins.

A draw was made for a hand carved purse, contents and money.

Mrs. Betty Connor was the winner of the draw for the Christmas cake.

Mrs. D. Meyers thanked Mrs. Johnston, on behalf of the group, for opening her home for the meeting.

The December meeting will be held in the form of a Christmas party at the home of Mrs. D. Meyers, with Group 2 in charge.

Bridge St. WA Sees European Travelogue

Mrs. W. G. Anderson presided at the November meeting of the Woman's Association of Bridge St. United Church.

Reports were heard from the recording secretary, Miss H. B. Sultzen, and corresponding secretary, Mrs. S. J. Hibbard. Mrs. H. E. McBurney gave her report as treasurer while Mrs. C. MacDonald reported on cards sent to those who were ill.

Mrs. J. B. Casey and Mrs. E. Fahrman gave brief reports on kitchen and parsonage. Mrs. R. Grant, membership secretary told of the number of members.

The president expressed sincere thanks to all who had helped to make the recent bazaar so successful. Special thanks were due the conveners, Mrs. H. Wray, Mrs. E. Fahrman, Mrs. H. Mott and Mrs. J. Demeza. The group leaders and the treasurers for the afternoon, Mrs. McBurney and Mrs. Grant also were warmly commended.

It was decided that the Association should assist in a telephone campaign to urge members of the Church to vote in the coming plebiscite on commercialized Sunday amusements.

PROGRAM

The program was in charge of the group convened by Mrs. J. Canberg and Mrs. Dodds. Mrs. V. Barkley, accompanied by Mrs. Demeza sang "My Cathedral", which she described as a "meditation in song". Its message to seek a haven in prayer was appropriate in the turmoil and unrest of today.

Mrs. E. Freeman introduced Mrs. D. Joss, who, through the medium of word and pictures, took her audience on an interesting motor trip to Eastern Europe.

Leaving Trieste, in Italy, the party drove through Yugoslavia, Bulgaria, Roumania, Ukraine. The mixture of the old and the new, the peasant costumes and the beauties of lakes and mountains were most interesting.

Visiting Moscow, Poland, Czechoslovakia brought many new pictures of countries not so frequently visited by Canadian travellers.

The pictures of Berlin with its wall, barbed wire fences and military guard posts reminded all of the grim realities of a troubled city.

Mrs. Canberg expressed the thanks of all to Mrs. Joss for her interesting talk and beautiful pictures.

Mrs. J. Reynolds closed the meeting with a worship service on "Being Prepared for Christmas"; she spoke of the importance of being able to receive gifts. Four qualities are necessary — enthusiastic acceptance; appreciation; willingness to allow the giver to feel the joy of giving and the proper use of the gift.

The Bible reading from Luke 17 told of the ten lepers who received the gift of health from the Master but only one really knew how to accept that gift.

Job of Parole Officer Handled by B.C. Woman

VANCOUVER (CP)—When a British Columbia prison inmate applies for parole, it's usually the officer that comes to interview him will be a woman.

Mrs. Grace Humphreys, widow of a Baptist padre at Oakalla prison, is a member of a staff of three handling both men and women prisoners in B.C. and the Yukon.

For years the job of parole officer was the exclusive domain of men. Now there are two women in Canada, the other in Montreal.

Mrs. Humphreys investigates prisoners requesting parole and supervises or arranges supervision for those who receive it.

She assesses responsibility of the applicant and determines whether he has tried to overcome his problem and gauges his readiness for parole.

Mrs. Humphreys met her husband while she was attending the Toronto Bible College. She completed her theological training and could have been ordained but chose instead to continue studies in social work.

When her husband died she again could have gone into the ministry but decided instead to help parole more.

"You have to be sincere but not get emotionally involved, or you lose your effectiveness," she says. "You have to help them face problems which seem ordinary to the normal person and give a helping hand through the ups and downs."

Children's Aid Holds Panel at PTA Meeting

Holy Rosary P.T.A. held its November meeting recently in the school. The president, Mrs. F. Mulvihill, presided and the Rev. Father Ives Purcell opened the meeting.

The secretary and treasurer's reports were read and approved.

It was decided to give each of the school children a bag of candy at Christmas.

Members were reminded of the Joint P.T.A. meeting scheduled to take place early in the new year.

The attendance prize was awarded to Sister Mary James.

PANEL DISCUSSION

The highlight of the evening was a panel on parent-child relationships, conducted by the Children's Aid Society with Mr. B. M. Kerr as moderator.

Other members of the panel were Mrs. Thompson, Miss B. A. Makar, Mr. D. Adamson and Mr. K. Boardman.

Normal behavior of children from birth right through to adolescence was discussed. The clever way in which this subject was handled by the individual panel members provided an incentive to the parents present to attend meetings in the future.

A question period ensued and many important questions were answered.

Mr. R. Asselstine thanked Mr. Kerr and the members of the panel for presenting such an interesting topic.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. F. Mulvihill, Mrs. F. Gorgan, Mrs. A. Meagher and Mrs. A. Biasetti.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Irene H.: I want the twins treated as two separate children.

Mrs. T.D. — You'd think she'd make the most of her good fortune!

* * *

Irene H. — We have twin sons, nine months old. They're identical and, of course, adorable and we're gaga with delight. But I'm an ex-teacher and I've seen how often twins grow up completely dependent, quite lost without each other. I'd like Howard and Quentin to be whole people not half of a twinship.

But so few people co-operate! And my own mother is worst of all. She had a fit because we didn't name them Howard and Francis so she could call them Hank and Frank! And she never picks up one without picking up the other. "No partiality," she calls it. I may have to hide one from her each time she visits!

* * *

Mrs. T.U. — People are only human, me included. Here Irene put aside the attitude that these and Hank have this double blessing — that they have two beautiful big boys for her (and others) babies — and they're trying to deliberately keep it a secret! At least they're trying to keep it a secret! At least they only show you one at a time. And how everyone longs to see them together!

Out on the street where the little dolls sit side by side in their twin-carriage, Irene dresses them identically. She'd even dress them in sweaters if she had a nursemaid, she'd even have them in separate cars.

When I bring two rattles as gifts, I must return one for bells or blocks.

Twin babies are such a pretty sight. But Irene's depriving me of the pleasure.

* * *

The Council: A pretty baby is always a delight, but one and two of them at once are a vision! But Irene's position is pardon me fellow's hair on the chest she didn't bring babies in-side, the other's in the middle.

For Devotees of Plum Puddings

This pudding is for old readers at Christmas dinners. Here you will find that rich fruitiness that you expect in the genuine article. Yet somehow it manages not to be cloyingly sweet. Prepared correctly as I watched my brother and sister take extra little helpings from the serving dish topped with extra little helpings from the hard sauce. It was a success all right.

TRADITIONAL CHRISTMAS PUDDING (12 servings):

Note on Suet: I had a piece of suet in the freezer. Being hard I could grate it readily, but as you know at this time of year you can buy finely chopped suet quite economically.

½ pound finely grated or chopped suet, 1 cup old-fashioned brown sugar, 2 eggs, ¾ cup all-purpose flour, 1 teaspoon baking soda, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1 cup molasses raisins, 1 cup chopped dates, 1 lb. package mixed peels (orange, lemon and citron), ½ cup shaved Brazil nuts, ½ cup soft breadcrumbs.

Cream together the chopped or grated suet, sugar and eggs well. Sift together the dry ingredients which are flour, baking soda, salt and cinnamon and mix all of the dry ingredients through the fruits and nuts to dredge and separate them. Add them all to the creamed mixture, along with the breadcrumbs. There is no liquid in this pudding.

If desired, decorate bottom of well-buttered and floured mould or moulds with, sliced glace cherries or blanched almonds. This will fill one 1-quart (0.6-cc.) mould or 2 1-pint (20-cc.) moulds.

Turn in batter carefully and pack down with back of wooden spoon. There should be no hindrance. Cover tightly with lid or foil or 3 thicknesses of heavy wax or brown paper and tie securely. Add 1" to 2" of boiling water to steamer or large pot of the kettle and lower pudding into it. Cover and steam gently 3 hours, adding water as necessary if needed. Unmould carefully on serving dish. Serve with the Hard Sauce I gave yesterday.

NOTE:

A pretty garnish may be made with Hard Sauce by shaping it into rosettes through your icing tube. Top each little rosette with a bit of red glace cherry or silver dragee and arrange them in a border at the edge of the serving dish, well away from the hot pudding.

NOTE:

If pudding is made in advance remove from mould to store, well wrapped. To reheat replace in mould, cover and steam for 1 hour before serving.

K-D Club Cites Nominating Committee

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEITCH

A TIME TO DISCARD COURTESY

Despite opinion in some quarters, the office wolf is far from extinct. If anything, the breed seems to be multiplying, as his technique seems to be moving (if not improving) with the times.

The office wolf is usually male (though, in fairness, let's admit that some of the species are female) thick-skinned, irresponsible and persistent. His favorite exercise, I might add, is jumping at conclusions.

The last may require some explanation, mainly because it seems to be the essence of the office wolf's attitude toward his innocent victim. Although he approaches with stealth, he's convinced his attentions are welcomed by his quarry.

For that reason, if you feel you have been married for the hunt, forget about mannerly and politeness some rudeness. Above all, don't smile at him unless he's absolutely necessary with him questions that have nothing to do with your work; and keep the vicinity of his desk; ride in the same elevator with him; ask him what time it is.

The office wolf takes encouragement from even the slightest things. If a girl even sneezes in his direction during our boy's hunting season, he considers it fair game for a trap play. It is nothing else distinguishes an office wolf, it's the conceited belief that any female who is halfway pleasant to him is madly in love with him — or soon will be if he is given the chance.

The truth is that the office wolf thrives on encouragement and the sublime belief that his intended victims are too darn polite to tell him off.

Which is why I say that one should always be courteous, we draw the line at the office wolf. You can't be downright nasty if he persists in his attentions by refusing to talk to him in the corridor and hanging up on him when he phones.

The office wolf is usually easily pegged around the office. So what if he tells others you're snobbish and self-centered! Isn't that better than letting them you at-so have the situation well under control.

Question: I am a widow with three children. Recently I became engaged to a widower who also has three children.

We know that a second marriage usually is quiet and the reception small, but we have so many friends and relatives who are so happy for us that would like to have the wedding as large-ive as possible.

Our question is this: Could the children be in the wedding party, and, if so, in what capacity? The girls are 10, 9 and 3½. The boys are 12, 11 and 8. My fiance also has an 18-year-old stepson.

Could he be best man? Could my oldest daughter be maid of honor, or would I have to have a matron of honor? — Mrs. R., Ridgewood, N.J.

I think you have your fiance obviously has a close relationship with his stepson, he could correctly ask him to serve as best man at the wedding. If your oldest daughter is the one who is 10½, she also could take part as bridesmaid, in which case the would stand in the receiving line to the left of the groom and sit at the left at the bridal party. Since there usually are only two attendants at a second marriage, there's no way to include the other youngsters could take part, but they may correctly attend the wedding and reception as very honored guests.

Question: My father, who has been a widower for five years, plans to remarry and also plans to have a diamond which belonged to my mother reset into an engagement ring for his fiancee. I think the stones very beautiful as they are. Don't you agree? — Mrs. C.W. Baltimore.

Answer: Your father may just be looking at things from the practical side, but I do think he's show better taste to give his fiancee a new diamond instead of one that's already had some earlier sentimental value.

Two Pretty Weddings are Solemnized

Mr. and Mrs. Kelvin Herbert Bamsey are pictured following their recent marriage in Christ Church, Bellville. The bride is the former Barbara Davis, daughter of Mrs. Kenneth Davis of Bellville, and the late Mr. Davis.—(Photo by Lumbers Studio.)

BAMSEY — DAVIS

Standards of large white chrysanthemums and ferns adorned Christ Church, Bellville, for a recent rites performed by Rev. Canon Barbara Mary Davis, of Bellville, daughter of Mrs. Kenneth Davis of Bellville and the late Mr. Davis, became the bride of Kelvin Herbert Bamsey, son of Peterborough, and of Mr. and Mrs. A.G. Bamsey, of Brantford, Ontario. The Reverend Archdeacon J. B. Creeggan, rector of the church, officiated.

The church organist, Mr. John Croyden Withers, presided at the organ console, and accompanied the choir of eight boys singing the 23rd Psalm, before the ceremony, and "O Perfect Love," during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Francis A. Reynolds of Trenton, Ontario, the lovely bride wore a charming bridal gown fashioned on princess lines of pure white silk featuring a fitted bodice with scalloped Sabrina neckline accented by re-embroidered Alencon lace and short sleeves complemented by and long white sleeve-the-allow mat-ching gloves. Her full bouffant skirt with double back bustle, fell into a chapel train. She wore a crown type headpiece with silk illusion bitterfly veil, and carried a cascade bouquet of salmon-pink roses with trailing ivy.

Miss Diane Davis of Bellville attended her sister as maid of honor, and Miss Carol Davis, also a sister, as bridesmaid. Both wore identically in antique gold satin brocade with scoop necklines and charmingly short bell silhouette skirts, accented at the back with large gold bows. They wore matching bow headdresses with misty veils, shoes and gloves. The junior bridesmaid, Miss Colleen Davis, of Trenton, cousin of the bride, was in emerald green satin brocade, with fitted bodice and full skirt. She wore a bow type headdress with tiny veil and matching accessories. Each attendant carried a cascade bouquet of white commercial 'mums and ivy.

Mr. Frank Downey of Brantford attended the bridegroom, while the ushers were Messrs. Ray Bamsey, brother of the bridegroom, and William Miron of Peterborough, a cousin of the bride.

The reception for 100 guests was held at the CPR Recreation Hall, Trenton, with Mrs. Gladys Tabb was appointed with the traditional white bride's maid and centred by a three-tiered wedding cake topped by a cluster of pink roses and misty white veil, and scattered pink tulle and scattered pink tulle and scattered pink tulle

Monetary Fund Will Scrutinize Canada's Policy

By HAROLD MORRISON

WASHINGTON (CP) — Informed sources said the International Monetary Fund likely will scrutinize Canada's economic and monetary policies at a meeting of the executive board in January.

They said the 18 - member board will "consult" with Canadian financial authorities on the question of Canadian international payments problems and other issues which may reflect on the stability of the Canadian dollar. They said similar consultations are being held with other countries.

A group of Fund staff experts recently was sent to Ottawa to make an on-the-spot study of the Canadian situation. These experts now are believed to be preparing a report which will be circulated among members of the executive board before the meeting takes place.

Board members then will refer the report to their governments to prepare official positions to be taken when the consultations begin.

On the New York foreign exchange, the Canadian dollar was worth less Monday in U.S. money than at anytime in 1961 years, 11 sold at 96.1875 U.S. cents. Since the June 20 Canadian budget when Finance Minister Fleming announced a policy of depressing the exchange rates through use of official reserves of American dollars and gold, the Canadian dollar has been fluctuating at a discount of between three and four cents.

Last July, Louis Rasminsky, now governor of the Bank of Canada, was called into consultation by the executive board to explain the Canadian policy which runs contrary to the fund's system of fixed parity values.

Some board members were reported to have advised Canada at the July meeting to revalue the Canadian dollar to a pegged exchange rate but informants said Canada gave no firm indication she would accept the advice. The Canadian dollar has been floating free for 11 years.

Some members maintained Canada had depressed her currency exchange rate to capture more markets by reducing the foreign price of her goods in relationship to other world currencies.

Canada has denied this. Canadian authorities have said the new Canadian policy was designed mainly to discourage the heavy flow of foreign capital into Canada and to make Canada rely more on domestic savings for her development.

FACE FEDERAL CHARGES

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Two 18-year-old boys face federal charges following the derailment of a freight train in which $200,000 damage was reported. The FBI said the youths were held on charges of wrecking a train. They were not identified. FBI agents Thomas Hopkins said the boys threw a switch which resulted in the derailment of five diesel engines and 11 freight cars of an Atlantic Coast Line train Sunday in a Birmingham suburb.

Magic Formula Pays off on Soccer Pool

TURIN, Italy-(AP) — Pier Giovanni Valauri's magic formula paid off eight times Sunday in the weekend on Italy's national soccer pool, raising his winnings from the soccer pools and the national lottery this year to a total of 40,832,- 000 lire ($65,332).

Vallauri, 32, a chemical worker, plunked down 5,500 lire ($8) a few days ago and a batch of soccer slips.

Among them was a correct listing of all 12 winning teams in the 13 major league soccer contests played Sunday. That earned him 846,000 lire ($1,- 353).

Among them, too, were 12 correct winners out of the 13 — not on one slip but on seven. Each paid 27,700 lire ($44), or 193,000 lire ($308) for the entire seven.

Vallauri took it in stride back at Italbasa who pays the soccer pool shook their head in bewilderment. Italian magazine editors and radio producers scrambled to sign him for exclusive stories and films.

Vallauri says he spent months working out his system before he began to get results a few months ago. He dropped in for a look and just happened to be holding the ticket for the door prize.

Must Seek Greater Markets Says Expert

CALGARY (CP) — Eric W. Kierans, president of the Montreal and Canadian Stock Exchanges, has criticized the Canadian government for lack of positive leadership in seeking greater markets for Canadian products.

"It is not a time to watch and wait" he told the Men's Canadian Club. "A vigorous, coherent government policy on trade is necessary."

Mr. Kierans is on a weeklong tour of the Western provinces. On Friday, speaking in Winnipeg, he urged Canada to seek associate membership in the European Common Market.

"Great Britain cannot protect our interests at the bargaining table hard so well as we ourselves", he said today.

"Refused to negotiate or turning our attention to the more illusory targets of a North American trading community or a U.S. — Canada agreement will force Europe to turn to other sources of supply".

He said Europe's need for new materials give Canada a "powerful lever" to bargain for favorable terms for entry into the Common Market.

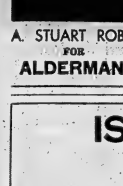
Speaking about agriculture in Europe, he said "Canada cannot stand idly by while the Common Market expends an agricultural potential that is uneconomic by world price standards".

"Our policy must be to bargain actively with the Common Market countries to secure and maintain our share of these markets. But we need a positive commercial policy that will keep open the markets for our produce".

Boy Remanded For Psychiatric Examination

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—The 13-year-old boy charged with murder in the strangulation of seven-year-old Sylvia Plate Nov. 13 was remanded Monday to the Ontario Hospital for psychiatric examination.

The boy, charged as "being a juvenile delinquent in that he did commit murder," appeared in court with his parents and grandmother.



He was committed by Judge W. H. Fox on the recommendation of Crown Attorney C. O. Savage. Judge Fox ordered him to appear in juvenile court Dec. 12.

The boy is represented by London lawyer W. R. Poole.

No Office Zoo Complete Without Bachelor Quota

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—No office zoo is complete without its quota of bachelors.

Most of the men in the Average business firm—as every secretary knows—are already married, some for so long they have no memory of a previous state of life.

But sprinkled among them are a few faster-footed brethren who have managed to escape the marital yoke.

Office bachelors come in all ages, shapes and sizes, but if you look around where you work here are a few types you may recognize:

Nervous Ned—He turns pale if a woman gets within 10 feet of him.

FREELOADER

Hungry Henry—"What's cooking tonight, baby?" he asks each stenographer in turn. But the wise ones know he isn't asking for a date—he's just fishing for a free invitation to a home-cooked dinner.

Practical Phil—He's interested in girls' figures, all right, but only the figures in their bank account. He is looking for a rich widow, something you don't find in every office.

Cynical Ed—"All women are alike—they're just looking for a meal ticket" he tells one and all. But when this skinflint squires a girl out for the evening, she's lucky if he buys her a hot dog.

Troubled Tom—When he leans on a girl's shoulder it isn't romance. He merely wants to get closer to her ear so he can pour into it the sad story of his life of woe.

Curious Charlie—Every Thursday he takes the boss's secretary to lunch. She has the hunch he is courting her. Actually he is merely pumping her to find out what really is going on behind the scenes in the office.

THE SLOPPER

Experienced Edward—"Never again—I'm a three-time loser." He was after his third divorce. But month later he elopes with a college co-ed half his age.

Dimpled Dan — He's ruddy-cheeked and terribly handsome, and every girl in the place hears wedding bells when she sees him. But Dan never shoots off those apron strings. He phones his mother three times a day to be sure she is all right, and she phones him back three times a day to be sure everything is okay with him, too.

Boring Bert — "Boy, you shoulda seen the babe I was out with last night—a real honey," he brags every morning. But his tales of Romeo revels are all imaginary. Bert is too bashful to ask for a date. He spends his evenings studying correspondence lessons in guitar playing or attending lectures on birdlife.

TO BEEF UP FORCES

BONN (Reuters)—The West German government today announced measures to raise the strength of its armed forces from their present 361,000 to about 375,000 by next year. The measures involve retaining for an extra three months 26,500 conscripts due to be released Dec. 31 and 9,700 regular soldiers, whose terms expire in 1962.

North Atlantic Free Trade Area Is Advocated

OTTAWA (CP) — Lionel Chevrier, Liberal member of Parliament for Montreal - Laurier, recommended the immediate establishment of a North Atlantic free trade area Monday night.

Mr. Chevrier said abolition of tariff walls between Western Europe and North America is necessary to solve Canada's chronic unemployment and guarantee its continued prosperity.

The Liberal member was speaking on the CBC television program Les Affaires de l'Etat —French - Language equivalent of the English - language program The Nation's Business.

The creation of a North Atlantic free trade area, Mr. Chevrier said, would guarantee the economic and political unity of the free world. Canada would be able to help underdeveloped countries more effectively to the Communist challenge.

FLEE TO WEST

BERLIN (Reuters) — Two East German border police and six East Berliners, including a woman, escaped to West Berlin during the night, West Berlin police reported today. The East Berlin border guards caught three young East Berliners who tried to cross into the British sector of West Berlin at Potsdamer Platz.

CITIZENS of BELLEVILLE!

I was chairman of Planning and Development for the City of Belleville from 1950 to 1956. During these years I was responsible for many progressive steps taken that are now a reality.

1. From the ruins I rebuilt Victoria Park.
2. Responsible for Lake Ontario's nicest Yacht Club, where our youngsters are taught to sail.
3. The removal of a city dump to Zwick's Island.
4. The first plans to widen College Street.
5. Built the first small area playground for our children.
6. I took the first step in passing initial plans with the Water Resources Commission and Consulting Engineers for Sewage Disposal.
7. Plotted the first Zoning By-Law, and First Official plan through council at no cost.
8. I drew the plans for the one way streets.

We Must Have A New Deal

1. FREEZING OF TAXPAYERS' PROPERTY MUST STOP, WITH A PROPER OFFICIAL PLAN FOR THE ANNEXED AREA.
2. THIS PRESENT ILLEGAL ZONED BY-LAW FOR ANNEXED AREA WILL BE AMENDED TO SUIT OUR CITIZENS.

Income Tax Explained

Written and designed for the taxpayer who is not in a position to employ the services of a professional accountant or visit an Income Tax Office.

By C. A. MILLER
Former Supervising Assessor
Income Tax Department

Medical expenses confuse a large number of taxpayers as to what are deductible and those that do not qualify.

Allowable medical expenses are those that are paid to a person licensed to treat the human body under any federal or provincial law in Canada. Besides doctors and dentists, this includes chiropractors, chiropodists, masseurs, masseuses, etc. Also allowable are all fees paid to nurses, either registered or practical. Ambulance fees have also been added to the list of medical expenses acceptable for deduction for income tax purposes.

A point often overlooked by the taxpayer is that medical expenses are not deductible in full. It is only that portion in excess of 3 per cent of the net income. If the taxpayer will follow the return as it is designed, there should be no trouble in computing the correct deduction.

In the past few years a number of provinces have set up hospitalization plans, which pay the taxpayer's hospital bills when he is a contributor to the plan. When the plan pays the hospital bills for the taxpayer, such bills are not an expense to the taxpayer and they may not be included in other medical expenses. It is only that portion of a hospital bill that the taxpayer actually pays out of his own pocket that is deductible.

A somewhat similar confusion arises in regard to druggists' bills. Allowable druggists' bills are those for medicine or drugs prescribed by a doctor, and which have to be recorded by the druggist. The druggist will identify such receipts by showing an Rx followed by the prescription number.

Receipts for ordinary patent medicine which anyone may purchase from a druggist without a doctor's prescription are not an allowable medical expense. Special allowances for the blind persons or persons confine dto bed or a wheel chair will be covered in a future article.

* * *

Question: My wife is a partial invalid and I have a woman come in to do the heavier household work, and stay with my wife while I am employed. Is the wage I pay her a medical expense?

Answer: No. It would appear this person you hire is more of a servant and compenion to your wife than an attendant.

* * *

Question: I visit my doctor who is a specialist in a city 30 miles away, I see him once a week. Can I claim the cost of my transportation as part of my medical expenses?

Answer: No. Transportation to and from a doctor or hospital unless by ambulance is not considered an allowable medical expense.

Wife-Beater Apologizes

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS:—My husband has a terrible temper. In the ten years we have been married he has hit me many times, sometimes bruising me so badly I had to go to the doctor.

He goes out when he pleases, but when it is my turn to go out and enjoy myself a little, he goes into a state of temper. The other day he ripped up seven skirts of mine. They were nice skirts and I got very nervous and cried for an hour.

Friends, even my doctor, say they would leave him, but this is a hard decision to make. Raising two children and going out to work is no fun. Each time he hits me and says terrible things to me, he says he is sorry afterwards, but he does the same thing over again.

He says he loves me but how can one person love another and treat them this way?—R. T.

DEAR R. T.:—There are as many ways to deal with this as there are people.

One woman would walk out at the first ill-lvvered slap. Another survives an all-out beating and comes up swinging.

In one case the much-beaten wife cracked a plate over her caveman's head at dinner, in reprisal. He beat her soundly and her response was, "That's one more I owe you!" She struck next in his sleep—with her shoe. Another beating from him—but she promised another revenge. She kept her promise.

Eventually he couldn't take it any longer. Never knowing when he was going to be attacked was too much for him. He gave in.

One way to marital bliss!

What would I do? I'd call in the police. This does not necessarily mean jail, or even a fine, for the man. A warning, or probation, or a bonding over and a promise not to molest his wife, might stop the manhandling.

And since it is going to take more than the police to save your marriage, I'd also suggest you see a social worker. You need to understand your husband's problem; he needs to understand it himself. Only a professionally trained counsellor can help you see daylight now.

P.S.—A five-cent stamped enveloped is needed for a private reply.

* * *

DEAR DORIS:—Is it true that a child born of an unwed mother may be legitimized by obtaining papers of legitimation when she marries someone who is not the natural father of her child?

I understood he had to be adopted.—JANEY.

DEAR JANEY:—No. Only when she marries the natural father do papers of legitimation apply.

Adoption by the husband of the mother is the best way. Some Canadian provinces also have legislation providing for a change of name to the husband's name, and the new name placed on the birth certificate (without the necessity for formal adoption.) The regulations which apply are those in the province where the child is born.

* * *

DEAR DORIS:—I have been going out with this girl for half a year. Her birthday is close to Christmas and I would like to know if I should send her a gift for her birthday and one for Christmas, or just one on her birthday or on Christmas.

If so, would you please tell me what kind of a gift to send her.—STEADY TEDDY.

DEAR STEADY—Is the birthday quite close—say within a week or so of Christmas? If so, I'd suggest a special extra birthday card, sent through the mail. Then on her birthday deliver a gift wrapped in Christmas wrappings and tell her it is a combined Birthday-Christmas present.

That way you can afford something nicer than if you bought two. Perhaps some perfume, candy, initialled handkerchiefs, or a book you know she would like, would be about right. Nothing too personal, since you are not engaged.

* * *

TO MISS C. L.—Furriers are trained on the job and openings for learners may be determined through the National Employment Service.

Columbus Was Mere Sailor?

LONDON — An Englishman, and not Columbus, may have been the first to discover America, after the Vikings, states David B. Quinn, professor of modern history, at Liverpool University, in the current issue of The Geographical Journal.

Professor Quinn has pieced together evidence that English merchants, sailing from Bristol reached North America 10 years or more before Columbus skipped the Nina, Pinta, and Santa Maria for the King and Queen of Spain.

LETTER ONLY EVIDENCE

The professor bases his debunking of 1492—a date indelibly etched in the thought of every American school child—on an undated letter from English merchant John Day to a Spanish official.

The letter was addressed to the "Almirante Mayor," who is either the Grand Admiral of Castile or Columbus himself.

Dr. Louis Andre Vigneras, who first published the letter in 1956, and Professor Quinn, both believe that Columbus is the more likely recipient.

In the letter, merchant John Day reports a successful voyage of discovery to the "Island of the Seven Cities," which Professor Quinn said, "can be clearly and unambiguously identified as that made by John Cabot in 1497."

Most important, the letter states: "It is considered certain that the cape of the said land was discovered in other times by the men of Bristol who found 'Brasil' as your lordship knows. It was called the Isle of Brasil, and it is assumed and believed to be the mainland that the Bristol men found."

DATE SET 1480-90

Professor Quinn pinpoints the vague "in other times" as somewhere between 1480 and 1490 but probably 1481.

There was, reports Professor Quinn, a voyage from Bristol in 1481-82, could have resulted in the discovery of America.

"A discovery by this expedition would fit, without straining, the requirements of John Day's letter," he said.

Other voyages from Bristol to the "new found landes" also were recorded in the 1480-1490 decade, Professor Quinn said.

The Day letter is the work of a man of some learning, familiar with the geographical knowledge of the time, who had been carrying on a correspondence with the Grand Admiral . . . and sending him information on at least one earlier occasion.

"Where its information can be checked . . . it is correct, which suggests that its unsupported statements are probably authoritative ones."

The professor resorts to speculation to explain the lack of publicity surrounding the Bristol voyages.

He assumes the Bristol vessels discovered the rich fishing grounds of the Grand Banks off Newfoundland and "would not wish to have even their countrymen, let alone foreigners, as their competitors."

So the deductions of Professor Quinn could reduce Christopher Columbus from immortality to just another sailor.

And, according to The Times, of London, the professor's analysis of the evidence at hand adds credence to Francis Bacon's claim that an Englishman got there first.

RIGHT METHOD

The term "according to Hoyle" refers to the English writer on rules of various games. Edmund Hoyle, who died in 1769.

PEPSI'S AND POST HOPE

Jean-Paul Lamirande's Belleville Pepsi's will have as their guests the Port Hope Ontarios in tomorrow night's OHA Intermediate 'A' Lakeshore Intermediate League game here at 8.30 p.m.

The Ontarios are an unknown quantity at this time but as one wag put it, "the best way to find anything out is to go take a look for yer'self. Thank you, kind sir, that is exactly what we intend to do.

The Pepsi's have held several workouts since they dumped the Napanee Comets here last Wednesday by an 8-3 count and according to Lamirande, should be clicking even better for the Port Hope clash. The Pepsi's will play a return game in Port Hope Friday night.

The Belleville club came out of their first week's action in tip-top shape, although both goalie Don Barclay and defenseman Lionel Botty are sporting a few stitches as the result of stray sticks in last Wednesday's game. "Turk" picked up some "extra string" near his right eye and Lionel's stitching is in the neighborhood of his hair.

* * *

Lamirande has announced that Barclay will get a rest in tomorrow night's game here. Billy Moxam, last year with the Mac Juniors, will get a chance between the Belleville pipes.

At least one other welcome addition to the Pepsi lineup will be left winger Wayne "Wiener" Brown. "Wiener" was on night shift last week and did not see action in the club's opening games. He will definitely play Wednesday, however, and his presence should add greatly to the club's front-line scoring power. Brown has attended as many team practices as possible and has also been playing in the Industrial League to get his skating legs in shape. Three goals for Rollins of the Industrial loop in Sunday's game will testify that he has not lost his shooting eye.

The fans who took in the Napanee game here last Wednesday, numbering slightly over 500, seemed quite satisfied with what they saw. The Pepsi's are going to get better as they go and there is no reason why the other leagues will not be in for a scrap.

Local fans, who like their hockey of the "senior" variety, could well be in for a good season of fast, pleasing hockey.

ANYONE FOR STRACUSE?

The Belleville McFarland junior hockey club will be travelling to Syracuse, N.Y., for an exhibition game this coming weekend and arrangements have been made to take along a number of local fans.

The club will be travelling by bus and will leave here around noon Saturday, arriving home Sunday afternoon. The Macs will play their exhibition game on Saturday night.

Coach Gordie Bell has announced that there will be room on the bus for about 15 fans. Bus tickets will be $5.00 per person. Hotel rooms have been arranged for in Syracuse at a low rate. The five dollars is for the bus trip only.

Those wishing bus tickets are asked to contact Bell as soon as possible by phoning 8-9479, after 6.00 p.m.

Will Not Box

McNeeley Says He's Ready

TORONTO (CP) — Tom McNeeley doesn't plan to do any boxing until he meets world heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson here next Monday. The Boston butler will finish his training with daily calisthenics.

McNeeley spent about 20 minutes working out in a Toronto gymnasium Monday but didn't put the gloves on. "He's already gone about 500 rounds in preparation for the fight and we figure that's enough," explained manager Peter Fuller.

Patterson took it easy Monday and will have only light workouts until Thursday.

It was announced that the medical examination of both fighters will be held at noon Wednesday.

CHAMP BIG FAVORITE

Meanwhile, in Las Vegas, Nev., oddsmakers installed Patterson as a 10-to-1 favorite to beat McNeeley.

On the same night at the other end of a closed circuit television doubleheader in Philadelphia, Sonny Liston is also a 10-to-1 favorite to defeat Albert Westphal.

In New York, it was announced there will be no network radio broadcast in the United States of the heavyweight title fight. Irving B. Kahn, president of TelePrompTer, which has the ancillary rights for the fight, said he passed up bids for the radio rights because he did not consider the price "fair and consistent with established values."

The CBC said in Toronto the bout would be broadcast over the French Canada radio network starting at 10:30 p.m.

Tough Grind For Sanders

DUNEDIN, Fla. (AP) — It's been a long, tough grind for professional golfer Doug Sanders but it's paid off.

Sanders has played in 36 tournaments so far during the 1961 tour. He has won five and placed in the upper money brackets 10 other times for winnings of $56,763. He is third on the list of top 10 money - winners issued by the Professional Golfers Association.

Gary Player still leads with $67,760 and Jay Hebert nips with $55,383.

DRAW GOOD CROWDS

TOKYO (AP)—Japanese professional baseball attendance soared in 1961 to record figures declaring the year before. The total attendance for the two six-team leagues was 8,718,000, up 600,000 over 1960. That year had showed a 400,000 drop from 1959. Previously, every season from 1951 set a new attendance mark.

Minnie Minoso Goes To National

Biggest Trade Of Off Season

By JOE REICHLER

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Minnie Minoso, one of baseball's top-flight performers, has been joined by super-star Stan Musial in St. Louis Cardinals' outfield following the White Sox are reported willing to swap Roy Sievers, their slugging first baseman, for either a starting pitcher or a third baseman.

Minoso is one of the fastest men in the game and swings a potent bat. Musial, one of the greatest outfielders in baseball history, is a .300 hitter who has been a consistent run producer during his trade to the Cardinals.

The seven-man swap was the second inter-league deal at the annual baseball convention. Monday, in a trade of less magnitude, Cleveland Indians sent Johnny Keane, manager of the Cardinals, sold: "The addition of Minoso not only gives us more experience in the outfield, but adds power, also. Along with Ken Boyer, Bill White and Musial. Also, it will enable us to bring along two promising young outfielders, Charley James or Carl Warwick, by the way we want to. They'll spell Musial and Minoso when they show signs of needing a rest."

Curt Flood, who finished strong last year, batting .322 in 132 games, will patrol centre field. He is $5 to Musial's 41 and Minoso's 39. Flood is also a fokis instal Minnie is at least 42

LOPEZ HAS SAY TOO

Al Lopez, manager of the White Sox, is just as pleased with Cunningham as Keane is with Minoso.

"Cunningham will only be a good hitter but he gives us more versatility because he can play first base as well as the outfield," Lopez said.

That remains to be seen.

Take Your Choice

Bookies Play It Close

TORONTO (CP) — The bookies, stout champions of the East in every Grey Cup game for the last 40 years, are playing it close to the chest this year.

The opening line on the Grey Cup next Saturday is 6 to 5 and take your choice.

Translated it means you must put up $6 to win $5—but you may take your choice of teams.

There is no point spread and no favorite, although the betting fraternity in Eastern Canada is convinced that by game day Hamilton Tiger-Cats will be favored by about three points to take Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

The conservative odds were drawn up after the Ticats overcame a 25-7 first-game deficit in the two-game, total-point Eastern Conference final against Toronto Argonauts. Hamilton took the series 55-27 in overtime.

ARGOS RATED LOWER

Had Toronto won, the bookies say, they would have gone into the Grey Cup as the first definite eastern underdogs. Toronto sports writers saw it the same way.

Wrote MIR Dunnell in The Star:

"The most horrible aspect of Saturday's upheaval at Hamilton is not that the Argonauts got scuttled 46-3—but that they actually should have won. Imagine a pack of patsies, such as the Scullers proved to be, representing the East in the Grey Cup. It would be the most insolent excuse for calling off the carnival.

"And yet it would have happened if the Boatmen had anything but sawdust between their ears. There probably isn't another team in Canadian football right down to the sandlot level, that could gain possession of the ball at the other team's 36-yard line with a minute and 42 seconds left on the clock—needing a single point to win—that could blow the drive completely as the Argonauts did."

Hal Walker of The Telegram:

"This was one of the greatest defensive stands any team has ever made in Canadian football history and it would have been a grave injustice if they had lost to Argonauts."

All agreed that Toronto threaway the game by running three time-consuming line plays when a field goal was the call. Dave Mann was given the ball to kick, he was back on the 45. The dead-ball line was 70 yards away.

Fans Choose Whole Team As Heroes

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Tiger-Cats fans have chosen a team of heroes and a hero for "the greatest comeback effort in football history."

Ken Faulin, president of the Quarterback Club, said his organization would honor any one player for Hamilton's 48-2 comeback victory Saturday against Toronto Argonauts. The win gave them the Eastern Football Conference playoff and entry into next Saturday's Grey Cup game against Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

"A plaque will be presented to the team as a whole at Wednesday's club meeting to honor the great team effort," he said.

THREATEN WITHDRAWAL

MANILA (AP) — The Philippine Boxing and Amusements Board will withdraw from the U.S. National Boxing Association if the NBA refuses to recognize the championship fight between Flash Elorde, world junior lightweight champion, and Harry Sergio Caputo here, reports have said the NBA has decided not to recognize the fight, scheduled for Dec. 16 here.

W. Marshall Top Scorer In AHL

NEW YORK (AP) — Willie Marshall of Hershey Bears still leads the American Hockey League scoring race, the first player goal scorer to hold first place for more than a week.

Marshall has 13 goals and 17 assists for 30 points, one more than Brian Kilrea of Springfield Indians, who moved up with an eight-point production last week. Marshall and Dick Gamble of Rochester Americans have the most goals, 13. Alex Faulkner of Rochester has the most assists, 22.

Marcel Pelle of Springfield and Bobby Perreault of Rochester are in a virtual tie for the goaltending lead. Pelle has given up 21 goals in 10 games for a 2.10 average, while Perreault has allowed 44 in 18 games for a 2.13 average.

Denver U Star Will Turn 'Pro'

ASPEN, Colo. (AP) — Max Mandy, Denver University ski team star, said Monday he will turn professional this winter to compete on the U.S. - Canada pro racing circuit.

Mandy and Les Streeter, former U.S. Olympian now living in Montreal, are the first North American skiers to accept the Class A racer status in the International Professional Ski Racers Association that was organized last year.

Association officials said Tom Saller of Austria and Ernst Hinterseer, Austrian gold medalist in the Slalom at the 1960 Winter Olympics, expect to join the pro tour.

Others competing in Class A will be the pro competitors from last season — Stein Eriksen of Norway and Austrians Pepi Gramshammer, Toni Spiss, Anderl Molterer, Othmar Schneider and Christian Pravda.

Georgian Peaks in Ontario and Mont Orford near Montreal are staging a combined series that will constitute the first pro races in a national championships.

HONOR HORSE

NEW YORK (AP)—Orinoco King Farm's Crimson Satan, ridden by Gordon Glisan, Stakes and Pimlico Futurity in taking five of his last six starts. The 1961 two-year-old race horse title in the balloting announced Monday by the Thoroughbred Racing Associations' board of selection. Crimson Satan chalked up the season with seven victories in 13 starts, two seconds and two thirds for earnings of $302,200.

Bathgate on Top

Loses Ground to Provost

MONTREAL (CP) — Andy Bathgate of New York Rangers was held to two points in four games last week-end but moved up to Montreal's Claude Provost in the National Hockey League's individual scoring race.

Official statistics released today show Bathgate scored his 10th goal and picked up a 22nd assist, tops in the league, for 32 points — three more than Provost. A week ago, Bathgate led by six points.

Provost scored twice, running his league-leading goal total to 16, and assisted on three goals.

Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion of Canadiens, last season's scoring champion, retained third place with a four - point week. He scored his ninth goal and picked up his 14th, 15th and 16th assists for 25 points.

Marcel Pelle of Springfield and Bobby Perreault of Rochester are in a virtual tie for the goaltending lead. Pelle has given up 21 goals in 10 games for a 2.10 average, while Perreault has allowed 44 in 18 games for a 2.13 average.

Earl Ingarfield of New York, Henri Richard of Montreal and Don McKenney of Boston Bruins are deadlocked for fourth at 26 points. Ingarfield had two assists last week. McKenney had three goal and one assist and Richard, in a two-way tie for ninth position a week ago, scored a goal once and drew three assists.

Red Kelly of Toronto Maple Leafs scored three goals and assisted on another and jumped from 15th place to a five-way tie for ninth with 21 points. Tied with Kelly are Dave Keon and Johnny Bucyk of Boston and Red Kelly of Toronto Maple Leafs.

Gordie Howe, who played in a record - breaking 1,000th NHL game for Detroit Red Wings on Sunday, had one goal in three starts and dropped to 11th place with 20 points, equally divided between goals and assists.

Veteran Johnny Bower of Toronto still leads the race for the Vezina Trophy, awarded annually to the goalie who plays the most games for the team that allows the fewest goals. Bower has a goals-against average of 2.25 for 20 games, followed by Chicago's Glenn Hall with 2.63.

Montreal continues as the most penalized team with 277 minutes. Defenceman Lou Fontinato of the Canadiens is the most penalized player with 78 minutes.

Tessier Coming

Ties Balon for Top Spot

OTTAWA (CP)—Veteran centre Orval Tessier, perennial top-scorer for Kingston Frontenacs, scored two goals in three minutes to make more room into a first-place tie with Dave Balon of Hershey-Pittsburgh Hornets in the Eastern Professional Hockey League scoring race.

Tessier's five points in Sunday league today gave Tessier a league-leading 14 points coupled with 10 assists for 24 points. Balon, last week's leader, scored once in his team's only game to raise his total to 11 goals and 13 assists.

Cleland Morison of Sudbury Wolves collected two field goals and one assist to take over third spot with 19 goals and 13 assists for 32 points, while Jim Hoekstra of the Beavers managed one assist and dropped to fourth spot with 31 points.

The defending champions, Hull - Ottawa Canadiens, who had failed to place a player higher than 14th spot until this week have two players among the top 10. Fred Hilts and Bill Carter of the Canadiens share fifth place with Ed Stankiewicz of Sudbury and Ed Kachur and Milan Marcetta of Sault Ste. Marie Thunderbirds with 20 points apiece. Carter leads the league in assists with 18.

The Boston Bruins' Jack McCartan maintained his lead in the goaltending department with a 2.85 average and has two shutouts also top the league.

Last-place Sault Ste. Marie is the most penalized team with 172 minutes, while Kachur is the penalized player in Dino Rozzaza with 79 minutes.

Pit Martin Of Hamilton Top Scorer

TORONTO (CP)—Pit Martin is the new scoring leader, and Montreal Junior Canadiens are the early season favorites.

Official statistics from the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series show that Martin collected nine points, with four goals and five assists in Hamilton's four games during the week and replaced teammate Lowell MacDonald as the scoring leader. Martin has 33 points on 16 goals and 15 assists. MacDonald has 30 points with 12 goals and 18 assists.

The Canadiens broke Hamilton's 14-game unbeaten streak with a 7-5 decision Monday before Boudrias paced the attack with four goals and moved into sole possession of third place with nine goals and 14 assists for 23 points.

The Canadiens have won seven straight games after scoring 40 goals in the process and allowing just 12.

Phil Esposito, St. Catharines rookie, is fourth among scoring leaders. He scored four goals against Peterborough Petes Thursday and a game - winner Saturday against Niagara Falls Flyers and has 16 goals and eight assists for 24 points.

Gordon Smith of the Royals is 6-0-1 with 20 points and defenceman Jacques Lesperiere and centre Norm Dennis of the Cadets each have 18.

Hamilton's Bud Blom is still the goaltending leader with a 2.5 goals-per-game average but Montreal's George Holmes gained on him, lowering his average to 2.83.

The OHA Metropolitan Series, St. Michael's left winger Rod Seiling has eight goals and eight assists, and Whitby's Bill Collins shares second on four goals and seven assists.

Crawfords, Picton Win Hoop Tilts

Two very tight games featured the opening of the Bay of Quinte Basketball League at Moira Secondary School last night as the Belleville Crawfords and Picton Prospects chalked up initial wins.

Crawford Medals took a 67-63 decision over their arch rivals, the Trenton Wilsons, while Picton Prospects used a fourth quarter rally to shade the Belleville Lightfoots 55-54.

Other clubs in the six-team grouping are the Trenton RCAF and Belleville Northern Electric.

Last year's scoring champ, Teddy Batchelor, led Crawfords to their victory with a sparkling 26-point effort. Other high scorers on the Belleville club were Bill Green with 13 points and Rick Pearson with 9.

E. Clarke paced the Trenton attack with 21 points followed by Don Burke with 13. Trenton ace Bob Burleigh, who sided up with just six points, took out of the game early in the third quarter to hamper his club's performance.

Crawfords led at half time by a 32-23 score.

In the Picton-Lightfoot game, the Prospects trailed after each of the first three quarters by scores of 17-9, 27-21 and 42-37. The Lightfoots failed to hold their lead in the final quarter however and Picton squeezed out the one-point victory.

Laundry hooped 13 points in a top effort for Picton. Roger Diagnaut and Hopkins were right on his heels with 12 points apiece.

No Lightfoot player hit double figures as Bob Langsbeer topped the club with nine points. Don Smith, Dave Bell and Gord Hunter each had eight.

TRENTON WILSONS (63): W. Whitley 8, H. Stinson, D. Burke 13, C. Crews 4, Jeffery 4, B. Burleigh 6, E. Clarke 21, J. Cherisall 8.

Heading East

Cold Weather Drives Bombers Out

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg Blue Bombers, lacking chances with Western Canada's winless Lions, were set today to head for warmer weather in the East and final tuneups for their Grey Cup encounter with Hamilton Tiger-Cats in Toronto Saturday.

The Bombers had hoped to stay at home until Wednesday but the threat of snow and mercurial temperatures forced them to pull out a day earlier.

Coach Bud Grant sent the Bombers through a drill Monday night and said: "It was pretty grim out there." The temperature was 18 degrees above zero.

The Bombers are to work out at Varsity Stadium in Toronto and Grant is not expected to waste time getting them into the routine of daily practices.

The only Bomber to miss Monday night's practice was punting fullback Charlie Shepard, the league's leading punter.

Grant said Ray Jauch, speedy 175-pound halfback, was probably fit to get into action against the Ticats. He sat out the final Western playoff game against Calgary Stampeders with a pulled tendon.

In that game, fullback Roger Hagberg entered the lineup and halfback Gerry James was used as a halfback for the first time in six years. The Bombers won 63-14.

Jauch's speed and ability to catch passes may win him his job back. Grant favors a fast, breakaway backfielder, who can sweep the ends against a big line such as the Tiger-Cats possess.

One of Grant's big decisions won't be made until late Friday. He'll have to pick a pair of inside linemen to form from Ron Burkholder, Ger Warren, and Jack Debreuax.

Meanwhile, assistant coaches John Michels and Joe Zaleski have returned from Hamilton's powerful passing attack, which features such men as Gerry McDougall, Hal Patterson, Pat Dekker and Carver Shannon. Of special interest to Winnipeg fans will be Shannon, formerly with the Bombers.

Michels and Zaleski are also faced with a defence they don't often see in the West. Hamilton likes a 5-3-3 defence and sometimes will counter Goebeckers to a greater extent than Western teams.

Police Step Up Hunt For Race Horse Dopers

LONDON (AP) — Police and private detectives stepped up their hunt Monday for a mystery woman and her gang of race horse dopers after discovering another top - class British steeplechaser was drugged before a big race.

The latest horse doped is Fresh Winds, a favorite entry for next year's Grand National Steeplechase. Fresh Winds was found half asleep in his box before a race at Uttoxeter Nov. 18 and did not run.

The horse is the 16th to have been doped in the last two months after visits to stables by a mysterious woman who speaks with a French accent. Scotland Yard called in Interpol, the world police organization, to try and track down the woman. The Jockey Club, which rules flat racing in Britain, has hired two private investigators to help the police.

Newspapers, bookmakers and official organizations have cooperated in offering thousands of pounds in rewards in a bid to smash the gang.

Birds Have New Goalie In Cheevers

SUDBURY (CP) — Sault Ste. Marie Thunderbirds, bolstered by a new goaltender, earned their first point in three games when they tied Sudbury Wolves 3-3 Monday night.

It was the third Eastern Professional Hockey League road game in three nights for the last - place Thunderbirds, who lost at Kitchener Saturday and at North Bay Sunday.

Netminder Jerry Cheevers, sent down to Sault Ste. Marie by Toronto Maple Leafs of the National League on Monday, night turned aside 24 shots to help his mates to the draw. While he held the fort in the second period, blocking 13 drives compared to the four shots Sudbury's Carl Wetzel had to handle, the Thunderbirds scored two goals. Wetzel made a total of 23 saves.

Cheevers, 23, has a month's practice goalie but general manager-coach Punch Imlach felt he needed a little more experience with the Leafs.

The Wolves, who climbed into a tie for second place with Hull-Ottawa Canadiens, scored all their goals while Sault players were in the penalty box. Dennis Rathwell scored the only goal in the first period to give Sudbury a 1-0 lead and Dennis Kassian raised it to 2-0 in the second but Dale McCourt and Cliff Schnaufer counted for the Thunderbirds, to send the teams into the third period tied 2-2.

Ford Hawerth put the Wolves ahead again, scoring at 4:32 of the third period while the Sault's Don Farrell was in the penalty box but Farrell made atonement, scoring an unassisted goal at 9:34 to level the Thunderbirds from defeat.

METS SIGN SCOUT

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — New York Mets announced Monday that Red Kress, former coach of Cleveland and New York, would manage one of their farm clubs. They also announced the signing of Richard Kealy, farmer Milwaukee scout, as the 20th member of their scouting staff.

RYAN NAMED PILOT

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Connie Ryan, former National League infielder, has been named manager of the Oklahoma City team in the American Association, it was announced Monday. Ryan, who played for Boston, New York, Philadelphia and Milwaukee in the National League, joined the Houston organization last June as a scout.

Head Injuries

Responsible for 32 Deaths

DENVER (AP)—Head injuries are mainly responsible for the 32 known fatalities in football this season, an American Medical Association expert says.

While football headgear has been vastly improved, "there is still much to be done before protection is a perfect ideal," Standards," Dr. Allan J. Ryan of Meriden, Conn., chairman of the AMA's Committee on Medical Aspects of Sports, said Sunday. He presided at a conference on the opening day of the 10th clinical meeting of the AMA.

Dr. Ryan said his report, based on high school football deaths this season. This was for each 100,000 participants. The other fatalities were among university students, two semi-pros and one sandlot player.

A rigid plastic helmet using an interior suspension system is the best available headgear, Dr. Ryan said, but not all football teams are equipped with this type because of its cost.

The safety committee considers pre-season all-star games at the high school level "very bad because usually the players are not in top physical condition."

Dr. K. M. Burgess of Seattle told the conference that "water skiing offers more chance of injury by far than snow skiing." Combined, these sports are the fastest growing in the United States with at least 1,000,000 participants, he said.

The injury rate for snowskiers is four per 1,000, Dr. Mack Clarion of Denver said.

Gator Bowl Adversaries Announced

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—The Gator Bowl announced Monday night that Pennsylvania State has accepted an invitation to play in the game here Dec. 30.

Penn State has a 7-3 record for the season, Georgia Tech, which already has accepted the bid but still must play Georgia, has a 6-3 record.

In New York it was announced the Utah State has accepted an invitation to play in the Gotham Bowl game there Dec. 9 and that Auburn has been invited as Utah State's opponent.

Auburn has a 6-3 record and is gunning for a Saturday battle with top-ranked Alabama. Utah State finished its regular season with a record of nine victories and one tie.

The University of Miami was selected as Syracuse University's opponent in the third annual Liberty Bowl game at Philadelphia Dec. 16. Syracuse, with a 7-3 record, was chosen last week.

Star of National Velvet Having 'Go' at New York

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—A fellow journalist, obviously scarred and defeated by too many interviews with monster-type child-stars of stage, screen and television, recently came out in print-strongly advocating the replacement of child actors with adult midgets.

This reporter, too, has had some disconcerting moments with pint-size talent. It is a pleasure, therefore, to report that Miss Lori Martin, age 14 and star of NBC's National Velvet television series, is a well mannered, polite and friendly young lady, even if she does have the poise of a Bank Day downger and is permitted to use discreet make-up including mascara and eye-shadow during personal appearance tours.

Lori, accompanied by her father, Russell Menzor, her teacher and her toy poodle, Cricket, has been spending a busy few days in New York, riding a horse in two department store holiday parades and popping up on some day-time TV shows to plug her series.

But although Lori is a grown-up girl for her years, she has a real age-14 problem: No dates. "Not until she's 16," said her father.

Lori's sophisticated manner dropped with a thud and she turned an anguished face to Mentor.

"But Mother said I could when I was 15," she said, almost in tears.

No, he repeated.

Lori suffered a radical name change when she was picked from 1,000 candidates for the series. She was born Dawn Menzor. The Menzor became Martin. And then the Dawn disappeared. They thought there were too many strippers and people like that using the name, explained her father.

The youngster's acting career started when she was 7 — and was a fateful decision.

She kept having fainting spells at school, her father said. The nuns were worried and finally told him privately that she was faking. So we decided to let her be an actress because we felt she was just trying for attention and she'd get it.

Awarded Cup

TORONTO (CP)—Doug Boyd, all-star defensive halfback on the University of Toronto Blues has been awarded the Johnny Copp Memorial Trophy as the outstanding player on the 1961 Blues football team.

The trophy, awarded after a vote among the players, goes annually to the senior team player who by sportsmanship, character and ability is found most valuable to the team.

Boyd, 21, 175-pound engineering student from Penhill, has been named twice to the Intercollegiate all-star team.

Mayor Kicks Booming 15-Yard Punt

TORONTO (CP) — Mayor Nate Phillips strode to the top of the city hall steps Monday and punted at his objective—a billboard atop a building across the street.

Then the mayor of all the people kicked a booming 15-yard punt that didn't even come close to his indicated goal.

It was the official opening of Grey Cup Week and "it will be the biggest and most joyful celebration ever," the mayor said.

Bands played and scantily clad Miss Grey Cup contestants waved to the noon-hour crowds as they paraded past the city hall.

Where did the mayor's kick wind up? It bounced off the armored car carrying the Grey Cup.

Star in 'Bus Stop' Wants To Be Public Accountant

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Should a starlet think about other figures besides her 36-24-36?

Yes, says Joan Freeman, who can handle those figures and the other kind, too. She wants to be a certified public accountant.

She's taking six hours of accounting and economics every week.

I tracked down the budding accountant at 20th Century-Fox during a lull in filming of Bus Stop. She is the sole surviving female star of the ABC series. Marilyn Maxwell having headed out of town.

How did Joan happen to fix financial figures?

"I was taking a theatre arts course at UCLA," explained the brown - haired beauty. "I realized that the requirements included lighting, set designing and all kinds of stage craft that offered much work for few jobs. So I seriously studied it today, then coming back to Hollywood and making movies."

Joan had starred some good roles in movies in Bus Stop.

Despite her success, she's keeping an accountant's head on her shoulders. She still lives with her parents in Burbank and drives to work in the family car.

Haynes Puts On One-Man Game Show

DALLAS (AP)—Abner Haynes of Dallas Texans, talk of the American Football League last year, has come back to help convince this season. He did it with a one-man show against Oakland Raiders Sunday as he ran for 216 yards to take over the league's rushing lead.

Haynes surged past Paul Lowe of San Diego Chargers, who was last week's leader. Haynes has run a total of 689 yards to Lowe's 678.

George Blanda of Houston Oilers continues to lead the passers with 19 completions in 285 throws for 2,342 yards. Al Dorow of New York is second with 163 completions in 353 attempts for 2,118 yards.

Gino Cappelletti of Boston Patriots has 121 points and a 25 point lead in scoring.

All Players To Stay in Same Hotel

MILWAUKEE (AP)—In an apparent anti-segregation move, Milwaukee Braves Monday moved headquarters for their Bradenton, Fla., training camp outside the city.

The Braves announced that all players will stay and eat in a private dining room of a motel in Palmetto, north of Bradenton.

In past years, the club had maintained headquarters in Bradenton. Negro players were forced to live and eat in private homes away from teammates.

The Tracks

NEW YORK (AP)—Cicada, from Christopher R. Chenery's Meadow Stable, has won the two-year-old filly championship of 1961, the United States Thoroughbred Racing Association announced today.

The bay daughter of Bryan G-Satuana picked up 11 victories in 19 starts and a bankroll of $354,875, a record for juvenile fillies.

Sport Snapshots

By BOB TRIMBEE

EDMONTON (CP)—The fed-both junior and senior, should be grouped in teams and sent eral government will have to spend much more than $5,000,000 a year if it is serious about helping plans to improve the physical fitness and Canada's amateur sport, says Lloyd Swindells.

Swindells, veteran Vancouver track and field coach, said the government's plan to set up an advisory council to initiate programs with this aim "is a good start, but I don't believe they'll realize how much it will cost."

Track and field alone it would take about $2,000,000 a year to establish a sound developmental program, and no matter how much money was spent, the program would be slow a few years to develop. Coaches and volunteers are needed before athletes could advance.

NEED SPECIALISTS

"We now have 60,000 kids under high school graduating age participating in track and field," Swindells said in an interview. "With dynamic leadership we could lift this to 150,000 in the first year and increase it annually from there."

"In track and field we would have to bring in at least 10 specialists each summer to tour Canada, teaching coaches and giving practical assistance to athletes.

"The best men and women, abroad for international experience. Facilities should be improved and teams from other countries brought to Canada.

"National indoor and outdoor championships should be established and universities assisted financially so they can do a job now being done by those in the United States."

WANT FULL-TIME

Swindells said universities now have many men who could be full-time track coaches. "Some athletes but they are stymied by lack of contact during training to further their athletic and academic skills."

The men at the top must be professional "because only professional coaches and parts with a professional program can we expect to achieve the dedication and inspiration needed to produce athletic achievement."

Subsidized amateur sport would be here for some time. It would take at least a generation to develop fan support and interest to the level of the U.S. and European countries.

"Only then can we begin to expect amateur sport to shift its financial needs without help."

Fourth Down For Canadian Game Proposed

EDMONTON (CP)—A fourth down for Canadian football was proposed Monday by Joe Ryan, general manager of Western Conference's Edmonton Eskimos.

Ryan said in a prepared statement he was bringing up the proposal because "the game" takes away from the fan one-third of his inalienable right to outguess the quarterback.

Ryan said the fourth down would give the offensive quarterback an opportunity to "smarten up" the defence by wasting one play to set up a succeeding play and would help balance the personnel of various clubs.

He said: "It would give the team with fine running attack, but which lacks a top passer or top receivers, a chance to play more evenly with those that have."

District Darts League

Lucky Lews topped OPP 3 by a 10-1 score in one of the Belleville District Darts League games played last night.

In other action, Northern Electric beat R-3 10-1, Wm. El Ranchos, Skyliners edged the Wildcats 6-5, ANAF shaded Lobby Shop 6-5, Wilf's Shells won over Legion 7-4, Wilbur's beat Legion 8-3 and Bird and LaPalms took an 8-3 victory over OPP 1.

Schegur players are reminded that next week's games will be played on Tuesday, December 5, rather than on Monday, election night.

AT THE PARK — Startling sequences in Joseph Cotten's new suspense thriller, "The Screaming Woman," also starring Ann Sothern, are filmed in the studio of Radio Station WNEW in New York. Director of the picture is Hollingsworth Morse, left, who is shown with Miss Sothern and Cotten. Miss Sothern plays the part of a blind woman who becomes involved in a murder while visiting the home of Cotten, who is also blind. Cotten is a newspaper columnist who becomes entangled while wearing the mask. Members of the audience receive masks like the ones worn by Cotten and Miss Sothern when they enter the theatre, enabling them to see the characters moving about on the screen in the same manner as the characters see them. General Tendencies: Now you have one of those days when it is essential that you are as wise as the serpent and as harmless as the dove if you are to avoid some pretty difficult conditions. Side-step that urge to let fly with those choice and critical comments that you are so strongly tempted to make at this time. Be sure tonight to get health improved.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) Although certain changes may have to be made today that will curtail your activities where entertainment is concerned, be grateful that you can use energies on what will bring a great- er income, which is what is needed at this time.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) While the situation at home is hardly as you would like it to be, take this opportunity to get out into the business world and make a bigger success at practical affairs. Then all is ameliorated. Evening fine for fun. Be gay.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) This is one of those days when special care must be taken in travel or there can be danger of accidents, upsets. Be sure in the evening to supplee close ties with thoughtful little gifts and get into their good graces. Be kind.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Every opportunity is with you now to come to better understanding with those in business so that you can later make improvements to property and get personal financial affairs in order. Take care while out driving. P.M. take it easy.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — While you are tempted to make some radical changes or sever connections with an old friend, do nothing about it. Concentrate upon improving health and charm instead. Then hit on some idea that will bring far greater income. Grow.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — It may be necessary to do work that is hardly appealing to you in a.m., but put shoulder to the wheel for own good. Then see to it that you meet socially in p.m.

Libra (Sept. 22 to Oct. 22) — Sidestep those comrades who are Dr. Jeckyll-Mr. Hyde category of people today. Delve into those studies that will help you with your work or career at this time. Look into what is puzzling.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Do nothing that may in any way disturb those who are influential and have power over your affairs. Also, see that you do not jeopardize credit in any way. Then step out in p.m. and give good friends a helping hand where needed.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — New information is yours today that will enlighten you in various situations about which you have been ignorant up to now. Take care later that others are not overly critical of you. Set them straight.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Your intuitive hunch is not correct during a.m., so be careful not to follow it. Later in the day you would be wise to listen to ideas of new contacts you will make who are filled with interesting information you can use later.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Your partner may be acting strangely during the morning, but take care you do not let it upset you. Carry through with important tasks and you will find almost everyone is very co-operative and helpful. Be clever — Grow.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) Important you learn what your true position is with persons important to your welfare. Make changes where necessary. Then be sure to assist those who are in need and come to you for help. Be generous to a fault and be blessed.

If your child is born today — he, or she, will be best fitted for any profession where the welfare of others is the main concern. Hence, be sure to start the education along such lines, specilizing in psychology and medicine if you can afford it. Otherwise, getting settled in some government job or doing personnel work, running an employment agency, etc., are all fine. Give good spiritual training, too, for best results.

SAYS RUSK CONSIDERED

NEW YORK (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk is under consideration by Democratic leaders to oppose Governor Nelson Rockefeller of New York in his bid for re-election next year, the New York Herald Tribune says. Rusk expressed surprise at the report.

ORILLIA (CP) — Wednesday has been declared Leslie M. Frost Day and this 15 m.p.m. County town and the residents plan a parade and reception to honor the former premier.

Mr. and Mrs. Frost will be welcomed at the CNR station at 2:30 p.m. and a parade involving two bands, the town's two fire trucks and all Ridge Area mayors will wind through the streets to the community centre where a presentation will be made at 3 p.m.

Mr. Frost, born in Orillia, now lives in Lindsay.

COMMIT SUICIDE

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Five Chinese Nationalist police officers have committed suicide in the last month, the independent Kung Lun Pao reported today. The Taipei paper said money was the chief motive.

Marmora Reeve, Council Returned By Acclamation

MARMORA — The village of Marmora held its nomination on Friday evening. There were no contests for council positions which were acclaimed. The council for 1962 stands as follows: Reeve, Ken Ferguson, for sixth term and 11th in the council; councillors: Alex Fraser, John R. Reynolds (has served 15 years), Thomas Smith and Ed McNamara; school board to stand for two years; chairman of board, Vaughan Glover; members, Floyd R. Loveless, J. Roy Barker, Leith Stetson, Reeve Ferguson and Donald P. Marvel, who has resigned after having served for 22 years on the board; many of those as chairman. His service will be greatly missed. Hydro commissioner, Fred Mansby. James Shannon remained as P. U. C. secretary for the high school area board.

After the qualification of the entire board, speeches were called for from former reeves and others. Reeve-elect Ken Lynch spoke and Ex-reeve Rhode Wells, Jr., J. P. Farrow, clerk of Rawdon township.

Reeve William Shannon stated that he is endeavoring to have Marmora's assessment rate lowered as it is now higher than Madoc or Havelock, also the council is negotiating with the Department of Highways to repair shoulders and curves of roads on No. 7 and 14 within the village. J. R. Reynolds is chairman of roads and streets in the village.

REPORTS ON SCHOOL

James Shannon gave a report on the proposed vocational school which the Department of Education has planned for the area, to be built by the Department of Education in Madoc. A meeting of board members and advisory committee members and councillors of the municipalities concerned has been called for Thursday evening, November 30, at 8 p.m. in Madoc High School. Representatives when officials of the Department of Education will be present for discussion.

WATER TURNED ON

The village waterworks had been turned on within the past two weeks after several years of planning and work. Tenders received from the Ontario Water Resources Commission that the Ontario Municipal Board has approved the extension of the waterworks system to supply the East Proctor School, at an estimated cost of $10,000 of which it is hoped about $2,000 can be saved by taking advantage of the Water Works Program.

Notice of nominations for the village of Deseronto have been received as to the candidates for the 1962 municipal election and for the public school board, which will be held on Monday, December 4th at various places in the Townships.

May Suspend Duck-Hunting

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask. (CP)—Suspension of duck hunting in Saskatchewan in 1962 was hinted at Monday by provincial wildlife director L. B. Paynter.

Mr. Paynter said: "If there's no improvement in the spring run - off in 1962, there is a strong possibility that the duck hunting season might have to be closed."

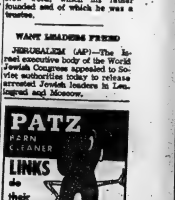
In addition to the natural drought drainage of ponds and sloughs, a great many tracts of wet land had been drained for agricultural purposes.

Gov. Rockefeller Gives Up Hunt For Missing Son

HOLLANDIA (AP) — New York's Governor Nelson Rockefeller today abandoned his fruitless personal search for his youngest son, Michael, in the treacherous Dutch New Guinea jungle and began the long, sad trip home.

"The chances of finding Mike are greatly diminished," Rockefeller told reporters as he left the search headquarters in Merauke, on the south coast of the island.

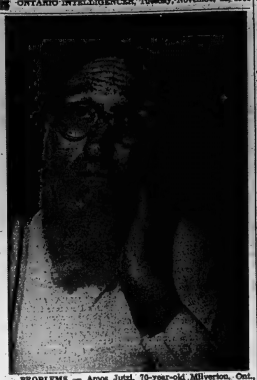
The governor added: "A miracle could happen and perhaps it will. But we must be realizing it is a very small."



The governor's 22-year-old son has been missing since a dugout canoe capsized off the treacherous jungle south coast area Nov. 18 during the Asmat art expedition.

Michael had used two such canoes in his unsuccessful search when he started for the shore, and his Dutch companion, Dr. Rene Wassing, said he was 99 per cent certain the recovered one was Michael's.

Michael had come to New Guinea last spring with a New York University art expedition and stayed on to collect relics for the Museum of Primitive Art in New York, which his father founded and of which he was a trustee.



WANT LEADERS FREED

JERUSALEM (AP)—The Israeli executive body of the World Jewish Congress appealed to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev today to release arrested Jewish leaders in Leningrad and Moscow.

Winnipeg-Born Man Devises New 'Calendar of the Sun'

WINNIPEG (CP) — Thirty days hath September, April, June and November—and, in fact, so have all the rest except December, in a new calender devised by a Winnipeg - born businessman.

Maurice Freedman calls it the "calendar of the sun" and says he hopes to present it to the United Nations within a year.

Some of its features:

Constant dates—The first and 15th, for example, are always a Monday. The 30th is always a Sunday, the 17th a Wednesday and so on.

Stable months—The month like the year, always starts on a Monday and ends on the 30th, except for December which has 35 days.

New names—Two days will have names are added to the end of every month, both entirely separate from the standard days of weeks. "Newday" and "Unday" therefore form a transition period from each month to the next.

Bonus holiday—Unday, which is always the 29th, is an automatic, universal holiday. Since it follows Saturday and Sunday, it creates a three - day weekend once a month. Newday, the 30th, may be a fourth holiday or a working day.

Mr. Freeman says he's convinced he has the answer to dissatisfaction with the Gregorian calendar which, he contends, creates confusion and inefficiency, resulting in billions of dollars of economic waste.

Another alternative that has gained some support is the "world calender" which would be a system of three 91-day quarters and a final 94-day quarter ending on "Worldsday." It has five 31-day months and seven 30-day months but has no constancy in dates, holidays or working days per month.

The calendar of the sun has three 90-day quarters and a final 95-day quarter. There are 26 working days a month except in December which has 25.

The 49-year-old inventor, who grew up in Sioux Lookout, Ont., has been involved with this sort of thing for years. As a lieutenant in the Canadian Navy he designed the standard naval filing system, a four-year job that changed more than 1,000 file numbers during the Second World War.

Top Society Mags Bought By Thomson

LONDON (AP) — Roy Thomson, the Canadian newspaper publisher, announced Monday night he has bought control of £8,700,000 - $18,760,000 - company which runs Britain's top society magazines.

Thomson, who already has a large stake in the British publishing field, purchased 26 per cent of the stock of Illustrated Newspapers — a group which owns such magazines as The Tatler, The Sphere and The Illustrated London News.

"This is really the nucleus of the magazine group which we plan," Thomson said.

The purchase price was not immediately known.

The Tatler and The Sphere are weeklies which record the doings of th British upper class.

In the 1930s he devised a system of playing cards marked with the point-count value in bridge. He calls it the "anti-divorce" device designed to put sociability back into bridge.

He was in Winnipeg to demonstrate other bridge aids that he and his wife have designed and are manufacturing.

Where Is The B.V.C. This Year?

Jobless Fund Is Dwindling, Jobs Decrease

TORONTO (CP) — The Unemployment Insurance Fund is dwindling while jobless figures are increasing, A. F. MacArthur, head of the National Unemployment Commission said Monday.

Mr. MacArthur said the fund would spend its last $180,000,000 by April. He made the statements at the 14-member commission began a two-day conference on Metropolitan Toronto's unemployment situation.

He said the growing unemployment over the last five years had reduced the fund from its $626,000,000 peak.

"Somebody has to do something", he said, but added that he had no specific plan in mind. He said he hoped the committee currently studying the Unemployment Insurance Act would come up with a helpful recommendation.

Unemployment figures for October and November, so far, look better than at this time last year, he said. The rate of unemployment last month was 4.9 per cent of the labor force, compared to 5.7 per cent last year.

"Economic conditions are substantially better and indications point to a good spring and summer in 1962", he said.

'62 Vauxhall Victor

Its Clean Line of Good Design means...

In background, Vauxhall Victor Super Sedan

Vauxhall Victor De Luxe Sedan

...GREATER COMFORT

Complete redesigning makes the Victor even more comfortable for '62—with more hiproom, more shoulder room, more headroom both front and rear. And Victor's wheelbase is extended to give you a more comfortable ride, its centre of gravity lowered to make cornering surer and steadier. All in all, the new Victor's designed for comfort!

...TOP PERFORMANCE

Victor's lively Power-Thrift 4 engine has been redesigned to give you greater power output, with a boosted compression ratio. Couple this with the reduced weight of the new Victor—almost 100 pounds lighter than previous Victors—and you'll see why this nimble, economical power plant can move you along effortlessly at highway cruising speeds all day.

...LASTING VALUE

'62 Victor's Clean Line of Good Design brings you a completely new body-chassis—a single unit of welded steel designed for enduring strength. This unitized body-chassis receives six-stage chemical anti-rust treatment, and is finished with a new, extra long lasting cellulose/synthetic enamel. And Victor's classic good looks won't 'date,' will still hold their value at trade-in time!

Vauxhall Victor Estate Wagon

Good driving starts with good design—and how well these new Victors keep the promise of lively performance and pleasant motoring implied by their low and lovely lines, their sweeping design—because good design is more than skin deep. In the '62 Victor, every component has been designed for performance and economy—example: in this year's Victor, lubrication points are reduced from 19 to 4, and after initial 2,000 mile lubrication, chassis lubrication is required only every 12,000 miles! Undoubtedly, the '62 Victor is a car of rare merit. Drive it very soon.

Wildroot lives natural at extra cost.

He's Flying High In Orbit In Sky

BULLETIN

CAPE CANAVERAL (AP) — Because of suspected trouble with the spacecraft, scientists decided to terminate the orbital flight of Enos in the ape at the completion of the second orbit. Reverse rockets were fired and the capsule headed for a landing 160 miles south of Bermuda in the Atlantic.

CAPE CANAVERAL (AP)—Enos the space ape rocketed into orbit today and began carrying out assigned lever-pressing tasks "without missing a trick."

At noon Est he was on his second trip around the earth.

Scientists planned to return the ape's space ship from orbit, after three sweeps around the earth. If all works well, the U.S. will begin a crash program to send a human astronaut over the same route in a manned spacecraft before the end of 1961.

The freckle-faced chimpanzee, a 37½-pound native of the Cameroons, zipped away from Cape Canaveral at 10:07 a.m. atop an Atlas rocket. The huge Atlas blasted the two-ton capsule into an orbit ranging from 99 to 146 miles high. The speed was about 17,500 miles an hour.

Enos made 29 revolutions.

Tracking stations reported that the flight was proceeding smoothly and the tiny passenger was doing his jobs correctly.

A report from the control center here said Enos, a 37-pound male, had not missed a trick, indicating that his ability to function was not hindered in any way by the thrashing force and blast of the initial ascent into the weird world of weightlessness in space in which he would be for all but a few minutes of the launched six hour ride.

The orbit seem to help, as Enos' heart rate dropped while he was scheduled to land about 800 miles southeast of here.

A tape recorded voice message was being received clearly from the capsule.

A huge recovery force of ships and planes was in the impact zone.

GETS INTO ORBIT

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced 15 minutes after launch, at 10:07 a.m., it received a clear tracking relay indicated that the chimpanzee was in a satisfactory orbit.

The launching was perfect from the beginning of Mercury-Atlas 5.

The Canary Islands station at Grand Canary received Atlas 5 caught clear signals at 10:32 a.m.

The ship reported the ape ride was performing his tasks "without a hitch."

There was no indication that the ability to move himself in any way by the crushing force of liftoff or by the initial weightlessness would hinder the ape's space which was to last for all but a few minutes of the 91,000-mile flight.

Senior UN Officials Badly Beaten By Katanga Troops; Gurkha Slain

ELISABETHVILLE (Reuters) — Two senior UN officials were severely beaten by Katanga troops beating by Katanga troops who dragged them out of a dinner party here Tuesday night.

One of the officials, Britain Conor Urquhart, was in the hospital with broken ribs, a broken nose, bruises and head cuts. UN officials said his condition was "satisfactory." George Smith of Australia, the acting UN chief here, also was nursing cracked ribs and bruises but was not confined to the hospital.

Meanwhile, Swedish UN helicopter pilot Major Ake Orrel of the UN driver who disappeared Monday was found dead.

Patrols still were searching for Sikhan Singh, the Gurkha UN, who also vanished Tuesday night.

Smith told reporters today that at one point Tuesday night he thought he would be killed by the Katangan troops if they succeeded in forcing him down onto the floor of the truck in which they were beating him to death. he said, American Conul L. Hoffacker, with "tremendous courage" succeeded in wrenching him out of the grasp of the troops and pulled him to head-first into his car with the Katangan soldiers still clinging to his feet.

YOUNGSTERS WILL BE GIVEN CHANCE TO TALK TO SANTA

The youngsters in Bellville will again this year be able to talk to Santa Claus. Arrangements have been made by the Bellville Recreation Committee, to accomplish this, a bank of some 30 telephones is taken over by the Bell Telephone office, and with the assistance of Service Club personnel, and many volunteers, Mr. Claus' calls are expected to be made. Information cards have been distributed to the local schools, listing dates and time a boy or girl wishes Santa to call — the preference could be Monday, Tuesday, or Wednesday, December 11, 12 or 13, between the hours of 6.00 and 8.00 p.m.

Others wishing Santa to call may make arrangements by dropping into the Recreation Centre or calling WO 2-1408.

ADMIT TWO MEN TO ENGINEERS' BODY

R. H. Kraft of 370 Sidney Street North, and R. M. Milne of 271 Bleecker Avenue, have been admitted to the practice of the profession of engineering by the Association of Professional Engineers of Ontario and now are accorded the right to use the initials "P.Eng." after their names in connection with any engineering work carried out.

Mr. Kraft is assistant city engineer for Bellville.

Mr. Milne is an engineer associate with the Northern Electric Company.

New Frame Bungalow Burns At Plainfield

Fire of a still undetermined origin early today completely destroyed a new frame bungalow on Highway 37 north of Plainfield.

The home, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Dingman of Canniffton, was just being completed and Mr. Dingman, with his wife and children, expected to move into the dwelling within the next two weeks. There was no insurance.

Origin of the fire, which was noticed about four o'clock this morning, is a mystery to Mr. Dingman.

The owner worked at the house yesterday building kitchen cupboards, and although there was a stove in the building, he feels certain the fire did not start from the stove.

With no insurance on the house it was very careful to see that there was no fire in the stove." He said he put out the fire in the stove at 11 o'clock yesterday and again checked the stove at 4, when he left for home.

The house had not yet been wired for electricity.

It was the second house fire in the immediate area in recent months. Last summer the house next door was burned.

Sixty Workers At Bicroft Mines Recalled

BANCROFT (CP)—About 60 of 225 workers laid off at Bicroft Uranium Mines near here in September have been recalled, Manager J. Thomas Sim said Tuesday.

However, he said it would probably be late December before the mine production is back to normal.

A reported British contract for 12,000 tons of uranium oxide at a price of $13 a pound, and Mr. Thompson said negotiations for other sales are at various stages.

In the meantime Eldorado Mining and Refining Company has agreed to put uranium produced from Bicroft to keep employment up.

With a total of the 60 men, 300 of the mine's former total of 325 are at work.

No milling is being carried out at Bicroft at present. Work is confined to "breaking more underground."

Bancroft is 50 miles northeast of Peterborough.

36-Inch Steel Sewer Main Will Be Laid

Work on another of the city's winter works projects will be getting underway either this afternoon or tomorrow, assistant city engineer Richard Kraft said this morning. The project involves the laying of and tieing-in of a 36-inch corrugated steel sewer pipe and servicing the Parrott subdivision.

The sewer runs north of Highway 2 through Broadgate Rd. to Elizabeth. Thence it runs east along Elizabeth to connect with the open ditch on the south side of Elizabeth. This work is expected to take some time.

Elsewhere in the city the public works department's crews have been busy on the prevention maintenance roadwork during the past number of days. Road grading and patching has been going on to minimize the effects of the recent snow on city streets so that there will be a minimum of work and expenditure required to put them into shap next spring.

The leaf collection program is almost completed, work on the East Hill having already been finished and the West End work almost so.

Work parties, engaged in the renovation of the second floor of the city hall started this week. The downstairs remodelling has already been completed.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Silver stocks dominated investors' attention during extremely heavy morning trading today.

The announcement by U.S. President John F. Kennedy last night that the U.S. Treasury and its reserves would stop selling silver brought prices of Canadian silver stocks sharply higher. United Keno Hill, one of the world's largest silver producers, gained 11 points, 11¾, to pace the list of skyrocketing stocks.

Agnico, Consort Exploration, Highland-Bell, Siscoe and Lake Shore also did well in the early 50 - cent range, while smaller gains went to Central Porcupine Silver Mines and Silvermaque all in heavy trading.

Utilities, reflecting oils and banks and financial institutions made widespread fractional advances. Bank of Nova Scotia reached a new high of 80 with shares.

On index, industrials rose .06 to 604.94, golds .08 to 89.56 and base metals .62 to 211.27. Western oils fell .06 to 110.96. The volume was 5,563,000 shares compared with 4,215,000 Monday.

The senior bare metals list was generally ahead with Sudbury Nickel and Nickel Plate showing fractional gains. Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting and International Nickel all up as much as ¼ point.

Gold trade was light with Dome ahead .46 to 111.46. The volume was 1,962,000 shares.

The senior bare metals list was generally ahead with Sudbury Nickel and Nickel Plate showing fractional gains. Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting and International Nickel all up as much as ¼ point.

Gold trade was light with Dome ahead .46 to 111.46. The volume was 1,962,000 shares compared with 1,264,000 at the same time Tuesday.

Western oil trading was weak.

The upward swing was led by golds dominated investment attention during extremely heavy among utilities, steels, banks morning trading today. and financial institutions and reflecting oils, with a number of key issues making strong rises to advance to new highs or other reaching new highs. Royal Bank and Trans Prairie Pipe Line both hit highs of 85½ and 39 with advances of 1½ and 1¼ respectively.

National Steel Car sustained the day's largest individual rise, 3½, to 50. Other steels were Dominion Foundries and Steel wil. to make an offer to purchase all shares of National on the basis of one share of Dominion Foundries for 1¼ shares. Speculatives were led down by Lake Dufault's drop of 1¼ to 10¾ on volume of 137,586 township.

Reeve Charles Long has been returned by acclamation for his fourth term, but this year's deputy reeve Russell Glass and councillor Sidney Fitzgerald will fight it out at the polls for the deputy reeve's chair.

Councillors acclaimed are Bernard O'Sullivan, Delbert Harris and Eugene Wrazlo.

Acclaimed for No. 1 township area school board were Lorne Bridge, Ventures and Alvin McKenzie.

This year a second township school board — No. 2 — has been set up and all nominations for all five positions on the board were filled by acclamation. Members are Alvin McRae, Mac Tucker, Kenneth Chedwick, Elliott Embury and James McCullough.

Tyendinaga To Have Fight For Deputy

With all other township offices filled by acclamation, there will be an election for deputy reeve in Tyendinaga township.

Acclaimed for No. 1 township area school board were Lorne Bridge, Ventures and Alvin McKenzie.

This year a second township school board — No. 2 — has been set up and all nominations for all five positions on the board were filled by acclamation. Members are Alvin McRae, Mac Tucker, Kenneth Chedwick, Elliott Embury and James McCullough.

Announced earlier as the grand championship winner of the British Empire Dairy Show being held in Belleville this week Mr. T. S. Aicken of Belleville to Western Ontario made almost a clean sweep of the classes which he entered.

Mr. Aicken won all four firsts in the open classes and the Ontario Dairy Council cup, the manufacturers' class and the first prize for square block cheese.

STELTON WINNER

Glen Anderson, R.R. Campbellford, a first year showman at the Belleville show, won the Stelton class, his entry scoring the same points as that of Mr. Aicken but winning out by a high score for finished quality.

The Hastings county special class was won by Donald J. Pollock of Stirling, while the Junior Farmer class went to Mr. J. J. McDonald of St. Andrews, Ont.

Quinte district makers showing in the open classes included Mr. Aicken, Roy Hoffman of Corbyville, Ont., Reid Bros. of Harold, T. O. Heath of Wilson, Ont., Dekloe, Ivanhoe and William Johnson, Hillier.

The British Empire Cheese Show is being held in the former Dickens Tea Room north of the four corners on Front Street. Judging was to come at the show today and Thursday.

bubei and Kennedy, Adzhubei is believed here to have chosen this platform to give him the full record of the interview was published in Russia. Western readers in Russia were presented with the Soviet, as well as the Western viewpoint.

Kennedy said that the desire of the Western powers is to maintain "a very limited number" of U.S. British and French troops in West Berlin and to have, for example, an international administration on the autobahn (German superhighway) so that goods and people can move freely in and out.

Kennedy made the Berlin problem the central concern of most of his discussion with Adzhubei although he said the great long range "threat to peace" is the Kremlin's effort to spread the Communist system outward, taking over one country after another.

U.S. officials predicted that sometime following a meeting of foreign ministers in Paris in mid - December the Soviets probably will present to the Soviet Union their proposals for a Berlin settlement.

These proposals are expected to be aimed in the first place at the Western powers' plan for unification in relation to Berlin and the declared long-range purposes of reuniting East and West Germany, in other words, they will be the starting point for bargaining.

Department Will Provide Report On Winter Roads

The Ontario Department of Highways has announced that shortly the Port Hope district will be put on a two-way radio wave radio system so that instantaneous reports on road and weather conditions can be made to the department's Winter Road Reporting Service.

This service is provided on a 24-hour, seven-days-a-week basis with reports being funnelled into an information centre in Toronto. Reports are received at most six times daily, are then compiled and transmitted via a teletype system to the department's 18 district offices.

Travellers can find out what conditions they may expect to encounter on the roads ahead of them by phoning any of these district offices in this area there are three district offices — Kingston (Liberty 2-7251), Port Hope (Turner 5-3401) and Bancroft (730).

Burning Car Found in Bush Within Limits

City police are still investigating theft of an automobile which was found burning in the bushes on Dr. Hindley Scott's property on North Front Street, Tuesday.

Police said Alex Manjurias, of 246 Ann Street, reported his car had been stolen from in front of his residence on Monday.

Inspector McLauchlan said when they found the car, an 1954 Oldsmobile sedan, it had been completely gutted inside. Damage was estimated at about $400.

Police as yet have been unable to come up with any new clues in the incident.

Tatham, McFarland Bids Low for Addition, School

Bids of The Tatham Company Ltd., of Belleville, and the H. J. McFarland Construction Company of Trenton were the low tenders received for the construction of the six-roomed addition for the Harry J. Clarke School, and for the five-roomed Parkdale School.

The Tatham Company bid at $121,770 was the lowest of five received, for the Harry J. Clarke School, while the McFarland tender at an even $131,000 was the lowest of seven bids for the Parkdale School.

The tenders were opened this week at a special meeting of the Belleville Public School Board and subject to approval of the Ontario Municipal Board for funds and the Ontario Department of Education for legislative grant, the board is prepared to accept the low-est tenders in each case.

The Tatham Company bid for the Harry J. Clarke School addition was approximately $9,000 below the high tender, while the McFarland tender for the Parkdale School was about $12,000 under the high-est bid.

Total cost for the Harry J. Clarke addition, including architects' fees, furniture and other contingencies, is $139,500, and for the Parkdale School $148,500. Total debenture requirements for the two projects will be $288,000.

Approve Loan Of $156,667 for Sewer Projects

OTTAWA — The Federal government has approved a loan of $156,667 to the Town of Trenton, Ontario, to assist in the construction of a sewage treatment project.

The announcement was made today by Hon. Jean Lesage, Minister of Resources and Development, on behalf of Hon. Davis J. Walker, minister responsible for the operations of the Federal housing agency, Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation.

Made under Part VI-B of the National Housing Act, the loan is for a term of 30 years with interest at 3½ per cent per annum. The loan is based on an estimated cost of $235,000.

The town of Trenton is implementing a staged program recommended by consultants in 1957, directed towards reducing pollution of Trent River and Bay of Quinte. The present plant and some interceptor sewers have been built and the further stage is now proposed which consists of an interceptor sewer on the west side of Trenton and a trunk sewer on Oldfield Street, both of which will intercept sewers presently discharging into the Trent River. The NHA loan will assist in the corporation of $10 feet of 24-inch sewers on Front Street and 4,650 feet of 24-inch and 3,350 feet of 21-inch sewers on Sidney Street.

Under Part VI-B of the National Housing Act, Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation may make a loan to a municipality or to a municipal sewerage authority for the purpose of assisting in the construction or expansion of a sewage treatment plant or a project must be part of an overall plan for the elimination or prevention of water and soil pollution.

For loans completed on or before March 31, 1963, CMHC may advance a maximum of 25 per cent of the principal amount of the NHA loan and 25 per cent of the estimated cost of work or has been paid in respect to the loan as of the date of completion of the project.

Barn Is Razed By Flash Fire

TRENTON — Shortly after 11:30 p.m. yesterday a flash fire destroyed a barn containing about 400 bales of hay and a combine on the property of Mrs. Harry Helyer, R.R. 1, Wooler.

The fire was discovered by Mrs. Helyer shortly after her husband, who also works with a railroad, had left for work. She turned in the alarm stating the alarm turned in by the party line in the Helyer telephone is on.

When the Trenton Fire Department arrived on the scene it was too late to save the barn and its contents. No other buildings were damaged. The amount of the loss has yet to be estimated.

Mr. Helyer reported that about 11:30 p.m. the family had growled and that he had made an inspection of the barn at that time but found nothing amiss.

Kingston Ship Yards Donate Boat to Cadets

TRENTON — A 26-foot life boat was received by the Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Corps "Trent" yesterday afternoon from Kingston. The boat was donated to the Corps by the Kingston Ship Yards and will form the basis of a water project for the local Sea Cadets if money quarters where the boat may be worked on can be found. Lt. Bert Curtis, commanding officer, said today.

Lt. Curtis and Sub Lt. Denis Atkins, training officer, were responsible for discovering the availability of the boat and in contacting it towards the local corps. The craft was delivered from Kingston through the courtesy of No. 6 Repair Depot of the RCAF.

It is intended that the lifeboat be rebuilt to accommodate a motor and be outfitted to carry about 15 Sea Cadets. It will become a valuable training craft for the local corps, which now numbers 40 cadets, in the years ahead, Lt. Curtis said.

Build Machine To Cut Weeds In Quinte Bay

TRENTON — Lee Grills, M.P. for Hastings South, reports to the House of Commons by the Department of Public Works that a large weed cutter is being constructed at Trenton and that it will be used to cut weeds in the Bay of Quinte next year.

He said that since the weed situation had been brought to the attention by the industrial and economic development committee of Trenton Council, headed by Councillor Lloyd Worrall, the department has made preliminary soundings of the bay and that the weed cutting had been done.

Mr. Worrall reminded the council committee for its work last year stating that such a committee could get action from government sources by bringing the matter to the municipality before the departments concerned.

no pricing agreement among pharmaceutical drug companies, certain practices tended to establish prices at a high level.

Unlike some other industries, he said, there was no real competition in price but money spent on promotion and advertising could be wasted and extravagant. This might result in profits being down but prices remaining up.

COUNSEL DISAGREES

Disagreement with Mr. Macdonald's testimony was expressed by F. R. Hume of Toronto, general legal counsel, Canadian Pharmaceutical Manufacturers' Association.

Mr. Hume said no one could seriously argue that any businessman would deliberately be extravagant and wasteful to cut down his profits. It had been shown that companies had to resort to promotion to keep their share in the market.

He considered much of the evidence presented before the commission was merely an expression of opinion and comment on the general lack of public interest in the commission's sittings. None of the testimony showed anywhere that a monopolistic situation existed in the pharmaceutical drug industry, he added.

Rotarians Hear Arthur Duncan

TRENTON — Speaking at the Trenton Rotary Club on Monday night, Arthur Duncan, public relations officer at the Bata Shoe Company of Canada, paid tribute to Owen Herity, a former publisher of the Daily Ontario. Mr. Duncan said that Mr. Herity had been a member of the Belleville Rotary Club and that he had attributed his success in the business world to his association with Rotary. Mr. Duncan said that Mr. Herity had been in demand as a guest speaker from "one end of the country to the other" and that he had done a wonderful selling job for this part of Ontario.

Mr. Duncan said that as a non-Rotarian, he had a great regard for the senior service club. He said that the work Rotarians do was "quiet and good" and that the members had "a certain appreciation for the small things of life."

"As we take short cuts these days, there are a good many times when we can use more of appreciation," Mr. Duncan said. "Even our work is more streamlined. In reading condensations we lose the gist of writing." Mr. Duncan said that he had contributed to the greatness of Canada.

Mr. Duncan was introduced to the club by Earl Stewart, personnel manager of Bata Shoe and thanked by William House Sr., charter president of the Trenton Rotary Club.

One Can Respect a Foe, Too

George Matthew Adams, the author of "Today's Talk" which appears regularly on this page, the other day praised the many virtues of respect.

We would not dream of quarrelling with most of what he said, but in one important aspect we think his appraisal fell disastrously wide of the mark.

Mr. Adams wrote of respect as the prelude to love and admiration. Now it is probably true that a love without respect would be more akin to infatuation than to real love. But nowhere in Mr. Adams' remarks was there any recognition of a most important fact—that it is possible to respect not merely our friends, but also our enemies.

We have only to state this fact for most of us to recognize its truth. We all know people with whom we violently disagree, for whom we may even have a keen personal dislike, and yet whom we nevertheless respect—for their honesty, ability and courage.

Indeed, it could be argued that much that is the matter with the world today is the result of our failure to respect enemies who deserve it. Not that they suffer much from our failure to pay them their just due, but rather that we suffer, by underestimating the force of their arguments, the vitality of their personalities and the strength of their will. Hence only leads to avoidable defeats, but makes bitter and deep those defeats which were unavoidable in any case.

Half the sting of defeat is erased if it is to an enemy we respect but humiliating indeed is the triumph of a foe for whom we hold nothing but contempt. There are enough adversaries who deserve to be despised without unjustly adding to their number those who deserve to be respected.

Shortage Soon Over

One of the major problems of today, we have been told, is educating workers so that they are fitted for the type of jobs which will be open in an age of automation. Particular stress is being put on the need for scientists and technologists, this need frequently being accompanied by a comparison between the number of such people turned out by countries in the West and the comparable figure for Communist Russia.

Now UNESCO Features reports that a report by the Manpower Committee of the United Kingdom Advisory Council for Scientific Policy says that in four years' time the supply of scientists and technologists in Britain will be roughly equal to the demand.

It would be interesting to know comparable figures for Canada, but in their absence we shall perhaps not go too far astray if we assume that a largely similar situation exists here.

The Manpower Committee emphasizes that this does not mean that efforts to expand scientific education should be relaxed. The surplus of qualified scientific manpower which may exist by 1970 should be welcomed, it says, since it will make possible the use of trained personnel on a rational, as opposed to an emergency, basis.

At the same time, this seems to effectively dispose of the argument that the day is dawning when every person will need a university education. This was always untrue, for like the effect of machines is just as often to simplify, as it is to complicate, any task. Moreover, the level of ability of the average man and woman is often under-estimated. Given a repetitive task, most can be trained to do it efficiently, even if it involves some highly technical accomplishments in a limited, specified area.

Moreover, today all of us assimilate a certain degree of mechanical skill. We cannot escape the conviction that it is easier for the present-day teen-ager to learn to drive a car at high speeds on modern highways than it would be for the same teen-ager to acquire the technique of harnessing Dobbin to the shafts of a buggy and making him "Giddap" and "Whoa" upon demand.

I think more people want to watch television than take a bath.—Census director Richard Scammon, asked to explain why TV sets outnumber bathtubs in America.

In the movies they give you a police escort if you're late. Here, they put you in jail.—Yvonne Toth, 21, of Cleveland, whose fiance was arrested while speeding to their wedding.

Speech is civilization itself. The word, even the most contradictory word, preserves contact—it is silence which isolates.—Thomas Mann.

Letter To The Editor

Says Sunday Sport Is Edge of Wedge

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

With the referendum on Sunday sports in the offing I feel it essential that each voter keep in mind the issues at stake. We realize the necessity of maintaining essential services on Sunday. But let us realize also that Sunday sports are the thin edge of the wedge that will inevitably lead to wholesale infiux of commercialism on Sunday. A study of modern society, particularly south of the border indicates this to be so. It is mandatory that we combat these commercial interests if we are to maintain a strong moral fiber. In the last analysis, this moral fiber of ours is the only real defence we have against communism.

He Is Really Shocking Man

Brockville Recorder and Times

Douglas Fisher, CCF member for Port Arthur, is a shocking man in the true sense of the word. Not shocking in the personal sense—we are a satisfying him—but shocking in that he is one of the most outspoken men in Canadian public life.

Not mealey-mouthed platitudes for him, but rather straight from the shoulder words which leave his audiences gasping and outraged. Whether one agrees with the man or not, Douglas Fisher makes people sit up.

His latest shocker has been aimed at the Province of Quebec, from which fresh rumblings of separatism are being heard, and which have been given added significance by the conflict over the appointment by Premier Marcel Chaput taking time off from his job as head of Defence Research Board in Ottawa to attend Laval University's first congress on Canadian Affairs in Quebec City.

Mr. Fisher called French Canada's bluff when he said in part: "Rene Levesque (Quebec Minister of Natural Resources) says, "We don't need you.' I'd be tempted to say that goes double.

"Where I come from," he added, "most of the people would welcome Incident No. 1. 'What have French Canadians got to offer us?'

"You'll have to prove to us," he went on, "that provincial autonomy is really a great thing. You'll have to prove we need bilingual cheques and all that kind of apparatus.

"It's all rather silly," he said, "especially if you have to think of the big economic, educational and strictly world problems facing Canada."

And that is where we find ourselves in agreement with Mr. Fisher. Let Quebec keep and foster its French traditions; but let us not have a disowning Confederation, particularly at a time when, as Fisher pointed out, the whole problems of grave national and international importance, which would the concept of separatism runs absolutely contrary to the trend of the post-Diefenbaker era, bringing Quebec into closer social and economic brotherhood with the rest of Canada.

Any split between Quebec and the rest of Canada would weaken the country at a time when unity was never more essential. It is against the extraordinary situation of the Maritimes, for example being cut off from the rest of Canada west of Quebec. It could create all sorts of problems for Canada as a whole, and Quebec in particular.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

November 29th, 1941.

Eighty-eight parcels of land were disposed of at the annual Sale for Taxes held earlier in the month at the County Court buildings. The remainder, some four hundred and forty lots and farms will be held for the adjourned sale being held early in December.

Radio operators in the city and district, who were found not to be in possession of their 1941 radio license, as provided by the Department of Transportation of the Dominion Government, are appearing in large numbers at the police station in Belleville this week in response to summonses issued by Radio Inspectors. A total of 64 charges were preferred in Belleville and district.

In an instructive address to the first Rotary meeting of the meeting held here this year, upwards of two hundred Rotarians of the Belleville, Trenton, Napanee, Campbellford and Tweed Clubs gathered in the main dining room of Hotel Quinte heard Mr. Thos. Rogers Rotarian of Belleville and Pictou Rotary Club. He spoke on the subject "Rotary" and delved into which the personal ideas and principles of the owner are not intimately linked to Call He revealed a keen business philosophy, learned through years of successful dealings with the public. "As Rotarians, we should endeavor to put our personalities in our business and in so doing we shall get rich and lasting results," he stated. Mr. Rogers was formally introduced to the district chimen by Past District Governor Alex Irwin who also accorded the appreciation of the gathering by Rotarian Dr. James Semple.

Food Surplus Is Not Great

Stratford Beacon - Herald

If your neighbor's house burns down some night and you take in the neighbor and his five children, to give them shelter in this emergency, you can reasonably take credit for a good deed. And a good hearty breakfast the next morning for your seven unexpected guests. But you shouldn't be cold grey dawn of misfortune with a big bonfire.

A night's lodging and a big stack of breakfast pancakes will help, but it will not solve their main problem. They will still be homeless, coatless, footless and perhaps penniless. You would not make the mistake of thinking you've done them a big turn. What you have done has helped, in a small way.

It is sad as well to keep things in the same sort of perspective, whatever you have—large, vague well-meaning talk about solving all the world's ills by giving away your food surpluses to the hungry people of the world, or a big help, right enough, about as much as an extra dime on the collection plate when the preacher roof on the church.

Canada is one of the few nations with food surpluses, among which the butter surplus is the most obvious and most embarrassing. If all the 130,000,000 pounds of spoiled butter in Canada were given away tomorrow to the people of Communist China, all or right hands could carry the lot to China and each of the Chinese could have a one-shot issue of four ounces of butter. After that it would be all gone.

Strictly Personal

Sense of Humor Can Help Save Your Children

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Almost the greatest gift that can be bestowed upon a lively sense of humor; in its own way it can be more important than moral or intellectual gifts. We cannot be so bright or as good as we should like to be — but a well-developed sense of humor compensates for these defects.

A child who is reared in an atmosphere of playfulness is, paradoxically enough, more equipped to cope with the serious aspects of living. For the harmful people in the world are invariably those who take the wrong things seriously, who cannot step away from themselves and achieve a quizzical perspective on their own goals and activities.

One function of intelligence consists in being able to see the fuzzy side of serious matters, and the serious side of fuzzy matters. The persons to whom the serious and the comical are never divided — the "all work and no play" kind, who are clearly labeled on each side are sadly deficient in their working view.

Of course, what we often call in ourselves a "sense of humor" can be quite something else — it can be hostility masquerading as humor or a feverish attempt at hilarity in order to escape serious issues. The person who turns everything into a laugh can be just as unbalanced as the one who turns everything into a tear.

But, in all the tracts on childrearing, we hear so much about the importance of family life, and so little about the ingredients — so much about discipline, habit, and training — and so little about the general atmosphere in the home that should surround and envelop these mechanical matters.

It is the home that gives the impression by a general attitude that a woman's lot is a hard one, that men are unreasonable and wrecking her own happiness, that life itself is given the impression by his father that life is wholly grim in the grave world, he will assume his male responsibilities reluctantly, if at all.

An emotionally depressed family life is more damaging to a child than any conscious "neglect" or "poor discipline" of any kind. A child can survive a lot of carelessness, or even in a certain amount of severity, so long as the basic atmosphere of the home is speckled with some sparkle, some gaiety, some gleam of laughter and nonsense.

We are so concerned with the "problem child" and the "child with the bare "do's" and "don't's" that we tend to forget the profound scriptural warning that the letter killeth while the spirit giveth life. The whole proper spirit in a household, although it cannot exist without it, no matter what the parents do is wrong, for a child cannot be brought up on the air around him than from the food inside him.

A Vancouver Sun editor, with a flair for statistics, has calculated that if all the food surpluses of North America were distributed to the undernourished people of the world, there would be enough to give every man, woman and child in the world a daily ration of rice every 17 days, 52 meals annually.

This is not to say that a generous use of surpluses would solve or give emergency help to people in impoverished or ill-governed countries, but it is a startling policy. It is, the mistake would be to over-rate its importance.

After the neighbor whose house was burned has been fortified with a big breakfast, he still has to settle himself to the task of providing a new home for his wife and children. If he does not tackle the job himself, no amount of charity will produce a good result in the long run.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

When we think of bullies, we think of men, or boys. It does not occur to us that there are female bullies. On account of their supposed fear for the fight, they are held to pull on from afar, short of the white post. The drive operator, for example, in the mounting passengers filled heavily, a middle-aged woman or elderly man or seven boarders climbed heavily on. The bus to enter was a middle-aged woman, heavily laden, and followed her. She was mad clean through. She pushed and shoved and jostled her way down the aisle, and found herself in the bus with a big fat wink. As she stepped forward, she was suddenly jogged the end of one of his parcels against the back of the driver's head. He tipped it down over the lady's eyes, the most infuriating thing that can happen to ladies. But nowhere for bullies.

Days Numbered

Fort William Times-Journal

The long-term fortunes of Fidel Castro are not easily prejudged, nor is there any generalization that the days of dictators have always been numbered in the history of human society.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

FOR GOD'S SAKE, THINK THIS OVER

Shall we have world disarmament? Kings pleasantly in our ears. Because great armaments have usually resulted in war, it is assumed that absence of armament will result in peace. But this is a delusion. The heart of man being as it is and the world organized as it is, disarmament at the present time would appear a dangerous delusion. Whether or not disarmament might be possible some time in the future no one can tell. To advocate its adoption now would be to be free world to extend an invitation to communism to come in and either cut our throats or fasten the iron collar about our necks.

The principal underlying disarmament is that if we do not pay any attention to war it will go away. This is not true. Communism could scarcely hide, (regardless of any inspection system), enough bombs to blow the free world to dust and we can be sure that they would do so. Communism is a criminal conspiracy. It exists for the avowed purpose of bringing the whole of humanity under the dominance of a few men for the benefit especially of the leaders of the world, but in reality for the purpose of allowing a few to dominate the life of the many. It is a matter of fact it is only another instrument of tyranny.

Let us eagerly embrace every opportunity to reduce armament but not to abolish it. Swords will someday be beaten into plowshares and spears into pruning hooks, but not under Communism — under the Lord, wielding His powerful and righteous purposes in the hearts of men.

Disarmament is a delusion. It is the most dangerous of modern delusions.

Knee Reflex Could Mean Something or Nothing

By Joseph C. Molner, M.D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: When the doctor taps on the knee and there is absolutely no response or reaction, what does this mean?—Mrs. A. C.—."

I've sometimes suspected that this useful little bit of diagnostic procedure might worry some patients out of proportion to its importance.

As a matter of fact — and I hope that I'm not giving away any professional secrets — a physician often learns or surmises as much from seemingly casual observations as he does from some of the more obvious tests.

Just between us, if a patient shows up 75 pounds overweight, huffing, puffing, walking as though his feet hurt — well, I'm not going through the entire gamut.

So when the physician attaches the cuff and takes the blood pressure, he may not stand on the way he expects, what's he supposed to say? He says, "Um-hum." Or "Pressure's a bit high."

He'll get back to tapping patient on his perfectly normal knee. The test has significance only if it is related to the total physical condition.

People with, say, very common trouble of diabetes may have no reflex, for example.

Older people may likewise lack a knee reflex and yet not have any indication whatsoever of any new disorder.

There are scores of other things I could mention, all of which including the patient who tries to make his leg jump by saying 23 inches just because he supposes that it's expected.

This certainly doesn't fool the doctor. Thank goodness.

If doctors relied on these tests, he may do them with no preconceived ideas at all. With others, he makes them just for confirmation. With still others, he wants to know the answer, and he does.

The same test, with different patients, can mean much or little, something or nothing. Like a TV repairman, he knows that testing your set. The reading may be 5 volts or 130 or zero. It may mean that a tube has burned out, or the plate voltage is low, or a bias resistor has gone bad. You can't say, "What does 128 volts mean?" because it depends entirely on the whole situation.

So if your knee kicks or doesn't, I wouldn't worry about it unless the doctor says the whole examination means something.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Does infant food prepared in the home from fresh vegetables, fruits, meats, etc. daily have more nutritional value than commercially prepared (I use a jar)? — T. T."

The Vitamin C content may be slightly higher in freshly prepared food at home, but there is little difference in the other vitamins or the protein, carbohydrate, fat or mineral content. And the lessened amount of Vitamin C is easily compensated by daily orange, tomato or other juice.

• • •

"Dear Dr. Molner: I'm 31 and in good health but have not had a menstrual period in two years. Is it possible for me to become pregnant?—Mrs. M.F."

Hardly.

How to get rid of leg cramps and foot pains? The answer may be simple. Write to Dr. Molner in care of the Chicago Sun Times Syndicate, P.O. Box 5283, Chicago, Ill., for a copy of my leaflet, "How To Stop Leg Cramps and Foot Pains," enclosing a long, self-addressed, unstamped envelope and 10c in coin to cover cost of handling and postage.

Nearly $1,000,000 has been awarded by a Brooklyn jury to former pensoner who died in a plane crash.

Trans-Canada Airlines was held responsible when a flight from Chicago crashed into the East River in June, 1958, as Idlewild Guardia airport in February, 1956.

A public relations man, who had both legs broken in the accident and suffered internal injuries, was awarded $450,000. A widow of an engineer who was recovered from the river was awarded, today, got $425,000. Another passenger received $28,000 for brain concussion.

Had the plaintiffs made an international flight the liability may be less. Under conventions signed by 32 nations would have been limited to $8,300 per person. There is no limit to airline liability for domestic flights if negligence is proved.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

WANTING AND WANTING

I don't see how any one is going to amount to much or get very far if he does not keep wanting things, wanting to be somebody, wanting to do something worth while, wanting more than anything ever done before and in a much more original way.

A big order of wants, all right. But what else matters? That is the way in them, after all!

Wants are what make a man or woman walk ahead. They arouse and stimulate the imagination and keep one from sinking up many a tottering desire to get ever be a Fulciman.

A great American engineer once told me he attributed his success to the fact that he always wanted things so badly that he went ahead and got the things about which he had dreamed.

As a man grows in great wealth and power, his wants grow less.

We who have so much less are really the richest — for we have wants to burn! But what a world of happiness comes to each want is chased until it comes into the fold. After a while these wants that come to be our very own in some substantial guise help to round out our character and create our individual world.

Wants and wants should always be of an individual cast — wants which would, indeed, make wants you bigger and others happier.

Wants should glorify the one who perfects them.

I asked a little chap one day what he wanted most in the things and he promptly replied that he wanted to be a Policeman. He had a definite want. And it made him happy. I doubt very much he will be a Policeman. But that doesn't matter. It's living of a want and having it realized in the end counts.

Perhaps you do not want any things, and you have nothing to work for, or wait, for them; or maybe you do not want hard enough?

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

By R. J. SCOTT

National Ballet to Be Presented Saturday Evening at Collegiate

When the National Ballet of Canada comes to Belleville this evening of December 2nd — ballets from several countries and in a variety of productions will be presented at the High School Auditorium.

The productions range from the immortal classics such as "Princess Aurora" to a present-day comedy sensation direct from London, England, entitled "One in Five".

Prima Ballerina, Lois Smith, premiere dancer, Earl Kraul, principal soloists Lillian Jarvis and Angela Leigh, head a large roster of brilliant soloists and corps de' ballet.

Because of the music of the ballet this season, extraordinary attention is focussed on the National Ballet's own touring orchestra conducted by George Crum, permanent musical director. Walter Bobiak is assistant conductor and David Zeller, concert master and violin soloist.

LEADING SOLOISTS

Galina Samtsova, Earl Kraul and Lillian Jarvis are leading soloists in George Balanchine's "Concerto Barocco" staged for the National Ballet by Una Kai, Mr. Balanchine's assistant. Music for this modern work is from Bach's violin Concerto in D Minor.

Choreographer Ray Powell, a soloist from Britain's famous Royal Ballet, first presented the comedy "One in Five", at the London Ballet Club. It was an immediate sensation drawing unusual praise from the London Times, the Manchester Guardian, dance magazines and audiences alike.

A musical medley from the operettas of Josef and Johann Strauss have been compiled into a lively accompaniment. Starring are Angela Leigh, Rene Meister, Kenneth Melville, Mozjer Wiseman and Patricia Hurde. A simple back-stage story, it tells of five clowns who discover a stage unused between performances and proceed to disport themselves.

CONCERTO BAROCCO

Galina Samtsova appears this year for the first time with the National Ballet in "Concerto Barocco". Described as a ballet "of pure dancing" and as a "classic ballet in the abstract manner" this is a work new to the ballet repertoire. The production calls for several principal soloists and eight other dancers of technical virtuosity. Its premiere was in the United States in the 1940's.

Miss Samtsova — Russian born, is the talented product of a life-long and intensive devotion to, and training in, ballet. At 12 by application to the Kiev State Choreography School was accepted. Then followed 8 years of 8 days a week studies, 10 month a year.

Born in Stalingrad, she was a child during the historic siege. Later she and her family moved to Kiev. During her four years with the Kiev Company she advanced quickly from the corps de ballet to the rank of first soloist.

In the summer of 1961, Miss Samtsova and Rand Meister a fellow soloist in the National Ballet, made their debut at Jacob's Pillow.

BRILLIANT STYLE

Critics said "the lovely Blond Ballerina has brilliant style and line in the exciting Bolshai tradition. Miss Samtsova reveals a fluidity of movement through a beautiful body that flows without a broken ripple". She was married in 1960 to Alex Uruilal, Canadian-born technician of character dancing. They came to Toronto in October of 1960 and made it home in that city.

Miss Samtsova is new to us — "Concerto Barocco" is new to us — the combination should prove intriguing and exciting.

ise on agriculture begin sitting Dec. 7. He said he had already been approached by officials from the Ontario Federation of Agriculture.

The federation has asked for legislation requiring dealers to keep adequate stocks on farm machinery parts as well as control of distribution and testing of new equipment.

They also want an inspection service set up to enforce the law and establishment of a farm machinery board.

CLAIMS VILIFIED

Speaker William Murdoch, the legislature's presiding officer when Ken Bryden (NDP—Toronto-Woodbine) rose to accuse a Progressive Conservative member of "unfounded personal vilification" against him.

Government and opposition members shouted from their benches. Mr. Bryden claimed Allen Lawrence (PC — Toronto St. George) made an "intemperate attack" on him in a speech Monday in Mr. Bryden's riding.

Interjections eventually forced the Speaker to call for order and the debate ground to a halt.

Municipal Affairs Minister Kelly said the Ontario Municipal Board has not yet been formally seized to rule in a dispute that has kept 11 Hamilton district pupils out of school since classes began this year.

WANT BUS

The children's parents want a school bus to take the pupils to their homes in Saltfleet Township, an east-end Hamilton suburb. Mr. Case said the board wrote to ask the parents whether they would to make a formal application for a ruling, but no answer had been received.

Sitting in on the afternoon session were two former federal cabinet ministers — W. Ross Macdonald, former immigration minister and now Liberal MP for Bonavista - Twillingate in Newfoundland, and Paul Hellyer, former associate defence minister, now the Liberal member for Toronto-Trinity.

Mr. Pickersgill, making his first visit to the legislature, said, "we are anxious to help John Winterbottom win the five provincial by-elections in January."

Encampment, Oshawa Lodges Hold Rally

Members of the Encampment Lodges of Oshawa District No. 16 sponsored a rally in honor of Kenneth Sise, Peterborough Grand Patriarch of the Order.

Encampment of Ontario at the I.O.O.F. Hall, Oshawa, last Saturday night. D.D.G.P. Herbert Terwilliger, of Oshawa District No. 19, acted as Chief Patriarch and opened the meeting at which time the visiting Patriarchs and the D.D.G.P. were introduced also the Grand Patriarch, Kenneth Sise, Grand Scribe Lloyd C. Jones, and the Grand Inside Sentinel, Charles Anderson of the Grand Encampment of Ontario. They received the honors of the Order in the afternoon.

Kawartha Encampment No. 8 conferred the Golden Rule Degree in the evening.

Ontario Encampment No. 1 conferred the Royal Purple Degree. Both degrees were well done.

Grand Patriarch Kenneth Sise gave an address which was well received.

Grand Scribe, Lloyd C. Jones, brought greetings from Hamilton and the Grand Inside Sentinel, Charles Anderson, spoke briefly. D.D.G.P. Farley Parnell of District No. 36 brought greetings from his district and invited all to attend his rally on April 7th, 1962 in Stirling. His District was Picton No. 72, Stirling No. 73, Trenton No. 79 in Encampments. After this a banquet was enjoyed and a pleasant hour spent.

Mr. Frondizi said Argentina is ready to consider the idea of a western hemisphere trading community, but only on condition that the differences between development levels in Europe and South America are taken into account.

JOINT NEW MARKET?

However, he suggested that Canada could profitably explore the possibility of exchanges with the Latin American Common Market, an eight-country grouping which now is getting into business. Mr. Frondizi was one of the principal architects of the plan.

He warned that precipitate action is dealt with Communist-oriented Cuba could lead to a rift in the inter-American system.

At the same time he indicated that Argentina will work hard to unify hemispheric viewpoints on how to deal with the Cuban situation.

In an address at the University of Ottawa, he called for closer co-ordination of Anglo and Canadian diplomatic efforts throughout the Americas "and in the forums of the world."

Mr. Frondizi did not directly mention possible Canadian membership in the Organization of American States, but his words seemed to indicate that he had this in mind.

He has been a strong advocate of Canadian participation in the inter - American group, which embraces the United States and the 20 Latin American republics.

Construction in Thurlow For First Ten Months of Year Close to Half Million

Construction in the township of Thurlow for the first ten months of the year totalled close to half a million dollars it is noted in the township council report.

A total of 71 building permits were issued including 38 permits for residences and 11 for commercial properties. New housing construction for the period was valued at $255,500 with total for the ten months being $460,050.

During the year an active program of sidewalk construction has been carried out by the township with 2,800 lineal feet of four-foot walk constructed at Corbyville, Plainfield and Foxboro.

150 Attend CGIT Rally At St. John's

TWEED — The CGIT rally for Belleville Presbytery was held at St. John's United Church on Saturday. The registration in charge of Lorna Parks, Cathy Van Allen, J. Boothe and Jackie Higgins took place from 10.00 to 10.30 a.m.

Words of welcome were given by Janet Graham, president of Tweed CGIT. The morning session included hymns, introduction of guests, ministry, recreation and singsong.

Dinner was served at 12.30 p.m., with Mrs. Lincoln Elliott saying grace. Thanks were expressed to the hostesses.

The afternoon session began at 1.30 p.m. with the CGIT purpose, hymn and motto by all, led by Springbrook.

The guest speaker, Mr. Putnam, was introduced by Mrs. C. Holmes. He gave an illustrated talk on his life in Africa, which was interesting and informative.

The meeting closed with "Taps" and Benediction by the Rev. Douglas Louis of Tweed. There were 150 present at the rally.

Centre Street Explorers Receive Stars

The Explorer girls of Centre St. Church held their initiation ceremony last Wednesday evening in the church room with chief councillor, Mrs. F. Stapley, and counsellor Mrs. Wood, presiding.

Mrs. Stapley welcomed the mothers and the meeting came to order with singing "Story of Jesus".

Mrs. Wood explained the meaning of the Explorer theme. The Scripture reading was from Luke 6:46-49, she finished by saying, "Jesus also said 'You are my friends, if you do what I command'.

The children sat in a circle representing the world facing a table with an open Bible and a picture of "Follow Me", also one of Jesus teaching the children with the motto. The girls stood and gave their Explorer hymn, "This is My Father's World".

Mrs. Stapley asked the girls who were to receive their first red star to step forward and Mrs. Wood presented them with their star and congratulated them. They were as follows: Rosella Cooper; Kathy Tobotson; Linda McCoy; Cheryl Reid; Joyce Peckat; Linda Pearson; Sheila Hancock and Marlene Brant.

Second red star — Lorna Reddick; First Blue Star—Darlene Vesterfelt; Debbie Beal; Patty Sobmenborn; Brenda Sweet, Jo Anne Lucas. These girls have all worked hard in the past six weeks. On behalf of Mrs. Wood and Mrs. Stapley who were proud of the progress and thanks were expressed to the mothers who have offered their services.

MEMBERSHIP CERTIFICATES

The girls also received their membership certificates and some of them their pins.

The Rev. Vessey spoke to the girls on their work as Explorers and told them how pleased he was to see so many of them out. Mr. Vessey thanked the mothers who were present to see their daughters receive their awards.

Refreshments were served by Miss Rilla Wood and Miss Linda Stapley. An enjoyable half hour was had by all.

Kingston Mother Has Had Three Sets Twins in Row

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP)—The odds against having twins are said to be about 80 to 1.

They don't mean a thing to Mrs. Beverley Rea, though. The 36 - year - old brunette is the mother of seven children under the age of six and has had three sets of twins in a row.

Mrs. Rea and her husband Paul had no inkling of what they were in for when Karen Lynn, the oldest child, was born 5½ years ago.

A year and a half later along came Paula and Patti. Twenty-one months ago Michelle and Michael arrived. A few weeks ago Diane and David appeared on the scene.

"Just fine!" was Beverley's reply when asked how she felt about having so many so quickly. She admitted, however, there had been moments of panic but with the help of friends and family, they've come through.

"We worried when our family jumped from one to three when the first set of twins was born and again when the second set came along but somehow we have always managed."

NO DIAPER REVIVAL

Mr. Rea is an advertising salesman for the Kingston Whig-Standard. On days when the wife does the washing and is up at 5:30 a.m., he feeds the older children breakfast.

"Days when he has to work at that time are pretty ragged," she admitted as she sat curled up on a chesterfield in the evening. "But somehow we always manage to get through."

Mrs. Rea said diaper service until the arrival of the last set of twins. Now she has an automatic clothes drier and feels she can manage by herself.

For the first time, Mrs. Rea's three sets of twins is identical and the parents are thankful for that.

WELLINGTON W.I.

WELLINGTON—The regular meeting of the Wellington Women's Institute was held on the evening of November 21st in the Wellington Town Hall. Mrs. Wilson, vice-president, presided, due to illness of the president, Mrs. Tripp.

During the business portion of the meeting thank-you cards were read from Mrs. Hilda Taylor, Cary Wannamaker, Mrs. G. Green, and Helen, Mrs. C. Upton, Mrs. G. Baitley, Mrs. A. Archard, Mrs. B. Givson and the Robbins family, Mrs. Ralph Moore replenished the birthday box.

The following items of business were moved and carried that drivers be paid for trips to Greenbush and Belleville; that $10 be sent to the Muscular Dystrophy Association; that $10 be donated to the Prince Edward County Home Auxiliary and that glazed paper plates and slaughter Christmas turkey for the finnish party are to be bought and everyone is to bring their own dishes.

Mrs. Kenneth Wood gave an interesting talk on the area conservation held recently in Belleville.

The program was in charge of Mrs. Perry Spencer, hostess for the evening. Current events were given by Mrs. Ralph Moore and a piano solo by Mrs. Norman Foster was enjoyed. Mrs. Spencer introduced the guest speaker, Miss Faulkner, public health nurse. Miss Faulkner spoke on the drawbacks of T.B. which proved a most interesting subject to all.

Mrs. Wood expressed appreciative thanks to Miss Faulkner for this most informative address on T.B.

The meeting closed and refreshments were served by Mrs. Spencer and her group.

SEVEN UNDER SIX—Mr. and Mrs. Paul Rea of Kingston are surrounded by their seven children—all born in the last six years. The seven include three sets of twins, born successively. The young Reas are (left to right): Patti, 2½; Michael and Michelle, 21 months; Karen Lynn, 5½; David and Dianne, three weeks; Paula, 3½. (CP Photo).

Each child is different and the Reas feel they are basically happier in each other's company as a result.

An accomplished seamstress, Beverley sews most of the girls' clothes as well as her own. The biggest item in the family clothing budget is shoes.

"Paul's first words every payday when he comes in the door are 'Who needs shoes this time?'"

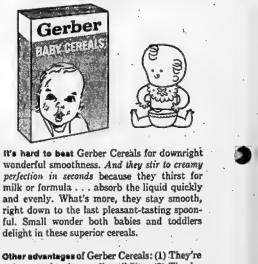
Mrs. Rea recalls that origin-ally she had had a row with his wife and added: "You can't be too careful."

Women's Activities

WHITBY W.A.

WHITBY DISTRICT — Mrs. Clayton Sickle opened her home on Thursday afternoon for the November meeting of the Whitby Woman's Association with the president, Mrs. William Yateman, presiding. The devotional service was taken by Mrs. George Bilham who read John 3 followed by a reading, "The Amazing Love of God." A poem, written by Gail Sprague, of Trenton, "In Remembrance," was read by Mrs. Arnold Ketcheson. "Faith of Our Fathers," was sung.

A combined meeting of the associations of Wesley, Whitby, and Centenary will be held on Thursday evening at Centenary United Church with Mrs. Clarence Holmes as guest speaker.



Mrs. Yateman tendered her resignation as president. Mrs. Jerwyn Palmer, Mrs. William Yateman and Mrs. Arnold Ketcheson were named to act as a nominating committee.

Some buns were sold by Mrs. Yateman.

A delicious lunch was served by the hostess and a social time was enjoyed.

smoothness supreme

It's hard to beat Gerber Cereals for downright wonderful smoothness. And they stir to creamy perfection in seconds because they thirst for milk or formula . . . absorb the liquid quickly and evenly. What's more, they stay smooth, right down to the last pleasant-tasting spoonful. Small wonder both babies and toddlers delight in these superior cereals.

Other advantages of Gerber Cereals: (1) They're twice-tested to insure digestibility. (2) They're enriched with blood-building iron, bone-building calcium and B-vitamins for appetite and growth.

Gerber Cereals, like all Gerber Baby Foods, are prepared by specialists with "inside knowledge" in infant nutrition.

Attractive Brown-Gold Tea, Bazaar Held by Wesley WA

The little brick church on the Trent Road was the setting for the annual fall tea sponsored by the Wesley Women's Association. Guests, present from many of the surrounding churches, were welcomed at the door by Mrs. W. Denyes, president of the W.A., and Mrs. F. Townsend, wife of the pastor the Rev. F. F. Townsend, who officially opened the bazaar with Thanksgiving and thanks for such a beautiful day.

Mrs. Clarence Lang acted as treasurer.

The guests were greeted with a warm color scheme of brown, yellow and gold with decorations of colorful fruit and leaves.

The apron booth was convened by Mrs. H. Rutter, assisted by Mrs. Watkin. Many styles and colors of aprons were on display.

The home cooking table was next with piles of many different kinds of loaf cakes; bread; cream puffs; angel food; tarts and cookies. Mrs. F. Wallis, Mrs. H. Dennis, Mrs. R. Hunt and Mrs. Burns were kept busy selling the many good things to eat.

LUSCIOUS CANDY

Mrs. H. Frederick, assisted by Doris Bastien, had charge of the candy booth. They had for sale a wide variety of candy including chocolate fudge and divinity in pretty containers. The display was most disposed of by the early shoppers — those booths were all decorated with brown and yellow paper streamers.

When the visitors had completed their shopping they were invited to the tea room by Mrs. E. Van Alstine where the east section of the church was screened off to form a tea room. Gold leaves cardboard, squirrels and acorns, brown and yellow crepe paper garlands decorated the screen.

The tea table at the front of the church was covered with an original gold cloth with brown and gold border. The crystal centrepiece held a beautiful arrangement of yellow and brown 'mums and golden wheat. Tall tapers of brown and gold in crystal holders with gold collars flanked the centrepiece. The plate centres were tiny gold baskets filled with miniature fruit. Gold and brown flowers and candles were placed on the altar, choir and piano, providing a pretty setting for the tea room.

Mrs. George Graham, Mrs. Roy Rickard, Mrs. E. Hall and Mrs. T. F. Townsend poured tea from the gleaming silver tea services.

Those serving a tempting array of sandwiches and cookies to the guests were Mrs. L. Wright, Mrs. R. Baker, Mrs. R. Kemmler, Mrs. McKeekin and Miss D. Rush.

Mrs. P. Carter replenished the tea and serving plates.

Helping in the kitchen were Mrs. G. Meyers, Mrs. G. Frost and Mrs. J. Stewart.

The proceeds of this event were most gratifying.

BOOTS HAGGIS

EDINBURGH (CP) — Lord Creighton, minister of state for Scotland, said here: "Haggis is a unique dish. If only we could describe it as 'haggis a la Edinburgh' it would be on all the world's menus."

Crossroads Africa' Told by Word, Film

A most interesting and rewarding afternoon was spent in Christ Church parish hall on Thursday when a large and appreciative audience was treated to the showing of films and narration, first by plane to New York, and then on, in the company of an earnest and enthusiastic group of young people to Africa, where the inhabitants of this vast continent are struggling to find independence and a new way of life.

Mr. Harvey Putman was the speaker and his films told the story of Africa and its people most eloquently. Mr. Putman was chosen from a large number of applicants to go with a group of young people from all church denominations to work with the African people; to live and labour with them; to show them in a practical way, that "when we say we want to be friends with them, we really mean it."

Mr. Putman spent 2½ months in Africa doing his missionary work in a most practical and satisfying manner. Not content with this remarkable work abroad, he is continuing to tell his story and show his films to as many people as possible. He is also sponsoring a student in Edmonton and Moses, Raymond Marsh, Maurice Ash, of Mador, brother-in-law of the bride, were ushers.

The reception was held at 167 Stanley Street, Belleville, where the bridal table was prettily appointed with white damask, and centred by a three-tier wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom beneath an arch of white flowers. Tall white tapers in silver holders and pink and white decorations completed the lovely setting.

The bride's mother, wearing a black and white gown with black accessories and corsage of carnations, received the guests with the groom's mother, Belleville, Crookston, Madoc, Picton and Tweed. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, wearing a green gown with matching hat and black accessories, with corsage of yellow carnations.

For the honeymoon to Niagara Falls and Toronto, the bride wore a turquoise blue dress with brown fur jacket; beige accessories and corsage of yellow roses.

Showers honoring the bride were held at the home of Mrs. Earl Mason of Belleville and Mrs. Alice Falkner, also of Belleville, when the co-workers of the bridegroom, Ont., presented the bride to be with a black and white chrome kitchen suite.

Mr. and Mrs. Rutton will reside at 73 North Front Street, Belleville.

PIONEER MILL

Manufacturing of cotton in Canada started in Sherbrooke, Que., with erection of a mill about 1845.

WEDDINGS

RUTTAN — YOUNG

Yellow and white chrysanthemums adorned the altar and while white bows the pews in the Church of St. Michael, Belleville, on November 25th, at 10.00 a.m., for the marriage of Carol Yvonne Young, of Smithfield, Ontario, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Young, of Crookston to Allen Joseph Ruttan, of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russel Ruttan. The Reverend Peter Murphy officiated. Ronald Marsh and Wayne Storms were altar boys.

The Reverend Sister Jean of Arc presided at the organ console and accompanied the soloist, Mr. James McGovern, who rendered the nuptial hymns.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiant in her bridal gown of Chantilly lace net and taffeta featuring a fitted bodice and skirt of lace and net over taffeta. She wore a finger-tip veil of illusion silk tulle, and carried a prayer book created with lace and white orchids with streamers knotted streamers.

Her only attendant was Mrs. Mary O'Brien of Belleville, sister of the bridegroom, who was charmingly gowned in street-length emerald green velvet, with matching leaf hat, white satin shoes, with carnation bouquet of baby yellow mums mingled with shades of fern.

Mr. Michael O'Brien of Belleville, cousin of the bridegroom, was groomsman, and Messrs.

LANGFORD — AMES

CAMPBELLFORD — St. John's United Church, Campbellford, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday, November 25th, when Lynne Morgan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Ames of Campbellford, became the bride of Gordon Clarence, son of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Langford of Warkworth. The Rev. Dr. D. M. Smith, of St. John's officiated.

Mrs. George Nicholls played the wedding music and soloist, Dennis Ahern of Toronto, sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "Because".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full-length princess style gown of peau de soie with long sleeves and rounded neckline, trimmed with seed pearls. Her shoulder length veil of nylon net was trimmed with lace and caught to a crown of seed pearls. She carried a Bible with a shower of yellow roses.

Attending the bride was Miss Evelyn Buchanan of Haverlock; Miss Joanne Ames of Campbellford as senior bridesmaids, and Miss Linda Langford of Warkworth, as junior bridesmaid. The senior bridesmaids wore princess style gowns of gold velvet with headdresses of rust veils with velvet bows and they carried bouquets of rust and gold 'mums. The junior bridesmaid's gown was in princess style of gold velvet with rust veil headdress with velvet bows, and she carried gold 'mums.

Mr. Robert Ames was groomsman and Stu Campbell and Doug Langford, were ushers.

A reception was held in St. John's auditorium, where the bride's mother received the guests, in an emerald green jacket dress of peau de soie with black and white accessories, and a corsage of yellow gerbenias. The bridegroom's mother also received in a wool pleated dress of burnt sienna with brown accessories and a corsage of brown orchids.

For a wedding trip to Niagara Falls, the bride wore a gray tweed suit with black and white accessories, and corsage of yellow roses. On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Langford will live in Oshawa.

Out-of-town guests were present from Warkworth, Baltimore, Cobourg, Georgetown, Havelock, Oshawa, Trenton and Trenton.

Prior to the wedding the bride was honored with a miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. W. Allan Jones and Miss Esther Jones.

WOOL INDUSTRY

In the United Kingdom's wool industry, about 85 per cent of woollens and 95 per cent of worsteds are made in Yorkshire.

MARSH HILL — The November meeting of Pine Grove W.I. was at the quiet meeting at the Marsh Hill School with the members of Chesterton W.I. as guests.

The president, Mrs. Charles Rose, opened the meeting.

As the members of Pine Grove W.I. had recently toured the Bell Telephone Company of Belleville, the roll call was answered with "an item of interest from the tour."

The collection taken will be sent to the Salvation Army as a Christmas gift.

Mrs. Charles Sayvell, convener of Canadian Industries, called on Mr. G. Saddard from the Bell Telephone Company who showed three films, which include one how the line was put up in the north, and one on the putting of the cable across the Atlantic and a musical one, "Tom, Dick and Harriett".

Miss Gwenda Detlor favored with a piano solo.

Refreshments were served and a social half hour spent.

PUMPKIN VARIETY

Early American settlers used pumpkins for soup, stew, pudding, bread and griddle cakes, as well as the favorite pumpkin pie.

Christmas Mincemeat

By Mary Moore

This year's recipe for mincemeat will please a lot of you, for it will help you with your holiday entertaining. Incident-ally, those apples and pears should be examined in the bushel basket that you bought, cut to be trimmed and used to good advantage here.

CHRISTMAS MINCEMEAT (in meat):

12 apples, peeled and grated, 2 lbs. fat (halves of beef, scalded and drained), 1 lb. currants (washed and dried), 1 cup ready-cut mixed peel, 1½ cups light brown sugar, 1 cup any fruit jelly, 2 teaspoons salt, 1½ teaspoons cinnamon, ½ teaspoon nutmeg, ½ teaspoon cloves, ¼ teaspoon mace, ¼ cup cider vinegar, juice and grated rind of 1 orange, juice and grated rind of ½ lemon, 2½ cups canned apple juice or boiled apple cider, 1 cup suet, finally grated.

Mix thoroughly, cook over low heat until mixture reaches boil. Simmer 10 minutes, stir constantly, pour into 7 sterile pint jars and seal.

How to make a Mince Pie from above mincemeat: For a well-filled 8" pie you need 2 cups mincemeat. If you prefer to use only one of the many spicers of mincemeat above, add ½ cup raw chopped apples. I like this addition of extra raw apples to the above.

Pastry for 8" pie: Two cups all-purpose flour, 1 teaspoon salt, ⅔ cup shortening (or ⅓ cup lard), 4 or 5 tablespoons ice cold water. Cut shortening or lard into flour and salt with pastry blender or 2 knives. Drizzle water over and mix with fork until all flour is barely dampened. Press into ball and divide in half. Roll out one half on lightly floured board to fit 8" pie plate. Line pie plate. Fill with mincemeat. Roll out second half and cut small fold over and gash at centre. Transfer to cover mincemeat, seal and trim and flute edge. Bake at 425 deg. Fahr. for 30-35 minutes.

If you would like to make a one-crust open pie make half of the above pastry, line pie plate and fill with mincemeat. Bake for 15 minutes at 425 deg. Fahr. Remove from oven and cover with Applesauce Meringue: Two egg whites, beaten stiff. Fold in: 3 tablespoons sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ cup sweet smooth applesauce, ½ teaspoon lemon juice. Bake 15 minutes longer at 350 deg. Fahr. or until tinged with gold. Serve warm.

Successful Living

Reader Offers Advice

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS: — Your answer to Question Mark should have been quite different. This man she is married to is a paranoid, in psychiatric language. It would require concentrated psychiatric treatment to make him human again.

Paranoids (and the majority of males are paranoids) present an exceedingly pleasant front to the public. To inflate their ego they ignore their wives, the mothers of their children, etc.

My advice to the poor mother is to get a full-time housekeeper (he can afford this if he can afford to run around without her) and make herself absent from home more or more days each week; take in all the events where the mixed sexes go; not tell him where she goes but look very happy.

This will make the old man see that two can play the game as "Gay and Unmarried." Men consider this their game, but women should play it too.

Life with a paranoid is living torture, as psychiatrists can tell you, and I am related to one so I speak with knowledge. —MRS. M. S.

* * *

DEAR MRS. M. S.:—According to Webster's New Collegiate Dictionary, Paranoia is "a chronic mental disorder characterized by systematized delusions of persecution and of one's own greatness, sometimes with hallucinations."

Do most men have delusions? My psychiatric adviser wonders whether the word you meant to use was philanderer." If I went along with either statement, I wouldn't value my life with the males of my own family.

And if this wife and mother were to leave her home to the care of a full-time housekeeper, it would be no delusion she'd be having if she found her children resenting unhappily.

* * *

DEAR DORIS:—I would like to help "Exhausted," whose letter appeared in your column of October 26. Having been through a similar situation I understand exactly how she feels.

My help came through Alcoholics Anonymous (of which my husband is now a member). There are also Al-Anon groups for wives of alcoholics. Through this group the wife learns how to understand and help both herself and her alcoholic husband. And there are Al-Ateen groups to help the teen-age children of these families.

I have found that just the fact that I could pick up my telephone any time and they were always there to talk to, or come right over, whichever the case might be, gave me the courage to go on when I thought I couldn't face another hour, never mind another day.

You see, Doris, in this wonderful group of A.A., as one is helped, then he in turn also wants to help. It is the most wonderful fellowship I have ever known. And it is one to which I will be ETERNALLY GRATEFUL.

* * *

DEAR DORIS:—I have just received an engagement ring and as I shall not be married until June 9th I would like information as to when to announce my engagement in the papers.—A. FAITHFUL READER.

DEAR FAITHFUL READER: — This is a matter of personal indination. If you want to announce it while it is still news, do it now.

However, the preference of brides in Belleville seems to be for an announcement about a month ahead of the Big Day.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Nancy H. — I'd like to invite my mother-in-law to move in with us, but everyone warns against it.

Caroline T. — She's inviting disaster. It never works out, trying to keep three generations happy.

* * *

Nancy H. — From the reaction of my sisters and my friends, you'd think I was trying to make water run uphill, when all I'm proposing is to have my 73-year-old mother-in-law move in with us!

She's in excellent health, living alone in a furnished room in Chicago, 500 miles from us. My husband, as her only child, sends her a monthly check, plus carfare to visit us twice a year. Last summer when we all motored out to her place, we got the idea of consolidating. It has advantages for all of us.

We have two young children, a boy of 9 and a daughter of 13. A grandchild on the premises appeals to them as a treat.

Mother H. is a dear. I'm sure we could work things out.

* * *

Caroline T. — I'm one of Nancy's friends who's trying to talk sense into her in order to avert tragedy. These aren't the dear old crinoline days when houses were homesteads and there was plenty of room for all the generations under one roof. Nancy has a small split-level and she's planning to make her daughter share her bedroom with Grandma. As one who did the same, I can assure her neither Grandma nor young Joan will like that one bit.

In this day and age the sentimental things haven't a chance and Nancy's just being sentimental. Once she gets down to brass tacks and thinks of such problems as interference, arguments over TV programs and guests, she'll leave well enough alone.

* * *

The Council: Sorry to be trite but Caroline must be reminded that there are mothers and mothers. When the three-generation home doesn't work out, the reason usually lies in the temperaments of the leading ladies. It's not pure chance that the Chinese symbol for the word trouble, so we're told, is two women under one roof!

Occasionally the stratified setup can succeed. A Waterville, Me. woman shares the here's-how tips that worked for her when she invited an elderly lady friend to move in. The requirements seem to be these: blendable personalities plus acceptance of a set of rules. It might be harder for Nancy to enact concurrence to rigid regulations from a relative, than it was for the other housewife to "talk turkey" to a friend. So Mother H. sounds like a friend. So here, for Nancy, are suggestions from a household of three-generation togetherness:

1. Basic Attitude: No individual will dominate this family.

2. Housing Space: Privacy is paramount. Adjustments to this end will be made.

3. Finances: The senior guest must have money to call her own.

4. Responsibilities: To stay active and maintain self-respect she will have definite, though light, duties.

5. Children: Bringing them up is the parents' responsibility. They will learn consideration and appreciation for the elderly.

6. Family Social Life: Include the guest in activities such as movie trips, family occasions and visits. She is not an "separate" parties. She is encouraged to invite her own friends for lunch or tea.

7. Health: Besides adequate health insurance, preventative checkups by doctor and dentist must be arranged for. Mental health is aided by joining local clubs for retired persons and pursuing active interests.

80 Attend Scout Banquet

TWEED — The annual father and son banquet of the Boy Scouts and Cubs was held in the Odd Fellows' hall on the evening of November 22. There were about 80 fathers, sons and guests present to enjoy the repast catered by the Scout Ladies' Auxiliary.

Seated at the head table was Bill Marsh, an old Scoutmaster, Stan Cournoyer, Scout leader of the Sulphide group; the Rev. Purdie of the Pentecostal Church; Father Boyle of the Roman Catholic Church; the Rev. A. Sinclair of the Presbyterian Church; Mr. Larry Wilcox, the District Commissioner of the Boy Scouts, from Cobourg, Mr. Creighton, secretary-treasurer of the Association; Reeve Douglas Spencer; Mr. Harold Long, the Scoutmaster, and his wife, Betty Long, the Cubmaster.

The evening opened with Grace by th: Rev. J. Purdie.

Mr. Crainn introduced the guest speaker, Mr. Wilcox, who spoke on the work of the Boy Scouts and related instances where Scouting has helped men in later life.

The guest speaker was thanked by Scout Paul Bancroft and Cub Robert Anderson thanked the mothers for the lovely dinner.

CENTREPIECES JUDGED

Father Boyle and Mr. Sinclair judged the centrepieces which had been made by the boys. The first prize went to Robert Fisher; second to Robert Anderson and third to Frankie Foster. The centrepieces were then auctioned off and $17 was realized from the sale of these.

Several Busaries Presented At Tweed H-S Graduation

TWEED — Tweed High School graduation exercises were held last Saturday evening in the school auditorium. The evening opened with "O Canada" and an address of welcome from John Murphy, president of the Students' Council, followed by the chairman's address, by Mr. Thomas Beatty, the chairman of Centre Hastings High School District Board. There was a piano duet by Margaret Burns and Jean Rupert.

The valedictory address was given by Jane Rupert, followed by the presentation of certificates and awards.

Sharon McCormick and Paula Quinn, accompanied by Sister Carmel Theresa gave a vocal duet.

BURSARIES PRESENTED

The bursaries, scholarships and prizes were then presented. The Ontario scholarship, valued at $400, was presented to Jane Rupert. The Tweed Kinette Club (grade 13) scholarship was presented to Jane Rupert by Mrs. Wallis Moffat. The Tweed Kiwanis Club (grade 12) scholarship was presented to Dennis Attwood by President Keith Cotton. The Dominion-Provincial bursaries, Type 'A' University, valued at $500, was won by Norman Morrow, type 'A' university, valued at $300, Dennis Attwood, and Type 'A' Teachers' College, valued at $350, was presented to Monica Hebert.

The Atkinson Foundation Bursaries, University, valued at $400, were presented to James Kelly and Norman Morrow. The University of Waterloo first year scholarship which includes free tuition and fees for first year was presented to Dennis Attwood, and the Quinte District Pharmacists' Association bursary, valued at $125, was presented to Paul Rupert.

PROFICIENCY AWARDS

The academic proficiency awards and athletic awards were then presented.

The evening closed with God Save the Queen, followed by the graduation dance.

BIG IMPROVEMENT

Canada had 53 cases of diphtheria in 1960, compared with 9,057 in 1924.

H-S Meet Features Panel Discussion

WELLINGTON — The Wellington Home and School Associations meeting was held on November 20th and was well attended.

Several selections were rendered by Mr. Burnett's school band, including "Black Cat," their own composition which were enjoyed by all. Following the musical selections a forum was held by Mrs. Jones, Mrs Stinson, Mrs. Drew, Mrs. Whittle and Mrs. Fort who were from the Home and School Federation in Belleville. The audience was broken up into study groups and each group decided on a question to be brought before the panel. Everyone found this most informative and interesting.

A social half hour was spent in the home economics room where refreshments were served.

Elect SAFE MAYOR

SAFE WILL MAKE MORE THAN A SERIOUS EFFORT TO STOP THE ANNUAL INCREASE IN TAXES

SAFE WILL BRING INDUSTRY TO BELLEVILLE! HOW?

By contributing $1,000. myself and obtaining 49 other public spirited men to do likewise, I will organize "Belleville Development Corporation", a non-profit group to provide facilities to attract industry at no cost to the Taxpayer. This has been successfully done in other communities, and can be done in Belleville.

SAFE WILL NEGOTIATE WITH PARKING AUTHORITIES TO DO AWAY WITH METERS ON MUNICIPAL PARKING LOTS

Motorists would then be serviced by attendants, and pay parking fees when they leave the lot. This would eliminate Parking Ticket fines which have been a great source of resentment by out-of-town shoppers. Better relation would be then established between the merchant and shoppers. Safe will also take immediate steps to have in operation the parking lot recommended by the parking authority. This also would be done with absolutely no cost to the Taxpayer.

SAFE WILL BUILD LOW COST HOUSING FOR SENIOR CITIZENS AT NO COST TO THE TAXPAYER

UNDER SECTION 16 OF THE NATIONAL HOUSING ACT, THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT WILL TAKE A 50 YEAR 90% MORTGAGE ON HOUSING FOR PEOPLE 60 YEARS AND OVER WHO ARE IN GOOD HEALTH AND HAVE SOME MEANS OF SUPPORT. THE PROVINCE OF ONTARIO GIVES AN OUTRIGHT GRANT OF 5% FOR SUCH HOUSING. I WILL CALL A MEETING OF LOCAL CLERGY, CANADIAN LEGION AND LOCAL SERVICE CLUBS AND ASK THEIR CO-OPERATION. IN MANY COMMUNITIES A SERVICE CLUB HAS BEEN HAPPY TO BE THE SPONSOR OF SUCH A MOVEMENT WHICH MEANS GOOD HOUSING FOR SENIOR CITIZENS AT NO COST TO THE TAXPAYER.

SAFE WILL INVESTIGATE THE STEPS TO CREATE BETTER SAFETY MEASURES FOR THE PROTECTION OF OUR CHILDREN AND THE GENERAL PUBLIC.

SAFE INVITES YOU TO WORK WITH HIM FOR A BETTER BELLEVILLE. LET'S FORGET ALL THE DIGNITY. JUST ROLL UP OUR SLEEVES AND DO A JOB.

Games Take Monotony Out Of Drills Says Therapist

By EDNA BLAKELY

TORONTO (CP)—Games are an important part of Mrs. Ruth Phemia MacDougall's work as speech therapist for the Metropolitan Toronto Association for Retarded Children.

She advises parents who are helping their children with speech problems to play games with them.

"Games take the monotony out of drill," says Mrs. MacDougall who keeps them simple and varies them to meet day - to - day problems in the classroom.

More than 90 per cent of the school's 300 pupils have or have had speech difficulties. Aim of the speech therapist here is not perfection but acceptable speech which is intelligible, free from articulatory errors, lisps, stutters, distracting performances or facial grimaces.

Mrs. MacDougall says every child needs blowing exercises to learn breath control and she has come up with several ideas. One is to have children blow a used light bulb around. They're delighted because it moves in a circle. Other time they blow with a plastic ball through a cardboard tube or feathers from the plastic cup. They blow by making sounds or saying words such as "puppy" and the feathers scatter amid delighted giggles.

To help stuttering children relax she gets them to lie on level mats on the floor. If they begin to get tense, Mrs. MacDougall gently pokes them in the tummy. They giggle and then relax again.

She uses a metronome as a guide for their speed in talking. When they can say a sentence clearly at slow speed, she increases the metronome's rate until they are talking normally.

An important part of helping children and adults who stutter is to build up their opinion of themselves, she says.

AVOID BRITTENESS

Mrs. MacDougall avoids using nursery rhymes because the children tend to concentrate so much on the rhyme. To teach a child the R sound she prefers a sentence such as "run around the room Ronald."

As for baby talk, she simply says don't use it.

"Babbling is the beginning of speech and it can be lots of fun. It should be turned into words slowly by encouraging but that has babbled. A baby using M sounds usually can be taught to say "mama."

Mrs. MacDougall, an attractive blue-haired brown-eyed lass just a few years away from retirement as a grade teacher is helping to build up the confidence of retarded children more than five years ago and is thankful her grade school experience which helps her understand the children should be capable of at each grade

'Current Trends in Cancer Research' Topic at Cancer Meet

"Proper methods of control cannot be surrounded by a smoke screen of terror," declared Dr. Dorothy Lee, B. Sc., M.D., F.R.C.P., as she addressed a small gathering of the Belleville unit of the Canadian Cancer Society, at their annual meeting and election of officers last evening in the YMCA auditorium.

Dr. Lee, who was introduced by immediate past president Alan B. Sprague, was born in Toronto, attended school there, and graduated from University of Toronto. She has completed a great deal of post graduate work in Toronto, St. Louis, U.S.A., and in England, having been a clinical assistant in medicine at the U. of T., and is now a consultant clinical research fellow in Toronto West Gen. Hospital. She spoke on the topic "Current Trends in Cancer Research."

In her opening remarks she dealt somewhat briefly with the fact of cancer on the individual, the family and the community. She stressed that early diagnosis and quick treatment were essential in the control of cancer.

RENEGADE CELLS

She defined the meaning of cancer by describing these cells as "renegade," and said that normal cells grow in orderly fashion, whereas cancer cells continue to grow in a most disorderly manner, never knowing when or where to stop. It is not known as yet why this happens, but research has given some of the answers and through continued research it is hoped to have a cure, but it is still unknown as to what causes the disease. Cause, control and cure are now known for TB and other dread diseases and cancer soon, too, may become curable.

The speaker went on to discuss the financial disaster which comes to the family where one develops cancer. A patient, she said, should be treated with sympathy, understanding, patience and tolerance. This is where the Canadian Cancer Society steps in to provide the stricken family with many necessary advantages.

RESEARCH WORK

She dealt also with the numerous phases of research work which are in continuous progress. In the Princess Margaret Hospital in Toronto there is an up-to-date research and treatment centre. There are seven of these regional clinics, as well as six follow-up clinics where physicists, biologists and clinical workers are carrying out their duties. There is a tremendous field of research and many tests are being conducted on the various stages of cell growth and also literature which is being undertaken to deal with the role, which virus plays in production of cancer. One of the new fields of research is the chemotherapy of cancer, or the control by medicine. Through research the use of hormones are ribbed with the knowledge of the treatment of certain types of cancer.

In conclusion Dr. Lee stated that doctors are now widening out and thoroughly researching and with the aid of the Canadian Cancer Society much can be done to help those afflicted. "Disease is dirty, but not a new problem in this society and cancer is a very dirty disease."

Mr. Sprague, on behalf of the members present, expressed sincere appreciation to Dr. Lee for her most informative and enlightening address on this important subject. An interesting film entitled "Challenge," narrated by Raymond Massey and depicting various research projects, was shown by Mrs. Greer of Trenton.

CONSTRUCTIVE REPORT

Reports of the various committees were given. Mrs. E. Logan, former chairman of education gave an illemized report and Mr. Clarence Fussen gave a full report on the recent Belleville and district campaign funds, reporting a total contribution of $11,320.14. He also acknowledged the aid given by the workers in the surrounding communities of Deseronto, Trenton, Stirling and Madoc. These contributions were: Deseronto — $687.50; Deseronto — $488.07; Stirling — $1,313.15 and Madoc — $1,061.97. Mr. Douglas Burr, Sr., presented Mr. Fussen with a scrapbook award certificate in recognition of the tremendous work done by the Belleville and district unit.

SLATE OF OFFICERS

Mr. E. E. Follwell presented the new slate of officers as follows: president — Mr. Clarence D. Fussen; 1st. vice-president — Miss Mildred E. Hall; 2nd. vice-president — Mr. E. E. Follwell; treasurer — Mrs. A. Mayer; recording secretary — vacant; general secretary — Miss Rita MacDonald; chairman of the women's service — Mrs. Ed. Logan; chairman of education — Miss Mildred Hall; chairman of campaign — Mr. Fred Deacon; medical adviser — Dr. Kenneth

United Church WA Holds Tea, Bazaar

WELLINGTON — The Sunday school rooms of the Wellington United Church have looked prettier no more like Christmas to welcome the ladies to the Christmas bazaar on the afternoon of November 22nd.

With a gorgeous arrangement of poinsettias, lights and evergreens, a huge basket in the background, Mrs. Tronz the capably lovely wife of the minister, and Mrs. Henry Pierson, the president of the W.A. welcomed the many guests.

On entering the school room one realized why Santa and his empty sleigh stood on the parsonage lawn. The cookette were all loaded. Never before was there such a lovely assortment of gifts, suitable for all ages and to fit every purse. Streamers hung from the ceiling, a huge wreath was on the front, evergreen boughs and red bows were everywhere.

The food was set and the various tables waited for customers.

The apportunity table was a glitter with Sweet Home China jewellery, plants, plastic novelties and other things. At the white-haired lady's table were lovely gifts for Christmas, beautiful cushions, table centrepieces, doll dress, toys, knitted stockings and many other articles.

The new "Cheesecorn table" was added this year. It proved popular and soon the demand exceeded the supply of home baked beans, biscuits and cheese, cheesecorn balls, salads, meat pies and pressed meat.

The apron table was a picture with various types of aprons in the pretty popular colors, suitable for any occasion. The aunt sally table was a riot of fun with numbered prizes, cushions, knitted mitts, socks, crocheted dollies and the bobbies. Everything here sold well as the ladies found suitable articles for Christmas gifts.

The children enjoyed the popular "Fish Pond" where Master Gordon Boyd delighted Master Graham Cards with a catch.

The cookwell produce was the last table to be cleared of its contents. The large table was covered with white linen cloth and centred with a red Christmas candle in a holder. The attractive tables were adorned with lighted red candles.

The group leaders wish to thank members who helped in any way to make this such a delightful and successful event.

Ladies who are still looking for gifts for something themselves can find a few articles left over at the home of Mrs. Ian Bishop.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

THE CHILD WHO MISBEHAVES IN COMPANY

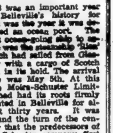
If a child's manners need correcting, then it's a wise mother who does it in private instead of in front of a roomful of people, all of whom are as much embarrassed as the small culprit.

Naturally, when a youngster acts up in company, he should be reprimanded. A word or a frown might be enough. But if any more forceful steps are to be taken, they are easier on everybody if mother ushers the upstart out of the room before losing her temper.

A public packing only makes a child more belligerent, to say nothing of what it does to onlookers. Of course, a youngster has to learn not to crawl over guests or rap their shins as they charge through a room. He also has to learn not to interrupt or stand on his head to get attention.

When company's present, it's hard to get this message across. Actually, children should be briefed on the "do's" and "don'ts" just before guests arrive, even though rules about how to behave should be drummed into them since the age of one.

Children have short memories, and the excitement of having company in the house especially around the Christmas holidays, tends to fan them even shorter. Presents and the general good cheer add to the confusion, and by the time visitors wind up in a state of nerves and exhaustion before the day is out.



When it's obvious that a child has had it, the kindest thing to do is take him to his room and let him stay there. A good dose of shooting will restore his natural good humor, and a nap before supper will only fray it some more.

It takes a lot of patience and will-power for a beleaguered mother to handle a rambunctious child with tact. But it's easier to get results from a little talk than by "having at him" in front of guests, who usually cringe at this sort of thing and secretly sympathize with the rebel, anyway.

Public punishment only demoralizes a youngster more, and can put a damper on what was supposed to be a congenial get-together. During the holidays, anyway, "spare the rod and save the party," is a good rule to follow for the sake of all concerned.

CELERY TYPE

Celeriac, a harsh-rooted celery, may be stored in the same manner as beets and turnips.

Moments in History

1926 was an important year in Belleville's history for it was then that steel was delivered on ocean port. The steel corporation ship to arrive was the steamship "Alice" which sailed from Glasgow with a cargo of Scotch coal in its hold. The arrival was met with a 21 gun salute. At this time Moira-Schuster Limited had been in operation, firmly planted in Belleville for almost thirty years. It was around the turn of the century that the predecessors of the present company first began supplying coal and wood to Belleville's homes and factories.

Today, Moira - Schuster still supplies coal and has become Belleville's major supplier of fuel oil. Why don't you let Moira - Schuster attend to your heating needs this winter? Fuel oil will be delivered to you on your automatic "Call Up" system and our efficient Service Department is on call 24 hours every day. Call WO 2-4504 or drop in next time you're downtown.

LOWER TAXES

(A) Sensible, planned spending with a constant attempt to increase grants and allowances from senior governments, will help to keep the tax rate down. No candidate for any office can promise lower taxes without this planning or without reducing the necessary services to citizens. Let's not go backwards!

NO RAILWAY TRACKS

(B) This year's Council has made strong representation to have the railway tracks removed from Pinnacle Street. This had been a long-standing necessity for the improvement of our downtown area. We have reason to believe now that this is a distinct possibility. Another strong step forward!

MORE INDUSTRY

(C) Everyone talks of more industry for our city. This year's Council approves heartily and to this end, we have pushed and will continue to push for the completion of the entire sewage disposal system so that we can service all industrial areas in the city and attract new business. Let's keep going forward!

REALISTIC BUDGETS

(D) It is easy to fool taxpayers with budgets that are not realistic or that do not reflect the needs of the City at large. This year's Council approached all needs with a practical eye. There were no hidden expenditures or no drastic overspending of allowances. Vital and necessary services must be paid for and your Council has adopted a pay-as-you-go policy that will satisfy everyone. Do not look for false bargains!

HARMONY IN COUNCIL

(E) One of the important aspects of a successful municipal administration is teamwork. This year's Council has worked like a team, with complete harmony, mutual respect and a desire to render service. Let's not have any demoralizing influences spoil the good work that has been started. Let's finish the job.

THIS YEAR'S COUNCIL MADE REAL PROGRESS!

LET'S KEEP IT THAT WAY!

SIBERIAN HUSKY — An RCMP constable at the Fort Norman, N.W.T., detachment holds Moose-Moore, one of 34 Siberian huskies obtained from Walt Disney after completion of a movie last year. Siberians will replace all RCMP dogs used in northern duties. They're said to be hard workers, easily trained and less vicious than the Canadian Arctic sled dog. (CP Photo)

Siberian Husky Is Groomed To Take Place of Canadian Sled Dog in Far North

By ARCH MacKENZIE

OTTAWA (CP) — A new-model dog with less snarl, more savvy and lots of power under its furry hood is on the RCMP production line for the Canadian north — a land where the canine still has a transportation role to play.

The newcomer, courtesy of Walt Disney, is the Siberian husky.

Here's the testimonial on it from Superintendent W. G. Fraser, head of the RCMP's Ogdensburg Arctic, division and the man responsible for the experiment:

The Siberian is a good worker, easily trained, less vicious and much more disease-resistant than the Canadian Arctic sled dog."

REPLACEMENT PLAN

Supt. Fraser snapped up 34 of the Siberians free last year after Walt Disney Productions had finished filming Nikki, Wild Dog of the North, in the Canadian Rockies. Disney had scoured world markets for the 35-dog team before finding the privately-owned Siberians and was looking for a good home for them after the filming.

Supt. Fraser bought six others — for a total of 40 — and set about forming a breeding program at the Fort Norman detachment half way down the Mackenzie River in the Arctic.

At last report there were 21 pups, another 12 bitches ready to produce offspring.

The immediate aim is to replace all RCMP dogs. There now are 232 but should be about 200, says Supt. Fraser.

Then, on a selective basis, the start may be made on replacing the privately-owned teams among Eskimos and Indians — for safety as much as anything. Dogs killed two persons and seriously injured two others last year in the north. The toll so far this year is one dead and one injured—75 lacerations to a small child.

The Canadian sled dog, an inbred haphazard product that still owes a great deal to its wolf ancestry, is a menace by instinct, Supt. Fraser says.

"If you happen to flop, he'll be on you—just for something to eat. Children are particularly vulnerable in the settlements.

"Besides, the Canadian dogs are so lousy that they fall prey to disease like flies. The Siberian is much healthier."

The Mounties suggests that possible Indian and Eskimo dogteam operators will be supplied eventually to buy the Siberians if they can be counted on to care for them properly, keep them separated from the Canadian mongrel and generally protect the new dogs from abuse, malnutrition and disease.

This is a fairly large order in a country where dogs in the summer are often left to fend for themselves and usually are weakened by constant lack of food.

The Siberian is roughly about the same size as the Canadian sled dog, which in turn is a little huskier and shorter-legged than the Greenland type.

Supt. Fraser says he feels the dogteam is going to be needed for a long time in the north-both for routine patrol work out of RCMP outposts in isolated sectors and for Eskimo and Indian hunters and trappers.

An aircraft is fine for longer distances, he says, but it doesn't give the patrol coverage that a dogteam provides for the areas between two given points.

THEY RE-GREW HAIR!

IN 12 MONTHS IN 3 MONTHS

Hair Specialist Here Thursday
Will Show Men and Women How to Save
Hair and Prevent Baldness

OTTAWA, Ont. New home treatment methods for saving hair and improving its growth will be demonstrated in Shelleyville Thursday, November 30 at the Quinte Hotel.

Trichologist G. F. Thomson will be in charge, representing the dynamic Roberts Hair and Scalp Specialists organization. He will personally examine hair-worried men and women from 12.00 noon to 8.00 p.m.

This new treatment is neither "mail order" nor "cure-all". It is adapted to the individual after a personal examination and progress is checked at regular intervals by a Roberts Specialist.

Who Can Be Helped?

Will the new Roberts treatment cure baldness? "No!" For we cannot help men and women who are slick-headed after years of gradual hair loss. But if you still have fuzz and your scalp is still creating hair, you can at least save and thicken what you have. Some conditions, such as "spot baldness" usually have complete coverage if caught in time!

Other conditions that usually bring on excessive hair-loss—dandruff, itching, over-oiliness or dryness, follicle clogged with sebum or seborrhea— can be corrected by the Roberts home treatment if caught in time.

"DON'T WAIT UNTIL IT'S TOO LATE"

Baldness won't wait for doubters to be convinced, you are going to keep right on losing hair 'til you're bald —unless you get your scalp in healthy, hair-growing condition again.

Examine You Free

We want to make it clear that you incur absolutely no charge or obligation by coming in for an examination.

Your only obligation is to yourself. We do not accept cases that will not respond.

Guarantee Satisfaction

The Roberts Specialists will give you a written guarantee that you must be satisfied within 30 days or it will cost you nothing.

For a free examination and discussion of your hair problems ask the desk clerk for Mr. Thomson's room number. He does not make appointments, so come in at your convenience.

Examinations are given in private.

MORTGAGE LOANS — NOTICE

Revealed East Germany Has Been Making Big Efforts To Establish U.S. Spy Ring

BONN (AP)—The chief of the American East German espionage ring in West Germany foreign intelligence department has fled to the West, the West German interior ministry announced Tuesday.

He is defector No. 30—Lothar Guenther Maschal, the ministry said, revealed for the first time that East Germany has been making extensive efforts to establish a spy network in the United States.

An official said that as a result of the defection it is clear "most of the agents sent out to penetrate the United States have already been neutralized.

It's believed the East Germans had not actually placed an agent on U.S. soil, but had operatives through Latin America whose targets were U.S. interests and who were to be gradually slowly toward entering the U.S.

One agent, arrested in San Francisco last July, was identified as Joseph Werner Dickel of Chicago. The ministry said he was found in possession of codes and ciphers and chemical preparations for secret correspondence with his East German superiors.

Officials said Maschal gave Western counterspies valuable details on Communist activities aimed at penetrating the U.S. and Canada. He was a famous U.S. consulates in West Germany.

Another agent, identified as Sybille Wambach, was reported to have worked in the home of a U.S. official. She was arrested in Munich and, officials said, reported to Communist headquarters in Czechoslovakia and the 7th Army has been alerted for action in Lebanon. The U.S. moved forces into Lebanon in the summer of 1958. More than 5,000 troops are to have escaped arrest last June by fleeing to East Berlin.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. state department charged Tuesday the Soviet Union and its satellites are "encouraging" Germany and other countries of the Western world.

In Washington, the department said, the Communist intelligence service based in East Berlin are used to kidnap and assassinate political enemies of the Communists.

Among the cases detailed in the state department report was the slaying of Lev Rebet, a former secretary of the Soviet embassy in Switzerland who was attacked and killed by a poison gun.

Another victim was said to have arranged a plot to lure to America a woman to East Berlin early this year in an unsuccessful attempt to establish espionage work for the Soviets. She was identified only as Frau Schmidt, employee of the U.S. forces in Germany.

Fleming Denies He Knew All Of Secret Speech

WATERLOO (CP) — Finance Minister Donald Fleming denied Tuesday he knew the contents of Britain's "secret speech" when he called on Prime Minister Macmillan in London eight days ago to ask for its full text.

A report in The Guardian of Manchester to this effect was "a gross fabrication," Mr. Fleming said in an interview. He was here to address a Progressive Conservative Association meeting at Waterloo Lutheran University.

The Guardian story says the speech, delivered Oct. 10 by Edward Heath, had privy seal to finance ministers of the six European Common Market countries in Paris, was "leaked" to other countries and that Mr. Fleming and his advisers were briefed on the speech by a senior member of the civil service of one of the Common Market countries.

In practical terms, the story says, this meant Mr. Fleming "knew almost the whole contents" of the speech before making a formal request for the contents text.

Mr. Fleming said the report seemed "part of a continuing effort to insinuate there are hard entries between British Britain and Canada" over British's attempts to enter the Common Market.

Mitchell Sharp Likely to Run As Liberal

TORONTO (CP) — Mitchell Sharp, former deputy minister of trade and commerce, announced Tuesday that he will be a candidate for the Liberal nomination in Toronto Eglinton in the next federal election.

The next move is held for the Conservatives by Finance Minister Fleming, who has been member since 1945.

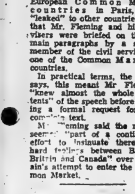
Mr. Sharp, in making the announcement, said he is "along with other business men in Canada, is seriously concerned" with the state of the national economy.

"The government," he added, "must accept a major portion of the blame for the present condition of the Canadian economy and seems unable or unwilling to lead the country out of the difficulties that now beset us."

In speech to the Toronto Canadian Club Monday he advocated a federal department of industry, and formation of an economic council for Canada.

Mr. Sharp, 50, entered the government service in 1942 and was deputy minister of trade and commerce in 1957-58. Upon leaving the service in 1958 he became vice-president of Brazilian Traction, Light and Power Co. Ltd., a position he now holds.

Sarnia Store Burns



SARNIA (CP)—A three-alarm fire early today destroyed the A. Zierler Furniture Limited store on Victoria Street in downtown Sarnia.

The contents of the building were also destroyed and damage was estimated at $150,000.

The fire burned out of control for 1½ hours after it broke out at 2:30 a.m. Twelve off-duty fire fighters were called in to aid the 13 men on duty at the time.

FIREMEN RETURN

NEW YORK (AP)—A small rubbish fire in the Times Square subway station early today brought firemen back to the Times Tower where a subbasement fire killed two firemen and a porter last week.

West European Papers Praise Kennedy's Stand

LONDON (Reuters) — President Kennedy's interview with Izvestia editor Alexei Adzhubei was high praise in western Europe today but the Soviet news agency Tass complained he advanced no new ideas on Berlin and Germany.

The interview, published Tuesday by the Soviet government and by Khrushchev's front pages of most British and West German newspapers. Editorials were enthusiastic.

"The Western world can count itself fortunate in being represented by such a person," the influential Guardian of Manchester said of the president.

In Bonn, a West German government spokesman described the interview as "very satisfactory" and said the official position—as the president had stated it—is that Germany must not produce atomic weapons "

The Bonn spokesman added: "The provisions of equipment with such weapons and control over them are NATO's business."

In Paris, the independent newspaper Combat said the president "showed himself to be well informed on problems concerning the German problem."

GIVES GREEN LIGHT

Le Figaro said Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Secretary D'Aurore says the president's statements "appear to give the green light to negotiation while firmly maintaining Western positions."

British newspapers applaud President Kennedy and also the Soviet premier Khrushchev for the interview.

The Guardian says the interview's publication represented a "victory for the forces of common sense on both sides of the Iron Curtain."

The president "made no cheap debating points yet he put forward the Western position in a way that may find an echo in many Soviet hearts."

The Daily Mail calls the interview "a crack in the ice" and says President Kennedy was slowly being opened to new ideas by a freezing of communication and a stirring of thought in recent months."

The Daily Express of Scotsman, however, is cautious about the impact on the Soviet people. It says the interview was read by President Kennedy were "given the widest possible publicity in the Soviet propaganda machine Everything he says can be fitted into the Communist Russian propaganda image of the American leader."

Tass news agency complained that the president tried to take in espionage work for the Soviets. She was identified only as Frau Schmidt, employee of the U.S. forces in Germany.

Refuse to Free Former Frenchmen

CAIRO (Reuters)—The United Arab Republic has rejected a French government request for the release of four French officials arrested here Friday, the Cairo newspaper Al Ahram reported today.

The four Frenchmen, members of an official French mission, and five other persons were picked up on the eve of charges of espionage and plotting to assassinate Nasser. Four more persons were reported arrested Tuesday.

Two Canadians Named to World Church Council

NEW DELHI (CP)—Two Canadians have been elected to the central committee of the World Council of Churches at its meeting committee, it was announced today.

They are Archbishop William L. Wright of Sault Ste Marie, Anglican archbishop of Algoma and metropolitan of Ontario, and Rev. Ernest E. Long of Prince Albert, secretary general of the United Church of Canada.

The 1,200 delegates from 198 many Christendom will vote on them Thursday.

Four Canadians were named to the commission on faith and order. They are Prof. Eugene Fairweather of Trinity College, Toronto; Prof. David Hay of Queen's University, Kingston; Dr. C. Chalmers, Pine Hill Clegg, Halifax, and Prof. R. F. Addinsell, McMaster University, Hamilton.

White Paper on Political Broadcasting Will Be Given By Board Before Election

OTTAWA (CP)—The Board of Broadcast Governors plans to issue a white paper on "political broadcasting" before the next federal general election, expected some time in 1962.

However, it has been learned that changes in BBG policy being pondered at a closed board meeting here today—are unlikely to affect long-standing rules on the total form of radio and TV appeals, such as the "equal time" for members.

Chief purpose of the revision would be to recognize the existence of the new Liberal-backed CTV television network and to deal with division of time for election campaign on both that network and the publicly-owned CBC networks.

CTV, which began operation last fall, has a "privately assisted" TV stations in eight cities and hopes shortly to have a transcanada facilities to Eastern Canada and expects to duplicate the CBC's full TV coverage by the election campaign.

RAISE 2 POSSIBILITIES

These are the principal party leaders will have scenes for the first time in a single TV broadcast country networks — CTV which can reach about 70 per cent of Canada's homes, and CBC which reaches the same group and most of the rest of Canada as well.

The BBG's concern is mainly with the 1958 broadcasting law requirement that broadcast licensees "shall be fair, impartable basis, to all parties and rival candidates." This legal requirement is reinforced by BBG rules regulations and its white paper, which sets out "what fairness and impartiality mean."

There is not defined — the phrase is merely repeated—in the BBG regulations or white paper, which has not been changed found a mutually since the BBG inherited it from the CBC's predecessor some on history 5eti before 1958.

The BBG traditionally has provided free radio and TV broadcast time, allocating it to the political parties according to them—roughly along the lines of the party representation in Parliament at dissolution, with provision for parties that have no seats.

For example, in the 1957 federal campaign the number of free 15-minute TV allocations by the CBC totalled eight for the Liberals—one each for the Progressive Conservatives, five for the CCF party and two for Social Credit.

The following year, after the Conservatives had formed a minority government, the distribution was altered the same except for a reversal in time for the Liberals and Conservatives.

CAN IMPOSE RULING

Negotiations for the next campaign are going on between the CBC and the parties, but sources say no agreement has been reached yet. The BBG has the authority to impose a settlement if the parties can't agree among themselves.

CTV, meanwhile, is unlikely to be ready for the election. While CTV is a self-professed, it does plan to make some free time available to the parties at the same rates as those charged for subsequent appearances.

CTV's free-time policy probably will call for equal division of time along all four parties, with allowance for their standing in the commons, informants say, but it is not known how CTV plans to allocate its salable time.

It will be up to the BBG to see that the system is "suitable" or whether, in fact, either will do.

Salvas Commission Runs Into Argument by Lawyers

QUEBEC (CP) — The Salvas royal commission today entered its second day of hearings into City grain dealer Paul Godbout about sales of seed grain his company made to the provincial agriculture department under the former Union Nationale government.

Mr. Godbout, 52, was to appear following brief testimony by Joseph D. Salvas, royal commissioner.

But Mr. Begin's testimony barely got beyond the preliminaries. It was held up while the legal argument between his lawyer and lawyers for the commission, investigating purchasing practices, from 1955 to 1960 of seed grain by the government.

His lawyer, Jean - Paul Ste. Marie of Montreal, said the testimony could not be linked to evidence given before Nov. 8, the date the new provincial government of Premier Jean Lesage was elected.

The royal commission had been operating a year without interruption by the British Columbia Power Corporation to sue for $50,000 for double the cost of compensation paid for the expropriated B.C. Electric Company assets. He said does not consideration had been given the possibility that "the attorney-general advises the fiat not be granted."

Attorney-General Robert Bonner later announced he had an unpledge request from his legal advisers explaining why the petition should be denied.

But the report would not be made public. However, the reason for the refusal were two-fold.

It was the legal view that, where the secondary property by statute was lawful and secondary and where the legislation provided compensation or the principle of compensation, a fiat should not be granted.

"I'm sorry, but it can't be put simpler than that," said Mr. Bonner.

The B.C. Power Corporation of former parent body of BCE, had sought permission to sue the province for $225,000,000 instead of the $110,000,000 set by the government for the com-

Mr. Godbout said he never met Mr. Bégin before appearing for testimony. He was appointed by Mr. Lesage to the commission after he was defeated in the June 5 provincial election.

The commission has also launched an action before the B.C Supreme Court in an attempt to have the expropriation declared unconstitutional.

Mr. Bonner said the petition for a fiat by the B.C. Power Corporation has become of revolutionary importance. So far "no more involved action" in the Quebec courts. The government will demand the court ac-

UN Rules Out Boycotts of South Africa

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The UN General Assembly Tuesday rejected condemnation of South Africa's white supremacy laws Tuesday night but ruled out punitive measures and pressed expulsion from the UN at this time.

Afro-Asian efforts to call for harsh trade and diplomatic penalties against the white regime in Africa, as well as move to ask the Security Council to expel South Africa, failed to get the two-thirds majority needed for approval.

The United States, Britain, France and Portugal were the only countries to vote against the resolutions.

A UN inquiry group asserted Tuesday night that Portugal has failed to carry out reforms intended reforms in Angola and Mozambique to improve the African territory is worsening.

R.A.F. RECOVERED

The five-man subcommittee set up last spring by the assembly to investigate reports that complaints, of "harsh repression" by the Portuguese, expressed concern that if the conflict drags on it might have "grave international repercussions.

The Security Council shelved Cuba's complaint against the stationing of U.S. warships with the Dominican Republic as a show of support for President Joaquin Balaguer during the crisis of the 11-nation council, including the Soviet Union, was willing to let Cuba's charges lapse with a formal resolution.

STAR SUES NETWORK

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Actress Sylvia Sidney is suing the National Broadcasting Company for $350,000 damages. The actress, in a suit filed Tuesday, accused NBC of defamation, invasion of privacy and misappropriation of her name for commercial purposes. She charged that NBC, in advertising a Bobby Darin record album, referred to her as the leader of a "all-negro" harmonica band and claimed she would appear in the show.

Common Market Subject of Talk By Paul Martin

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — The Diefenbaker government should make the best economic deal possible with Britains entry into the European Common Market rather than adopt a negative attitude, Paul Martin, Liberal member of Parliament for Essex East, said Tuesday.

Mr. Martin was addressing a meeting sponsored by the University of Western Ontario Liberal Club. His speech followed one by Health Minister J. Waldo Monteith, invited by Western Progressive Conservatives.

A proposed debate between Mr. Martin and Mr. Monteith failed to materialize. Mr. Martin's U.S. tourists are spending $65,000,000 more in Canada this year, Canadians are spending less in the U.S.

The combination is expected to narrow Canada's travel deficit with the U.S. to a new low of between $40,000,000.

OVERSEAS HIGHER

But Canada's deficit with overseas countries continues to grow. With the number of Canadian visitors to the United Kingdom up 32 per cent over last year the figure is expected to soar high above the $120,000,000 of 1960.

New bridges built along the St. Lawrence Seaway from Cornwall River and Prescott and the widening of the Trans-Canada Highway north of Lake Superior are credited with contributing largely to the increased number of U.S. visitors to Canada this year.

In his annual report, Canadian government travel bureau director G. R. Heasman said industry in 1960 had "moved into second place as a dollar earner from its position as newsprint and ahead of wheat."

The Canadian travel industry "is now, and has now reached the highest level in our history and is growing at the speed unknown to us," Plaid said.

ADVERTISING MONEY

The bureau advertising budget of $2,500,000, together with provincial budgets and private tourist organizations' budgets means that a combined total of $7,500,000 to be spent on tourist publicity to come to Canada next year.

Assistant deputy Minister E. A. Cote of the northern affairs department reported that the campaign to attract tourists are now going up along the Mackenzie River highway.

The federal and provincial governments have agreed to build a new route of buildings at and is growing by the month," Dr. Chegwin said in an interview.

Dr. Chegwin said the biggest drawback to the public health department began two years ago.

Boy Parlays His Hobby Into Trip to Germany

By STEPHEN SCOTT

VANCOUVER (CP) — A 16-year-old boy who parlayed his hobby into a trip to Germany and Britain says Montreal was one of the most enlightening stops of his travels.

Brian Price of suburban Burnaby was asked why.

"Because there I couldn't talk to many of my fellow Canadians. It hit me like a lead balloon."

Brian, blond, blue-eyed and nearly six feet tall, competed with eight other Canadians in the world model aircraft championships near Leuhkirch, Germany, 130 miles from Munich, in September.

He expected language difficulties in Europe—"but you aren't prepared for it in your own country."

He and his fellow Canadians found that about one - third of the Germans they met could speak English and that sign language was usually enough to establish friendships with competitors from 22 countries.

Brian's air fare was paid by Canada's model airplane clubs and his father, a photographer, financed a 10-day tour of Britain.

He defeated 35 model glider enthusiasts, mostly adults, to win a place on the Canadian team. He was well down in the world championship standings, primarily because he was not accustomed to wind conditions in Europe.

Brian became interested in model airplanes when he was eight but it wasn't until three years ago that he took them seriously. Most members of model plane clubs in Canada are in their 20s and many are married, he says.

The enthusiasts build gliders and powered aircraft capable of speeds of 75 miles an hour and jet models that have flown more than 180 m.p.h.

Brian, who acquired some kits when a neighbor was ordered by his wife to give up the time-consuming hobby says he spends up to eight hours a week and about half the money he earns as a drug store delivery boy on model planes.

He admits his hobby sometimes affects his school work but says his parents have accepted his interest although they sometimes protest when the smell of airplane glue wafts through the house.

Brian has won 10 trophies in British Columbia and the state of Washington and has set the Canadian junior control and endurance record by keeping a model aircraft aloft for 45 minutes, 16 seconds.

COMPETES IN WORLD MEET — Model aircraft builder Brian Price of Burnaby, B.C., was one of nine Canadians in the world model championships in West Germany in September. The 16-year-old youngster defeated 35 Canadian model glider builders to win a place on the international team. But he placed low in world standings because he was not familiar with wind conditions in Europe. (CP Photo).

A totally new Mercury size...

Meteor has arrived!

A foot longer than compacts, a foot shorter than big cars, the new sized Mercury Meteor joins the big Monterey and the compact Comet to meet your driving needs to a dollar.

Its name is not new. Everything else is! From totally new unitized body to every dimension.

Meteor's wheelbase is a long 116½ inches, turns wesshboard roads into real smoothies. But it's also inches shorter than a big car. Lets you slip into parking spots you used to pass by.

Also new in a lively way are Meteor's new engines. There's a 145 horsepower V-8 engineered for plenty of pep and economy too. If a Six is your size, Meteor's 101 horsepower Big Six fills the bill. And cuts your gas bill at the same time.

Certain items illustrated are optional at extra cost.

Meteor's beautiful new interior seats six without a shoehorn. Luggage is welcome. Should be. The trunk is 21.5 cubic feet huge. And this is also the quietest Meteor in history. And—the most service-free.

In Meteor, chassis lubrications are up to 30,000 miles apart. Oil change interval is up to 6,000 miles. Brakes adjust themselves. Aluminized muffler lasts up to three times as long as ordinary mufflers. And the new 2 year or 30,000 mile radiator sealant is factory installed.

Meteor's name is not new. But its size and everything else is. Size it up for yourself in two series: Meteor and Meteor Custom. The totally new Mercury Meteor, one of the Ford Family of Fine Cars—built in Canada.

Mercury—now in Canada's three most-wanted sizes!

1 COMET—the Compact Mercury... smartly ahead of the compact crowd. Still only looks expensive!

2 METEOR—The New Size Mercury... totally new except for its famous Canadian name.

3 MONTEREY—The Big Mercury... the big brand of luxury for the man who needs and appreciates a big car.

Size up Mercury yourself... at your Mercury dealer tomorrow

Highlights of Interview

WASHINGTON (AP)—Highlights of President Kennedy's interview with Mayel Adzhubei, editor of the Soviet government newspaper Izvestia and son - in - law of Premier Khrushchev:

1. Kennedy said the Soviet effort to expand the Communist system to "country after country" represents "the great threat to peace." If the Soviet Union would drop this drive to rule the world "I think there would be nothing that would disturb the relations between the Soviet Union and the United States."

2. Russia and the United States have a "basic disagreement where issues of adequate inspection" are concerned. Kennedy said, "there must be "an effective inspection system" if there is to be the "general and complete disarmament," which the Russians say they want.

3. Kennedy believes an agreement on prohibiting nuclear weapons tests under international inspection would constitute a "first step" toward more general disarmament measures. But the president was sharply disappointed, he said, by the inability of the Western powers to negotiate with Russia a nuclear test ban.

4. "The United States . . . will not give nuclear weapons to any country, and I would be extremely reluctant to see West Germany acquire a nuclear capacity of its own," Kennedy said.

COULD LIVE IN PEACE

5. It would be "helpful in NATO and the (Soviet bloc) Warsaw Pact engaged in a commitment to live in peace with each other," Kennedy said. He thinks the great powers should take "every conceivable step to prevent surprise attack." But the urgent need is for negotiations on Berlin; he hopes they will "take place between our governments quickly and will come to a successful conclusion."

6. Disengagement—the pulling apart of U.S. and Soviet troops in the heart of Europe —which the Russians have long advocated, is out of the question under present conditions, Kennedy said. "We cannot now withdraw our troops from Europe, 'way beyond across the Atlantic Ocean, when you merely withdraw your troops to the Soviet Union which is only a few hundred miles away."

7. The Soviet policy of keeping Germany divided, potsied up by the East German action in walling off East Berlin, "only increases tensions rather than diminish them," the president said.

8. A decline in trade between the United States and Russia in recent months has been due to "the difficulty which we have experienced in Germany and Berlin." Kennedy expressed hope trade can be expanded and said he thinks that would come about immediately if there was a peaceful, satisfactory solution to the problems of Germany and Berlin.

9. The United States has been "reluctant to recognize East Germany as a sovereign power" because the United States does not "recognize the division of Germany," Kennedy said the German people want to be united and he thinks unity could be achieved without any threat to the interests of the Soviet Union. But he said he realizes that Russia considers it "more in their interest to keep Germany divided."

Possible Opposition Member May Be Committee Chairman

TORONTO (CP) — The pos-over government expenditures sibility of an opposition party member heading the important curaion this session of a possible legislature committee on public revamping of the committee accounts was left open Tuesday make it more effective. by Premier Roberts.

The public accounts committee is so long as it's a good tee is responsible for looking one," Mr. Roberts said in a further discussion of the committee, when Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer suggested an opposition member for the post.

But, the premier said, he would also like the committee to hold its sitting in private "so no one is pilloried" or caught in a crossfire of political partisanship.

"There seems to be a great desire on the part of the opposition to have an opposition member as chairman. I'm anxious to see how the opposition behaves short 'in camera' meetings."

The premier suggested that another committee — the standing committee on problems of government — be allowed to continue its investigations into such questions as the workings of the public accounts body.

To do this, he suggested that the problems of government committee meet during the Christmas recess and prepare an interim report on the public accounts committee so its recommendations could be discussed when the legislature reconvenes after the holidays.

There were no objections when the idea was put to a vote, although New Democratic Party Leader Donald C. MacDonald asked for an early decision on the dates the committee will meet during the recess, since mysterious scheduled for Jan. 13 will keep many members busy.

Chooses College Course

VANCOUVER (CP)—Gordon Tansley, 23 - year - old star hockey from Kamloops, B.C., has chosen a university education over a contract with Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League.

The decision wasn't easy. Tansley must pay for courses in French, history and English, the Grade XII and XIII subjects he is taking here to meet university entrance requirements.

He feels he has made the right decision, however.

"Pro hockey is an easy life at my age now. But after I reach 32 or 33, what then? With an education things will be reversed."

The promising defenceman earned a reputation as a rough, tough player in his first season of pro hockey last year with Seattle Totems of the Western League.

The Bruins were so impressed with Tansley's record: three goals, 13 assists and 108 minutes in penalties in 61 league games, they drafted the 190-pound player last spring.

Tansley asked for a $30,000 two - year contract and four years of university tuition. Bruins offered an $8,000 contract he made the team.

"My demands were high but Boston's flat rejection let me know where I stand. The Bruins obviously didn't consider me a top prospect."

Tansley has since turned down an offer to play for San Francisco, a new WHL entry.

Ohio State Will Not Go To West

TUSCALOOSE, Ala. (AP) — Dr. Frank Rose, president of the University of Alabama, said Tuesday his school should not be considered a candidate for a Rose Bowl invitation.

"If we win Saturday our team is to go to the Sugar Bowl," he said. "The boys have voted to go to the Sugar Bowl if invited, and I think they will be invited."

Rose made his statement when questioned following Ohio State's decision not to go to the Rose Bowl.

BLUELINE MANGLER—Coach Murray Wilkie of the Western Hockey League Vancouver Canucks can easily mangle the three-inch thick Vancouver telephone directory. A rough and tough defenceman, born in Rodeville, Sask., he has played with 13 clubs in 10 years of professional hockey. —CP Photo

Murray Suitcase Wilkie Likes to Travel Around

VANCOUVER (CP)—Hockey coaches do have some compassion, says a player who has been affected by some of it.

Murray (Suitcase) Wilkie has moved around a lot during his 10 years of professional hockey because of that compassion.

Asked why he has been on 13 clubs in a decade, he said:

"I don't think it's a reflection on my playing. Hockey coaches do have some compassion and when it comes time for a trade they often look around for the single player who hasn't got any roots down in any particular city.

"I remember once someone was talking trade and there was some question as to who should go. Eddie Dorohoy said 'Ah, trade Wilkie; he likes travelling.' Yeah, that's the story of my life."

This year Wilkie is defenceman with Vancouver Canucks of the Western Hockey League. Last year he was with Seattle Totems where, it was said, he would never skate around a man if he could skate through him.

Bob Cleroux Aims For Top

By MARVEN Moss

MONTREAL (CP)—Someone asked Bob Cleroux what he wants to do when he quits boxing.

"Go into business," came the swift reply.

"A small business for yourself, eh?"

"No. A big business."

The exchange, in French because Cleroux speaks only a smattering of English, gives an insight into his thinking.

The Canadian heavyweight champion, a square-set young stor of 23, is big (205 pounds and 6-1½) and thinks big.

That sort of thinking also goes for his manager, Al Bachman of New York, who has proclaimed "a big push" for a shot at Floyd Patterson's crown.

Whether Cleroux can go all the way to the top is a moot question. Only one Canadian-born heavyweight ever did it. That was Tommy Burns, born Noah Brusso in Hanover, Ont., the littleshifter from 1906 to 1908.

Cleroux meanwhile provides Canada with a headliner, a color guy of international class.

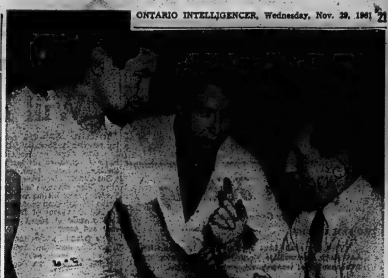
HAS POWER

As a fighter, he is crude and unpolished, a mauler who makes artistic - minded oldtimers wince. But lack of finesse is balanced by power and an intuitive sense of how to finish off an opponent who is hurt.

"With beavies, style doesn't matter," says Bachman who handles Cleroux jointly with Bob's dad. "You've got to be able to put that big punch in there. That's what counts."

The high point of four years of pro campaigning for Cleroux came after he defeated George Chuvalo of Toronto in Montreal last Aug. 8. It was the third of three Canadian title fights between the pair and the gate was $136,000.

The decision carried Cleroux to No. 8 ranking by the U.S. National Boxing Association and Nat Fleischer's Ring Magazine.



Where does he go from here? First, there is a Dec. 5 date in Montreal with Archie Moore, the world light-heavy champ. From there Bachman, in the classic style of a fight manager, talks about a title shot in a vein that excludes virtually every other course.

Cleroux's record in 31 pro fights is 26 wins—23 of them knockouts — with two defeats and a draw. But the string is not as impressive as it sounds. It took recent wins over Roy Harris and Alex Miteff to wipe out much of the scepticism about him that lingered from the early part of his career, his first 20 bouts or so.

From that start, Bachman insured him along, selecting the opposition with extra care. Bob piled up a list of knockouts. But the victims were what the trade charitably refers to as "tomatoes," soft touches such as Cornelius Brown, Sam Hughes, Miguel Alvarez and Mickey (The Bull) Carter.

Asked about it some time ago, Bachman snapped:

"What do I care what they say. I'm bringing Bob up the right way, picking the shots for him until he's got his legs for faster company. This way, if he has it, fine. He can develop. If not, we find out soon enough and no one gets hurt."

TWO NEW ENTRIES

Two new clubs have been accepted into the OHA Lakeshore Intermediate Hockey League, bringing the total number of teams in the grouping to eight.

Joining the Lakeshore League are entries from Lindsay and Port Perry. The original entries were Belleville, Napanee, Port Hope, RCAF, Uxbridge and Bowmanville.

The two late comers will play all four-point games, one home and one away, with each of the other clubs.

Lindsay, which will likely ice a strong team with the aid of some Peterborough players, will join Belleville and Napanee in the Intermediate "A" playdowns come next February. All the other clubs will go on in lower classifications.

The team finishing highest between Napanee, Lindsay and Belleville will have the say as to how the playoffs will be conducted. As an example, we will say that the Napanee club in first place with Lindsay second and Napanee third.

Belleville could then play either Napanee or Lindsay in the "A" semi-finals, giving the remaining team a bye in the finals, or could take a bye themselves before meeting a winner in the finals.

Meanwhile the top four teams between Trenton RCAF, Uxbridge, Port Hope, Port Perry and Bowmanville will play off for the "C" group title and the right to advance in OHA playdowns.

Variety is the spice of life and with eight teams in both the intermediate and junior leagues here this year, the fans will never get a chance to tire of the same faces.

Dates have not yet been arranged for Lindsay and Port Perry games but they should be available shortly.

BOOSTER CLUB MEET

Jim "Snipe" Matthews, president of the Belleville hockey Booster Club, has announced that a general meeting of the club will be held tomorrow (Thursday) evening at the Orr Hall Council Chambers at 7.30.

Matthews has asked that as many members as possible turn out, as well as anyone else interested in the work of the club. . . "New members are always welcome and we hope to fill the chambers for this meeting," said the president.

This will be the first meeting of the club this season and nothing makes for a more successful operation than to get it off on the right foot.

There is plenty of hockey in the city this winter and while the Booster Club has not announced its plans, there will undoubtedly be plenty of activity over the winter months.

You hockey fan. Either drop over and help get things moving.

SPORTETTES

Napanee teams had a rough time, hockeywise, the other evening with Uxbridge defeating the Intermediate Comets, while Kingston topped the Junior Red Wings . . . Since boasman Orr went out on a limb and called the Tt-Cats to win the Grey Cup Saturday, don't see why we shouldn't crawl out on the other end of the limb and call the Bombers to take it . . . The Maple Leafs and Canadiens will battle it out for the NHL title in Toronto tonight and again in Montreal Thursday night . . . The six-team Bay of Quinte Basketball League got off to a good start here the other night with Crawford edging Trenton 67-62 and Picton shading the Lightfoots 55-54 . . . Followers of the hoop game will do well to take in some of these games . . . While a lot of the ladies may not be too happy with all the Grey Cup football they will see on TV this Saturday, they are reminded that the big parade, on video at 9.30 a.m., will be more to their liking. . . . Don't forget tonight's Lakeshore League game here between the Pepsi's and Port Hope. It starts at 8.30 p.m. . . . The Junior Macs will next see action here Friday night in a nine o'clock game against the Kingston Frontenacs. This should be a real battle and the Macs may be hard-pressed to keep their undefeated record intact.

Light Works

Patterson Odds Now 10-1

TORONTO (CP) — Champion Floyd Patterson and challenger Tom McNeeley spent Tuesday at light road work and exercises in preparation for their heavyweight title bout next Monday.

McNeeley, who hasn't done any sparring since he arrived here Sunday night, remained in a happy frame of mind and wasn't at all disturbed at the news that the Las Vegas odds makers are rating him a 10-to-1 underdog.

"Is that all?" he asked. "I thought the odds would be bigger than that. Oh well, it means my friends will win less money than they expected."

Promoter Al Bolan said the advance ticket sale of $95,000 is less than expected but he is confident the gate will hit $200,000.

"I'll be happy with anything close to that amount," said Bolan, vice-president and general manager of Championship Sports Limited.

"If James J. Parker and Archie Moore could draw $120,000 for a 'nothing' bout, I don't see how we can do much less than double that amount."

Bolan estimated the over-all purse for the scheduled 15-round battle in the $3,100,000 bracket.

Movie and radio rights should bring in $750,000, with closed-circuit TV adding $2,150,000.

Opposing Coaches Claim Team Best

Game Weather Will Be Cool

TORONTO (CP)—The opposing coaches in Saturday's Grey Cup final have one thing in common. Each is convinced his team is the best he's ever had.

But Grant, who led his Winnipeg Blue Bombers into town Tuesday, rates his current crew above his Canadian professional football champions of 1958 and 1959 because of added experience and depth.

Jim Trimble, whose Hamilton Tiger-Cats were the Bombers' victims in those years after winning in 1957, was equally firm.

"This is the best Tiger - Cat team I've had, even superior to that of 1957. It's better because it is a more mature club."

As to what will happen in their fourth meeting, neither would say.

Grant: "We'll have to be good to beat them—absolutely."

Trimble: "It's going to be one helluva ball game."

HOLD COLD PRACTICE

The Bombers arrived ahead of schedule, driven out of the West by winter's blasts. All business, they headed immediately for a practice but found no Indian summer in this part of the country either—they had to wear parkas during workouts.

First off the field, and limping noticeably, was fullback and punter Charlie Shepard who was asked whether his twisted ankle might prevent him from playing Saturday.

"Our trainers and our doctors tell me I will," he replied "But I don't know. It sure feels funny. We know there's no break, but . . . I guess rest is the only thing."

Grant stressed Hamilton's newly-found aerial power, sparked by quarterback Bernie Faloney, in assessing his team's chances.

"Hamilton has always won on power. They have the ability to hit and overpower you. This year they have the passing too.

TOUGH TO ADJUST

"Hamilton has versatility with six or seven pass receivers. We will have to make adjustments in our defence but it is hard to adjust against Hamilton because they have so many receivers."

A couple of great catches, he said, were a factor in Hamilton's 30-9 win over the Bombers in their only meeting of the regular Canadian Football League season.

Trimble, whose Tiger - Cats will remain in Hamilton for workouts the rest of the week, will lead the first club ever to challenge for the Grey Cup after finishing in last place the previous season. New blood and the fact that some old pros have hit their peaks fully behind the comeback, he indicated.

"Take a kid like Gerry McDougall. He's been up the glory trail and now he has settled down to become a real professional football player. Our new guys, fellow like Hal Patterson and Ellison Kelly, make a big difference too."

Old hands such as middle guard Vince Scott and Faloney also are playing better than they did in 1957, Trimble added.

The Dominion public weather office, stressing it was a bit early for specific forecasts, said Tuesday that Grey Cup day shapes up as cloudy, with temperatures between 30 and 35 degrees, 15-mile-an-hour winds and a 20 - per - cent possibility of snow.

How They Compare

TORONTO (CP)—Here is a statistical comparison of Winnipeg Blue Bombers of the Western Conference and Hamilton Tiger-Cats in the Eastern Conference based on official statistics of regular-season play. Averages per game are bracketed.

Winnipeg played 16 games, won 12, lost three, Hamilton played 14 games, won 10, lost four.

Hunters Beware

Closed Duck Season Possible

OTTAWA (CP)—Serious consideration to a ban on killing the Prairie duck-hunting season will be given if drought conditions get any worse, Dr. D. A. Munro of the Canadian Wildlife Service said Tuesday.

He was commenting on a report that E. L. Paynter, Saskatchewan wildlife director, had said at Prince Albert Monday that a strong possibility exists for a closed duck season in his province if there is no improvement in the spring runoff next year.

Mr. Paynter said that sales from ponds and sloughs, drained by drought, mass-made drainage of many areas was contributing to a precarious situation. He echoed similar statements earlier this month from Alberta and Manitoba.

Dr. Munro said the possibility of a closed season next year has been in the federal game agency's mind for some months but that it would be impossible to forecast what might develop until winter snowfall and spring rains gave a clearer picture of the potential batch in the areas where North American ducks are raised.

The federal government sets annual recommendations annually for duck bags in each province, any province may curtail the suggested bags or length of season but none can go above them.

This year, the Prairies and Ontario were cut to limits of five birds a day compared with 12 birds daily in Saskatchewan and 10 daily in Manitoba and Alberta in 1958.

Ticats Will Win by Two Touchdowns - - Goldston

HAMILTON (CP) — Ralph Goldston, who has the dubious distinction of being the only player in Grey Cup history to be banished from throwing a punch, doesn't say Winnipeg Blue Bombers will default Saturday's Grey Cup final date with Hamilton Tiger-Cats. But, for his money, the westerners haven't a chance.

"We'll win by two touchdowns," Hamilton's 31-year-old two - way halfback predicted Tuesday night.

Goldie, an old pro from Youngstown, Ohio, who played in the National League before coming to Canada six years ago, said the Bombers didn't impress him sacrifice this season when the Ticats beat them 30-9 in an interlocking game. "And I don't think they're any better now."

Goldston, now a teacher in Hamilton's district, belted Winnipeg's Leo Lewis in the 1956 final at Vancouver and was tossed out of the game for unsportsmanly conduct.

Leafs, Habs Meet For Top NHL Spot

By BILL MacDOUGALL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Toronto Maple Leafs are becoming kings of their own castle.

National Hockey League warriors invading Maple Leaf Gardens this season are finding it tough to cross the moat put up by the Leafs defence and even tougher to penetrate the armor of Toronto goaltender Johnny Bower.

In the nine games Leafs have played at home this season, Bower has allowed only 11 goals—no more than two in one game—for a stingy average of 1.22 a game.

Only Chicago has been able to leave the Gardens with even half its laurels. The Black Hawks tied Toronto 1-1 Oct. 21.

IMPROVING RECORD

Things have been getting better offensively for the Leafs at home and worse goaltending-wise for the opposition. In the last four games at Toronto, the Leafs have gained this season, 17 have come from home games, in which the Blues have scored 34 of their 70 goals. Bower has been more generous on the road, giving up 24 goals.

All of which adds up to a first-place tilt with Montreal Canadiens, whom the Leafs meet in Toronto tonight.

On the road the Leafs have won five and lost six. Their worst loss, 6-0, was to Chicago.

But Toronto also picked up its biggest score on the road, a 9-1 victory over the Bruins at Boston.

Chicago and Boston, which with Detroit Red Wings have been mixing it up for the last three places, meet tonight in Chicago.

Among the factors contributing to Leafs' powerful home performances, two stand out. One is the improved playing of some of the lesser heralded players, especially the line of centre Dave Keon, right winger George Armstrong and left winger Dick Duff. That line has showed signs all season of the Leafs' finally getting going against New York Saturday night when the trio accounted for five goals.

The other is Bower, who won the Vezina Trophy last season with a goals-against average of 2.50 a game. He is leading the league this season with a 2.25 average.

Atlanta Now Member of Int. Loop

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—The Way has been cleared for the International Baseball League to move into Atlanta, Ga., president Tommy Richardson said Tuesday night.

The Southern Association has released the Atlanta territory to the International League with the stipulation that if Atlanta should eventually get a major league franchise, the Southern Association would receive 25-3 per cent of the indemnity paid. Richardson said. This agreement will remain in effect until an. 1, 1967.

No compensation was paid the Southern League, Richardson said, adding that the Charleston, W. Va., franchise will go to Atlanta.

In other business at the annual league meeting, official permission was given to transfer the Jersey City franchise to Jacksonville, Fla. The plan had been announced previously.

Pay Cash For Thomas

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — New York Mets purchased outfielder Frank Thomas from Milwaukee Braves Tuesday for cash and a player to be delivered before opening day.

It was the first deal made by Mets, who will begin play in the National League in 1962.

Thomas, 32, started the 1961 season with Chicago Cubs, then was traded to Milwaukee where he hit 25 home runs in 124 games, batted .261 and drove in 73 runs.

WED SECRETLY

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Wilma Rudolph, 21, Olympic track star from Tennessee A and I University, confirmed Tuesday that she was secretly married Oct. 14 to a fellow member of the school's track team, William Ward, 25, of Linden, N.J. Wilma won three gold medals in the 1960 Olympics and was voted the woman athlete of the year in the U.S.

Battle Rages

Tough Decisions to Make

WASHINGTON (AP) — Preliminary skirmishing began today in the annual Amateur Athletic Union convention. It may be one of the most crucial and controversial meetings in AAU history.

A bitter power struggle rages between the AAU and the National Collegiate Athletic Association over control of basketball and track, especially in respect to United States teams competing abroad. Defeat for the AAU could mean its end as an effective administrative body.

At least three of several hundred proposed rule changes promise controversy. They are designed to make it easier for American athletes to compete overseas.

The changes proposed by president Darrell Smith of the Pacific Southwest Association would mean:

1. Athletes who are professional in one sports might compete as "amateurs" in other sports.

2. Athletes who earn a living in connection with the sale of sporting goods and other such commodities no longer would lose amateur status.

3. Athletes could receive payments for loss of time and wages while practising and competing in AAU - sponsored events.

AUTRY FINED $500

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Western actor Gene Autry, 54, co-owner of the Los Angeles Angels, has pleaded guilty to a drunken driving charge and paid a $500 fine. It was disclosed Monday that Autry appeared Friday before Judge Don Redwin. Besides the fine, he was given a 10-day suspended sentence and placed on probation for three years.

Success of Show Depends On Position in Network

Beavers Win Over Fronts By 4-2

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A decisive 4-2 win by Kitchener Beavers over the second-place Kingston Frontenacs Tuesday night stretched Beavers' lead atop the Eastern Professional Hockey League to seven points.

The game, before 1,265 Kitchener fans, was slip and tuck throughout. The outcome was in doubt until a shot by Sandy McGregor went into an empty Kingston net at 19:07 of the third period.

Kingston opened the scoring on a goal by Cev Tessier in the first, but Kitchener tied the game in the second when Jim Neilson scored on a blue-line shot with the Frontenacs short a man, the result of a penalty to Al Treen.

Dave Gane gave the winners a 2-1 lead early in the third but Kingston squared it on a goal by Randal Miller during a minor penalty to Beavers' Red Sawyers for fighting.

Ed Hoekstra scored the winner midway in the third on a backhand shot from the blue line.

The game was delayed several minutes in the final period when Beavers goalie Jack McCarlan was struck on the head by the shot with which Miller scored.

The winners drew six of the 10 penalties.

STEREO'S ADVANCE

Stereo took a dominant role in high fidelity in 1960, extending the trend that became apparent the previous year.

LISTEN TO MAYOR HAIG FRIDAY EVENING OVER CJBQ IMMEDIATELY FOLLOWING THE HOCKEY BROADCAST

NEW YORK (AP) — Television's critics fill the air with cries for better quality. Network executives talk grandly about their news coverage and documentaries. But fundamentally the success and failure of television lies in its regular entertainment shows, those weekly programs—action, variety, situation comedy, dramatic anthologies—which are the meat-and-potatoes fare of the medium.

Whether the critics like a show or not, whether it is violent or cliche-filled, the final decision whether a broad-scale filler show-lives or dies is made by the mass audience, as reported by the various ratings services.

One may quarrel with ratings, deplore the system which permits a mere sampling of viewers to determine whether a program perishes or survives, but it is the only way each billion-dollar sponsor has found to let him know how many people are tuning in to expend to his commercial message.

But popularity is not always related closely to quality, freshness or even entertainment, research is there to see to it a simple matter of position in a network schedule.

For instance, when ABC's The New Breed, a routine police-action show, started this fall in a 9-10 p.m. spot in the network schedule, it was a sitting duck. It was easily explained: it had two powerful rivals; CBS' Red Skelton and NBC's slick, professional Dick Powell Show.

The New Breed, on ABC showed up The New Breed a half hour, it might as well have triumphantly that the shift had resulted in almost doubling the audience. The show was the same, the stars the same—nothing had changed except the time—and the competition.

Minor Hockey

The Buzzers, the Unlouchables and the Rinks Boys were winners in the midget division of the Belleville Minor Hockey Association last night.

The Buzzers topped the Destin-ee Kids 4-1 with Maracle, Soule, McGuire and Lancaster scoring the goals. Denard had two assists. Sharpe one. B. Boyle scored for the losers with F. Farrell assisting.

The Unlouchables defeated the Bishop SI. 5-3 with Meens scoring three goals. Hanna and Hallam had the other goals while Percy and Rennick each had two assists. The winners for the Bishop Six were not listed on the score sheet.

The Rinks Boys edged the Rovers 5-4. Ethier scored two goals with one each for Legacy, Bennett and Brant. Carson drew two assists and Deary one. Mallory scored twice in defeat with Salter and Mayenger getting the others. Blakely, Embury, Baragar and Golka earned assists.

In the squirt league, the Red Wings shaded the Barons 2-1 to move into first place in the 12-team grouping. Dick Fobert and R. Marta scored for the Wings while B. Hicks banged the Baron goal.

The second-place Rangers stayed one point back when they defeated the Macs 4-3. T. Meagher starred for the Rangers, scoring all four of their goals. S. Moore had two and R. Kerr one for the Macs.

Canadiens topped the Frontenacs by a score of 5-2. Darryl Deners triggered three Canadien goals while Peter Meneary and Doug Allen added one apiece. Paul Noble and Robert Matthews banged the Frontenac goals.

The Royals took a 7-3 decision over the Black Hawks with S. Ellis, P. Mills and A. Crudden each scoring twice. B. McLean had the other marker. M. Semark scored two Hawk goals with P. McKenzie getting one.

The Maple Leafs whipped the Browns 11-1, led by three-goal efforts from D. Lynch and S. Muldoon. F. Muldoon had two goals with one each for S. Reid, L. Burley and R. Muldoon. J. Semark scored for the Browns.

The Flyers chalked up a 6-3 win over the Bruins with Dennis McCormick firing three goals. Tom Woodman had two and Neil Bishop one. Freddie Sidkile, M. Wood and B. Lattimer collected the Bruin markers.

Curling Comments

By Joe MacKay

To the layman, a "hog" is nothing more than a domesticated farm animal which suggests bacon for breakfast, baked Virginia ham or pork chops with applesauce. The term has somewhat different connotations for the curler.

To the skip, the "master strategist" undergoing mental and sometimes physical gymnastics within a twelve-foot ring and intent on winning a "hog over due" game, a hog is a test of diplomacy, of patience and of luck. To the sweepers the term is the cue to exert superhuman efforts to the accompaniment of cacophonous yodelling of the skip in an effort to "pull" a 43-pound piece of granite into the house. This thrashing of straw on the ice is accompanied by skippings and hoppings and steppings which would do justice to any ballet company. To the man in the back the antics of the skip at the sweepers suggest that, ostrich-like, he bury his head in the ice or with an electron microscope examine the surface for a stray piece of lint or straw or cigarette ash that may explain his hog's behavior of the stone he has just delivered. Failing this, he has consolation in the fact that the "ice machine must have just been turned on."

Regardless of any effect that the sweeping may have on the actual course of the stone, without it the game loses most of its excitement and interest. Had the end was dull. Try it some evening. To really enjoy the game, get in there and "sweep" League curling continues at full of outlets at times. In "A" flight, Dr. McCorquodale and Ernie Wilkinson are tied for top honors. Harold Wilkinson is solidly entrenched in first place in the "B" flight while in "C" section Dick Beare and Ron Bean are battling it out for first place. The results of the on the gentlemen's aside have been announced previously and although the response was somewhat disappointing it is hoped that a full complement of rinks will be entered in the bonspiels which are coming up.

For those who are getting into condition for the Bay of Quinte bonspiel, the dates are January 25th to 28th inclusive. Trophies and prizes to a total value of $3,000 will be competed for. There will be four days of fun, fellowship and good curling on twelve sheets of the finest ice in Canada. Our courtesy comment for this week: "If you find that you can't come out for a scheduled game do try to find a substitute and above all notify your skip." We'll see you on the ice. Good curling!

Dutch Team Seeks Help In Canada

KITCHENER (CP) — The Dutch national hockey team is seeking players in Canada to strengthen it for the 1962 world hockey tournament at Colorado Springs, Colo.

The Netherlands Hockey Association has said players who are still Dutch nationals and eligible to compete for their native land.

Bob Veder of Kitchener, a Dutch-Canadian who has been helping European teams obtain Canadian hockey players for several years, has been asked to assist the Dutch club in its North American talent hunt. He has located three players who are eligible.

The Dutch team has also asked Veder to try to arrange an exhibition tour for the club with some Canadian intermediate teams prior to the world tournament.

The team expects to arrive in Canada about 10 days before the tournament opens March 8.

Comedy on Cold War Has Jimmy Cagney in Title Role

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Billy Wilder has accomplished what everyone thought impossible: He has made a comedy about the cold war.

Many have tried. But it took the screen's No. 1 wit to pull it off. Wilder's One, Two, Three is a worthy successor to his previous satires, Some Like It Hot and The Apartment.

Wilder (with his gifted collaborator, I. A. L. Diamond) chose an impossible task. He placed his comedy in the world's grimmest city, Berlin. And he set the pace to be that of a fox-trot—all cry from the beginning.

The music over the titles is The Sabre Dance, and that frantic tempo is kept throughout the film. James Cagney begins his first scene at a shout and rarely lowers his voice for the next 110 minutes.

NOT FURIOUS

Not even a comedy genius like Wilder can maintain such speed throughout. And there are times when the ear yearns for a dulcet tone. Wilder hits you right in the face with another outrageous situation, and you are caught up in the furious business of it.

The plot is from a Ferenc Molnar one-act play and is just enough to provide the impetus for the frantic goings-on. The scatter - brained heiress (Pamela Tiffin) of an American soft - drink maker falls in love with an East Berlin Communist (Horst Buchholz). The Berlin manager of the firm (Cagney) tries to break up the romance, but is thwarted when he learns the boy is married and pregnant.

One, Two, Three ran into lots of trouble during its production in Germany. The Communists took a dim view of filming the cold war comedy at Brandenberg Gate, and a duplicate had to be built at the Bavaria Platz studios in Munich.

Bad weather hampered the Berlin location shots. Then, with just a few days of production left in Munich, Buchholz cracked his left ankle in a fall. The actor's and technicians were dismissed, and the final scenes were shot later in Hollywood.

Big Deal

Sievers Goes to Phils

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — The trade - minded major leaguers, who have bagged six deals in the winter baseball draft, were back Tuesday when slugger Roy Sievers was swapped by Chicago White Sox to Philadelphia Phillies for pitchers Jim Owens and Dallas Green.

Many names are being bandied about in closed-door conversations as baseball opens convention here.

They include Charlie Neal of Los Angeles Dodgers, Woody Held of Cleveland Indians, Pete Richert of Washington, Red Ryne Duren of Los Angeles Angels, Willie McCovey of San Francisco Giants, Julio Gotay of St. Louis Cardinals, Wally Post of Cincinnati Reds, Bob Duhl of Milwaukee Braves, Pedro Ramos of Minnesota Twins, Nellie Fox and Billy Pierce of the White Sox, Don Elston of Chicago Cubs and Dick Farrell of Houston Colts.

The Cardinals, having fortified their outfield by the acquisition of Minnie Minoso from the White Sox in exchange for Joe Cunningham, seek to aid pocket in the infield. They have proposed a deal to the Indians that would bring them Held, a hard-hitting scorching, fair-leather a fleet around baseman.

Houston has hope of luring Runnels, a fine hitter who can play any skip," We'll see you from the Red Sox. Boston can have Farrell, a hard-throwing relief pitcher with the Dodgers last season, but would prefer a right-handed hitting outfielder.

Milwaukee wants a top relief pitcher and has made each Jay Duren, Elston and Farrell. Outfielder Lee Maye and righthander Dick Ayers the Braves' expendables.

The Mask' Chills Audiences With Unique Horror in New Depth - Dimensional Process

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

"The Mask" opening Thursday at the Park Theatre, is the highest-budgeted feature-length motion picture ever filmed in Canada and bids fair to raise more goose-pimples than the Canadian winter air.

Although technically not a "horror picture" in the usual sense, the motion picture, the first production with sequences filmed in Prisma 4-D depth-dimension process, has more chills to the reel than any film of recent vintage.

Aficionados of the cinematic goose-pimple aver that it will give many screen thrill-classics a run for their laurels.

As one preview-viewer put it: "In 'The Mask' Boris Karloff-Stein down to size, makes Count Dracula seem like a benign blood-donor and 'The Cabinet of Dr. Caligari' like a municipal."

The film's producer-director, Julian Roffman, is a man with a long record of notable documentaries to his credit and an "Oscar" for "Time Out For Live" on his mantel. Of his new Beaver-Champion attraction, Roffman said Montreal-born filmmaker says: "The Mask' is something new. Based on an original screenplay, it might be termed a fantasy thriller or an adventure into the supernatural. It deals with an ancient mask, which gives amateur hallucinations to anyone who dares to put it on."

Four weeks of additional camera work were required to get the depth-dimension material on film. It was filmed through the Production a Beaver-Champion Attraction.

Academy Award - winner Julian Roffman was producer and director of "The Mask" with Herbert S. Alpert as director of photography and Herman Townsend and James Gordon working on special effects.

Paul Stevens, Anne Collings, Bill Walker and Claudette Nevins head the cast.

On the same program, the second thriller, "Jet Storm," stars Richard Attenborough and Stanley Baker. Both features will be shown at the Century Theatre Trenton.

Goyer Paces Blades With Three Goals

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Los Angeles Blades beat Spokane Comets 9-5 Tuesday night to move within a point of third place Seattle in Pacific Hockey League's Southern Division.

Vancouver Canucks defeated the Victoria 4-3 and Calgary Stampeders beat Edmonton 4-1.

Gerry Goyer starred for Blades with three goals. Willie O'Ree got two, Terry Sloan, Bruce Carmichael, Real Chevrefils and Don McLeod added singles. Larry Hammond, Colin Kilburn, Max Mcilvok, Yves Locas and Wally Popoff scored for Comets.

Spokane remains in second place in Southern standings, three points behind Portland Buckaroos.

Forward Jim Moro led Calgary with two goals. Doug Barkley and Bert Fizzell added single. Defenseman Lloyd Haddon scored for Edmonton.

The win strengthened Calgary's hold on third place in the Northern Division.

At Vancouver, Canucks' goalgetters were Dave Duke, Bob McCusker, playing - coach Phil Maloney and Wally Chevrier. Veteran centre Goyle Fielder fired Seattle's goal.

TiCats Band Runs Into Trouble

HAMILTON (CP)—The Hamilton Tiger - Cat Band, Majorettes and Tigerettes, scheduled to perform at Saturday's Grey Cup game in Toronto, are running into budget troubles.

The Tiger-Cats football club Tuesday night turned down a request for $1,000 to cover the trip and appearances in the Grey Cup parade and pre-game show. It offered $1,200, the cost of half-time shows in Hamilton.

Dorothy Proctor, director and choreographer, said the Toronto Parking Authority has ordered $40 pay for each of the 50 bandsmen. The additional $1,000 covers bus fares, meals and other expenses.

An offer of $400 has been received from Toronto, Mrs. Hurst said. The rest of it will have to collect by knocking on doors."

General Tendencies: This is your day and night to be on the point to avoid all kinds of arguments, since if you criticize or disparage anyone, you can get in a battle royal — and by the same token, you understand this aspect only, so if others seem sharp, cruel, you realize they are responding to the planetary influences of which they know now. Be truly understanding. Get all details well handled.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) —It would be very wise to put all accumulated work behind you now, though you want to get off to new places, persons and things. Aspects are better later for such, so be sure to first clear the decks — then you have greater success.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) —Be sure to steer clear of experts who are in an irate mood today, and carry through by yourself wisely. However, be sure your appearance is at its peak and that you take the health and beauty treatments you need. Then, have fun, P.M.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Be sure you don't permit that critical partner of yours to abuse you this morning. Step and into the world of activity and make rapid strides toward greater success. Be efficient. Buy little gifts for loved ones in P.M.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Think before you speak or write so that you need not make retractions later or make unnecessary errors. Also, be sure all reports are accurate; It behooves you to show appreciation to your friends for their loyalty.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — If you are not particularly careful with anything concerning assets, real estate, money, you may regret it later and rather much. Look forward to increase abundance, too, so that you have more time you ever dreamed of.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23)—Here is one of those days when you are apt to feel jittery and take unnecessary chances. Compose yourself and take whatever treatments you need so that you make a fine impression on others instead and become more business-like, decisive.

Libra (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) — Don't permit that private worry to lose you a job or a love now. Rely on that reserve energy to see you through nicely. Then step out in P.M. for a relaxing kind of entertainment.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21) — It is vital to your welfare at this time that you are courteous with associates and think of their interests as well. A thoughtless word or deed could easily cause unfortunate severance of connections. Forget social affairs for now.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Business affairs can be quite difficult and hazardous now. If you are not careful in all undertakings. Be sure that you plan well first, then proceed in a positive and efficient manner. Finally you win out. Be generous.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Although fascinating ideas come to you and you want to fly out to experiment with them, it would be wise to plan more efficient methods by which to operate in present and establish interest. Be practical and you are ahead.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — A fine day to concentrate upon organizing all of your affairs so that everything runs more smoothly through modern and most efficient systems. Be practical and strive for simplicity without loss of detail or security. Budget wisely.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) —Be sure to retain equilibrium at a time when associates seem to be upset and others are hardly working to your interest, so there can be real loss for you. Keep busily occupied and you find this difficult period will soon pass.

If your child is born today he, or she, is one of those colorful individuals who must have everything about in beautifully operating efficiency and who will also be able to solve many a problem that is difficult for others. See that you give as fine an education as possible so that your property will be a boon to mental from earliest years until old age. A pillar of the community here!

ATOMIC POWER

PARIS (AP)—France's atomic energy commission plans to produce electricity from atomic fuel at a competitive price by 1970. The commission expects that by that date France will have generators with a capacity of 1,500,000 kilowatts, from natural uranium reactors using graphite and carbonic gas.

SOLD OUT!!

Well almost. We are short of listings. Our policy is to limit our Listings, give individual service and sell them. We believe that we consistently have the finest selection of re-sale homes in the city. This is due to the fact that we are not in the building business, but deal exclusively in re-sales. This is probably the reason more people place their properties with our office knowing they will receive all of our attention. For preferred attention ask for Doug. Stork.

Cage Game Being Cut Off Program

TORONTO (CP) — The manager of Willowbury Livingstone in the basketball team that represented Canada in the 1960 Olympics says "Canada should be building a team now for 1964, instead of cutting it off the program."

Art Shrubb said the Canadian Olympic Association's decision to drop his sport from the national team for the next Olympic Games is "a real kick in the pants for basketball."

The COA decided provisionally at a meeting in Montreal Saturday to cut basketball, gymnastics, cycling and fencing for economic reasons and because of present standards of performance.

First Shutout

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

About all at stake when Pittsburgh Hornets and Quebec Aces get together in the American Hockey League is prestige. They are in the last place in the two divisions.

The latest bit of prestige belongs to Hornets' goalie Joe Daley. Pittsburgh needed on a 20-foot shot 38 seconds after the start of the second period. Michel Labadie and Jean - Marie Gosselin each scored in the third period to make it easier.

Flyers Have Trouble in Getting Win

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Niagara Falls Flyers' sad 'tis trouble in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A race.

Their winless streak was extended to seven games Tuesday night as the bowed 5-4 to Guelph Royals in Niagara Falls.

The scrambly skirmish was broken wide open by the hrvarers in the last five minutes when they scored three goals.

In the Metropolitan Toronto Junior League Toronto St. Michael's Majors beat Unionville 5-3 and Whitby Mohawks overpowered Brampton 8-4.

The Flyers' setback left them with a record of three wins, two ties and eight defeats in the season. They are in a last - place tie with Toronto Marlboros while Tuesday night. The winless Guelph Royals are in fourth spot with 7-4 record.

Jim Goodwin scoring was shared by Borden Smith, Osmer Gilbert, Bill Taylor, Dave Mc-Cosh and Duke Harris. Ron Sergent scored for the Flyers on a 30 - foot shot late in the first period.

At Whitby, the Mohawks were propelled by goals from Julio Kowalski, with two, Elmer Gaetz, Steve Thomas, Brian Fletcher, Stan Dowe, Len Robbie and Bill Smith. Scoring for Whitby Potts, Hoskins, Bob Seeger and Bob Abbott were the Brampton Excelsiors.

Negro Named Best U.S. Player

NEW YORK (AP)—Ernie Davis, Syracuse senior halfback, Tuesday became the first Negro to win the Heisman Memorial Trophy to be named U.S. football player of the year.

Davis rushed for 823 yards and a 5.5 average this season, scored 15 touchdowns and 94 points and was the team's leading pass receiver.

St. Thomas Royals Lose 8th Straight

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

If nothing else, St. Thomas Royals are doing a good job of maintaining the rights of the position scorers.

They certainly aren't winning hockey games.

Royals lost their eighth straight Ontario Hockey Association senior game Tuesday night, bowing 5-3 to Galt Terrics. It was the fourth time they had been blanked.

So far this season, the Royals have had 75 goals blasted into their net while they have scored 12 times.

Barnie Nanne shot out Stratford Indians 2-0 to score his sixth-place tie with the Indians. The teams were closely matched with the winners getting 46 shots on goal, the losers 45.

The Athletics, in fourth place four points ahead of Waterloo Siskers, had 46 shots in the first two periods.

Their victory was marred by the return to the lineup of defenceman Barash, who got two goals. Barash played with St. Thomas last week when the Royals lost 10-2 to the league-leading Brockville Braves.

Goalie Bob Gerguson, who high-speed fullback from Ohio State, Tex is sprinter Jimmy Saxton edged Minnesota quarterback Sandy Stephens for third spot.

Davis rushed for 823 yards and a 5.5 average this season, scored 15 touchdowns and 94 points and was the team's leading pass receiver.

FRANKIE ALBANIA

TOKYO (AP)—Mao Tse-tung joined other Chinese Communist leaders Tuesday in singing the praises of Albania in what appeared a deliberate affront to Premier Khrushchev. Mao, Communist China's leader, and other officials sent a message to Albania praising the Albanian Communist Party as "loyal to Marxism-Leninism and the unity of the international Communist movement," Radio Peking said.

Travel Agencies In Toronto Being Probed

TORONTO (CP)—An RCMP official said Monday RCMP officers recently visited several Toronto travel agencies in an attempt to discover whether immigrants were unwittingly bringing heroin to Canada from Italy.

Superintendent Francis Woods-Johnson said the check of travel agencies specializing in passage for Italian immigrants was in connection with investigation of a narcotics ring believed to be operating between Italy and North America.

He refused to confirm or deny a report that one Toronto agency went out of business voluntarily following a visit from RCMP officers. But he emphasized that no charges have been laid against any travel agency.

Evidence given at the trial of 12 men in New York charged with conspiracy to traffic in narcotics showed that a travel agent in Italy arranged for immigrants arriving in Canada and the U.S. by ship to take trunks carrying concealed heroin along with their baggage.

Scouting activities

By CEREE LEGGAT

The regular meeting of the Camithon - Corbyville Scout Troop was held on Wednesday, Nov. 22. On this occasion the Scouts were given a chili bean supper in appreciation of the fact that the entire troop is now in full uniform. The tasty supper was prepared by Akela Fred Furmidge and Mrs. Fred Furmidge Jr., and served by Mrs. Stan Kerr and Mrs. Ralph Steward. A vote of thanks was tendered by Scout Larry Adams.

Future activities will be a combined church parade of Scouts, Cubs, Guides and Brownies, on Sunday, Dec. 3, at 7.30, in the Camithon Church. The Christmas party of the Scouts and Cubs will be held on Monday, December 11.

11TH EASTMINSTER

On a recent Saturday morning, 36 boys and leaders met at Eastminster Church to begin a hike. These were Cubs and leaders of "A" Pack, 11th Belleville.

The destination of the hike was the farm of Mr. L. Monteith, president of the District Council. After arriving at the farm, the activities were many, all under the supervision of Akela Bray, Baloo of A and B Packs and Rakaha. Most of the boys passed tests either for first or second stars and games were played. Perhaps the most rugged and exciting game was touch football between two mixed teams which were coached by Akela Bray, Baloo Taylor of "B" Pack and Cub Bray of "C" Pack.

After a lunch of sandwiches, hot chocolate and cookies, there were more games, songs and finally a treasure hunt. Before leaving for the hike home, Akela led in closing exercises and three rousing cheers were rallied for Mr. Monteith for his hospitality. The Cubs were treated to ice cream on the way back to the church, where they dispersed.

SWIMMING

Mr. Lew Andrews reports the following are the names badges, qualified for at the YMCA swimming pool:

Cubs — Chris Cantrell of the 3rd; John Coughly, Mark Bishop, Marshall Wood, John Rose, Ron Fothergill, of the 16th, Larry Lewis, Ron Thomson, Bill Andrews of the 18th; and Sean Hornblum, Gordon McCreary of the 19th.

NON-SWIMMERS

Mr. Andrews informs us that a number of Boy Scouts cannot swim. It is the objective of the committee to see a swimmery proficiency tickey on every Scout. With this in view, leaders are requested to check their troops in an effort to find out how many boys cannot swim at all. A special beginners class will be arranged for Boy Scouts in this category in the new year, if warranted. Meantime, personal attention will be given to any of these boys attending regular classes.

Low puts a great deal of time and effort into this beneficial project and deserves all the support we can give him. So, Scouters, need we add to this?

Kennedy Girds For Major Fight To Lower Tariffs

Fearful Europe May Bar U.S. Farm Products

WASHINGTON (CP) — President Kennedy is sharpening his political weapons to prepare the protectionists in a big congressional battle in January.

While part of his cabinet confidoned frowns into the hustings to warn the country of the dangers of trade isolationism, Kennedy cautiously announced at a press conference Wednesday he will be ready to unveil his low-tariff proposals before Congress reconvenes after it reconvenes in the new year.

But first, he said, he would confer with key congressmen next month. Some of these congressmen are known to be sharply opposed to any extensive tariff-trimming.

Kennedy is preparing the fight ahead. Kennedy appears to be attempting to condition the United States for what appears to be his proposals which, his aides said, will be among the most extensive ever placed before Congress.

If Kennedy made his announcement, Agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman delivered a speech in Minneapolis telling southern states they must reduce their U.S. agricultural surpluses if they want a strong farm economy.

Freeman said the U.S. will not follow liberal trade policies, he said, American farm products would be shut out of foreign markets.

Similar speeches have been made by one cabinet minister after another.

MAY MOVE OVERSEAS

"The liberal trade preaching by the Kennedy administration, which now is catching fire in the American economy, moreover, is likely to increase in intensity as a few more months pass," he said. Kennedy said American export markets, and retention of investments overseas are at stake. If the U.S. is not in a position to negotiate with the Common Market on tariffs, a lot of American industry might relocate in Europe finding their capital with them.

On other matters, Kennedy confloned Americans against planning too great a reliance on some sort of fallout shelter for survival in the event of nuclear war.

Announcing that his government will support communist-bloc admission to the United Nations, observed that as nuclear bombs grow bigger "there seems to be little to what any of us can do."

The president has been sharply criticized in the American press for his failure to provide the country with an adequate defence shield. He acknowledged that if the government encouraged the construction of individual shelters there might be a temptation to divert funds from other programs to provide the prime deterrent to nuclear disaster.

JUSTICE MINISTER FIRES FROM HIP AT POWER PLAN

Aims at Bennett, Wings U.S. Official

OTTAWA (CP)—Justice Minister Fulton fired from the hip on the Columbia River question after diagnosis failed, it was suggested Wednesday.

His point-blank fusilade aimed at Premier Bennett of British Columbia also winged Interior Secretary Stewart Udall of the United States.

Mr. Fulton's strong inference that Mr. Udall was abetting a B.C. propaganda drive to obtain sale of Columbia River power is regarded as the sulfurs response to menacer perhaps ever-for a member of a friendly foreign government.

The Fulton address Tuesday night at Prince-George, B.C., was sufficiently different in the federal position that B.C. cannot tell its share of Columbia power to the U.S.

It is suggested authoritatively here that Mr. Udall was exasperated after nothing came of a request last week to Livingston Merchant, Ottawa's ambassador, for an explanation of remarks attributed to Mr. Udall.

INNOCENT BYSTANDER?

It is also speculated that Mr. Udall may have been an innocent, albeit indiscreet, bystander caught in the political gunplay between the federal and B.C. governments.

Mr. Udall's reaction in Washington Wednesday was one of wounded surprise—a sentiment echoed around the state capitals, reports said.

He referred to a statement he made last week that "what the Canadians intend to do about the Columbia River treaty is up to them," adding Wednesday: "I haven't taken sides, as it is the part nor do I intend to take sides in the future."

A statement issued from the U.S. Embassy here reported that Canadian withdrawing of the treaty is held to be an urgent matter for the U.S. and Canada are disposes of its share of the power is Canada's business.

WEIGH ALTERNATIVES

There results now appear likely:

1. Some extensive patching is required between Ottawa-Washington relations on the Columbia issue.

2. If there ever was any possibility of a federal-provincial agreement might ease its curbs on importing power to large quantities, it has vanished.

3. While the Columbia by itself is not enough to bear much fruit politically in a general election, it might well prove useful in the context of the government's national development policy. That is why it is needed to stimulate more economic development in the Maritimes, the use of resources rather than as mere export items, therefore, a national power grid might be tossed in for trimming — as Diefenbaker did with Newfoundland's Lower Churchill River project in Labrador — in the weekend.

U.S. Selects Man to Make First Space Trip in Orbit

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Heartened by the world-circling space flight of a chimpanzee, the United States picked a man to take the next step on to the journey to the moon.

But it was Enos, a 37½-pound chimpanzee who paved the way for the big shirtwind trip, twice around the earth.

Just three hours and 21 minutes after he had ridden an Atlas rocket into the sky, Enos was plucked from the sea by a navy destroyer 235 miles south of Bermuda.

Less than two hours later, space officials named U.S. astronaut John Glenn to ride a similar spacecraft three times around the world.

There is no assurance, however, that the United States will be able to put a man into orbit around the globe this year.

Officials denied any urgency for the flight, suggesting it was not yet decided whether man or animal will ride the next Project Mercury rocket into earth orbit.

But only a day earlier, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration had elected to contract for the design and construction of a three-man space

Ont. Liberal Leader Presses For Commission on Crime

TORONTO (CP) — International crime threatens the whole province, Ontario Liberal Party Leader Wintermeyer told the legislature Wednesday. He called for a royal commission to investigation.

In a hour address Mr. Wintermeyer posed five questions and answered each with evidence from a massive file of information collected by the Liberal party during the past eight months.

He charged that organized crime with international connections is widespread in the province.

With the backing of the Speaker William Murdoch, he named specific names and presented evidence heard in court cases — some of which have not yet been completed to show that syndicated gambling exists in Ontario.

Attempts by Attorney - General Roberts to have some questions ruled out failed when Mr. Murdoch allowed the Liberal leader to continue, saying he would rule when is become necessary.

Mr. Wintermeyer, in establishing the framework of his speech with the questions, said he would show:

That syndicated gambling in Ontario is an integrated, highly organized, interlocking conspiracy.

That professional gamblers have had, and may still have police protection.

That there is a connection between professional gambling and other illegal activity in Ontario;

That that gambling revenues in Ontario are used to compete with legitimate business.

The attorney - general objected most vigorously to Mr. Wintermeyer naming the names of Joseph McDermott, of Port Credit and Vincent Feeley of Toronto. The two men were acquitted by a jury on charges of conspiracy to bribe and the acquittals are being appealed by the Crown.

The Liberal leader quoted 1960 court evidence which linked Feeley and McDermott with police tip - offs of impending raids on gamblers. He reviewed notes from police members as senators. The same

REDISTRIBUTION NOT POSSIBLE BEFORE ELECTION

Many Factors Seen As Against Move

OTTAWA (CP)—The political pundits have virtually written off the possibility of redistribution before the next federal general election. They say that history, the political climate and the calender are all against it.

They say, of course, on the popular theory that Prime Minister Diefenbaker will call a general vote sometime in 1962, the customary fourth year after election.

Normally, a Commons committee armed with results of the 1961 decennial census would undertake to change constituency boundaries, guided by recommendations of a population shifts.

But 1962 would not be a normal year. Since 1900 redistribution always has been carried out in the second year. This is statutory life, regardless of whether Liberals or Conservatives were in office.

If the job were tackled next year—as all the Ferret party battles and the inevitable cries of gerrymandering — Mr. Diefenbaker would be in his fourth year of office and on the brink of an election. That may be too close for political comfort.

HAVE LEEWAY

The law requires only that redistribution be done "on the completion" of the census but allows four or five months for the census - takers to publish the results of their labors.

About four months would pass after the introduction of the redistribution bill before royal assent would be granted. After that, the boundaries would want two or three months to make necessary changes in constituency organization.

There is a feeling among observers here that it is too late now to start the chores even if there were to be a 1962 vote.

The broad results of redistribution on the present formula are already known. They are:

Population estimates now available, without making this change in provincial representation in the Commons:

	Before	After
Nfld.	7	7
P.E.I.	4	4
N.B.	10	10
N.S.	11	11
Que.	75	74
Ont.	85	88
Sask.	14	13
Alta.	17	17
B.C.	22	22
Y.T. and N.W.T.	2	2
TOTAL	265	265

Thus, total Commons seats would drop to 264 from 265.

Quebec would lose a seat to Ontario. Nine Brunswick would lose two seats, dropping to eight. But it has 70 senators and the constitution requires that every province have as many Commons members as senators. The same

Illness Forces Ben Safe From Mayoralty Race

Mayor Haig, A. Keegan In Straight Fight

Belleville's three-way battle next Monday for the mayoralty today in effect resolved itself into a straight fight with the announcement by one of the candidates, that he was unable to continue the campaign.

Former Alderman Benjamin Safe, seeking the mayoralty along with Mayor A. M. Haig and ex-Alderman Arthur Keegan, announced today that he was being forced to withdraw for health reasons.

According to municipal election regulations, however, Mr. Safe's name will still have to appear on the ballot, but the name will remain only in the straight fight between Mayor Haig and Mr. Keegan.

Mr. Safe's announcement of his inability to continue the mayoralty campaign came as a distinct surprise to the Belleville electorate and to city hall officials. He was unable, however, to attend last night's annual Bun Feed at the Wharf Street Drill Hall.

AFTERMATH OF ILLNESS

Mr. Safe's announcement that he was unable to continue the campaign was made on the advice of his physician, Dr. John Stock.

Dr. Stock told The Ontario Intelligencer today that Mr. Safe had suffered a recurrence of a previous illness. I have advised Mr. Safe to remain in bed for the next week and that he would be unable to take part in the campaign," he said.

Mr. Safe was the first mayoralty candidate to announce his intention of running for office and was in the field almost two weeks prior to the nomination date on November 22nd.

NAME REMAINS

City hall officials said that once a candidate's name is officially on the ballot it cannot be withdrawn.

The deadline for withdrawing from the mayoralty race was the time set for the closing of qualifications at 5 o'clock p.m. the day following nominations.

A candidate cannot have his name taken off the ballot following the time for nominations." City Clerk Adam Stallard said.

However, it was stated there was nothing to stop Mr. Safe resigning if elected to office.

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — The number of lamprey-scarred fish caught in Lake Superior has decreased to the point where control of this Great Lakes fishery is in sight, the Great Lakes Fishery Commission was told at its meeting here Wednesday.

Scientists said the last of the lamprey eels had been found in the 600-mile lake.

Drinking Party Probably Cause Of Calgary Fire

CALGARY (CP)—The death last week of six today is a fire that broke out in sub-zero weather and destroyed the three-storey Cameron Block, a downtown business and apartment building.

Five bodies were recovered. A sixth victim, construction labor Robinson, 35, died in hospital.

All but one building's tenants were accounted for when the search was completed Wednesday. The search was broken early in the morning.

Positive identification of the other victims was lacking. They were assumed to be Mary Johnson, James Mc f i n a l, Sven Vikon, John Moe and Alex Tobaff.

At one time, the funeral home in the two bodies were taken reported six recovered from the block. Later it corrected the figure to five.

TELLS OF PARTY

Fire Chief Benny Lemieux said one survivor told police of an all-night drinking party in the week and brief blaze that built in 1903. The survivor told of waking to find a compartment filled with smoke. Chief Lemieux said indications were that the fire began where the party was held.

Robinson's wife, Mildred, is in hospital with serious burns.

The rest of the 21 occupants escaped. Some jumped to the street; some reached safety by a single stairway and five exits. Police Constable Ken Gardham and machine operator Ernie Read awoke others and helped them to get out.

John Hornik jumped from the second floor and was caught by an outdoor advertising sign. Thirteen others left by fire escapes, later. One of his hands had thrown to the sign to the five-below-zero weather.

A clothing store, delicatessen and barber shop were destroyed on the ground floor of the block. Heavy smoke damage to other building also were destroyed but they were unoccupied.

Committees Put Final Touch To Preparations for Parade

The last meeting of the Santa Claus parade committee for the year 1961 was held at the No. 2 Fire Hall Wednesday night. This meeting was the best attended yet, and it was nice to see that young people are really interested in this project.

In addition to the 200 dozen bags of potato chips, which have been donated by the Bloorgay Empty Potato Chip Co., the parade committee was informed Wednesday night that the Hawkins Potato Chip Company was donating 200 dozen bags. This was greatly appreciated by the committee.

Committee chairman, Fire Chief Gerald Vance announced that the candy would be distributed on Saturday from 9.30 a.m. to 10.00 a.m. on Front Street. Sixteen wagons have been obtained to transport the candy and potato chips.

He also said "I think anyone who is interested in this parade will be tickled to death when they see the parade go by."

Th chief said that anyone coming to the parade via bus, is asked to come to the Fire Hall on West Moira Street, by Highway 14 in Tarriett street and parking in the ball field. He said it would save a lot of confusion if we all use the fire hall.

The St. John Ambulance workers will be on hand and will be situated along the parade route.

Don't forget kids, Saturday is the big day. The colorful parade will be pushing off at 10 a.m. in the morning including Santa and all his reindeer and for the Razzle Dazzle fans, you will have an opportunity to see "Howard the Turtle".

The hard working team of the Santa Claus parade committee and the Firemen are to be commended for the splendid work they have done so far to make this year's parade a big success and also those who gave their generous donations.

No Injuries In Accident

No injuries were reported as the result of a car accident on Dundas Street East, Wednesday night.

Police said a car driven by James F. MacKay of R.R. 1, Belleville, was proceeding east on Dundas Street east. A second car driven by Hugh B. Sutherland, 318 Bleecker Ave., was also proceeding east on Dundas Street and while attempting to pass the MacKay vehicle struck the left rear on the north side of the street. Damage was done to the rear of the MacKay vehicle and continued on and struck a hydro pole situated on the south side of Dundas Street.

Damage to the Sutherland car was estimated at $800 and $250 damage to the hydro pole, which was broken. No damage was reported to the MacKay individual pursuers.

Yesterday and today Central Ontario Cheesemakers Association members were doing a steady business in off the street cheese sales as visitors to the show stopped in to buy show quality cheese.

Free Skating For Students Starts Tuesday

Free skating sessions for public and separate school students, sponsored by the Belleville Recreation Committee will be held each Tuesday and Friday during the months of December, January and February. These sessions will get started a few years ago by the Belleville Recreation Committee because of the inclement weather conditions made it impracticable to maintain outdoor rinks successfully.

The first session began last Tuesday with a large turnout with the next session scheduled for Friday. Time of these sessions are from 4:30 - 5:30 p.m. The Recreation Committee Chairman, Bill Hall co-operation manager Jack Dickens and the arena commission also announce that all facilities will be made available for these sessions, such as canteen, skate sharpening and supervision of children while they are skating.

Free skating sessions will be cancelled during Christmas holidays and will resume again at the beginning of the new year.

June and July Cheese Bought By Local Firm

Clark and Miles of Belleville have purchased the June and July cheese entered in the open classes of the British Empire Dairy Show being held in Belleville this week.

Canada Packers were the biggest purchasers of show cheese taking the August, September and October classes; the square block cheese and the Manufacturers' class, while Old Cherry Hill Cheese House bought the cheese entered in the universal class.

The small 10 pound silo cheese were sold locally to individual purchasers.

Yesterday and today Central Ontario Cheesemakers Association members were doing a steady business in off the street cheese sales as visitors to the show stopped in to buy show quality cheese.

Obituaries

ROBERT NAYLES
Marmora

Retired employee of the Deloro Mining and Smelting Company and well-known fisherman, Robert Hastings Nayles of Northern Hastings, Robert Nayles, died suddenly at his home on Wednesday afternoon of heart failure after a heart attack. Mr. Nayles suffered a heart stroke earlier in the year but was able to get around with the help of a cane. However during the last fall, his health began to fail rapidly. He was in apparent good health when he was stricken.

He was born in Stirling, 77 years ago, being the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Nayler (Nayles). He was principally all of his life in the Marmora district. He was employed with the Deloro plant for many years and had only retired a few years. He was always a great lover of the outdoors and on retirement took up fishing on Lake Ontario. Hastings area and his services were eagerly sought.

Mr. Nayles was a member of the United Church and was an honorary member of Marmora Branch No. 331 of the Royal Canadian Legion. He is survived by his wife, the former Isabella Glennie, three sisters, Mrs. Percy (Winnifred) McKendry of Niagara Falls, Mrs. Gertrude Fry of Belleville, Mrs. John (Myrtle) Korsbaan of Sunland, California, and four brothers, Norman Nayler of Red Lake, Ernest Nayler of Trenton and Harold and Clare Nayler of Marmora.

Resting at the Howden Funeral Home, Marmora. The funeral service will be held from there on Saturday in this edition.

FREDERICK GRAY
Marmora

Following a month's illness, the death occurred in Belleville General Hospital on Monday, November 27 of Frederick Gray of Marmora, in his 76th year.

Born and educated in Prince Edward County he was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Gray. He lived in Marmora village for many years, where he was employed by the Frankford Lumber Company of Marmora for 37 years until they retired. He was an employee with the late G. B. Aichart Lumber Co., also of Marmora, for a short time. He was well and favorably known.

He married Charity Wright, who survives, also two daughters, Mrs. Lingham (Irene) Hall of Niagara Falls, Ont., and Mrs. E (Lena) Martin of Chippewa Hill, one sister, Mrs. Charles of Marmora, Raymond of Niagara Falls, Ont., Garnet and Earl of Chippewa Hill, one grandchildren. One brother, Frank Gray of Marmora, also survives.

The funeral was held Wednesday afternoon, November 29, from the United Church with the Rev. J. M. D. McLeod conducting the services.

Bearers were Messrs. James Gordaner, Edward Gray, Clayton Cleminger, Thomas Smith, Donald Gray and Wesley Cuddy. Interment was in Marmora Protestant Cemetery.

Magistrate's Court

Peter Reginald Campbell, 18 and Robert Charles Mosher, 18, both of Trenton, pleaded guilty to a charge of wilful damage and were each given a conditional discharge sentence by Magistrate T. Y. Wills in county magistrate's court this morning.

Const. K. Williamson of the Ontario Provincial Police told the Court the two boys had been snuffing candles in a school in Middleton Park with an unnamed youth and Campbell put his foot through the plate glass window in the front of the school.

Magistrate Wills said "I think the only answer is a suspending sentence". He said he would add a condition to their bond that neither one of them was to associate with the other until the end of the term. He said the did not think that they could not say hello to each other when they passed on the street.

Gordon Chase Gregson of Trenton was arrested at his home shortly in jail this morning by Magistrate T. Y. Wills after pleading guilty to a charge of theft.

Gregson had been charged with stealing a quantity of wood from the air base, valued the value of $50.

Const. A. A. Baudry said that the accused admitted the question were found in the accused's locker.

Nino Amadeo was sentenced to three months in jail this morning by Magistrate T. Y. Wills when he pleaded guilty to a charge of breaking, entering and theft.

The break had been charged with breaking into the premises of McCauley's garage at Marmora. He was arrested last week until his record report had been received.

Cigarette Smoking Deadlier Than Smoking Pipe, Cigars Speaker Tells H-S Assoc.

TRENTON — Cheerfully admitting that he smokes a pipe himself, Dr. E. Best, chief of epidemiology division with the Department of National Health and Welfare, issued a forceful comparison between the high incidence of lung cancer in persons (mostly male) who smoke, (mostly cigarettes) and those who have never smoked or who have given it up, to a large group of Home and School Association members in Trenton last night.

Dr. Best said that the death rate from lung cancer was increasing annually. He said that cigarette smoking was "deadlier" than smoking pipes or cigars in the matter of cancer.

Referring to the parents he was addressing as "the lost generation," Dr. Best said that it was next to impossible for anyone who had developed the habit to break off, but that medical men and members of the Canadian Cancer Society hoped to be able to impress the younger generation with the danger of smoking and thus cut down the incidence of lung cancer.

Dr. Best said that the medical profession, for the most part, was convinced that smoking was a factor in lung cancer, although the authorities admitted that there were other factors such as factory smoke and fumes from motor cars, which might contribute to the cancer hazard. He said that surveys indicated that persons in the city had a better chance of living away from the atmospheric pollution, were more susceptible to lung cancer if they smoked than those who do not.

Dr. Best said that experimentation indicated that there was an way of "treating" tobacco or filtering the smoke, which effectively removed the danger factor from smoking cigarettes.

Dr. Best recommended that a special film be shown to secondary school students, with the view of appealing to their "logic" about smoking.

Last night's meeting was conducted by Donald Sutherland, president of the Dufferin Street Home and School Association.

Dr. Best was introduced to the meeting by Dr. E. W. Dow, MOH for Trenton and assisted by Mrs. George Greer, vice-president of the Trenton branch of the Canadian Cancer Society.

A special guest at the meeting was Lee Grella, MP for Hastings South. Mr. Grella was instrumental in securing Dr. Best as a speaker.

Dr. Best, who was appointed to his present position in January, 1950, was born in China and he is the son of Dr. A. E. Best, who was a professor of internal medicine at the West China Union University for a number of years. He was educated at the University of Toronto and are now associated with the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps. He is a specialist physicist in public health with the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons of Canada.

Voters Will Give Opinion On Fluoridation, Needs of New East Side Fire Hall

TRENTON—On election day, Dec. 4, Trenton voters will be asked to express their opinion concerning the fluoridation of the town's water supply.

Fluoridation has been recommended by Trenton's four dentists, and also by the Trenton Board of Health, acting on the advice of Dr. E. W. Dow, MOH.

In order to acquaint the ratepayers with the facts, the town has inserted an "explanation" of fluoridation in a local newspaper.

The electors are told that "it is claimed that fluoridation reduces tooth decay in children". Various authorities are quoted as recommending fluoridation. The cost to the taxpayers of Trenton for installing equipment to fluoridate the water, is said to be $9,800 and the annual operating cost, $3,150.

Presenting the other side of the picture, a "Kingston group" is said to be prominent evidence that "one part per million parts of fluoride accumulates in the bones, teeth and most internal organs and is poisonous," that "fluoride causes corrosion of water mains and hastens the deterioration of water heaters," that "claims for teeth decay reduction are exaggerated."

At a special meeting in Trenton last night, Dr. E. W. Best, chief of epidemiology with the federal health department, said that the phraseology, "a Kingston group", used in the ballot-page advertisement, was "an insult to the intelligence of the voters."

"Their conclusions would carry some weight if they were named," Dr. Best said, "Personally, I'm strongly in favor of fluoridation. Butter is poisonous if used in excess. The Kingston group's argument doesn't hold water. There's a very wide safety factor in the amount of fluoride put into the water."

Trenton property owners will be asked to comment on whether or not the town needs an east side fire hall on the municipal election ballots on December 4.

A fire hall on the east side would provide fire protection for east side residents without fear of delay by downtown traffic or the swinging of the town bridge.

It has been pointed out that although the RCAF fire fighting department has been very co-operative in the past, its first duty is to protect RCAF property and that the $18,000 available should Trenton require its services.

The estimated cost of constructing the fire hall proposed is $15,000; 78 per cent of labor costs in the construction would be subsidized by Government sponsor if the work were undertaken under the winter works programme.

The initial cost of operating the fire hall is estimated to be $18,000 annually. This would provide three men at the hall.

Fire Chief Cecil Ellis has stated that the present fire-fighting equipment would serve the needs of the hall in east Trenton.

Mayor James MacDonald has recommended a "yes" vote on the question and council candidates Jim Brown and Alfred Vaughan have made the construction of a hall an integral part of their platforms.

capsule that could go to the moon.

True, scientists had to bring Ham, the chimpanzee, back before the intended flight orbits of the earth had been completed.

But Cliff Collins was the first American to send the rocket soon. As his spacecraft, Mercury, circled over the tracking station at Point Arguello, California, he noted disturbing radio reports from the automatic recording equipment in the capsule.

There was trouble in the gyroscope, shooting jets designed to stabilize the craft in its flight. With the help of computers, flight officials decided a third orbit was too risky.

The tracking station at Point Arguello, called, since a radio signal shot, the signal triggered slow-down rockets at the base of the spacecraft, and they fired over the U.S. west coast, slowing the 17,500-mile-an-hour speed. The capsule began a fall to earth.

It was two orbits Enos ranged as high as 146 miles and as low as 99 miles.

Enos performed his tasks well, initial data showed, identifying unlike screws, opening a window, before him, pulling levers at certain intervals. Sometimes he performed the task of water from a nipple or a banana-flavored food bar sometimes his penalty for a wrong answer was a slight shock on the foot.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Industrials gained ground and speculatives were weak during heavy morning trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange today.

The interest in silver stocks cooled somewhat from Wednesday's pitch as United Keno Hill produced the lone spectacular gain—up to 11¾ on volume of 32,215 shares.

Speculative trading featured a ¾ drop to 39.75 for Lake Dufault and a 18-cent fall by Canadian Dyno at 82.81.

Industrials were paced by steels, utilities and banks and financial institutions. Steel Company of Canada, Imperial Bank of Commerce, Shawinigan, Traders Finance A, Union Gas and Atlas Steel all rose in the ¼ to ½ range in moderate turnover.

On index, industrials rose 1.13 to 606.59, golds 1.6 to 88.32 and base metals .30 to 214.13, their highest point since May, 1957. Western oils fell .27 to 111.08 and the 11 a.m. volume was 1,731,000 shares compared with 1,966,000 at the same time Wednesday.

The senior base metals list was strong with Hudson Bay Mining, Consolidated Mining and Smelting, International Nickel and Noranda all showing as much as ¾.

Gold trade was light and spotradic with McIntyre Porcupine up ½ to a new high of 51, its second in as many days, Hollinger and Kerr-Addison both additional Nickel and Consolidated small amounts.

Western oil trade was steady in the senior list amid falling prices. Dome dropped 1⅛, while Canadian Devonian and Bailey Selburn A slipped a few cents. Led by silvers, metals had a heyday during heavy trading Wednesday.

An announcement Tuesday night that the U.S. has stopped selling silver sent silver stocks skyrocketing at the opening. United Keno Hill, one of the world's largest silver producers, jumped 2½ to 11¾ in heavy volume, while Agnico, Conwest Explorations, Highland - Bell and Lenglo Silver rose in the 15- to 45-cent range.

Golds traded heavily amid rising prices. McIntyre Porcupine and Dome, both with eleven year laterals, added 1⅝ and 1¼ respectively after touching new highs earlier in the day, while Hollinger Consolidated and Kerr-Addison added ½ each.

Industrials were sparked by foods, utilities, banks and financial institutions and refining oils. Oils featured a 54 rise by Trans Prairie Pipe Line to a new high of 27 and Royalite gained 1⅛. Bank of Nova Scotia, Traders Finance B and Royal Bank reached new highs with gains of ½ to 1¼ in moderate trading.

On index, industrials rose .19 to 606.19, golds 3.53 to 93.09, base metals 2.36 to 212.63 and western oils .33 to 111.29. The volume was 4,973,000 shares compared with 5,563,000 the day.

Senior base metals were exceptionally strong with International Nickel and Consolidated Mining and Smelting up 1¼ and 1⅛ respectively.

Western oil trade was weak and sporadic amid rising prices.

ONT. LIBERAL

ficer Carmen Lawrence as saying he is senior official of the attorney - general's department was receiving $600 a month from the gamblers.

He said the foreman of the petit jury which tried Lapalme and McDermott was an employee of Seagram and Company —a company in which Lapalme owned held vendor shares.

"It's all I am going to say about the jury. I have further information, perhaps, in regard to the deliberations of the jury in the jury room, which I have decided not to give to the House."

GIVES NAMES

Mr. Wintermeyer gave the names of five reported Detroit mafia leaders who flew to a Kansas Bay lodge with McDermott and Feeley.

He said there was evidence of negligence and carelessness on the part of the attorney-general's and provincial secretary's department in failing to enforce laws governing issuance of social club charters.

In the past 4½ years, 31 social club charters had been revoked while 24 under police suspicion were still operating.

Several social clubs had been granted charters, he said, despite the fact they had adverse police records.

He mentioned the names of four Canadians indicted along with U.S. defendants in a $150,000,000 heroin smuggling conspiracy.

PREMIER SCOWLS

Premier Roberts sat scowling and silent through Mr. Wintermeyer's speech. Later he said he would reserve comment until he had reviewed the contents of the address.

Attorney - General Robarts, however, dismissed the speech as "aggression from beginning to end and nothing else."

Speaking a Progressive Conservative nomination meeting in Toronto Wednesday night, he declared:

He tried from dust and dirt to whip up a hurricane of suspicion. He was prepared to charge everybody but could not back it up with facts.

"It's country has no place for that type of attitude and evidence . . . you may find it behind the Iron Curtain, but not here."

INTERESTS 'SUBSTANTIAL'

Mr. Wintermeyer said he had been informed McDermott and Feeley had "substantial interests" in "three of the largest gambling clubs in the province in the last 10 years"—the Roseland Club in Windsor, the Queen Club in Fort Erie and the Centre Road Vets Club in Cobourg. They also were connected, he said, with the Hamilton Club in Wellington which had "most intricate and most intriguing" relations with the Frontier Club.

Of the government's handling of charters to social club, he said: "an examination of the record will demonstrate that there have been flagrant violations of all point of the law and on all aspects of policy, not just once but on frequent occasions."

He said some of the most notorious clubs had not been properly investigated by the attorney - general's department.

He cited cases of violence which he said showed the presence of organized crime, including the beating of convicted gambler Max Bluestein in Toronto in June and the recent death of Alberto Agueeci of Toronto, wanted on U.S. narcotic charges.

Increasingly in recent years, illegal gambling revenues have been used to promote fraudulent stock deals, he maintained.

Of legitimate business, which he said were operated by criminals, he cited Argo Limited which "was run for a considerable period of time" by McDermott and McDermott as an adviser to the Canadian government.

TOP CHEESE SHOW WINNER for more times than he can remember is Thomas S. Aicken of Belton, Ontario, who again this year was declared grand champion at the British Exhibition Show in Belleville. Improvement in Quality, Policy of Regrading Cheese For Export Helps Business

A four-point program aimed at the improvement of cheese quality, together with a policy of regarding of cheese classification for export, has resulted in a marked improvement in the number of complaints from the United Kingdom regarding the quality of Canadian cheese. This was noted Wednesday by the opening sessions of the annual Central Ontario Cheesemakers' Association convention as it got underway at the Hotel Quinte.

Mr. R. H. Gillan, supervisor of grading for the Federal Department of Agriculture, and former chief grader at Belleville, told the convention the system of deferred grading for export cheese had resulted in greater satisfaction for the English buyer with fewer complaints being received this year.

Mr. J. F. Robinson, chief cheese instructor at Kemptville College, explained that the four-point quality improvement program institute this year had resulted in better quality cheese produced as indicated by the partial grading results for the year.

OTHER SPEAKERS

Other speakers featured during the afternoon included Dr. D. M. Irvine, professor and head of the animal science department at O.A.C. Guelph and J. W. MacMillan, grader in charge at Belleville.

Association president Delbert Rowe of Halloway welcomed the members and visitors as did Mayor A. McLean and Reg. of Belleville and county warden Harleigh Hamilton. Rev. M. J. Caswell pronounced invocation.

Lee E. Grills, M.P. for Hastings-Frontenac noted the importance of the cheese industry to Belleville area and said cheese worth $15 million was boarded annually at the local exchange.

He said new shapes and sizes of cheese, along with more attractive packaging, was making the product more appealing to the customer.

Mr. Robinson said this year a stepped-up program of farm inspections had been carried on while a firmer cheese with less openness had helped to reduce cheese defects.

Deferred grading had determined the success of the first three points, he said.

MAKERS PRAISED

He stressed that the cheesemaker was the only man in position to efficiently grade milk as he was the only man on the job to actually see the milk when delivered to the factory.

In closing he congratulated makers of the Central Ontario area for the improved cheese quality shown this year.

Mr. Gillan said there were three courses of action which can be taken when an individual, group or industry is subject to criticism such as has been received from the United Kingdom last year regarding cheese quality. There were to deny it, excuse or accept it.

The last was what the Canadian cheese industry had done and had determined from the last year's criticism of export cheese quality was justified.

Regrading of all export cheese was called for in an effort to show any defect prior to shipping. In effect this meant that cheese may not be exported to the United Kingdom until it is at least 81 days old.

TEXTURE IMPROVED

He said there had been many bright spots in the cheese industry this year, among them being that texture of cheese had been improved with a marked decrease in what is known as "slight acid tenderness". This, he said, was a step in the right direction.

Mr. Gillan said it was hoped that the extra precautions taken this year to insure a high-quality product would preserve the high regard for Canadian cheddar in England and thus ensure a continuing market for surplus cheese.

The speaker said this year had shown an all-time high for milk production in Canada with an estimated 19 billion pounds. Milk production was expected to continue to rise next year, he said, with the additional belief that the additional milk would be directed toward the manufacture of butter of which there already was a large surplus.

Production of cheese in Ontario had decreased in 1961 this year but the all-Canada production was up at approximately 112,000,000 pounds. Domestic consumption was expected to take about 80 million pounds.

REDISTRIBUTION

provision gives P.E.I. its four seats, the same seat away from Quebec and adding three to Ontario would be enough of a political pitfall, especially at a time when the Quebec separatist movement is in bloom. But observers here say the stickiest problem is the Saskatchewan case.

Saskatchewan had 20 seats before the 1951 census. If a share of population dropped as drastically during the previous decade that it would have had five of them but the then Liberal government softened the blow with a constitutional amendment to the effect that no province could lose more than 15 per cent of its Commons representation.

That provision, however, also provided that in the forthcoming distribution the 15 per cent must apply against the number of seats that a province would have had after the 1951 census if the 15-per-cent rule had not been used.

Thus, Saskatchewan now must give up not only the two seats it saved after 1951 but two more as well. The loss of the first two seats accounts for a large all decline in House of Commons representation from 265 to 262 which is one above the constitutional minimum.

There has been speculation that the job may be given to a judicial commission or a royal commission. Observers believe that whether a commission about a year to handle redistribution.

BBG Wants Separate FM Programming

OTTAWA (CP)—Dr. Andrew Stewart, chairman of the Board of Broadcast Governors, stated today that new FM radio licences will not be recommended by the board without them commitments on the amount and nature of separate programming and on commercial policy.

He made the comment at a board luncheon which was questioned provided into what he described as a "cat and mouse game" between board member William Pearson and two officials of rival station CJBQ Belleville, which seeks an FM (frequency modulation) licence.

Dr. Stewart said he noted some lengthy questioning by Mr. Pearson did not produce commitments on either separate programming or commercial policy from CJBQ President Dr. Gerald O. Morton or station manager Frank Ellis when appearing to support the FM application.

NO COMMITMENTS

"We are not prepared to recommend FM licences for people to act on establishments without doing separate programming," Dr. Stewart said. "You are making no commitments about separate programming and it is possible you will. Eventually this could amount to 20 or 30 hours a week."

The board's recommendation to the government on the application is expected to be made next week.

Deloro Will Have Election

Every family in the municipality was represented at the nomination meeting was held in Deloro Hall Tuesday evening. A lengthy and sometimes lively discussion was held on the merits of remaining as a distinct municipality or amalgamating with another. This question will be fought out in the election on Monday, when seven candidates will seek the four council seats that are up for consideration. Reeve Sprague, who has been in municipal politics in Deloro for many years, was acclaimed as reeve. He was a member of the baseball team in the days when that centre was a force to be reckoned with on the baseball diamonds in the province and knows his way around.

There will also be an election for the office of clerk, five qualifying for the three seats. Those who are qualified are:

Reeve—William Sprague (acclamation).

Councillors (four to be elected)—Thomas Armstrong, Alphonse Clement, Leonard Veldeman, Charles Gallagher, Dewey Modgett, Leo Doyle, Donald Goodchild.

School Board (three to be elected)—Mrs. Ethel Rogers, Mrs. Don Nicholson, Mrs. Donald Donald-son, Mrs. William Regan.

A Poor Show

Guards at Kingston Penitentiary are reported to have told a Kingston meeting of the Civil Service Association of Canada that convicts in the institution have become so insolent "it is surprising they even let guards into the penitentiary."

One reason why this may be so was demonstrated a few moments later. When a newspaper reporter was discovered at the back of the hall he was punched and had his pen broken and his notes scattered.

There may be differences of opinion about the ethics of a newspaper reporter attending a meeting of a private nature without announcing his presence to those in charge of the gathering.

That, though, does not justify the manner in which he was treated—in fairness it must be added that after he was hustled to the front of the hall the executive of the Association apologized to him for the treatment he had received.

If, however, a reporter is treated in this manner, is there any sound reason for supposing that some of the guards do not abuse the convicts?

There is no position which demands a higher calibre of man than that of an official in a penal institution—and few positions which are less attractive to men of the type needed.

It is essential that prison officials should not only be firm but that they should also be just—countenancing no nonsense from the prisoners in their charge but at the same time being scrupulously fair in the manner in which they treat these prisoners.

Unfortunately men of this character are not always easy to find—and few of them would find the task of guarding convicts attractive. The brutality which often is exhibited by those of a criminal type will almost inevitably breed brutality in the guards, unless they are men of the highest calibre. How men of this type are to be found to undertake this kind of work, we frankly do not know. Prison guards, we understand, can hardly be considered well paid—but it is fairly obvious that this is one instance where high pay will be no guarantee that the proper type of man will be attracted to the work.

Baltic Worries Russia

Many people in the West will be surprised that talks between President Urho Kekkonen of Finland and Premier Khrushchev of Russia have resulted in a quick easing of tensions between the two countries. The Russians have withdrawn an earlier demand for defence consultations with Finland under a mutual assistance treaty.

It now appears that Russian concern arose out of recent Western discussions on setting up a NATO Baltic command. The Russians argue that the establishment of this command would accelerate "restoration of German militarism on the sea." This is not a very convincing argument on assumption. Any Baltic command would depend to a large degree on German naval bases in the Baltic.

It is interesting to recall that Sir Winston Churchill in his "The Gathering Storm," the first of the series of books in which he outlined the history of the Second Great War, described in some detail how he pressed for operations in the Baltic when he was First Lord of the Admiralty, before replacing Neville Chamberlain as prime minister. Churchill argues in his book that such allied operations, if they had been found feasible, would have been of utmost importance, dwarfing the role of most other naval operations.

The presence of a potential enemy force in the Baltic might not be quite as menacing to Russia as it would have been to Hitler's Germany, but with a large portion of the southern coast of the Baltic now being lined with Communist satellite powers, it is obvious that it would be a development of no mean significance.

In such circumstances, the gallant Finns may be excused for hoping that the Western allies abandon a project whose first fruits could easily prove to be the disappearance behind the Iron Curtain of yet another small Eastern European nation.

You have a great country, but that doesn't necessarily mean that all other nations want to be like yours.—Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru, visiting U.S.

Letter To The Editor

Japanese Girl, 16, Seeks Pen Pals

Dear Editor

Please forgive me for my rudeness in bothering your busy hours but I am a Japanese girl looking for a pen friend in your country.

I couldn't get any pen friend in your country because I didn't know how to. But recently I was told by the Youth Council how to get interested.

Contact (t-30 Jimbocho, Chiyoda-ku, Tokyo) to write to you asking for some pen friends in your country. So I am writing this letter to you with a big hope.

Will you please publish this letter at the corner of your paper and find me a friend, a school principal, or teachers, or in a club so that I could have a penpal from your country? I hope you will help me.

Yours sincerely, Yoko Noda.

P.S.: Here is my brief self-introduction. I am a Japanese girl aged 16 and I attend to the first grade at Naruto high school.

My hobbies are collecting stamps and coins, cards, music and reading. My name is Yoko Noda. My address: Sultan-bari Muya Naruto Tokushima, Japan.

History Repeats Itself

By Harold Weir in the Vancouver Sun

To those spurious intellectuals who seek the kingdom of heaven through the hallowing of the old saw, "History always repeats itself," has no significance.

They see the human story as a straight line stretching ahead, as a die from original causes to perfection. And yet history does double back and loop and circle and repeat itself, not only in national and international events, but in the most bizarre and personal instances of human behavior.

Take for example, the case of Bhagwan Singh of Delhi. Bhagwan Singh died a few days ago and the time had come for him to die and he fixed the hour. By his appointment with death at precisely 10 o'clock in the morning he took a few minutes before 10, he lay down before a temple with his head waiting for death.

Ten o'clock came and death had not taken him. Bhagwan became and nothing had happened. At the half-hour, he arose in utter disgust and announced it to be announced that he had changed his mind. As the news account reported it, "Thousands who had gathered to witness his demise seemed to be disappointed."

Ridiculous? One supposes so. And yet I recall a similar case at a much earlier date but undergone exactly the same experience.

In the 14th Century, the Emperor Charles V, burdened with gout and weary of imperial responsibilities, divested himself of his royal offices. Before a great gathering in the Low Country he resigned the kingdoms of Spain and of The Netherlands to his son Philip and proclaimed that he would bequeath the empire to his brother Ferdinand.

It was nearly in 1558 before the formalities of transferring imperial authority to Ferdinand were completed and Charles retired to a Hieronymite monastery in the north of Estremadura.

Near the end of August, in the same year, Charles decided as Bhagwan Singh, that he had had enough of life and, according to Spanish chroniclers, ordered had an elaborate tomb prepared for himself within the monastery. He was to lie in the tomb and give up the ghost at exactly the moment of the celebration of the Most.

On the morning of Aug. 30, so the Hieronymite account goes, the former emperor lay down in the tomb, had a chilly touch and composed himself for death as a Solemn High Requiem Mass, with full Benediction was completed and the Most elevated.

But the Imperial authority failed to work. Charles did not die. He recovered and the monks persuaded him to retire to his quarters.

But the great man was peckier, in fact, than Bhagwan Singh. Lying in his dank mausoleum had given him the unpardonable chill and he was cold turned to pneumonia and the ex-emperor took to his bed. On Sept. 21, at the age of 58, he died. He had been out only 22 days of his timing.

Neither the death story of Charles nor the death story of Bhagwan Singh is of any great consequence in itself. But taken together, they tell a story that there is little really new under the sun, a reflection that the human heart is the same in the hearts of some of our more mournful reformers.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

IT CAN BE DONE

Before me as I write is an account of a commodity speculator who ran up an investment of six thousand dollars to a quarter of a million. There must have been some luck in all this. He claims he didn't. But there is no reason to doubt his claim that he had systematized formulas as a math-ematical physicist which enabled him to anticipate future needs and the operation of the law of supply and demand.

Two things need to be said about this. The first is that it can undoubtedly be done. Although most people in the world who make it grow it unbelievable portions. These people are not geniuses of mathematics. This speculator appears to have been perfectly normal. Sometimes people get the "breaks." This is a factor utterly unpredictable. But many usually find it in the hands of people who have the knowledge and the energy to take advantage of it.

The second observation, naturally, that this man worked out his investments on a rational basis. All men cannot do this mathematical formula, nor is it necessary that they should in order to be successful. But it is necessary that we put brains into our investments.

Money cannot make us happy, but it can do a lot to keep us from being unhappy. It can give us a sense of security and a certain peace of mind—not the greatest and the best, but at least good.

Obstacles To Progress

Montreal Financial Times

Only a few years ago the boycott — a "flying fan" — idiots that exists over land or sea on a cushion of air existed only in the imagination of science fiction writers. Today, this imaginative dream has become a reality. Hovercraft have been designed and flown. In a number of countries, notably Britain, they are already on the way towards commercial production.

Britain, interestingly enough, has already prescribed regulations governing their operation. Hovercraft, while hovering over water, must be accompanied by a picket boat displaying a red diesel flag.

This is but a modern-day example of the lengths man is prepared to go to place obstacles in the path of his own progress. The obstacle is not much different from the ones erected nearly a century ago to control the operation of that dangerous contrivance, the iron horse. The old regulations-makers take much more kindly to another contraption which they merely predicted would, forever sell, the horse-less carriage, in numbers not to exceed one hundred. Early autos were permitted to operate only if they were preceded by a man on foot to warn the public of approaching danger.

As history has shown, these senseless restrictions were held back neither the development and use of the railway locomotive nor the motor vehicle. Equally, the flag-bearing picket boat is likely to be the last whatever potential may be inherent in hovercraft.

But the tendency to regulate and legislate obstacles in the path of progress does have a point: the lengths to which man is appreciably willing to go in pursuit of self-improvement and greater well-being.

It explains, perhaps, why firemen are still found aboard diesel locomotives which have no fires to be tended, why butter substitutes are prohibited in some countries, why bank clerks are kept out of weather vanes, and a host of similar nonsensical practices that are necessary and actual harmful restrictive measures.

Our Enemies Can Teach Us Understanding

By SIDNEY J. HARRIS

We decide where we will live, and not, as matters now stand, to decide what we shall be; also the consequences of our decisions often turn out to be quite different from what we originally make.

To have an enemy makes some men furious and others frightened; but an enemy, properly understood, can be used to learn more about our own nature, and this learning is a way of overcoming the enemy.

Jealousy is useful as individuals need to grasp this principle.

Sin, said Reverend Russell, is geographical; I suggest that whatever is geographical is not sin, but merely error.

It is of the essence of self-sacrifice that it not be seen by the giver as self-sacrifice, once it is seen as such, the purity is corrupted by the pleasure of feeling noble.

Birth certificates say that a belong together, while encyclopedias combine things that seem separate. Both are true, and neither is adequate as a description of the grave curve of life. We hope less to express the complex in-ner world, where we really live.

In bridge or chess fools and experts often make the same moves; the difference is that the player would never make; but the expert makes it for a much different reason than the fool. Therefore, we should not condemn a move until we know whether the man is be-neath good sense or has gone far beyond it.

He is most particularly polite to truck drivers, taxi drivers and operators of public buses. For these he will always stand aside, allowing them right of way.

"A polite driver," he assures me, "can cause more high blood pressure in the land than all the rude drivers put to-gether."

Slums Profitable

Buffalo Evening News

A non-profit foundation has been formed in New York City to persuade investors to buy and improve slum backwards. The foundation would operate the property for the investors and hope to pay them eight percent to 10 percent profits. Profits of 15 to 25 percent are now made on many unimproved slum tenements in New York.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

If you take pleasure in infuriating people, just there are some who do — the best way is to be polite to them.

A neighbor of mine with whom I frequently ride to or from work loves to annoy people in a state of apoplexy. He is the kind who goes to public meetings and heckles. He writes letters to editors and organizations only for the pleasure of being a pain in the neck, and throwing everything into confusion he loves to tease. It is actually a sore affliction and a warped sense of humor he has.

Thus, when the driver behind us in a comer and sees somebody trying to make a left hand turn, he invariably halts, looks, and deliberately waves the other on to make the turn. If there are three or four cars waiting to make the left hand turn, and he waits for them all, especially if there are seven or eight cars back behind him. And the horns and toots and blasts of those

Stones Can Reappear Even After Gall Bladder Removal

By Joseph C. Molner, M.D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: My gall bladder was removed about four years ago. At that time I had 30 stones, and started having attacks when my first-born was three weeks old.

"This last month I have had three stomach attacks, which see to me like gall stone attacks. Is it possible I have stones again? Will you have to be removed? — Mrs. K. M."

Yes it is possible, for although the gall bladder (a reservoir for a "reserve supply" of bile) has been removed, you still have a duct carrying bile to the intestine from the place where bile — a digestive juice — is produced, (that's the liver.

It is possible for new stones to lodge in that duct. Special X-rays may prove them if that is what has happened.

And, I must tell you, if the stones have appeared in the liver to the extent that jaundice appears, they will have to be removed, for if they don't, they will ever: An ulcer, rather than stones, is all I'll be trouble. See your doctor.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Please give me the definition of a polyp. What is it on a person's chest? Also is there anything to cure a chronic infection behind one's nose? Or can a chronic infection mean there is no cure? Would this have any connection with polyp being swollen and red? Could the chronic infection cause bad breath? — Mrs. A. J. P."

A polyp is a small tumor, or growth on a mucous membrane or lining, as in the nose, bowel, bladder, etc. The color is usually the same and the consistency, but it can vary from pink to fiery red.

"Chronic" does not mean no cure is available, but that it continues from prolonged stage because it resists treatment, isn't being treated, or some contributing factor makes treatment ineffectual.

An infection in the nose can be chronic because a polyp interferes with drainage or makes it difficult to apply treatment. The infection in turn could cause the polyp to be swollen and red, and such infections can indeed contribute to bad breath. Removal of the polyp might help clear up the whole situation.

"Dear Dr. Molner: My son, 28, was recently informed he has an over-active thyroid. His condition is very severe as far as the operation is concerned, but recently he has been getting severe cramps or a "charley horse' in the shoulders and arms. The doctor says they are caused by an upsetting of the calcium in the body as a result operation. — Mrs. A. G."

This occasionally occurs after an operation on the thyroid, since the parathyroid glands may also be disturbed. It usually occurs very soon after the operation. It can be proved by laboratory tests of the calcium and phosphorus levels in the blood — and such tests are wise, since if that is not the cause of the cramps, you can look elsewhere, myself.

"Dear Dr. Molner: My husband died of emphysema. We have some money, contributed for a memorial for him, which we would like to give to an organization engaged in research on this and other lung diseases (not tuberculosis). We are told there is no national organization for this purpose. I feel sure there are groups engaged in such research. Can you give me the name of one? — Mrs. D. M."

No, I can't. But I agree there must be — and are — research groups in the U.S. and maybe not solely on that. The best way to find such a group is to write to the local medical society in your own and neighboring states, and the strong probability that one of them will be able to advise you of some researcher or group that is getting a lot of financial help in studying this troubling and frustrating and not uncommon, but not "dramatic" enough to have a large and organized group publicizing it.

Headstart Hint: You can beat them. Write to Dr. Molner in care of The Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, P.O. Box 196, Dundee, Ill., for a copy of my booklet, "How To Tame Headaches." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, unstamped envelope and 25c to cover cost of handling and postage.

Canada Needs Salesmen

Windsor Star

Members of an farmers' trade commission now in Canada have made much favorable marketing remarks which should be followed up. They are in this country to buy machinery. Canada has to sell that farmed needs.

One spokesman of one of these Canadian companies have been "a little bit shy" about mentioning sales. The remainder remarked: "We don't know what we're missing."

This raises the question: How many other people in other parts of the world haven't been, a Canadian salesman and don't know what Canada has to offer? And why is this so?

ADAPTATION

No matter where you meet a man a people they seem at home. Both their friendliness and adaptation to every circumstance makes them secure.

It isn't always easy to adapt yourself, but it is often very essential.

There is sense and sound philosophy in the old saying, "When in Rome, do as the Romans do." For if you do this, the Romans are at once disarmed of the criticisms that they might have made if you had not done so.

Life fairly happily with those of their kind. And just as soon as you begin to display a few peculiarities, home feelings start.

People make it for a month different reason than the fool. Therefore, we should not condemn a move until we know whether the man is be-neath good sense or has gone far beyond it.

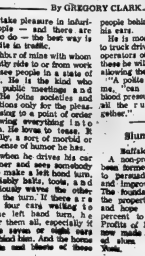
One of the current phenomena is that spirit of complaint and whining that becomes us all on people and tells them to stop working, to merely hold their hands and wait for something to nothing.

The very first sentences of the Bible are extraordinarily inspiring. They tell of beginning. In the beginning" — there are the words — "God created."



The man who adapts himself to his surroundings and his circumstances always creates, always lifts up those about him and grows great himself.

Adaptation is selling your own thoughts and actions into those of the rest of the world — thereby selling it to them.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

By R. J. SCOTT

Speech Was Free and Easy When Candidates for Civic Office Appear at Bun Feed

Historians of some future century might well cite Belleville, more particularly Foster ward, specifically that institution on the western right-of-way of St. Paul Street, the Weary Street Debating Club as the last stronghold of free speech. Certainly speech was free and easy yesterday evening on the occasion of the annual bun feed — or bottled bun event.

Every civic-minded man in the community about 30% in all and one dog of the canine species), was present. That venerable building light of local municipal affairs and the conscience of the city, "Senator" Harry Rollins set the trend for the evening as he made the president's opening remarks of welcome. With that outspoken frank manner which had endeared him to generations of citizens he advised those present that "in thieves there are gentlemen and there are thieves here tonight."

No one appeared ready to challenge this remark and the "Senator" then handed the chairmanship of the meeting over to Jim "Cake" Matthews so that he would be able to inject a few brief words of constructive criticism. Mr. necessary, like the ripppers' remarks.

Incumbent Mayor Haig teed off the political palaver with the observation that two years ago nobody wanted the job of chief magistrate but that now it appeared to be quite a popular job and appears to be worth something. He suggested that this was a good indication that the city's position had improved over the past two years.

Expressing his pride in everything connected with the city's council and administration, His Worship noted that the city was possibly in better financial condition now than it had ever been.

His own effort to hold the tax rate at a realistic level was, he remarked, overruled by the majority decision of council to increase it.

Mayoralty candidate Arthur Keegan said that he disagreed with a number of things done by council recently. He demurred from discussing those items of contention at that time on the grounds that issue would be taken on them at the Chamber of Commerce candidates' meeting this evening.

NOT A POSSIBILITY

When challenged with the suggestion that he was possibly being paid to run in order to split the vote, Mr. Keegan replied that this possibility was beside the question. He later clarified his remark as meaning that such was definitely not a possibility.

Mr. Keegan stated that he was for greater preparation for industry, holding the present speed limits near school zones and wants the people to vote on the issue of fluoridation of the city's water supply.

At this point "Senator" Rollins felt it should be realized that the tax rate only goes up because the people want more things from the government and he said so. He also expressed his thoughts on the value of eliminating any "nuisance taxes" and adopted a positive attitude on the question of Sunday sports.

When accused by various members of the multitude that he always sat on a fence regarding municipal politics the "Senator" declared that 'he never sat on a fence as he was able to jump, a fence prefer by far".

He complimented the current council members as being possessed of the "cleanest minds of anyone — they change them often enough".

Mayor Haig then posed the question that why, when provision was made in the original structure there has been no action taken in adding an additional floor to the 1953 wing of the hospital.

Mayor Haig replied that the present shortage of beds precluded the possibility of evacuating the third floor and action would have to be taken if additional floor were to be added.

Alderman Ben Corke, whose name sounded familiar to a number of spirited citizens present, advised those present that the one alderman who did not change his mind, Mr. Corke was then advised and some present didn't think he had changed it.

In asking those present for their support at the polls Alderman Corke stated that he stood on his record during his past term in office. "Senator" Rollins observed that this was a pretty thin platform to stand on.

Lee Digby, a former alderman now running again for election, promised a square deal for every citizen if he was elected. He stated that he would like to see a return to evening council meetings for the convenience of citizens wishing to make representation to council. He promised to provide council with independent thinking if elected.

At the suggestion that perhaps Mr. Digby would work to bring back big time hockey to the city Mr. Digby said soccer was his sport. It was then opined from the floor that it shouldn't cost anything for more soccer scores.

Chairman "Cake" Matthews then advised the assembly that a number of telegrams had been received. Prime Minister Diefenbaker allegedly sent his regrets at being unable to attend the bun feed. President Kennedy declined the offer to send into orbit one of the city's aldermen on the grounds that the chimps could do just as good a job.

Alderman Walter Elliott said he felt that things were looking encouraging in Belleville.

Alderman Jack Ellis said he felt he knew a lot about sewers and could give quality representation on council. He stated that he was for fluoridation personally.

Former Mayor Gerald Hyde, now running for alderman, said that he felt he had more experience to offer than any other candidate. Much of this experience and knowledge of municipal affairs was gained, he allowed, under difficult conditions.

Aldermanic candidate William Lowen stated that he would devote as much time and energy as was required of him to fulfill his duties as an alderman if elected. He advised that he has been a successful businessman for the past 10 years, a veteran of the Royal Canadian Navy, and active in the work of the Lions Club, which just recently provided new quarters for the retarded children's school.

Jim Meens, a candidate for alderman, said that he will do his best and work for everyone.

Joe Bayerott, also running for alderman, remarked that he felt he was in a position to devote considerable time to municipal affairs since he was now retired after having operated two successful businesses over the past 30 years.

Former school board representative Stuart Robb, now seeking election as alderman, said that he wanted people to feel that he would represent everyone in Belleville if elected.

Candidate Harold Wilkinson remarked that he didn't have too much to say but would have more to say on Thursday night.

Orliff "Boiler" Lloyd undoubtedly took top honors for surprise speaking candidate when he summed up his remarks in the statement: "Hello fellows, glad to see you all."

Following the political aspirants a few other citizens availed themselves of the opportunity of a captive but restless audience. Former alderman Bruce Lattimer managed to hold them at bay, however, as he remarked that both he and "Senator" Rollins should have been in the mayoralty race in order to have a good fight. He added that, in his opinion, he "would have beaten the pants off him."

George DeVuyst, one of the perennial flowers of oratory at the club, was less fortunate, however, in keeping the tigers of criticism at bay. He had barely got launched into his theme on Sunday sports, safe votes and ecumenical dictatorship than he was forcibly ejected from the hall.

Lee Grills, MP, appeared to be more solidly fixed and spoke briefly to allow that he had limited time in 15 minutes at this session than he had in an hour spent at a previous meeting.

Maurice Callaghan, secretary of the club, concluded the speeches for the evening. He suggested that Foster Ward was no place in the city for a sewage disposal plant and that the zoning of Foster ward as a commercial district was due to a few who considered themselves friends of the area.

At this point refreshments were served to all with copious quantities of hot dogs and cheddar cheese on hand.

Petty Officer Karl Lawler, of Belleville, is shown at the throttles in the engine room of HMCS Bonaventure as the aircraft carrier, along with other units of the RCN's Atlantic Command, takes part in a series of fall fleet exercises centred on Charleston, S.C. The Bonaventure will return to Halifax in mid-December. (National Defence Photo).

Resume of 'Frontier College' Given at Nicholson College

The regular monthly meeting of Nicholson Catholic College was held November 28th. The president, Mr. Ortel Griffin, presided and Monsignor J. F. Sullivan opened the meeting with prayers.

Mrs. T. A. Kelly reported 128 paid-up members to date.

Mr. H. Brown, as a director of Nicholson College PTA, has consented to take care of all matters pertaining to federation.

It was decided to hold a "take phone bridge" early in the new year for the one money-making project of the season.

Mrs. L. M. Daley delivered a resume of the film, "Frontier College," which was thoroughly enjoyed by the members and group discussions followed.

FOUNDER OF FRONTIER COLLEGE

The original founder of Frontier College was Alfred Fitzpatrick, a graduate of Queen's University in 1896.

He was a Presbyterian minister who accepted a field assignment with the church in the west coast logging camps. In camp after camp he found a "uniformity of barrenness," where men merely worked, ate, drank and slept.

He developed a passion to do something about it. He began to visit these camps taking books and magazines, but realized he needed money to really get his project underway, so he asked the large companies which worked the frontier, for help.

Funds began dribbling in to buy books, rail tickets and other necessities for the volunteer teachers. What really made Frontier College grow was that other men began to share Fitzpatrick's passion.

DR. EDMUND BRADWIN

One of the first was Dr. Edmund Bradwin, also a graduate of Queen's University. Dr. Bradwin took on the task recruiting job for laborer-teachers by an annual tour of the universities.

The headquarters of Frontier today is in Toronto. Seven permanent staff work there including the principal Eric Robinson, a graduate of McGill. He is a former labrador-teacher himself so he knows his job, which is basically to keep supplies of both ideas and teaching aids flowing to the 75-80 laborer-teachers who go out each year to Frontier camps.

Some of the very famous men today have been laborer-teachers such as Dr. Benjamin Spock, famed Philadelphia child specialist, and many others.

Monsignor Sullivan closed the meeting with prayer.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. H. J. Glancey, and her committee.

FIVE FIFTH BUILDING

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Fire ripped through a six - storey building on Eagle Street in the downtown business district Wednesday night, causing an estimated $200,000 damage. Three firemen were slightly injured. The brick building was occupied by Reddick and Taylor Incorporated, a floor-covering concern.

(MUSIC NEWS)

All music lovers in Belleville will be pleased to learn that Mr. Raymond Taylor, eminent young violinist, was soloist with the Toronto Symphony Orchestra, Wednesday, November 29th.

Mr. Taylor is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Barnet Taylor formerly of Belleville and now living in York Mills, Ont.

Raymond was a student at Albert College before taking up his studies with Albert Pratz at the Royal Conservatory of Music, Toronto.

Women Vote Down Motion On A-War

GUELPH (CP)—Members of the board of directors of the Federated Women's Institutes of Ontario, Wednesday voted down an emergency resolution to send appeals to the federal government and United Nations protesting nuclear war or the threat of war as a means of solving world problems.

A board meeting decided that as ambassadors of women's institutes they should go out and talk peace "because the great est fear is fear itself."

They also decided that mental attitude, fear and propaganda are far more deadly than any nuclear bomb.

Letters containing a resolution to have women appointed to commissions dealing with subjects of importance to women will be sent to the provincial and federal governments.

The directors also voted to support a resolution requesting that an agricultural course be included in the program for the new trade school to be constructed at Sault Ste. Marie so that boys from that area could have an opportunity to study farming problems peculiar to Northern Ontario.

Two women were appointed conveners of standing committees. Mrs. George Burkitt of Frankford will head the committee on agriculture and Canadian industry and Mrs. Joseph Sherman of Moon Road is the new convener of the committee on citizenship and education.

Mrs. Ruth Connell of Prescott was appointed junior board member to the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada.

New federation board members elected: Mrs. H. J. Shakerick, Vars; Mrs. William Clark, Orangeville; Mrs. E. B. Sharp, Durham; Mrs. Walker Hedley, Canfield; Mrs. John M. MacLean, Seaforth; Mrs. Everett Small, Colina; Mrs. Allan Neal, Sarnia; Mrs. S. Panting, Bala; Mrs. J. H. Chivers, Alfields, and Miss Jean Smith, Walkerton.

Christ Church Contact Club Holds Fine 'Christmas Arcade'

Christ Church parish hall assumed a gala appearance last evening for the "Christmas Arcade" under the auspices of the Contact Club of the church. The pleasant convener for this delightfully successful event was Florence Lennox, assisted by a committee of fifteen members.

Receiving the thronging guests into the cheery atmosphere were Rev. John Ford, president of the organization; Mrs. J. H. Cressey, wife of the rector and Mrs. E. Smith, wife of the assistant rector of the church. Beautiful background music was supplied by Laura Bird and the talent convener was June Woodley.

Everywhere the eye turned, the Christmas motif with its red, white and green was evident. Every booth also bore out the Christmas motif with its own individual idea of the theme. Large colorful poinsettias were at vantage points along the walls and across the draperies, a jolly Santa Claus noted the "Parcel Post", and overhead from the hall the various displays were bedecked with tinsel ropes and colorful lights and globes.

ELABORATE COFFEE COURT

The refreshment centre (Arcade Coffee Court) was lavishly decorated, encircled with fancy holly garlands, with two snow-white Christmas trees centrally placed, while the area outlining the entrances and in the foreground a red and white checkered cloth centred with a two - tier arrangement of bright red globes and flanked by scarlet tapers. The focal point of interest, however was the beautifully decorated serving table with its bright red tablecloth, white cloth with fruit jellies on lettuce and an assortment of fruit breads. On the sparkling white cloths at each end of the long table were beautiful floral arrangements of bright red carnations interspersed with greenery, having five-point candelabras holding tapers serving white candles. Gleaming cutlery and prettily bordered Yule serviettas added to this lovely setting. The refreshments were served buffet style with members serving coffee.

FINE HANDICRAFTS

The success of the hall a large quadrangle was loosted with a huge supply of handicraft articles, arranged as a Club project. Just to mention a few of the many gift items for sale here were: Christmas trinkets, decorations and novelties; silver sprayed pine cones; plastic sprays; gift Christmas stockings and shoe bags, trimmed with sequins; baby bibs and bonnets; felt coasters; note and book covers; rain hats; frilly lamp shades; cutlery mitts as well as many other items, so suitable for Christmas giving.

MANY ATTRACTIONS

One section of this display was devoted to fancy aprons, some with colorful Yule designs, others of fancy organdy and net materials. At the section marked "Package Parade" there were all shapes and sizes of gift-wrapped packages. One side of the quadrangle was laden with an array of dollar clothing and centring this was a beautifully attired doll with tiara and evening bag to complement her golden - colored gown and also a complete wardrobe. These were to be sold later in the evening to the highest bidder.

One of the tables was laden with containers of Planters Peanuts, which was a Club project and at each side of the hall were check tables where the many patrons availed themselves of this convenient service.

Two pretty little misses were in charge of the parcel post, where right unseen, numerous articles could be purchased. In charge were miss Bonnie Lennox and Miss Joanne Wiggins.

The candy booth was most elaborate in its layout of maple creams, divinity fudge, round pats of rice krispies, strawberry candies, date sweets; all displayed on silver trays, as well as numerous containers of hard mix Christmas candy.

DELICIOUS HOMECOOKING

Located on the platform and beautifully decorated in keeping with the Christmas theme was the enticing homecooking table. Here were all kinds of delicious confections; pies of all kinds, blueberry, apple and lemon meringue; assorted fancy cookies in collophane topped boxes; jolly butter cookies; buns, rich, fancy-topped cup cakes, coffee rolls with rich nut meats, and cherry cranberry tarts. Hiding lighting the display was a huge white cake in the form of a "Frosty the Snowman," a miniature snowman. Also here were Christmas puddings, jars of apple jelly, relish and pickles.

The white elephant (attic special) table was laden with an abundant array of miscellaneous items, some of which were cups and saucers, baskets, ash trays, costume jewelry, salt and peppers, as well as many other useful items.

Lovely table centre candelabras of plywood made by Mr. and Mrs Butler of the congregation were for sale with a percentage of the proceeds going to the Contact Club.

OTHER ASSISTANTS

Others who assisted in making this event so successful were as follows: general booth —Mary Fletcher, Dorothy Sinclair, Marjorie Bonnett, Barbara Jones, Barbara Cooke and Dorothy Kelly; bake table convener, Trudy Sands, assisted by Barbara Bertrim, Greta Monk, Shirley Marshall, Myra Cresswell, Leslie Baimes, Shirley Harris and Molly Kerr; white elephant — Edith Pringle and Irene Weatherizes; candy table — convener, Mary Koczpen, Betty Teed and Beverley Hancock; club project, peanut sales — convener, Margaret Beck; check tables — convener, Doris Durand, Betty Kerr, Ann Trendall and Marion Grant; refreshment centre — convener, June Fisher, who assistants in the coffee room and kitchen, Mrs. Bostwick, Margaret Wiggins and Doris Stewart; assistants in the kitchen and coffee room — Evelyn Bird, Helen Miller, Gerry Carter, Gladys Murphy, Mickey Lake, Marion Smith, Mabel Damjanoch, Shirley Ashley, Marion Rowbotham and Margaret Miles.

Members of the overall committee were: Florence Lennox, convener; Mary Fletcher, co-convener; publicity, Barbara Cooke; treasurer, Myra Cresswell; ticket convener, June Woodley; music, Laura Bird; refreshment convener, June Fisher, and in charge of the lavish decorations were Margaret Wiggins and Doris Stewart.

Baptismal Rites Held at United Church

The chancel of Frankford United Church was beautifully decorated with flowers on Sunday morning and the choir, under the direction of Mrs. K. Austin, organist and choirboy, provided special music for a reception and baptism service at which Mr. and Mrs. Frank Morris and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Gilmour were received into the fellowship of the Church by profession of faith, and baby Francine Carla Morris, and Barry David Gilmour, were received by the sacrament of baptism. Mr. W. Morrow, Clerk of Session, assisted the minister with the ceremony. C.G.I.T. girls, Sharon McGeachie and Debbie Hamilton read the Scripture.

Will Build Memorial to Grand Duchess

TORONTO (CP)—They're going to build a memorial in a Toronto cemetery to Grand Duchess Olga, sister of the last Czar of Russia.

After escaping from Russia following the Bolshevik revolution, Grand Duchess Olga lived in exile first in Denmark, then in Britain and finally in Canada, where she died in 1942. She died here little more than a year ago, at age 78—the last of the Romanovs.

Following her death, several Toronto citizens started collecting funds for the memorial. The 18 - foot granite and concrete monument in the shape of a chapel, incorporating sketches of Russian churches made by the Duchess, was designed by Michael Wycher, Toronto interior decorator.

The memorial has a crown-like arch topped by a miniature dome of cobalt blue. The sweeping arch frames the cross of the Greek, Orthodox Church wrought in copper.

Patrons of the fund for the memorial to Olga, who was the youngest daughter of Czar Alexander III and sister of Michael II, include Princess Vera of Russia, Mrs. Winston Churchill, L. W. Brockington of Toronto and Stanley Ball of Brampton, Ont.

St. Andrew's Yuletide Tea, Bazaar Pleasingly Successful

Yesterday afternoon St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church sponsored a most attractive Christmas tea and bazaar, with gaily adorned booths, delightful displays, all denoting the lovely Yuletide season.

Following the official opening by the pastor, the Rev. R. D. MacLean, who thanked the ladies for their labors of love, and wished them much success as the result of their work, the guests received by Mrs. R. D. MacLean, wife of the pastor; Mrs. H. V. Walker, wife of the assistant minister; and Mrs. R. C. Michaud, president of the Women's Guild whose warm welcome smiles were harbingers of the pleasant afternoon in store.

ATTRACTIVE BOOTHS

Among the many attractions were seven booths, including the delicatessen, the first on entering to attract the eye, which simply bore out the old saying, "The shortest way to a man's heart is through his stomach," was most adequately emphasized here, with the tasty sausage rolls, baked and steamed sweet apples; cream cheese and nut salads; soups; carrot and fruit puddings; macaroni and cheese dishes; homemade sliced beans; meat pies; attractive jars of baked bread, crumbly jars of relishes; pickles; jams and jellies; cabbage salads; and many others, equally enticing. In charge of these was the Loyal Circle, convened by Mrs. Yorke.

Next in line was that of the homecooking, sponsored by the Sunshine Group, with Mrs. J. Allan as convenor. There was not so many lovely and delicious cakes superbly decorated, one like a wagon wheel with white rim and spokes, and axle of orange decorative soft icing; pumpkin, highly peaked lemon pie; Christmas tarts and tarts; tarts, pretty little fruit cakes; dainty tea biscuits, graham shortbread; economical date and orange loaf cakes; and golden crusted buns, angel cake, and cookies in various shapes and decors.

MOUTH-WATERING CANDY

On the candy table, were little cellophane bags and boxes of mouth-watering creams, fudges, both dark and white; delicious Turkish delight; divinity fudge; and boxes of candy, neatly packaged. Mrs. W. Mantle and Mrs. R. Ryan were in charge of these.

The "White Elephant" booth, situated at the foot of the stairway, was as usual a drawing card with the pretty little C.G.I.T. dolls in middies and blue skirts, a collection of costume jewellery; suits and peppers; place mats; dress clips; mother-of-pearl necklaces; pots of African violets; glass and pottery pieces; curtain swing rods; and colorful felt hoods for hard-boiled eggs, to mention a few.

The cottons and crafts booth, in charge of the Priscilla Group, with Mrs. Shier, as convenor, was most attractive with its colorful Christmas bequests, an appealing red Dachshund; kitchen canisters in fancy containers; table centres; bath salts in ornamental jars; wash cloths; little mitts and socks; tiny aprons; cushions and pillows; potted ivy; plastic shopping bags appliqued with flannel rubber flowers; hand-painted framed flower pictures.

The children's wear included many mitts of many colors; little aprons; booties; pyjama sets with cute little jackets; Christmas stockings; clothes; and dolls chairs; stuffed animals; soft pretty dainty nightie; and every day skirts. Mrs. Dynan was the convenor, and the booth was under the sponsorship of the Mercury Group.

The apron booth had a room all to itself, and was filled with many aprons of many styles and materials. Aprons in all-over and half styles were on show, some in heavy prints, for hard wear, and others in pretty organdies, white with pink rosebud border, edged with crochet lace and some in plaid and yellow in the same design. There were also pastel aprons and plain aprons in fancy cotton with appliqued flowers in pink, white or other shades to match. There were also aprons in gay Christmas prints, and many other attractive styles.

The "Mother's Helper" booth was in charge of Mrs. Bell and Mrs. G. Boyce as conveners.

CHRISTMAS IDYLL

Entering the room was a Christmas idyll with its soft lighting; the windows highlighted with sprays and little Santa Claus faces upon the closed curtains. At the rear of the tea room two wrought iron candelabra with tall lighted red candles, tall standards of white with branches filled with silver, gold and green leaves, mingled with sprays of fern-like leaves of trailing white, accented by a red poinsettia bloom flanking a simulated Christmas tree with changing lights, made a most lovely setting for the tea table nearby, with its white cloth, exquisite centre piece of frosty green branches, little trinket globes, red poinsettias and graduated red candles.

At the far and another tea table was in charge of a white fireplace adorned with red candles, poinsettia blooms and holly; while on the hearth of the fireplace a large basket of beautiful mixed chrysanthemums, completed the attractive picture. Each little guest table had a centre piece of Christmas theme with its white basket filled with red poinsettias and tiny frosted flowers, while all over were white doilies with little cakes and sandwiches added to the attractive setting.

The convenor of the tea was Mrs. E. A. Craighead, and the convenors and decorating committee consisted of Mrs. D. MacGaul, Mrs. J. Morrin and Mrs. K. Davidson.

Others assisting on this lovely occasion included the following:

Replenishing tea tables: Mesdames H. Kelly, G. Shaw, T. Anger, M. McKay, P. Pendery, M. Townsley, G. Scott, R. Sine, C. Blumer and Van Vroom.

DEPORT POLICEMAN

HONG KONG (Reuters) — A senior Chinese police officer and four other men were deported to Communist China today after a four-month spy investigation here. The police officer, assistant superintendent John Tzang, had been in custody since Oct. 3.

St. Andrew's Day Marked At St. Luke's PH

St. Luke's parish hall was the setting for the speaker's address and the Women's Auxiliary.

The president, Mrs. W. H. Mitchell, presided and the Rev. C. C. Secker conducted the devotional period.

Mrs. E. G. Jackson of Brockville, who addressed a most interesting and busy guest speaker, the Very Rev. W. J. Gilling, Rector of St. James' Cathedral and Dean of Toronto. Dean Gilling is not a stranger in the Diocese as he served in the eastern parishes of Bala Lake and Crow Lake, during the "hungry thirties" when the collection in the churches averaged two cents a person.

Dean Gilling at the present time is deeply engrossed with preparations for the Pan-Anglican Congress, which is being held in Toronto, August 13th to 23rd, 1963. As secretary of the program committee, his work embraces the globe. The Archbishop of Canterbury and other Bishops from India, South Africa, Australia and the United States to name a few, will be in attendance.

FIRST CONGRESS

The first Congress took place in London in 1908 when a record of 10,000 people participated. The second one in Minneapolis, was held in 1954. The forthcoming Congress whose theme is "The Church's Mission in the World" and which is finally planned to take place in August; but Bishop Yashiro felt that Japan could not afford such a heavy financial burden, nor able to provide the necessary accommodation. Canada then received the honor of being host and wonderful cooperation has been shown by the Royal York Hotel and the University of Toronto. The Royal York has generously offered the vast Canadian Room, as well as the ten Provincial Rooms; all free of charge. The University in turn is allowing the Congress to use its buildings, and also the residences to take out of town delegates.

RECEPTION

The Congress will officially open with a reception at the Royal York, followed by a Missionary service in Maple Leaf Gardens. Truly outstanding speakers will be heard and interesting displays would do credit to be in attendance. The Diocesan Synod at which the Archbishop of Capetown will speak, will be in St. James' Cathedral.

A vast undertaking such as this should and must have the complete support of all Anglicans in Canada to ensure its success. This is an impressed this on all present, and hoped Mrs. K. Davidson, A. members would attend at least one of the great services and also follow proceedings closely.

Mrs. Mitchell thanked Dean Gilling for giving so much of his valuable time.

The meeting was pronounced by the Dean.

Mrs. C. F. Wolfe, president of St. Luke's W.A. and fellow members served afternoon tea.

Mother's Helper

DO TEACH your child to identify himself to the person who answers when he telephones a friend. For example, instead of a blend "Is Mark there?" supervised by any kind of a greeting, he might say "Hello, this is Tom Stevens calling. May I please speak to Mark?" Adult cooperation is likely to be much more willing when malicious obey.

Frankford United WA Sponsors Appreciation Dinner for S.S.

On Monday evening, November 27th the Women's Association of Frankford United Church expressed appreciation of the Sunday School teachers by giving them a dinner in Rose-Lowery Hall. Seventy of the Sunday School teachers sat down at a beautifully decorated table and enjoyed a delicious fruit - cocktail - appetizer, enjoyed a sumptuous banquet of roast chicken, duck with mashed potatoes and brown gravy, peas, turnips, carrots, cranberries, jellies, salads pickles and all kinds of trimmings plus fancy desserts including cream puffs, fancy cookies and a variety of sweet meats as well as coffee or tea.

THANKS TENDERED

Mr. Harold Yarbrough, superintendent of the intermediate department, graciously thanked the ladies for the wonderful meal.

Mr. Howard Richards, general superintendent, was in charge.

Mrs. J. K. Beach, superintendent of the junior department, completed the arrangements for the Christmas concert. Mrs. Marsden, superintendent of the primary department, was in charge of the teacher of the senior girls' class. Mrs. G. Hallett, the cradle roll convener; Mr. Watson Brewer, a former superintendent; Mr. R. Hall, pianist, tendered. Mr. R. Hall over 30 years teacher of intermediate boys and many others were introduced at the table.

CORSAGES PRESENTED

Every lady was presented with a corsage and every gentleman received a handsomely wrapped gift.

Colored slides of highlight events in the S.S. over the last 10 years were shown to everybody's delight. Tribute was paid to the superintendent, Mr. S. Martin and his S.S. helpers.

Bonnie Rowe and Eleanor Hall sang a duet and Bonnie sang a solo. The minister, the Rev. C. R. Judd, spoke briefly of the privilege and responsibility of S.S. teachers and the opportunity they have to help make to the church and community.

Jack Williams, teacher of senior boys, conducted a devotional period and Mr. Beach closed this inspiring meeting with prayer.

Nurse's Job in Northland Far Beyond Medicine

WABASCA, Alta. (CP) — A public health nurse's job in the tiny villages of Wabasca and Demarais goes far beyond medicine.

Nurse Laura Attrux for seven days a week combines her talents in medicine, administration and community leadership to assist residents of the communities 210 miles north of Edmonton.

From her modern duplex home, which doubles as an office, she travels through the bush and muskeg district in a four - wheel - drive automobile looking after the needs of more than 1,200 Metis and Indians.

The nursing station here was established a year ago and although the majority of her patients are Indians, they are cared for by the provincial nurse in accordance with an agreement between the provincial and federal governments.

In return for care given Indians here the federal government must treats Metis at Fort Chipewyan.

Nurse Attrux's first project was an intensive preventive health program, which included immunization of all children against whooping cough, measles, diphtheria, smallpox and polio.

32 TB CASES

Through her guidance residents also received chest x-rays during the periodic visits of mobile equipment. Twenty - eight tuberculosis cases have been detected and now are being treated at Edmonton.

Most families now have small vegetable gardens, thanks to suggestions from nurse Attrux. They help to provide a more balanced family diet. Prior to this the family diet consisted primarily of wild game and fish, with heavy use of lard and flour.

For the community children, the travelling post now sells a selection of canned baby food and vitamins at cost.

A confinement program for expectant mothers at the Roman Catholic mission hospital at Demarais has been initiated by the mission and nurse Attrux in an attempt to lower the high infant mortality rate. Women now enter the hospital prior to delivery.

During the morning and evening hours, nurse Attrux travels the seven-mile area between Wabasca and Demarais to take modern medicine to the homes. Her office is open each afternoon for four hours.

This allows her to build a close personal relationship with residents, and give prompt assistance in emergencies and social problems.

Vota Vita MC Topic 'Child Evangelism'

The November meeting of the Vota Vita Mission Circle was held recently at Victoria Ave. Baptist Church, with the vice-president, Nellie Burn, in the chair.

A number of important business items were discussed and decided upon, and plans were made for the Christmas meeting next month.

Marjorie Moore read Scripture from the Book of Matthew, special prayers were offered for world peace, and foreign and home mission fields. Carol Sobie's devotional theme was prayer. "We may wonder why some of our prayers are answered and others are not; perhaps it is because prayers are sometimes selfish or unworthy of us. From this denial we learn lessons that we could not have learned otherwise."

GUEST SPEAKER

Jyce Stovell introduced the guest speaker, Miss Josephine Frances, who is devotedly working to promote the Child Evangelism Crusade in the East Central Ontario region. The aim of workers in Child Evangelism is to reach the unreached children throughout the area for Christ. Interest was first aroused, and meetings were first held in the United States. The work has now spread throughout the United States and is in almost every provinces in Canada.

SLIDES SHOWN

Miss Frances showed a number of slides and gave an interesting commentary. She stressed the importance of leading children into the ways of righteous living, over and above the advances being made in science in this modern age. Crusade workers strive to reach children who have never heard stories of Christ or attended Sunday School. Children are told Bible stories and are taught with the help of the open Bible, flannelgraphs, and visual aids. Boys and girls are encouraged and directed toward following Christ at an early age. "Good News" club meetings are held in private homes during winter; classes are held out-of-doors, and young missionary helpers instruct the children during the summer months. Missionary Crusades, supported by the Crusade, are carried out in Ecuador, S. Africa, and India.

Miss Frances suggested that aid might be given through prayer, financially, by teaching a "Good News" class, or by offering the use of homes for Crusade work.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Minna F. — Our mother treats us as though we were still children.

Mrs. T.C. — Even though they're married, they should still respect us.

Minna F. — My sister and I are in our 30's, married and have children of our own. Mother is 69, spry and alert. But she won't admit that anything's changed so far as her responsibilities are concerned. She still tells us what to do, whom to visit and when. The only change is that now she insists on handling our children, too!

Naturally her attitude leads to much friction...but the biggest blowup came Thanksgiving. Every year we spend the day with her, but this year, my sister went to her mother-in-law's house to cheer her up after an operation. When she called my mother to explain, the roof was slammed down. And when I berated my mother for not talking to June, she flipped at me, too. Now she's not talking to us.

• • •

Mrs. T.C. — These smart aleck daughters of mine — you can have them! Not a word was said about any change in our usual Thanksgiving arrangement. I had the table opened up, the big platters down and was making the usual preparations when June's phone call came that they weren't coming. That meant five less at the table. Of course I was hurt. And then Minna butts in to say June is right and I'm all wrong.

I wasn't all wrong, was I, when I said, back in my college, when I kept a nice home going for them while they went to work and kept company with Roy young man? Why couldn't Minna have come to my house first, and then gone to her mother-in-law's? I needed cheering up, too. And I'm her mother.

• • •

The Council: As an over-all commentary on this sad situation — for it is truly sad to meet a domineering, possessive mother and her wobbly, weak daughters — we present these lines, entitled, "The Generous Heart," which appeared in the Saturday Evening Post and were written by Jane Merchant:

"She has a warm and generous heart
And she has mastered, as her own,
The delicate, essential art
Of letting those she loves alone."

There's a goal for Mrs. C. and for all mothers! There comes a time, Mrs. C. — and it came about 30 years ago for you — to shoo fledglings go. He's taken June, and now Minna, all this time to take a stand in behalf of their rights as adults! Now, maybe they can come to you when they wish to. If you gave them a good foundation, why try to turn them into "leaning towers" now?

GIRLS DISCUSS MALE DATING ATTIRE

What quality of dress do girls most appreciate in their dates? In a word, neatness!

This was the conglomerate opinion of fifteen finalists in the 1961 Singer Young Stylemaker Contest who were in New York recently to accept cash prizes for their sewing skill.

The girls came from big towns and small, farm and campus, and from all over the United States and Canada. Hailing from such divers diverse backgrounds, their views on clothes etiquette for dating certainly is representative.

"Sloppy clothes show a lack of respect for you," was one opinion, expressed frequently in a hair-down, mass interview.

"The way you're dressed sets the mood for a date," said teenager. "If you feel perky and like your best, you're bound to have fun. "Don't-care' dressing brings out a 'don't-care' attitude about anything you do."

"The way a boy dresses reflects his personality," was the opinion of another fledgling designer. "If he's sloppy about his clothes and grooming, he's usually the same way in his thinking."

Among this fashion-conscious group, ties and sports jackets were considered acceptable for general dating — except for extremely casual get-togethers.

One young prize-winner agreed that a sports jacket was fine for the movies, but preferred that her date wear a suit for playgoing.

"Boys should never wear jeans except for such dates as barn dances, hayrides, bonfire picnics, etc.," stressed one girl.

Another said that slacks and shirt were acceptable for informal dating in her town. "But," she emphasized, "the shirt must be tucked in and the pants should fit neatly at the waist instead of sagging under the belt."

"Boys always want their dates to look their best, yet some of them expect us to accept them in any kind of go-up," a high school senior added. "I believe we're entitled to equal consideration."

Swiss Steak Depatriated

By Mary Moore

Why the Swiss get all the credit for pounding and flouring round steak I never could discover.

Last night I had a choice piece of round steak to prepare and I swore I'd Canadianize it or burst in the attempt. I think I burst — anyway I have a cracked rib.

CANADIANIZED SWISS STEAK:

Into a 3-pound round of steak I pounded 6½ tablespoons of flour mixed with ¾ teaspoon salt. Any flour that fell off I saved to add to the pan. I cut off bits of fat from the edge, rendered it out in my big heavy frying pan and then seared the meat on both sides until deep brown. I sprinkled over the remaining flour-salt mixture, ½ teaspoon pepper, shake of garlic salt, ½ teaspoon celery salt, ½ teaspoon oregano, ½ of a chopped Spanish onion and ½ cup plus 1 tablespoon hot water and covered it and simmered it 2 hours. (You could transfer the meat to a big baking dish and cover it and bake it at 250 deg. Fahr. for 2 hours if you prefer.) Just before serving time I stirred in ½ cup sour cream and heated it through. This served 4 generously and could be served to 5.

NOTE:

If desired, Swiss steak may be cooked in your pressure cooker at 10 pounds pressure for 1 hour.

Variation on Canadianized Swiss Steak: 1) If desired 10 ½ pound sliced mushrooms may be added in the last 15 minutes before cooking time is up. 2) Forty minutes before serving throw 6 small sliced carrots may be added. 3) Chopped Spanish onion may be omitted and 30 minutes before serving time 12 small whole white onions may be added.

Now, of course, I had some fresh sour cream leftover. This peeleyes me. I hate buying a quantity of something just to use a little of it for a recipe so I made

SOUR CREAM DRESSING:

1) Quick: To 2-3 cup dairy sour cream add 1 tablespoon lemon juice, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon pepper, 1 tablespoon grated old Cheddar or Hoopsekrt or Parmesan cheese, ⅛ teaspoon garlic salt, and shake of black pepper. Serve on salad greens.

2) Cooked: Three-quarters cup sour cream, 1½ tablespoons sugar, 1-3 teaspoon dry mustard, 1-3 teaspoon paprika, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon vinegar, 1 small egg. Combine all ingredients and beat in a double boiler for a few minutes until the dressing thickens, stirring constantly. Cool to room temperature and then store in refrigerator. Serve just right on crisp, shredded cabbage.

SWEET SPREADS

Preserved fruits used as spreads or toppings; often called jams, may include preserves, conserves or marmalade.

Successful Living

By Doris Clark

(A Canadian Social Worker Helps with Human Problems)

Family Won't Speak English

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS:—I have been married 20 years. My problem is with my husband; he is French. Don't get me wrong. He is good, but does not think I should have anything to say about what is bought.

For instance, I got my son to buy the Book of Knowledge. I thought the children would learn some English from it. But I hear about it all the time.

You see my family go to a French school. I can't speak French so it makes me feel very angry when they can speak English and just won't. There are lots of French people around here who do the same.—M. M. C.

DEAR M. M. C.:—Aren't you 20 years too late?

The night you two decided to marry each other you should have started in on French lessons, your husband on English. Many Canadians have both, which makes for broader horizons.

If the children won't speak English either, you are really hemmed in. And if you have no say in family purchases, just what place do you have in the family? Unpaid servant?

* * *

DEAR DORIS:—During the summer I went to a town about 1,000 miles from where I live. I met a boy there and was with him almost all the time for two days. Since coming home we have corresponded regularly.

This boy has a steady job and I think he will send me a gift for Christmas. Should I send him something in return? If so, what?—W. T. G.

DEAR W. T. G.:—Something impersonal would be all right. A food gift made by you meets the requirements nicely, if you cook. Christmas cake, cookies, fudge, are impersonal but flattering and thoughtful.

Otherwise, keep it inexpensive. A book, if he reads. Gift-wrapped cigarets, if he smokes. One or two initialled handkerchiefs—in case he sneezes!

* * *

TO MRS. B.:—Whether or not you should go back to your old home town and rent a house and live in it alone depends on a number of things. One is your state of health. Another is your state of finance. A third is the state of your relationship with your daughter.

If you are getting on each other's nerves, you might be better apart. From what you told me she sounds devoted. Perhaps renting a house for a few months might be a way of finding out just how important old associations are to you, how well you manage in a house alone, and how much you miss her, after all.

There are times when three generations manage fine together.

* * *

(Have you a puzzling question about etiquette? Doris Clark can give you the answer. Write to her in care of this newspaper).

'Lines on Life'

By Dr. Stuart E. Rosenberg

Young people are misjudged by most adults. Grown-ups expect them to be different from them in at least two ways in which they cannot be different.

The popular postulate assumes that "young people today are not what they used to be;" it also suggests that "youth is a time of rebellion." The truth is usually the opposite direction. Today, as always before, young people are mistakenly adults — they soak up all of the poorer and prejudices, reflect most of the attitudes of their elders. Far from being rowdy rebels, they are notorious conformists and imitators; if this were not so, there would be no Fred Pipers, no rock-and-roll Kings, and precious few disc-jockeys.

The attitudes of young people toward the social, economic, political and religious questions of our times are the same attitudes of most people — young and old. The prevailing winds blow; they touch us all alike, showing careless disregard for the number of hairs on our heads, or the years we have lived. Somehow we like to deceive ourselves into the belief that "we are different in our day;" that the young people these days. This is just not so! We were different, yes: but only because our parents were different, too — only because we reflected, as young people's most reflect, the dominant value-judgments of our own era.

Everyone, except those who work with youth, knows that young people, seems shocked to discover that youngsters are not automatically rebellious, just because they are young. Far from it. By their nature, they may seek to obtain more privileges and freedom; for themselves. But there is abundant evidence to indicate that many teen-agers who demand more liberties are, in fact, frightened by the very prospects of freedom. They are not quite sure how to handle it.

Thus, parents falsely assume that they are being most understanding when they exercise the least amount of control; then, they must imagine, there will be less to rebel against. But young people do want, need and respect authority. For themselves, they will seek to gain certain specific free areas of activity. But, as an attitude toward life in general, they feel world where there is obedience much more comfortable in a and respect for authority. Not unlike their elders, by the way.

When men grow grey, they sometimes the "good old days." Part of that nostalgia is due to the physical frustrations of age — when "the grinding ceases because they are few" — which now contrast with the power and vitality of more youthful days. Weaker, older men were said they like to believe that they were oneonore spiritually vigorous, as well. Youth has thus a use in the third age — and we have imagined that it is also the age of idealism. But with notably few exceptions, youth can grow no wings in an earth-bound society — in all other things, they do not live like Robinson Crusoe, they are very much part of the world they populate. Where men become islands unto themselves — and the drive for security the chief consciously-desired human goal, youth can never, any more than their parents can, become part of the society.

If there is confusion among our youth, it is the result of the lack of guidance on the part of the parents. For the blind will never lead the blind.

'Open House' Attended by 225 Parents

DESERONTO — The attendance of some 225 parents at the "Open House" at the public school on Thursday night signifies the interest being taken today in the schooling of their children.

It is interesting to note that there was an excellent representation of the fathers as well as the mothers.

The "Open House" was sponsored by the Home and School Association in co-operation with the teaching staff. The principal of the school, Mr. P. Rosch, was extremely gratified as a considerable number of parents asked that the "Open House" be repeated at a later date.

As the guests entered the school they were greeted by the president of the association, Mrs. H. Sweetnam, who turned them over to Mrs. Heigna, also of the association. Mrs. Helgna was in charge of the room representatives and, after having the guests sign the register, she directed them to the classrooms in which they were interested.

In the classrooms the parents were invited to inspect the work of their children and discuss with the teacher any problems that they may have had.

Coffee and fruit breads were served in a continuous stream to the guests as they completed their tour of the school. Coffee was poured by Mrs. Kuntman and the conveners of the tea were Mrs. Mott, Mrs. Graham and Mrs. M. Bernhardt.

During the evening Mrs. Robert Lucas displayed materials that could be used in the dressmaking courses at the night school being conducted at the local high school.

The room was taught by Mrs. Sexsmith, who is the one having the most parents in attendance for "Open House."

Women's Institute

REDNERSVILLE W.I.

REDNERSVILLE — The Rednersville W.I. was entertained for its November meeting by Mrs. Earl Onderdonk and Mrs. Bruford Peck at the school on Thursday evening with 28 present. The president, Mrs. Mac Wallbridge, presided.

An invitation to Quinte W.I. on December 13 was accepted. The money for the scholarship fund for Prince Edward County had been cut from the Institute. The $30 for the adoption of a foreign child was voted out.

The next meeting will be held on the regular night, December 28th, at the home of Mrs. Roy Wanamaker. Reports were given from the area convention held in Belleville.

Mrs. Earl Onderdonk introduced Mrs. Hicks, the county president, as guest speaker. She spoke on a timely subject.

A vote of thanks was extended to the hostesses and the lunch committee for the lovely evening: Mrs. Onderdonk and Mrs. B. Peck, and lunch committee, Mrs Don Dempsey, Mrs. Joe Doxtator and Mrs. Nyberg, served fruit bread, fruit jello, cookie and tea.

Failure of Steelworkers' Meeting to Ratify Pact Blamed on Rival Union

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP)—The national director of the United Steelworkers of America (CLC) Wednesday night blamed a rival union for the failure of a Steelworkers' meeting to ratify or reject an agreement with Algoma Steel Corporation.

William Mahoney made the accusation following a meeting of Steelworkers Local 2251, called to ratify the union-approved agreement.

The meeting, attended by more than 3,000 members, returned the projected agreement to the union's board of directors for "further study and consideration."

Mr. Mahoney declared there was a "definite tie-in" between the result of the meeting and the battle for bargaining rights between the Steelworkers and the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind.) at Sudbury and Port Colborne.

"It is significant," he said, "that leaflets distributed in Port Colborne today conveyed the kind of approach that was made to the meeting in the Sault tonight."

ACT 'AS AGENTS'

The union leader declared "some people" at the meeting were acting as agents of Mine-Mill," but he declined to give names.

Expressing confidence that the agreement will be approved by Local 2251 when the membership simply felt they needed more time to reach a decision.

He expected a decision "in the next four or five days."

Mr. Mahoney said he intends to remain here until the board of directors meets to discuss the agreement at Wednesday night's meeting. An-other meeting is being called, probably will be decided upon.

Wednesday night's meeting was attended by 3,000 of the union's more than 7,600 members, and was the largest in recent years.

Details of the proposed agreement, reached between Algoma and the negotiating committee Monday night, were released Wednesday night by Reg Armstrong, Algoma vice-president.

The three-year agreement, to expire July 31, 1964, provides a general wage increase of 4½ cents an hour from Aug. 1 this year. Differences between job classes would increase by a further half-cent to 6½ cents on Aug. 1, 1962.

On Aug. 1, 1963, wages would increase another five cents an hour. This would bring the lowest labor rate to $2.13½.

An increase was provided in $2,000 per employee after Jan. 1, 1963, with improvements in medical, surgical and other benefits taking effect at the same time.

Welfare benefit improvements would be financed largely by an increase of four cents on a ton in the company's contribution.

Employees would have the option of receiving medical and surgical benefits from a proposed health centre, or from their private physicians under an insurance plan.

Conciliation proceedings under the Labor Relations Act, which ago were adjourned in the hope the unrated Algoma Steel agreement would point the way to a similar solution in the Steel Company of Canada Limited.

Silver Stocks Move Ahead But Soon Back Down

TORONTO (CP) — Silver stocks on the Toronto Stock Exchange moved ahead Wednesday following Tuesday's announcement from Washington that the United States government will stop selling the metal but backed down in late trading from earlier highs.

United Keno Hill Mines Limited, Yukon Territory producer, advanced about 80 cents at the close of trading to shoot to $15.25 a share. That earlier gone to a new high of $15.25. Its year for the year is $8.15. Trade in the issue was the heaviest this year, totalling 81,177 shares.

Lower priced issues posted gains of from 17 to 46 cents in heavy trading. However, the gains were modest in face of the news and brokerage circles attributed this to the fact that many silver stocks have already doubled in price this year in anticipation of a silver price increase.

In London, the price of silver lock its biggest jump in one day for years. Dealers there raised the price 4½ pence (about six cents) to 84½ pence (about 99 cents) an ounce. Price movements are normally registered in a farthing (quarter of a penny) an ounce or less.

Under the dampening influence of the U.S. sales, silver prices have been around 91 cents an ounce.

The announcement from Washington also said steps would be taken to demonetize silver in the U.S., removing it as a prescribed limited role in a currency backer. U.S. treasury reserves for coinage is estimated at 1,700,000,000 ounces.

World silver consumption has been running ahead of production, with U.S. government selling stiffing the gap. These stores of free silver, however, have been greatly depleted and the present limited role of 222,000,000 ounces in April, 1969, to 32,000,000 ounces.

"The machinery of government and industry is not an end in itself. It is a means to an end that people should live a fuller and freer life.

"It is common decency to treat all people, however humble, with kindness and consideration. It is common sense to allow them to have their point of view and freedom to state it.

"A nation may not be quite so efficient this way but it will be a much more cheerful and human place to live in."

MAY MAKE TRIP

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy may make a trip to Venezuela and Colombia next month, the White House said Wednesday.

Prince Detects Trend to Push People Around

FREETOWN, Sierra Leone (AP)—Prince Philip, husband of Queen Elizabeth, said Wednesday night he has noticed a growing tendency by authority in many parts of the free world to push around ordinary people, "supposedly in their own good."

In his first public declaration since leaving Ghana, which President Kwame Nkrumah rules with a firm hand, Philip told members of a Freetown business club:

"Justice, tolerance, freedom and equality mean nothing at all if it does not apply to the ordinary chap and his wife and children.

"The machinery of government and industry is not an end in itself. It is a means to an end that people should live a fuller and freer life.

"It is common decency to treat all people, however humble, with kindness and consideration. It is common sense to allow them to have their point of view and freedom to state it.

"A nation may not be quite so efficient this way but it will be a much more cheerful and human place to live in."

Survival Training Course Nears Completion of 4th Wk.

The local six week survival training course being conducted by the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment in both Belleville and Picton armouries is nearing the completion of the fourth week of training.

A part of the nation-wide training scheme to provide 200,000 trained citizens who could be called upon in the event of an emergency, the first of four six-week courses to be held is proceeding very satisfactorily according to Major Alec Cunningham, officer-in-charge.

There are 158 district citizens training in the Belleville armouries every day, Monday through Friday. On December 14th they will be constructing their prowess in drill, rescue and first aid training in an inspection to be conducted by Brigadier A. J. Bailey, commanding officer of the Eastern Ontario Area.

The basic purpose of these special training courses is to provide militia units across Canada with quick supply of trained personnel who will join their local Militia units upon the completion of the course. This will serve to increase the strength of the Militia and form a ready and disciplined force in the event of a national emergency.

Increasing interest is being shown in this program locally reports Captain Al Pinder, recruiting officer for the Hastings' Fees' courses. Already over 75 persons have volunteered for the second course which starts on January 8th. Captain Pinder points out that the response tones wishing to sign up apply more quickly they can be processed and assured of a place in the next course. There is a limit of 200 for this course.

The training of the special course recruit is in the hands of officers and N.C.O.'s of the local regiment, training officer Captain James Fawcett advised. They are given valuable assistance by several senior N.C.O.'s from the Royal Canadian Regiment and the Canadian Guards. Regular visits are made by Major D. Cameron, C.O., from the area headquarters in Trenton out any training problems.

14 Inches Snow Clog Streets In Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — Some 14 inches of snow clogged Montreal's streets today.

For almost 40 hours a full-scale storm hit the city turning traffic into a slow-motion nightmare and playing havoc with city attempts to avoid the traditional confusion of the first major fall.

Provincial police said all main highways in the province remained open but visibility fell to almost zero at times and motorists were advised to exercise extreme caution.

The poor visibility also had a delaying effect on vessels trying to clear the St. Lawrence Seaway before it closes.

At Massena, N.Y., American operators of the seaway said the part on the waterway under U.S. jurisdiction will close for the winter at midnight tonight as scheduled.

They hinted at an extension, however, and said ships reaching the Iroquois Lock, the lock nearest Lake Ontario, by the deadline "will be assured of getting out of the system."

FARMER GETS KILLER

Sweden's Non-Nuclear Club Proposal to UN Puts Canada And Others in Tough Spot

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—Canada's views on nuclear weapons are scheduled to come under international scrutiny today in a vote that has caused searching among the NATO partners.

Coming up for decision in the United Nations political committee is a Swedish sponsored proposal for formation of a non-nuclear club of countries willing to refuse to manufacture nuclear weapons or to allow them on their territory.

External Affairs Minister Howard Green is one of the UN's leading campaigners against nuclear weapons and day for disarmament. But the attitude is complicated by defence needs of NATO and Canada's partnership in the alliance.

Green, before returning to Ottawa laws last Friday, told reporters informally the Swedish resolution presented a difficult choice for Canada.

Before the vote in the 103-member committee today, some sources predicted Canada would find it possible to support the draft while expressing reservations and hoping for more precise matter with disarmament.

They noted that Norway, often an ally of Canada in the UN as well as in NATO, announced Wednesday night it would support the Swedish resolution, which is co-sponsored by Austria, Ceylon, Ethiopia, Libya, Sudan and Cambodia.

Canada has been barred from accepting nuclear weapons from the United States as long as there is hope of disarmament. It has accepted Bomarc missiles but no nuclear warheads for them.

The Canadian stand is that if nuclear warheads are acquired to arm Canadian jets or artillery rockets, they should be under an acceptable degree of Canadian control. As far as NATO is concerned, Canada's acceptance for her troops in the alliance would depend on joint agreement among the 15 members.

The resolution of Sweden—not a member of NATO—would request UN Secretary-General U Thant to undertake an inquiry to find out which countries would be willing to join a non-nuclear club.

In its words, the inquiry would be made "as to the conditions under which countries not possessing nuclear weapons might be willing to enter into specific undertakings to refrain from manufacturing or other-wise acquiring such weapons and to refuse to receive in the future nuclear weapons on their territories on behalf of any other country."

U Thant would be asked make the inquiry as soon possible and submit a report the 103-member UN disarmament commission not later the next April 1.

Norway's Hans Engen said Wednesday night he will vote for the resolution although fee is serious "doubts." The dra tried to do too much in view the lack of progress toward di armament which alone coul provide the "true solution."

The Soviet Union seem to have a chance to attac NATO and in this way last Fri day it accused Canada of bow ing to "NATO discipline" by opposing a resolution outlawing the use of nuclear weapons.

The resolution was approved by the General Assembly 55 to 20 with 26 abstentions. Canada had abstained earlier in committee but changed to opposition in view of developments.

Green, questioned by report-ers, denied the Russian charge of discipline. Stating Canada's position on the use of nuclear weapons, he said that if Russia used them first the West would be justified to retaliate.

Large Expansion Picton Cement Plant Planned

TORONTO (CP — Lake Ontario Portland Cement Co. Ltd. had estimated net profit of $900,000 in the year ended Nov. 30 compared with $397,000 in the preceding year.

George H. Elliot, president described the company's out-look for 1962 a "excellent" and said that further progress is expected as a result of the establishment of a wholly-owned subsidiary, Mohawk Valley Cement Co. Inc. at Home, N.Y., and the addition of two more silos at Rochester, N.Y.

George McFarland, chairman of the company, also announced that Mr. Elliot is resigning from the company effective Dec. 30, but will continue as a director.

Mr. Elliot has been appointed president of Allied Chemical Canada Ltd.

Silver Prices Rise Again

LONDON (AP) — Silver prices rose again Wednesday in the London bullion market. Dealers raised the price 4½ pence (about six cents) to 84½ pence (about 99 cents) an ounce. Price movements are normally registered in a farthing (quarter of a penny) an ounce or less.

One of Brightest Minds In Canada Says Premier Of BC About Keenleyside

VICTORIA (CP)—When Dr. Hugh Llewellyn Keenleyside returned to British Columbia three years ago he was given a hero's welcome attended few native sons.

"One of the brightest minds in Canada," said Premier W. A. C. Bennett in announcing Dr. Keenleyside's appointment as chairman of the B.C. Power Commission. "He is a man whose record reads like the records of a dozen great men."

Fresh from the job of director - general of the United Nations technical assistance administration, Dr. Hugh L. Keenleyside has the responsibility of organizing construction of the Columbia River project in British Columbia, a $465,000,000 hydro and flood-control project.

Dr. Keenleyside was for eight years director-general of the United Nations' technical assistance administration. (CP Photo).

HEADS POWER PROJECT

As chairman of the B.C. Power Commission, Dr. Hugh L. Keenleyside has the responsibility of organizing construction of the Columbia River project in British Columbia, a $465,000,000 hydro and flood-control project.

Dr. Keenleyside was for eight years director-general of the United Nations' technical assistance administration. (CP Photo).

HOT POTATO

Dr. Keenleyside himself won't say so, but he was being handed a hot potato. All sorts of statements had been made about the operations of the commission, and it was his task to set things straight.

While almost everyone connected with the power industry in B.C. has been a hero in speeches on the subject, Dr. Keenleyside has been quietly reorganizing the commission.

"To put it in a nutshell," he said in an interview, "we have reduced cost of the operation in relation to the extent of our service."

He also has the task of organizing construction plans for development of the Columbia River—a $450,000,000 hydro- and flood - control project. Agreement still has to be reached between the provincial and federal government on financing of the scheme.

Observers here say Dr. Keenleyside may be considering the Columbia River project his last major work. He now is 65, and there is speculation that he intends to retire after Columbia generators start producing electricity.

EXPERT ADMINISTRATOR

After 30 years in public service, during which he had opportunities for a close look at the processes of governments and organizations, he says he hates bureaucracy.

"One of the great problems in the world today is that everything is getting bigger, and that includes the size of administrative forces.

"In my opinion much of Canada's high production costs is the result of bad administration and in part excessive staffing at the higher levels."

Most of his life now is run by the clock and the appointment book, but he finds time to be a devoted family man. He has four children, and the seventh grandchild was born while he was attending a public hearing into a water rights application for the Columbia project.

He passed cigars around to all who were crowded in the small community hall in the Kootenay Valley.

FAVORITE FIELD

Another subject dear to his heart is technical assistance. A book he is writing on this subject, in his spare time, would be his second major publication. The first was a book on Canada-U.S. relationships published in 1929 and reprinted in 1952.

He headed the UN's technical administration for eight years, during which he was responsible for sending out 8,000 experts to 140 countries and territories.

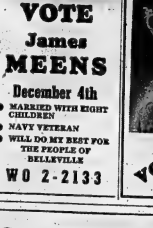
"It was a great pioneering adventure. It's satisfying to know that because of something you have done there is a little less misery in the world."

It was at the UN where Dr. Keenleyside met Dag Hammarskjold, the late secretary - general who once described him as "a great Canadian and a great international civil servant."

ADOPTED SON

Born at Toronto in 1896, Dr. Keenleyside considers himself a native of British Columbia because his family moved to Vancouver when he was a few months old. He took his school and university training there and, at age 21, graduated from Clark University, Worcester, Mass., with a doctorate in economic history. Later he was instructor and lecturer in history at Brown University, Syracuse University and his alma mater, the University of British Columbia.

The big change in his life came in 1928 when he spotted an advertisement for personnel for the department of external affairs. He was successful with an application for a post as a second secretary in the department. Promotions came quickly—second secretary, then first secretary, of the Canadian legation at Tokyo; assistant undersecretary of state, ambassador to Mexico, high commissioner to Newfoundland and head of department's American and Far Eastern division.



WIDER POSTS

He resigned from the diplomatic service in 1947 and was offered appointment as deputy minister of mines and resources, and commissioner of the Northwest Territories. He held these posts until he went to the UN in 1950.

He became interim chairman of the Canadian Committee for the Control of Radiation Hazards when it was founded in 1961, and during that year he held that office he made speeches across the country.

"For the first time in human history we have weapons that can destroy us, and if history repeats itself we will do so," he warned.

There was a danger in man's inability to control his combative nature coupled with his technical ability to achieve self-extinction of the race. Those, he said, are the real threats of this age.

Godbout Sold Seed Grains To Govt. Slightly Above Retail Level Hearing Told

By JOHN YORSTON

QUEBEC (CP) — The Salvas royal commission, after hearing further testimony about the buying habits of the colonization department under the former Union Nationale government, has uncovered a great testimony from the former minister—Joseph Damase Begin.

The commission heard Wednesday from Paul Godbout, brother-in-law of the Union Nationale's Renaissance Club, who said the wholesale grain firm supplied seed grain at prices slightly above the retail level.

Mr. Godbout, 63, said the reason for this was that his prices included transport to remote corners of the province where the settlers using the grain live, because the quality was better than average and because there were few other companies asked to supply grain.

Mr. Godbout said he is a friend of Mr. Begin, the party's former chief organizer, who testified here Tuesday and who is to take the stand again in December.

Most of the orders for seed grain were signed by Mr. Begin, he said.

SELLS MUCH GRAIN

From 1955 to 1960, he said, his firm sold 386,050 pounds of seed grain to the government.

Several witnesses Wednesday testified, as others have before them—that they received commissions on seed-grain sales to the colonization department.

They testified that, although they were not in the grain business, they received orders from the government and obtained commissions from Mr. Godbout. Many said they were active in Union Nationale political work.

Mr. Godbout's brother Jean-Paul is a director of the company, retracted a statement made before the commission that the Liberal government has continued buying seed grain in the manner in the Union Nationale. Last Oct. 30 he told the royal commission Premier Lesage's brother-in-law was handling seed grain sales.

ASKS NAMES

The commission lawyers questioned Romeo Lalande, deputy minister of the colonization department, under both Union Nationale Liberal governments, if Mr. Lalande said he took no part in establishing seed grain prices under the Union Nationale but under the Liberals he took some companies to bid and the present colonization minister, Alcide Courcy, asked others.

He said grain bought this year cost between 17½ to 19 cents a pound.

Earlier, witness testified that seed grain prices from Mr. Godbout had been 30 to 36 cents a pound while the market price was 20 to 25 cents.

Ontario Bull Best

Lady Ida R. W. 40th, owned by Bunsee Bay Farms of Forest, Ont., was judged second in the senior heifer calf competition in the breeding Aberdeen - Angus event.

Tweed

TWEED — Tweed seems to be the place for card parties. Another successful one was held in St. Carthage's Hall on Wednesday evening with 15 tables of euchre and three of bridge in play. The ladies' bridge prize was won by Mrs. Clate Woodcock and the men's by Stan Hunt. The euchre was won by Mrs. Oscar Rogers and Leo Hasbotte and the door prize by Percy Quinn.

Mrs. Jim Crawford spent the weekend in Callander where she attended the wedding of her nephew on Saturday.

Mrs. Roy O'Dea is spending two weeks with her daughter, Jeanette (Mrs. DeNoble) in Peterborough. She has given birth to a baby boy.

Mr. George Harley had the misfortune to have some fingers injured at the Hunter Veneer plant on Saturday morning.

Miss Goldie Godfrey spent Sunday with her sister, Mrs. Embury, in Shannonville.

Mrs. Vincent Cassidy is a patient in Belleville General Hospital where she underwent surgery on Friday.

INSIDE VIEW OF STOMACH—In an experiment to discover causes of stomach aches in cattle and sheep, livestock experts are using plastic portholes to study the digestive processes of a cow's stomach. The portholes with removable caps are cut into the flanks of four Jersey cows at the Summerland, B.C., research station. Scientists can reach into the portholes to extract forage for testing. (CF Photo).

Plastic Portholes in Flanks Of Jersey Cows Help Experts Find Causes of Bellyaches

SUMMERLAND, B.C. (CP)—Plastic portholes cut into the flanks of four Jersey cows are helping livestock experts find out what causes bellyaches in cattle and sheep.

The portholes with removable caps enable scientists at the Summerland Canada Research Station to observe the digestive processes in the cow's stomachs.

They are also able to reach through the portholes to extract forage samples for testing.

During the research, life goes on as usual for the pedigree Jerseys, Summerland Star Elite, Summerland Gold's Jill, Fame's Jo and Geer's Janice.

All were born on New Year's day on the federal experimental farm in the British Columbia Okanagan district, the daughters of New Year Star, a prize bull.

SEEM NORMALLY

Dr. J. M. Mitchinson, officer in charge of the animal husbandry section, says the fully grown Jerseys lead normal lives, mingling with other cattle, calving and serving as attractions for visitors.

The portholes were inserted into their rumens, the first stomach in cud-chewing livestock, in a two-stage operation performed by a veterinary surgeon.

First the surgeon cut away a section of hide on the upper left flank after applying a local anesthetic.

He then sutured the outer wall of the rumen to the edge of the opening in the hide and allowed it to heal for several weeks.

Then an opening 6½ inches in diameter was cut through the stomach wall and a short plastic tube was inserted and secured to the rim of the opening with flanges.

GAS PAINS

With this apparatus, Dr. Mitchinson and his assistants hope to find a way to eliminate bloat, a severe bummyache caused by the accumulation of gases from the fermentation of forage in the rumen.

Bloat sufferers are unable to belch the gas away. It becomes trapped and pressure causes the belly to bulge grotesquely.

Considerable pain results and cattle sometimes die unless they receive immediate assistance. Bloat also reduces milk production.

Dr. Mitchinson hopes that the research will turn up diets that reduce the buildup of bloating gases.

The forage taken from the innards of Gent's Janice and her sisters undergoes a series of tests at the station chemist Dr. J. M. McArthur.

Through the portholes, Dr. McArthur is able to observe the changes in acidity caused by varying the Jerseys' diets.

The chemist is also testing the digestibility and protein content of fodder, corn and other legumes forming part of the Jerseys' strictly controlled diets.

Legion Branch 428 Host To Zone F3

TWEED — On Sunday afternoon Tweed Branch of the Royal Canadian Legion No. 428 were hosts to the zone meeting for zone F3. Representatives were present from Belleville; Picton; Stirling; Coe Hill, Marmora, Madoc; Picton; Deseronto; Consecon and Tweed.

Members were welcomed by Mr. Bruce Price, the local president. Dr. Dan McVickers of Deseronto was in charge of the meeting.

District Commander A. Burgess, Dunbarton, brought greeting from Ontario Provincial Command.

Tentative plans were made for the district convention which is to be held in Madoc in the spring. A zone Drumhead service will be held in Marmora at a later date. The next zone meeting will be held in Coe Hill.

The Belleville Pbey Wills Branch won the prize for the largest percentage of members present. The new Deputy Zone Commander, Harry Govier of Madoc, took over his new duties.

A lively business session followed.

At the conclusion of the meeting a delicious turkey dinner was served by the members of the Tweed Ladies Auxiliary of the Royal Canadian Legion.

There are two basic qualities which we can use to guide our thoughts and govern our actions. Reason is one and experience is the other. If we apply these qualities to our life today (and we have plenty of both to draw upon), then the excuses of non-voters will appear in their true light. In the matter of freedom we should always remember the words of John Philpot Curran: "It is the common fate of the indolent to see their rights become the prey of the active. Outstanding Player

Faloney Gets Top Award

TORONTO (CP)—Bernie Faloney, quarterback for the Grey Cup finalist Hamilton Tiger-Cats, Wednesday night was named the outstanding football player in Canada. He took over from three-time winner Jackie Parker of Edmonton Eskimos.

Football writers and broadcasters in the nine Eastern and Western Conference cities also named defensive end Tony Pajaczkowski of Calgary Stampeders as the outstanding Canadian-born player of the year and linebacker Frank Rigney of Winnipeg Blue Bombers as the lineman of the year.

Faloney, 30, who led Hamilton from a last-place finish in 1960 to first in the EFC this year, beat out Parker for the award. Faloney, who first played in Canada with the 1954 Grey Cup Edmonton Eskimos, will receive a $3,000 gold trophy, a $1,000 Canada Savings Bond and diamond tie clip.

The East now has won the outstanding award four times since it first was made in 1933. The West has won 11 five times, each time by an Edmonton player.

Faloney, former all-American with Maryland University, was traded off a year ago by Montreal for Sam Etcheverry but the deal didn't materialize.

Pajaczkowski, 25, first lineman to win the Canadian player of the year award, won over Bobby Kuntz of Toronto Argonauts to give the West a 5-3 lead in this bracket. Pajaczkowski is a native of Verdun, Que.

Rigney's lineman-of-the - year award gave the West a 4-3 edge over the East. Rigney, 25, from East St. Louis and a graduate of Iowa University, was selected over John Barrow of the Tiger-Cats.

Pleads Guilty To Bribery

NEW YORK AP) — Aaron Wagman, 26-year-old gambler, pleaded guilty Wednesday to charges of paying thousands of dollars to basketball players to shave points on games.

He pleaded guilty to 37 counts of bribery and one of conspiracy.

When Wagman was indicted last April, District Attorney Frank S. Hogan said he paid bribes totalling $14,200 to various players in an attempt to fix the point spread on games.

In the basketball scandal case, he could receive a maximum of 371 years in prison and $370,000 in fines. He will be sentenced Jan. 16.

Another defendant in the case, Joseph Green, an associate of Wagman, pleaded guilty Monday to charges of bribing Columbia University player Fred Portnoy to shave points in four games last season.

Rail, Air Travel Down

Grey Cup Interest Sags?

By DAVE McINTOSH

TORONTO (CP) — A diagnosis of rail and air transportation into Toronto this week shows that the Grey Cup Festival is suffering from hardening of the arteries.

In other words, Toronto at the moment resembles Toronto on a Sunday rather than Toronto in Grey Cup Week.

Item: Trans-Canada air lines has put on only two extra flights, one from Winnipeg today and one from Ottawa Friday. There will also be a TCA charter flight from Montreal.

Item: The CNR will run a "Blue and Gold" special out of Winnipeg. But the special comprises only five extra cars on the CNR's Continental and it won't reach downtown. The fans Sunday, the day of the game.

Item: The CPR is running one 14-car football special from Winnipeg which is scheduled to arrive Friday morning. In other years three or four.

Item: There will be no special trains from Ottawa or Montreal, merely a few extra cars tacked onto the regular runs.

Item: Tve CNR will run a special from Hamilton but it won't reach downtown. The fans will disembark near the Canadian National Exhibition Stadium at noon, one hour before the 1 p.m. EST start of the contest between Hamilton Tiger-Cats and Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

Item: Calgary, which really began the Grey Cup March Gras in 1946 here, isn't even entering a float in the Saturday morning parade this year.

MAY HAVE TROUBLE

The Junior Board of Trade here has appointed seven 125 members, as greeters at Union Station and Malton airport. They may have difficulty finding fans to greet.

In previous years, the influx of fans was much greater. TCA said the fewness of special flights was partly explained by the fact the Super Vanguard plane carries more passengers.

The Junior Board of Trade is sponsoring the parade, an event which began in 1951. It says that there will be about 50 floats from cities across Canada and about 16 bands.

Like the game, the parade will be televised nationally. The predicted cold wave probably will reduce attendance. The parade is scheduled to start at 9:15 a.m.

PICK TOP MARE

NEW YORK (AP)—Six-year-old Airmans Guide, overcoming ailments in the last two years which would have sidelined many a horse, Wednesday was named the champion handicap filly and mare of 1961 by the Thoroughbred Racing Association's board of selection. This year she won seven of her 10 starts, earning $229,551.

Clay Clips Besmanoff

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Cassius Clay, with the speed of a pile-driver, scored a technical knockout over Willi Besmanoff in the seventh round of a scheduled 10-round heavyweight fight Wednesday night.

Besmanoff, never really in the fight, was floored twice in the seventh by Clay, 18.

Besmanoff, sluggish after a seven-month layoff, landed only a very few punches on the flashy Clay, who won his 10th straight victory since turning professional after winning the Olympic light - heavyweight championship in Rome.

TO ATTEMPT RECORD

LONDON (Reuters) — Donald Campbell, holder of the world water speed record, announced Wednesday he will make an attempt on the land record in Australia next May in his rebuilt Bluebird. He will make the attempt on the 19-mile-long salt bed of Lake Eyre, south Australia.

Hull Gets 3 As Hawks Whip Bruins

Leafs, Habs Tie 2-2

By LAURENT CHIASSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Montreal Canadiens and Toronto Maple Leafs didn't settle anything in the first of a succession of meetings for first place in the National Hockey League.

They toiled through three furious periods at Toronto Wednesday night, wrestled up in a 2-2 tie.

The draw left the teams tied for first place, each with 26 points. New York Rangers, like Woodenheads, are third with 26 points. Canadiens and Maple Leafs meet again tonight in Montreal.

At the other end of the standings, Chicago Black Hawks got three goals from Bobby Hull and two from Eric Nilsson and slapped down lowly Boston Bruins 7-4 in a sloppy game at Chicago.

The victory was only the sixth in 20 games for the Hawks, defending Stanley Cup champions. It boosted their hobnail fourth place to three points over idle Detroit Red Wings. Boston, losers in 5th game in a row, slipped deeper into the NHL cellar.

GOALIE AT BEST

The game at Toronto was a goaltenders' delight. Either Gump Either club could have won by a big margin if one of the goalies — Montreal's Charlie Hodge or Toronto's Johnny Bower — had not been at his best.

Plante wound up with 35 saves while Bower blocked 27 shots.

For the Leafs, it was their sixth consecutive game without a defeat. In that span they have won twice and tied four other games.

But the draw might prove costly. Ace defenceman Tom Johnson was taken to hospital with an eye injury suffered in the third period. First reports indicated Johnson had a broken cartilage behind one eye, but extent of the damage was not determined.

The Leafs, meanwhile, ran their unbeaten string on home ice this season to 10 games— eight victories and two ties.

Marcel Bonin, in the first period, and defenceman Lou Fontinato, in the third, scored for Montreal. Toronto goals were scored by Bob Nevin, in the second, and Bob Pulford, in the third.

Pulford's goal, with about nine minutes left in the game, earned Leafs the tie.

SETS UP GOAL

Claude Provost set up Bonin's goal and the assist gave the fast - stepping Montreal right winger 31 points — only five less than New Yorks Andy Bathgate who leads the league in individual scoring race.

Plante and Bower gave 12,711 fans a wonderful exhibition of netminding, especially the Montreal goalie.

At one point in the second period, Leafs although one man short as a result of a tripping penalty to Frank Mahovlich, merried the play and almost scored twice. Then in the dying minutes of the game, Leafs put on a burst but were stopped cold. Plante was particularly effective against Toronto centres Dave Keon, who had three or four point - blank shots at him.

At Chicago, Hull scored once in each period. Nilsson got his two goals in the second and other Chicago scorers were Ron Murphy and Ken Wharram.

Jerry Toppazzini, Wayne Connelly, defenceman Leo Boivin and Eddie Westfall scored for the Bruins. For Connelly and Westfall, both rookies, the goals were their first in the NHL.

Hull's last two goals were on 50 - foot smashes from just inside the blue line which completely baffled Boston rookie goalie Don Head.

His first smash tied the score 1-1 in the first period, came on a short five - foot flip. The goals were Hull's seventh, eighth and ninth of the season.

The three-goal performance was the sixth in the NHL this season. Others have been tallied by Earl Ingarfield and Bathgate of the Rangers, Vic Stasiuk of the Red Wings, Red Kelly of the Maple Leafs and Provost.

Boston's first two goals — by Toppazzini and Boivin in the opening period — came against the Chicago power play. Toppazzini picked up a loose puck in front of Head and slammed it in behind goalie Glenn Hall three seconds after teammate Don McKenney emerged from the penalty box.

Boivin's goal came on a rink-length rush while teammate Ted Green was serving a minor penalty.

Hall wound up with 20 stops and Head blocked 39 shots. Boston is at Detroit tonight.

WHERE THE JUNIORS

Gordie Bell's Junior Mics will place their three-game winning streak on the line here Friday night when they play host to the Kingston Junior Frontenacs in OHA Eastern play.

The local coach's pre-season prediction that the McFarlands would be a strong club this season has proven very true to date. However, it's too early in the year to forecast great things for any of the clubs. The locals are playing very entertaining hockey, and are winning, so what more can you ask.

We will admit that last Friday's game here, when the Mics won over Picton 15-3, could hardly be classed as "entertaining," but games like that will be few and far between.

Both the 4-3 game in Kingston and the 4-3 win here produced top flight hockey. Belleville won both, by the way, and at the present time own a three won-none lost record.

* * *

The league's three "E" teams, Belleville, Kingston and Peterborough, are evenly-enough matched to make things interesting. The Gananoque Islanders are also said to have a good team and they have proven it to date by also winning their two games.

Napanee has the player talent, with guys like Paul McGill, Bill McNevin and Terry Aylesworth, to make it hot for any of the higher-ranked teams on any given night. Napanee proved this last night by defeating Kingston 5-4 in overtime. We have not seen Trenton or Cobourg in action but both have a win to their credit, so must have at least fair clubs. Past performances show that Picton needs strengthening and we certainly think Chris Lockyer and Sam Mulholland luck in that department. Lockyer has put a lot of work into junior hockey in Picton during the past number of years and we would hate to see anything happen to ruin it.

Here on the Belleville front, Bell seems to have his club pretty well set at the present time.

Gord Parker has played goal in two games, allowing half a dozen pucks to get past him for a 3.00 goals-against average. Ron Dalzotto gave up two goals in his only start.

* * *

On defence, Paul Zakos makes a tremendous difference and along with Gary Reid, Larry Hawsby and Ted Rowland helps form a strong, hard-hitting blueline corps.

* * *

Up front, Pete Weston centres Moe Hunter and Dave Smith on one attacking unit. Weston has four goals and three assists to date, Hunter three and three, and Smith two and two. Smith, who hails from Bertha Falls, is a heady player who knows what to do with the puck but has a little trouble in the skating department.

Another complete line back from last year has Bucky Ethier between Billy McGuire and Garry Hull. McGuire has scored three goals all stage, one more than he got all last season, and has two assists. Hull has one goal and five assists while Ethier owns a two-one record.

"Pug" Kellar is the only returnee on the other line, playing with rookies Gary Dysart and Grayson Scott. This trio has taken a back seat to none and should develop into a real scoring threat with a little seasoning. Scott has two goals and four assists, Kellar four goals and Dysart a goal and three helpers.

Mavety, with a goal and five assists, has earned all the points accumulated by the defence.

The club's weakness appears to be its bench. With just four defencemen and nine forwards, there just is no bench and that could cause plenty of worries should the injury bug rear its ugly head.

So far, balance seems to be the secret of the team's success, but the Frontenacs will be doing their best to upset that balance here tomorrow night. The game has all the earmarks of a thriller.

Faceoff time is nine o'clock.

Goyer Hits For Two More

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

San Francisco edged Los Angeles 7-6 in one of three West Coast Hockey League games Wednesday night.

Edmonton Flyers and Portland Buckaroos respective leaders of the Northern and Southern Divisions—scored victories. Edmonton moved its points ahead of its Northern rivals with a 5-4 win over Calgary Stampeders, while Portland increased its Southern lead to nine points by beating Seattle Totems 5-3.

Marry Fridhirg, Al Nicholson, Ray Cyr, Dube Rolandick, Buddy Boone, Gordie Redahl and Nick Mickoski scored for the Seals. Garry Goyer led the losers with two goals. Danny Belisle, Terry Slater, Ed Panagabko and Wally Kozakewich added singles.

Bill Sanderson, Tom McVie and Arnis Schmautz scored the Portland goals. Don Ward answered for Seattle.

Says Agreement Violated

D'Amato Thumps The Tubs Again

TORONTO (CP) — Heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson's manager accuses Ontario Athletic Commissioner Merv McKechnie of violating an agreement to the non - Canadian judges for Monday night's world championship fight.

But after holding up a storm in McKenzie's office, Cus D'Amato said Wednesday that Patterson will meet Tom McNeeley even if Canadian judges are employed.

The rumpus followed the medical examination of the fighters —both were given the okay— and after they had left the buildings. McKenzie stated flatly that two judges from Toronto would work the fight, northern half of a unique double-header that will be seen on closed-circuit television in theatres in the United States and Canada.

A 10-round heavyweight scrap between Sonny Liston and Wes Sonny Liston and Wes Germany's Albert Westphal in Philadelphia will precede the other half of the show. The world title match will also be broadcast over the CBC's trans-Canada radio network.

D'Amato and Peter Fuller, manager of the Boston challenger, agreed to Ontario rules calling for the use of six-ounce gloves and the automatic eight count for knockdowns.

D'Amato said he is pleased with the eight-count rule but that he prefers eight - ounce gloves. Fuller thought the six-ounce, 76-second challenger would have a better chance for an upset without an eight-count after a knockdown.

"It's served Patterson when he was knocked down before," said former Johansson is Miami last March 13," said Fuller. "He has a tendency to get sorted up quickly when he is knocked down."

D'Amato and Patterson's lawyer, Julius Nouveller, said McKenzie had approved an agreement which called for use of non-Canadian judges when the contract was signed Oct. 16. McKenzie said he approved the document with the exception of the clause concerning non-Canadian judges.

The fight had originally been scheduled for Boston but was switched to Toronto because Massachusetts athletic authorities refused to agree to out-of-state officials.

TEMPERS FLARE

A roomful of reporters heard McKenzie say he told D'Amato that "the only contract that counts is the Ontario Athletic Commission contract, and the Ontario regulations for use of our judges . . . We'll use our judges or he can take the fight out of here—to Bo-Gongo if he wants."

"I'm questioning the integrity of the commission," D'Amato had shouted. "Our understanding has been violated.

"I'm going to take this to a higher authority. Who? I don't know but I'll find out."

When the shouting died down D'Amato and McKenzie shook hands.

Pepsi's Drub Port Hope

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Completely dominating play from start to finish, the Belleville Pepsi's handed the winless Port Hope Ontarios a 14-1 drubbing before a near-capacity home ice night in a Lakeshore Intermediate league fixture.

The win was the Pepsi's second in as many starts while Port Hope has lost three times in as many tries.

The Bellevillers opened up a 5-0 first-period lead, made it 11-1 in the second and fired the only goal scored of the final twenty minutes.

The Pepsi's outplayed the visitors in every department, holding a wide margin in shots, 46-25, and almost effected a shut. Hope goalie Sam Hamhill, who gave Belleville ice fans a scare while standing almost alone against the point - hungry Pepsi's for the final twenty minutes, was the only Port Hope player to look good. Belleville's attack took turns at over throwing his opponents as they swarmed Johnson was taken to hospital night.

Bill Moxon had few difficult moments at the other end of the rink but came up with good stops when necessary. The only puck that got past him came at 1:16 of the middle heat when Murray Kelly snapped in a rebound to complete a play with Mel Stevenson and Bob Douglas.

Belleville coach Jean-Noel Lemieande did not play this set. Two other forwards he had scored for Bob Nevin, in the second, and Bob Pulford, in the third.

Pulford's goal, with about nine minutes left in the game, earned Leafs the tie.

Shannon Looks for 'Big Play'

Trimble Banking Heavily On Ploen

By WILF GRUBON

HAMILTON (CP) — Flat-footed Clarence Shannon of Hamilton Tiger-Cats doesn't hold a grudge — not even against Winnipeg Blue Bombers or their outspoken fullback, Gerry James.

Nevertheless Shannon would like nothing better than to make the "big play" for the Thanksgiving Day Bombers, in the Grey Cup football final at Toronto Saturday.

"I never would let them forget," says Shannon, who is a surprise move by Winnipeg coach Bud Grant was cut earlier this season after two good years with the Western Conference club.

He doesn't take James seriously, although the Bomber star said recently "Shannon has helped our club a lot since he left." James said a good football player would make a mistake once or twice but Shannon would make it over and over again.

"Gerry just likes to pop off," Shannon said in an interview Wednesday night. "He's known for doing it. It's just like him, so why pay any attention to him. There's no use in having a feud with him."

Shannon has been one of the Ticats' best ground gainers. Coach Jim Trimble has great praise for the ace runner and pass catcher. He has been a rallying inside and outside with equal effect under Trimble's system and is rated one of the most feared rushers in the Eastern Conference.

Trimble said any score Shannon has to settle with James is between the two players.

"Shannon has given us no problems. He's done a great job for us."

Trimble, usually valuable, is being as cautious as the betting fraternity over the Grey Cup final.

The 43-year - old strategist, who in other years optimistically predicted the outcome, refused to go out on the limb Wednesday and said his club is weak. But he went along with the odds-makers who rate the football teams so evenly they figure it will be a narrow win for either. Betting is 6 to 5, pick 'em either team.

"The margin of victory will be less than one touchdown," Trimble told a reporter and then went on to explain what he figured that's the way it would work out.

"Both clubs have eased each other pretty well," he said. "Both aren't identical but they are similar. We'll both be trying to get possession of the ball and hold on to it tenaciously.

"We'll be trying to capitalize on each other's mistakes. Both teams have good field kickers and punters."

TORONTO (CP) — As Bud Grant preps Winnipeg Blue Bombers' plans for Saturday's Grey Cup final against Hamilton Tiger - Cats he's banking heavily on the skill and heart of a lean young western player who has played an important role in the Winnipeg coach's record of four western football championships in five years.

"Every Ploen start at quarterback and there's not much he'll be playing defensive safety in the course of the game—maybe even from the beginning," Grant said Wednesday.

The statement wouldn't surprise Bombers followers. Ploen, 26, a native of Lost Nation, Iowa, has been in the lineup when physically able for every big game since joining the Bombers in 1957 — the same year Grant became coach.

After directing the University of Iowa to victory in the 1957 Rose Bowl game, Ploen, rated all-American and all-conference in the Big Ten college circuit, announced he wasn't interested in playing professional football. But Grant talked Kenny into reconsidering and with the assistance of Iowa coach Forest Evashevski, managed to sign him.

Ploen was chosen for the Western Conference all - star team and led Winnipeg to a stirring upset victory over Edmonton in the 1957 league final but the battered Bombers lost 30-7 to Hamilton in the Grey Cup final.

INJURED INJURY

In 1958, Ploen suffered a shoulder injury and Jim van Pelt took over at quarterback. But Ploen came back late in the season to play offensive and defensive halfback, helping Bombers to a 35-26 Grey Cup victory over Hamilton. He threw a touchdown pass to van Pelt besides scoring a record 30-point total.

In 1960, Ploen was an all-star as a defensive half, returned to quarterback late in the season when van Pelt was injured and directed the Bombers to another Canadian championship, 21-7 over the Tiger-Cats.

This season Grant started Ploen in most games, relieving him with Ral Ledgard, a journeyman import from Ottawa Rough Riders who is rated mainly as a passer. Ploen, a good field general, relies mainly on his backs as he mixes the offence, usually throwing just enough to keep the defence loose.

He completed 30 of 86 passes for 906 yards and had four intercepted. Ledgard completed 81 of 168 for 1,366 yards and had nine intercepted.

But Ploen's great value lies in his versatility.

WILL PLAY ANYWHERE

"He's a team man," Grant said. "He's willing to play anywhere to help the club and he helps whenever he plays."

If the stretcher-bone, 190-pound Ploen plays safety against Hamilton Saturday, regular safety Norm Rauhaus will move to one of the halfback slots—likely replacing Baz Nagle, who suffered a broken thumb in the western final against Calgary and will play in the Grey Cup game with a cast.

Two other injured Bombers, fullback and punter Charlie Shepard and defensive tackle Roger Savoie, still are doubtful starters. Shepard suffered a twisted right ankle in the western final and Savoie sprained an ankle in practice Tuesday.

The club ran through a lengthy workout Wednesday and will practice in secret today and Friday.

Player Tops Loot List

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Sweet Player, Montreal clinched the 1961 PGA leading money prize with two official tournaments remaining. The Associated Press learned Wednesday.

Regardless of who, Arnold Palmer or Doug Sanders accomplish in the West Palm Beach open starting today, or in next week's Coral Gables open invitational, Player is home with $64,240.

He is the first non-American ever to lead the PGA tour.

Palmer has earned $62,832 and Sanders $56,679.

Grid Bigs To Discuss New Rules

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian Football League executives, in Toronto for the Grey Cup game Saturday, will meet informally today and Friday to discuss possible rule changes as a prelude to the official league meeting in February.

Proposals to be discussed are expected to include:

1. An increase in the number of imports allowed to play in each game;

That Canada copy U.S. football and have four downs instead of the present three and field 11 men instead of 12;

Full CFL participation in the draft of Canadian college players, instead of the present restriction allowing only the four eastern teams and Calgary to profit from the draft.

TASTY PRESERVES

Preserves consist of whole small fruit or pieces of larger fruit, cooked to syrup until clear and somewhat translucent.

Minors Vote Bonus Cut

By JOE RITCHIE

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Despite strong opposition by Los Angeles Dodgers and San Francisco Giants of the National League, the minor baseball leagues were expected to vote favorably today for an amended bonus rule designed to short-circuit what minors bosses term "raiding" as described as "the road to financial suicide."

At least 14 of the 22 existing minor leagues, appalled by the wild spending which cost baseball a reported $12,000,000 in 1961 in bonus payments to untried youngsters, indicated they would vote "yes" for a proposal recommended by a committee of major league officials.

The new rule would result in the following:

1. A major league club would be allowed to farm out only one first-year man.

2. All others must either be kept on the 25-player roster or be subjected to irrevocable waivers for a set price of $8,000.

3. A first-year player not claimed by waivers would be subject to draft the following winter for $8,000.

4. The farmed-out player, although performing in the minors, would be counted on his parents club's 25-player roster.

SOME OPPOSE

Opponents of the rule say that while such a rule would curb the practice of excessive bonus payments, it would stifle enterprise on the part of the more aggressive clubs, negate the need of large scouting staffs, and drive young athletes from baseball to other competitive fields.

An amendment to ease this rigid rule has been proposed by Fresco Thompson, farm director of the Dodgers.

Thompson's proposal would increase the waiver price to $12,000 for a first-year player and permit a club to farm out two players instead of one. It would also increase the price to $50,000 from $8,000 for a first-year player selected by a major league club in the draft.

"The rule, as now proposed," Thompson said Wednesday, "would kill off all incentive. The way I see it, my duty to my employer is not to pass him money but to get him the best player. Under this rule, why go out and get the best players only to lose them to a club which makes no attempt to sign such players?"

Thompson estimated that his amendment would cut bonus spending by 30 per cent.

AT THE PARK — "The Mask" Hands out Horror — Eerie, nightmarish sequences are one of the dramatic highlights of "The Mask", the Beaver-Champion attraction now showing at the Park Theatre. Paul Stevens and Claudette Nevins star in the unusual thriller based on the legend of an ancient ritual mask which transports a person into a world of hallucinations if he puts it on. The hallucinatory sequences are filmed in a new depth-dimensional process. Members of the audience receive masks as they enter the theatre, and they are requested to put them on whenever a performer on the screen dons the mask. On the same program "Jet Storm", starring Richard Attenborough and Stanley Baker. Both attractions are also shown at the Century Theatre, Trenton.

Three Hour-Long Specials Television Fare Last Night

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — If you stayed with NBC Wednesday evening, you visited a Manhattan "twist" joint, joined a Billy Graham crusade, heard Otis Lawe's Paul Anka sing A. E. Houman poetry and Doug Fairbanks Jr. read the preamble of the U.S. constitution.

That's the kind of a night it was on NBC, with three hour-long specials one after the other. It was a long evening for constant viewers.

Taking up the program in reverse chronology, The World of Billy Graham showed a lot of film of the evangelist and his efficient team in action, but never fulfilled the promise of digging below the surface.

The "intimate glimpses" had a self-conscious staged air about them—and never once did we get a glimpse of the man behind the mellow voice and the flashing eyes.

Perry Como's Roncom Production Company obviously has the idea of selling an updated TV version of We the People as a separate program and used Perry's variety hour to show a sample. It was an odd hodgepodge of short features—including the aforementioned twist and Anka bits, a live parachute drop and—you won't believe it—a visit to the Museum of Modern Art in New York to hear a clarinet player improvise his reactions to the paintings.

Finally, there was a history of Hollywood from its beginnings to the arrival of sound —The Golden Years. The old film clips would have been amusing if there had not been a lot of the same thing on TV recently, notably ABC's very good Silents Please.

Recommended tonight:

Victoria Regina, NBC, 9:30-11 EST—adaptation of the Housman play with Julie Harris in the title role.

Yves Montand on Broadway, ABC, 10-11—French and American tunes in a variety show with Polly Bergen and John Raitt.

THEATRE FEATURE TIMES

AT THE BELLE — 20th Century-Fox presents "Francis of Assisi", Dolores Hart, Stuart Whitman, Pedro Armendariz, Color by De Luxe, CinemaScope, 2.20-7.25-9.35.

AT THE PARK — "The Mask", Richard Walker, Anne Collings, Claudette Nevins, 2.25-5.15-8.05. "Jet Storm", Richard Attenborough, Stanley Baker, 8.45.

Brilliant Irish Actor Will Get Billing in Mutiny Film

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—When and perhaps if—Mutiny on the Bounty is released, North American audiences may be surprised by the billing.

The stars of the film will be listed as Marlon Brando, Trevor Howard and Richard Harris.

You might well ask, who is Richard Harris and what is he doing in such fast company?

To English audiences and his shipmates on the Bounty, the questions are unnecessary. They know him as a brilliant actor, one of the brightest of Britain's new crop.

When I called on him at the Bounty set, he appeared neither bright nor brilliant. His hair was straggly and shoulder-length. He had a three - day stubble on his face. He wore ill-fitting denims and tramped around the set in well-holed sweat sox.

He felt as bad as he looked. The reason:

1. His wife had returned to England during the weekend.

2. Rumors were rife that some of his best scenes would be cut in the post-production surgery of the movie.

"A whole year of my life I have given to this blankety-blank picture," he complained. "And for what? I might as well be an extra."

Harris was assured by a fellow member of the company that his was the most sympathetic role in the mutiny, that he still has some magnificent scenes in the film, that he would probably draw the best notices of the cast, since he would virtually be discovered by the American public.

Harris brightened somewhat.

You may have guessed that Harris is Irish. That's right—born in Limerick. He has a face which he describes unflatteringly as looking like "six miles of back road." Actually, it is strong, broad and faintly handsome.

Like many an Irishman, he went off to London to seek his fortune. It was slow coming. But after an apprenticeship in repertory, he clicked with a year's run on the London stage in The Ginger Man.

"I've also done five bad pictures," he remarked, "; did The Night Fighters with Bob Mitchum, perhaps one of the five worst pictures of all time. Also The Wreck of the Mary Deare, which was terrible, and Shake Hands With the Devil, a disaster."

He rashly included in his bad-picture list The Long and the Short and the Tall and Mutiny on the Bounty, both of which are unproved at the box office.

Santa Claus Almost Ready To Pay This City a Visit

"Santa Claus is coming to town". That's right, this Saturday, Santa and all his reindeer will be here to help make up the colorful parade which will be proceeding down Front St. at 10 a.m.

A special report which was received from the North Pole today, indicated that Santa would be leaving for Belleville shortly after midnight Friday and would arrive in good time to take his seat of honor in the colorful parade on Saturday. The report also said that Santa's helpers were busy getting his sleigh and eight reindeer ready for the long trip to Belleville from the North Pole.

Not only are Santa's helpers been busy these past few weeks, right here in Belleville a lot of people have been busy making decisions and preparations to make the Santa Claus parade the best ever seen between Toronto and Montreal.

Earlier indications of Belleville having a Santa Claus parade looked pretty grim, but Fire Chief Gerald Vance and the committee weren't going to give up that easily. An ad was placed in this newspaper saying that unless more people showed a little interest in having a parade this year, there would be none. This seemed to be the answer, people started thinking and as a result the attendance at the committee meeting which followed was quite good.

A committee was set up and went to work immediately. The constructing of floats got under way, bands were contacted concerning turn-out and route arrangements and tractors were borrowed.

There would have been a lot of unhappy children in and around the district of Belleville had there been no parade, but as the result of this hard working committee, children and adults alike, will see the best ever seen in this city.

Mr. Vance advised those present at the committee meeting that the costumes for Saturday's parade could be picked up anytime after 2.30 p.m. on Friday at No. 2 Fire Hall.

Saturday is Santa Claus parade can be seen over CKWS-TV on Wednesday, December 6 between 6.3' and 7 p.m.

Committee treasurer G. Rutledge said that the committee had done quite well with donations and tag day, but they still did not have the amount of money it takes to put on a parade like this. More money is still needed to meet the expenses.

AT THE BELLE — Paolo, Stuart Whitman; Francis, Bradford Dillman, and Clare, Dolores Hart, set aside their personal differences in a moment of prayer in the Perseus 20th Century-Fox, De Luxe Color and CinemaScope production, "Francis of Assisi", leading Color program beginning today at the Belle Theatre in Belleville.

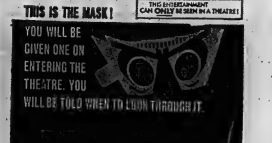
Atlanta Gets Int. Franchise

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—The International Baseball League voted Wednesday to transfer the Charleston franchise to Atlanta.

The league will be split into southern and northern divisions. Jacksonville, Atlanta, Richmond and Columbus (Ohio), will form the southern division with Rochester, Buffalo, Toronto and Syracuse making up the northern half.



The league opens its season April 18 and closes Sept. 9.

Find Process To Purify Milk Of Strontium

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP)—A process that removes strontium-90 from milk has been developed by a Berkeley laboratory, the Berkeley Gazette reports.

Since 1956, when the United States and the Soviet Union began heavy nuclear testing, nearly everyone in the world who drinks milk has consumed radioactive strontium-90, one of the most dangerous components of fallout.

The new process was developed by Dialko Laboratories. Dr. Robert Hill, research director for the firm, said the dairy industry has considered the process but no action has been taken.

He said the process uses an ion exchange resin that replaces strontium-90 with calcium.

Dr. John Healey, chief of the state bureau of radiological health, called the discovery significant.

D. E. Summers, of the United States Public Health Service, said the process "is a valuable discovery." The government has been working on a process of its own, he said, but it hasn't been perfected.

Like calcium, strontium-90 settles in the bones. In sufficient quantities it may cause cancer.

Gore

GORE — Tots's Corny Gleaners, a large gathering on Wednesday evening when Warden and Mrs. Montgomery were hosts to about 60 guests at a farther dinner with Charles and Victoria W.A.'s catering. Entertainment was provided by Messrs. H. J. Markelaar, of Picton.

Following a few days in Belleville Hospital, Mrs. Sidney Fox was taken by ambulance to Toronto General Hospital for surgery. She is now convalescing there and her many friends join in wishing her a complete recovery.

Little Michael Vosburgh has been a patient in the Trenton Memorial Hospital. All hope he will soon be able to be back at school.

Mr. Montgomery Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Harmon Montgomery and Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Fulmer called Sunday afternoon at the Bush Funeral Home to pay their respects to the late Mr. Ashton Sills of Annelsburg Village.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Daboll and Chris of Toronto, spent a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. Redner.

Mrs. Beverley Trounce of the Peterborough Teacher's College, spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Trounce.

DESERONTO

Voters Will Elect Mayor, Commissioner

DESERONTO — The nomination meeting at the town hall on Friday night suddenly erupted from a quiet town drum meeting to a violent argument over the water supply for the town. Speaking after being nominated on the failure of the present supply on several occasions recent, Topping was suspected in his statements by Dr. D. C. McVicker who told of the collapse of his hot water tank because the mains were dry. Mr. Topping also spoke of other matters pertaining to the public Utilities Commission.

In reply to Dr. Dawson's query for the Utilities Commission. A motion being exchange stating and the duties of the chairman, Sidney Brown, presided over the meeting to a close before the appointed hour for the vote-taking.

As a result of the nominations the voters of the town will select a mayor, a Public Utilities Commissioner, and three members for the Board of Education. The council is filled by acclamation as is the position of Reeve where former councillor Donald Reid, opposes Mayor Clayton McKeable, who now becomes a member of the council. Six persons have qualified for the Board of Education to fill three vacancies.
